Mr M. McGlade, a prominent young man of this town, who resides at the Dineen House, was the victim of a very peculiar accident on Tuesday morning, which might have resulted much more seriously, than it did. There happened to be a short circuit in the cellar of the Dineen house and Mr. McGlade tried to remedy this by moving the wire causing the short circuit which was insulated but nevertheless got such a charge of electricity that he doubled up on the cellar floor where he was found unconscious by the wine clerk, Mr. Barrigan. Mr. Barrigan called for help and tried to separate Mr. McGlade's hand from the wire, but received such a shock that he was hurled into the coal bin in a far corner and was the victim of several bruises. Mr. George Warren, another boarder, understanding the nature of the case, removed the wire from Mr. McGlade's hand by means of a bottle and thus probably saved Mr. McGlade's life. The unconscious victim was removed to the sample room and medical aid summoned and after an hour under the doctor's care, recovered consciousness. Mr. McGlade is around again today, none the worse for his accident only for a very badly burned hand, where he clutched the wire, the insulation of which must have been defective. This ought to be a warning to others that electricity is no play thing.

SATISFACTORY REPORT FROM HOUSE OF REFUGE COMMITTEE

Report of Committee Appointed to Deal with Warden's Address—County Council Continues Its Sessions Today—Much Business Being Transacted.

The County Council met in regular session this morning. The minutes of the special meeting re final reading of debentures, by-law 927, and the regular meeting yesterday were read and confirmed.

It was moved by Mr. Darling, seconded by Mr. Killen, that the sum of $40 be granted for the purpose of removing stones that are in front of county property to be used in improving the road in front of said property between the gate and ninth concession of Smith on the back Buckhorn road.

REPORT ON WARDEN'S ADDRESS

Your committee appointed to deal with the Warden's address, beg leave to report as follows:

1 Your committee concur with you in recognising the prospects of a harvest.

2 The reference made by you is certainly satisfactory that is to the possibility of more easily disposed debentures, due to improvement in the money market.

3 We endorse the action of the County Council in previous years, assuming bridges where permanent structures were to be built, thereby giving suitable traffic consistent with the needs of this, an agricultural county.

4. We recognize the fact this year will be one of unusual expenditure, currently speaking, due to repairs to bridges, etc.

5 Referring in a general way to the address, we heartily concur in the words used and wish to say that your Council will not disappoint your aspirations but use economy in all departments, consistent with necessity, thereby eliciting from the ratepayers of the county continued confidence. We also recognize in your address a ring of sincerity, combined with good judgment, which is characteristic of all your efforts on behalf of the county heretofore.

Respectfully yours,
R. H. SCOTT,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REFUGE REPORT

Report of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge.

Gentlemen, — Since the last report from the board, we have admitted more inmates to the House, till now there are 35.

We are pleased to state that all are in fairly good health, save one old man, and a woman recently admitted with her baby, 6 months old.

Improvements consistent with the assistance available have been going on during the spring. We have now under way a wire fence in front of the lot.

You will notice by the accounts the purchases made of a permanent character, which, of course cannot be charged to current maintenance.

The crops look well as well as the young stock and, considering the number of inmates, we are pleased to say we hope to be able to lessen the cost per inmate for maintenance this year.

Your Board has endeavored to carry into effect the wishes of the council and bring credit upon all in so far as the care of the aged poor of the county is concerned.

The amount necessary to be raised by the people will be presented to you through the Chairman of the Finance Committee who has in charge that part of the work.

Respectfully yours,
R. H. SCOTT,
Chairman.

GARDEN PARTY AT SPRINGVILLE

Most Successful Function Last Night—S. A. Band Provided the Music

A most successful garden party was held at Springville last night under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church at that place. The function was held on the lawn surrounding the church and was most successful in every respect. A large number were in attendance, including about a score from the city. Tea was served by the ladies in the early part of the evening and afterwards an excellent programme was given by the Salvation Army band of Peterborough under the direction of Deputy Bandmaster Ford. The selections were given in a highly artistic manner and were greatly appreciated. At the conclusion Rev. Dr. Marsh, on behalf of those present, tendered the musicians a hearty vote of thanks and Mr. Braund made an appropriate reply for the band.

A football match between the Springville and Cavanville teams was played in the early part of the evening on an adjoining field. The Springville eleven won after an exciting contest, the score being 1—0.

The ladies deserve great credit for the success of the affair. A handsome sum was realized.

While at supper last evening, Mr. Patrick Callaghan of the Sylvester Mfg. Co., swallowed a brass pin an inch long with his dessert which entered the flesh at the side of the throat. He was taken to Dr. McAlpine, when it was found after 15 minutes work that the pin had done no harm. Mr. Callaghan started to work again this morning with a sore throat, and it will be some time before he will be able to swallow rightly—Lindsay Free Press.

UNION MEN ATTENTION!

The Members of Peterboro, local, No. 191, American Federation of Musicians, desire to call the attention of all Union Men to the fact that it is distinctly contrary to the principles of Unionism to join in a parade headed by a non-union band and more especially when the engagement is secured by cutting prices. Our Scale of prices is most moderate and what is more important still, we fill our engagements with competent musicians, using the best instruments manufactured in the world.

Again we ask the hearty co-operation of all Union men in a Fight for fair prices for the men who can deliver the goods.

REMANDED FOR A WEEK

Suspicious Characters Arrested at C. P. R. Yesterday Pleaded Guilty in Court To-day

"Wm. Stevens, you are charged with vagrancy. Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked His Worship of one of the tramps who was arrested yesterday at the C.P.R. station.

"I guess I'm guilty. I came down here looking for a job and got drunk," the prisoner answered.

Chief Rossel said that the prisoner gave his home as Toronto, but he has several United States addresses in his pocket.

"Gordon Judge, the same charge against you," said His Worship.

"Guilty," said the accused.

Chief Rossel asked for a week's remand for the two. In the meantime he will endeavor to learn something of their careers.

CATARRH OF STOMACH RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MDE. JOSEPH BEAUDOIN.

Mde. Joseph Beaudoin, 59 Rue St. Olivier, Quebec, P. Q., Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression.

"Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

"For this reason I recommend it to all those who are suffering with that terrible malady, dyspepsia.

"I hope that all who are afflicted in this way will take Peruna as I did."

The experience of Mde. Beaudoin ought to be sufficient proof to any one of the value of Peruna in cases of catarrhal dyspepsia. If you suffer from stomach catarrh in any of its various forms, give Peruna a fair trial, avoiding in the meantime all such indiscretions in diet as would tend to retard a cure, and you will soon be rewarded by a normal appetite and healthy digestion.

WEDDING BELLS

COMSTOCK—KNOX

A quiet home wedding took place this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock when Carrie Isabel, eldest daughter of the late Mr. David Knox, 390 Queen St., was married to Mr. John Comstock, son of Mr. Aaron Comstock.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robt. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church.

As the bridal party entered the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated with palms and cut flowers, Miss May Masson, of Woodstock, sang sweetly, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy." The bride was given away by her brother and wore an embroidered Brussels net over silk gown and carried white roses. Her sister Miss Estella Knox, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. John Gemmell was groomsman.

After the ceremony congratulations were showered on the young couple and Miss Masson sang in excellent voice, "Beloved, it is morn." A sumptuous luncheon was then served.

The presents, which were extremely beautiful, testified to the high esteem in which the bride and groom were held.

Mr. and Mrs. Comstock left on the 5.48 C.P.R. express, Mrs. Comstock travelling in a brown taffeta suit with hat to match. On their return they will take up their residence at 312 Charlotte St.

CALLENDAR-BUCHANAN

A quiet though pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at eleven o'clock when Miss Mir Buchanan, second daughter of the late J. Harper Buchanan and Mrs. Buchanan, 413 Bethune street, was united in marriage to Mr. Orma C. Callendar of the office staff of the Quaker Oats Co. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Archdeacon Warren. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. J. R. Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. Callendar left on the 11.45 G.T.R. train for their honeymoon trip. On their return they will reside at 65 McDonnell St.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

A PREVAILING OPINION

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—What is the matter with Examiner? It seems to have fallen into a bad case of hysterics. The poor dear old fathead ought to wait until some proof of the awful bribery is placed before the public before it allows itself to become hysterical. The remembrance of what their party did when in power and the knowledge of what they certainly would have done had they been in power last week, does not justify them in making extravagant misstatements. Let them drop the baby act, or prove their statements. The Conservatives proved their charges in open court, and the awful revelations so disgusted decent people that they have not yet been able to remove the smell from their nostrils. Either prove it or shut up.

Yours,
CONSERVATIVE.

PETERBORO' CITY BAND

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—We wish to make a few remarks, and correct a few mistatements made by the 57th Band, or some members thereof.

We are a new organization here, of some six months' standing, most of our members being old bandsmen and competent musicians. We have bought our own instruments, uniforms, band room rent, music and from funds subscribed by our own members concerts, societies and where as the 57th band receive a grant from the city of $500 free room, and use of most of their instruments, yet with these advantages they are doing their best to crush us out of existence, the same as they have done with every band that has started here. But we don't think their methods will appeal to the general public union or not.

In their call to the Union they state that we cut prices. Now we are not under any obligation to charge what they do, but here are the facts.

We agreed to furnish 18 men for Thursday for $25, to play from five o'clock till seven o'clock an average of 69 cents per hour per man.

Now we are informed that the 57th band played within the last two months for 28 cents per hour and made the excuse that if they had not done so the Common Band as they termed us, would have got the job. Now we leave it to the public to draw their own inferences.

Further, in regard to their union. We are informed that competent musicians who were not in the ring have been rejected, but any member of the 57th is eligible for membership, although he may not know one note from another. If they take out three or four solo players who receive a salary paid by the band, we will play against them anytime.

Now it is quite plain that it is not the good of the union they seek, but power to crush out all opposition and compel societies and others to pay them their price or no music.

We are sorry to have to answer this letter to the union, but we are not going to be put out of business by them. All we want is fair play, and we know we shall receive it from the public, union or otherwise. Thanking you for past favors,

I remain, yours truly,
W. A. ELLIOTT,
Sec.-Treas. Peterborough City Band

MORE ABOUT BAND

Editor of the Review

Dear Sir,—I was somewhat surprised at the tenor of the writers on behalf of the 57th Band to read the school boy tactics that they would use in reference to the Peterborough Band and others of that ilk that did not belong to the union. Now it is, I understand necessary for other bands to apply to the 57th for admission forsooth that is a capital idea, hence no other bands. Peterborough is now a city and there is lots of room for more than one band. Furthermore, the societies and people are getting tired of hearing the 57th and getting fewer men than agreed on and only a few pieces played. Now, are the 57th practising what they preach. Do they get union printing done. Do they buy their goods etc, from union places only? Don't they in their everyday walk of life scab it all they can? We have had enough of this twaddle. Let the 57th do their duty and act right, and they will be treated right, otherwise it will rebound on themselves.

Yours.
OUTSIDER.

CIRCUS HERE TODAY—STREET PARADE WAS HELD AT NOON

This is circus day. The Cole Bros. company are here with their brand new tented city. Peterborough sees the new canvass almost for the first time, it having been purchased this week at a cost of $15,000.

Early this morning the tented aggregation arrived on their special trains, and at once proceeded to the show grounds at the Driving Park. To-day the grounds are a surging mass of humanity.

The parade this morning was the stellar attraction. Leaving the circus grounds at 10.30, this pageant traversed the principal streets of the city and a monster throng lined the streets. The wild animal dens were very popular and the black tigers and the lion that forecasts the weather for Cole Bros.' circus attaches were each the object of much comment. The elephant herds, the camels, with their Arab riders, the baby "hip of the desert" and all the novelties that could well be included in one parade were all there. Four bands and a delegation of clowns provided enough pure fun for all. In fact the parade was about as complete as one would care to see.

When the paraders had returned to the park the free attractions were announced. These were all up to the standard, but the dizzy performance of Mlle. D'Zizi outclassed them all. Spanning death's arch is a hazardous feat at best, but this French rider successfully made the ride down a 60-foot incline, leaped a gap 55 feet wide and completed her dare-devil performance on the remaining runway 50 feet long. Neither she nor her slender wheel were harmed. After her performance the ethnological congress opened its doors, and the exhibition of monstrosities occupied the time until the doors of the circus proper, the "big top" as the tent is called, was opened.

For half an hour before the programme was opened Prof. Tinney and his band of 40 pieces discoursed a repertoire of musical selections, both classic and popular. The menagerie tents and horses fair were opened to the public and a treat was in store for all. The zoological display offered many new and novel features. All the animals were on view, and the horse tents showed a congregation of horseflesh that was beautiful to behold. Their cars were fitted with feed and watering troughs and every convenience obtainable is included in that department.

The crowd was delighted with the performance this afternoon. The feats of daring followed in endless array, interspersed with the antics of the clown congress of 41 eccentrics. Harry Clark leads his delegation and divided honors with the lady clown, a great hit with all.

The lady riders and aerialists are easily the stars of star bill headliners and peers in their chosen branches. Mike Rooney, the bareback rider, offered a repertoire of hair-raising and extremely difficult feats, while the other performers contributed a programme that must be accorded the highest praise.

The races, which Cole Bros.' offer, are really an excellent feature. The contest pleased the spectators to the highest degree. Excitement reigns supreme at the finale.

One more performance will be given this evening and then the tents will be folded and the three trains which transport the circus will be loaded and away they will speed until the next place of exhibition is reached.

THE GAME AT HAVELOCK

Havelock, June 16. — The Quaker Football team of Peterborough, went down to defeat here on Saturday last, in a league match with the Havelock team, to the tune of 2—0. The Peterborough team brought only nine men with them, so they would have some excuse for being defeated.

The Havelock team had it all their own way and took it easy. Goaltender Rose, of Havelock, never touched the ball once during the game, while McFadden, of Peterborough, had his hands full stopping the hot ones.

The Havelock team can put up a much stronger team and will likely make a good showing on Friday, when they go up against the Quakers on their own grounds.

The following will be the Havelock line-up:

Goal—Rose.
Backs—McKay and Andrews.
Halfbacks—Robinson, Mathison and McMullen.
Centre—Lamprapter.
Right wing — Quackenbush and Moore.

GENTLEMAN WHO VOTED AT VILLIERS WAS LIKELY ONTARIO'S OLDEST VOTER

Special to the Review.

Keene, June 16—Who was the oldest provincial elector? There is but little doubt that the honor goes to Mr Robert Hope, of Villiers, who is 96 years of age and who voted for Mr. Thompson in East Peterborough a week ago Monday.

This gentleman, who in spite of his 96 years is in good health voted Villiers polling subdivision. He spent a week before elections trying on different pairs of spectacles. that he might choose a pair to enable him to mark his ballot for Mr. Thompson as his eyesight is failing. On election day he put in his appearance at 7 o'clock and finding that the poll was not opened till 9 o'clock walked some distance to his home and walked back at nine o'clock, polling the first vote polled at Villiers that day.

Villiers, which has usually given a Liberal majority on this occasion gave a majority of thirty-six for Thompson, the best Conservative majority it ever gave. The Conservatives of this district feel very proud of Mr. Hope and hope he will be on hand to mark his ballot at the next election.

POLICE ARREST SUSPICIOUS CHARACTERS AT DRIVING PARK

Three suspicious characters were arrested at the exhibition grounds while sitting on the grass this afternoon by Police Constables Newhall and Meharry. They are well dressed and were rather good looking. It is alleged that they were pickpockets. One gave his name as Joseph Adams, while another is known by the name of Graney. The name of the third one could not be obtained. One [illegible]

SHOW BUSINESS IS MUCH BETTER HERE THAN IN THE U.S.

Mr. Will Mitchell, press agent for Cole Bros.' who are showing here to-day says that the show business in Canada is much better than on the American side of the border. He asserts that Canadians don't know what hard times are.

"We could see the difference as soon as we crossed the divide." Mr. Mitchell said to the Review. "Every place we have showed in Canada we have had capacity houses, whereas across the line the majority of people are so hard up that they can't afford to spend any money on amusements. And just here is where the difference between the Canuck and the Yankee comes in. The American doesn't have his money, and when he is thrown out of work for a week or two he is "broke" before he knows what has happened. The shrewd Canuck usually has something saved up for the proverbial rainy day, and a few weeks out of employment does not have much effect upon him.

"Canadians do not appear to be hard up at the present time," continued Mr. Mitchell. "They seem prosperous, happy and contented. In this respect they differ from the masses in the United States who are having a hard time to keep alive at the present time."

At Toronto yesterday and Monday 35000 people paid admission to the circus. The big tent was packed at every performance and hundreds had to be turned away.

Mr. Mitchell is an old Ottawan being a son of Mr. Charles Mitchell, a former proprietor of the Ottawa Free Press. He is well-known in Peterborough.

ONE YEAR IN THE MERCER

Sarah Crouter Sentenced This Morning for Keeping a Disorderly House

Sarah Crouter was charged with keeping a disorderly house and a place of ill-fame at the corner of George and Sherbrooke streets, in the police court this morning. She pleaded not guilty.

The evidence of three witnesses was taken for the prosecution and the defence did not put in any.

His Worship sentenced the prisoner to one year in the Mercer Reformatory.

P. C. Meharry stated that last Thursday night about 9.30 o'clock there was a crowd at the corner of Sherbrooke and George streets. They were drinking beer in large quantities. Corsey had an axe and was going to murder some fellows on the opposite side of the road.

About 12.30 o'clock the officer found Corsey lying in the yard at the rear of the house quite drunk with Mrs. Crouter.

The language used was very vile and could be heard a block away.

Three Years For Horse Thief.

Orangeville, June 17.—A young man, Harry Thomas, who claims to live in New York City, was yesterday sentenced by the police magistrate to three years in Kingston for stealing a horse and buggy from Allan McDougall of Hillsburg, while being kept in the sheds of the Hotel Alexandra here on Saturday afternoon.

The outfit was valued at $270 and the prisoner endeavored to sell it to some Caledon farmers for $59. He was captured Saturday evening near Charleston.

Lion and Unicorn.

The animosity which was supposed to exist between the lion and the unicorn, as referred to by Spenser in his "Faerie Queene," is allegorical of the deep rooted ill will which anciently existed between England and Scotland. Ever since 1603 the royal arms have been supported, as now, by the English lion and the Scottish unicorn in token of the fact that St. George and St. Andrew had at last shaken hands and forgotten their old difference.

Fish, Chicken and Veal.

Raw pullet, raw veal and raw fish make the graveyard fat. This is hundreds of years old. A New York caterer (perhaps the most efficient in the city) said to me: "There are three important articles of food that must under no circumstances be served underdone. They are fish, chicken and veal. By chicken I mean all poultry of a domestic nature. All game birds should be rare. You want to be a little careful about lamb too. Give it plenty of cooking."—New York Press.

Buttermilk.

"Which is the cow that gives the buttermilk?" innocently asked the young lady from the city, who was inspecting the herd with a critical eye.

"Don't make yourself ridiculous," said the young lady who had been in the country before and knew a thing or two. "Goats give buttermilk."—Springfield Journal.

Few and Far Between.

"If men really would 'vote as they pray,'" remarked Goodley, "this would truly be a happy world."

"Yes," replied Wise, "but in that case you wouldn't get some men to the polls once in ten years."—Washington Star.

Must Be Stylish.

"Why do you wear that ridiculous hat?" he growled.

"Do you really think it ridiculous?" she replied graciously. "How lovely of you! I was afraid it wasn't quite the style!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Permanent Receiver.

Patience—I hear Will is going to marry that girl he's been spending so much money on. Patrice—Yes. He's going to make her a permanent receiver.—Yonkers Statesman.

Revenge a wrong by forgiving it.—French Proverb.

TYRANNY OF THINGS.

Museum-like Homes Mean Mausoleums of Happiness.

An article on the awful tyranny of things is always to the point. We cannot be too often reminded of the useless things—bric-a-brac—and the things that are too good to use. The following is from the House Beautiful:

We pride ourselves on having won freedom from the tyranny of kings, but what about the tyranny of things? There is no gainsaying it, we are slaves of our belongings.

How things in a shop window "pull" at the purse strings! How "dirt cheap" is each particular thing in itself! Altogether they are tempting as the glittering serpent of old.

Only when installed, how does their glamour suddenly vanish! How often do we find ourselves with white elephants on our unwilling hands! Possibly it is a reproduction of an old fashioned mahogany davenport, a goodly thing in itself, but, alas, it cramps our drawing room to suffocation.

Possibly it is a sofa cushion we needed. The shops' variety was so perplexing we cut the Gordion knot of choice by purchasing three instead of one, and thereby we are smothered by our own lego taste.

Pictures and prints and oriental rugs seem of a higher plane. It is to cultivate the aesthetic sensibilities, to study art, to compare various examples and at last to arrive at the possession of one excellent print or picture or surpassing rug. But the mania grows. The sense of proportion between our income and our other possession fails to keep the pace. We keep on picking up pictures or prints or rugs. A "find" is a find, and we cannot stop to consider its relation or no to the other "finds" in the house. Thus in a short while we cannot find ourselves at all under the bewildering mass of our belongings.

Hard is it for us to remember that a museum and a home are two different things. And if we make our homes miniature museums we are too likely to see them turn into mausoleums of all future quiet and happiness.

One family of which we know has laws like unto those of the Medes and Persians as to what things shall or shall not enter its sanctum. This family considers the home in somewhat the light of a club, and the idea is carried out by the casting of a ballot for and against every new article proposed for admission.

The result justifies the method. That home is utterly refreshing. It has attained that rare quality—harmony.

Always Ready Lemonade.

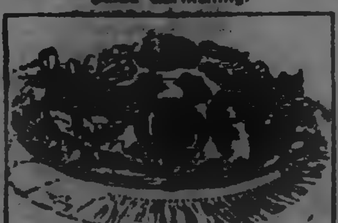
There is nothing more refreshing on a hot day than a long drink of cool lemonade; but, however anxious the hostess may be to serve this beverage, it is sometimes impossible to do so owing to the lack of necessary ingredients. In fact, it is for just this reason that the sirup that may be prepared by the following recipe is one of the greatest of household conveniences; it is delicious, but, what is still more important, it enables one to procure a supply of lemonade literally at a moment's notice, says the May Delineator: Extract the juice from a dozen large lemons; grate the rind of six of the lemons and add it to the juice. Let the mixture stand for twelve hours or overnight. In the morning make a thick sirup of granulated sugar and water, using about six pounds of the sugar and just as little water as possible, as the sirup must be both thick and smooth. When it has cooled, strain the lemon juice into it. Bottle in glass, being certain that the tops are secure and air tight. In making lemonade with this sirup place a little crushed ice in the bottom of a tall glass, add one or two teaspoonfuls of the sirup, according to taste, and fill with either carbonated or plain water.

This sirup may also be used successfully in making cakes, pies, puddings, custards, etc., being a most economical method of utilizing lemons, as it enables the cook to obtain absolutely the full value of both sugar and fruit. Surely this is a fact worthy of consideration by the economical housewife.

The Scrap Drawer.

Every woman knows the value of a scrap bag to hold bits of silks, ribbon, lace and other "left overs" from dressmaking, which may be useful for patching or for some other purpose. But where a bag is used the coveted piece is sure to be down at the bottom, so that it is necessary to dump out the entire contents of the bag every time something is wanted out of it. Therefore it is better to devote a spare drawer in a bureau to scraps. Here the various rolls of laces and ribbons, each wrapped and pinned into tight bundles, may be spread out so that each one may be easily recognized. A bag for buttons, old fringes and the like may be included among the contents of the drawer, which proves a boon to all who have tried it.

Salad Garnishing.



A decorative scheme for any salad is obtained with rings and leaves stamped from pimentos and pickled walnuts.

His First Wife.

"Father, haven't you had another wife? The Bible says you married Anno Domini 1885."

Wm. Shaw was awarded $10 damages against Thomas and Austin Bottor and each side has to pay $250 in costs.

Dr. George La Broche Smith, the New York ear, eye and nose specialist, is dead. He graduated at McGill, Montreal.

Fred Sauschogan, while drunk, wanted to see the circus at Rouse's Point and when arrested set fire to the lock-up and was burned to death.

PROMPT PAYMENT

Peterborough, Ont., June 12th, 1908

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Globe Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,872 Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 1 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and presented us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,
Canada Flakes Co., LIMITED.
Signed, H. B. COLLIER, Manager.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL TRANSACTED MUCH BUSINESS

The council met at May's school house on Monday, the 15th inst., at 7.30 p.m.

All the members were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr, enclosing judgment of the county judge in the action of Reynolds vs. Cavan and Monaghan Tps. The judgment allows damages to the extent of $60 to the plaintiff. This was received and referred to the reeve.

Accounts were presented as follows:

R. Cotin repairs to culverts in Road Div. No. 2 ... $23.50

R. Cotin, snow shovelling account as referred from last meeting ... 24 00

On motion of Messrs. Foster and May, these accounts were passed accounts were passed and ordered to be paid.

Mr. Howden, for the committee appointed to look into the mater of repairing the wash-out of Park street, reported that there was a wash-out at intervals extending about seventy feet and, that as the roadway was narrow at this place the township in time would require to widen it out and he advocated building a cement concrete wall to protect the roadway with filling of earth or stone so as to have when completed a permanent work, a portion of which might be done each year for several years.

It was moved by Messrs. Howden and Foster that Mr. Dobbin be authorized to repair the washout on Park street.

It was moved in amendment by Mr. May and Mr. Dobbin that the commissioner of road division No. 4 is hereby authorized to repair the washout on Park street by subbing with cedar and filling with earth or stone.

The question being submitted, Mr. Howden asked for the yeas and nays which, on being called bo by the reeve resulted as follows:

For the amendment—

Yeas, Messrs. May, Dobbin and Brown.

Nays, Messrs Howden and Foster.

For the original motion,—

Yeas, Messrs. Howden and Forster.

Nays, Messrs. May, Dobbin and Brown.

The amendment was then declared carried.

Moved by Messrs. Howden and Forster to be a committee to atend the County Council in session in Peterborough for the purpose of obtaining a grant to roads in N. Monaghan.

This was carried.

Mr. Forster, for the committee appointed to look into the mater of repairing the culvert at Mr. Luse's crossway, reported having looked over the place and, after having Mr. Carver consent to straighten out the creek through his property to meet the culvert directly at the upper side, it was deemed advisable to put in a new cedar culvert which, by using such old material as might be available, would cost about $60. This also straighten out this road and give an outlet to all water that might accumulate at this point. The committee therefore recommended that the commissioner of road division No. 1 be authorized to repair the culvert and road at this point according to the terms of this report.

On motion of messrs Forster and May, this report was received and adopted.

By-law No. 692, a byllaw to regulate and license refreshment booths and places of entertainment in the Township, was then introduced and finally passed.

Council then adjourned until called by the reeve.

THERE IS ONE OF THIS KIND BORN EVERY MINUTE

"The reason why the fools are not all dead is because there is one born every minute." This is the statement of a gentleman who had watched a young man perform a foolhardy feat at the locks below the city yesterday. Not only did he endanger his own life but also imperilled that of the lady who was his companion. The young man in question was with a lady in a canoe and paddled down the river just north of the dam, apparently consumed with anxiety to show how clever he was he paddled to within fifty feet of the dam and then turned and went back. Spurred on by his success he repeated the trick and went within twenty feet of the dam before turning. He had hard work turning around and keeping from being swept over the dam. Had the current proved too strong both young people would probably have been drowned.

A number of persons who watched this young man endanger his own life and that of his companion were disgusted with his action and some of them were indignant enough to say that he should have been arrested.

Great credit is due those in charge of the arrangements.

No Skirt Dancing For Officers.

London, June 17.—King Edward has absolutely forbidden what he calls one of the most inane exhibitions he has ever heard of. Several officers of one of the crack regiments in London recently went in for skirt dancing, engaged the services of an eminent professional teacher of the art, and a few days ago sent out invitations to all their friends to a forthcoming exhibition of their latest accomplishment. One of the invitations came into the hands of His Majesty.

The officers who are concerned are indignant over the fact that their little affair has been interfered with. It is said that the costumes which were to be worn at the entertainment have already been bought from a well-known French shop in Leicester square which supplies professional dancers with their dresses. The elaborate outlay of a second lieutenant who was expected to make a sensation by his agility and skill is said to have cost $300.

Eaten by Cannibals.

Madrid, June 17.—Further reports have been received here from the west coast of Africa concerning the sinking by a tornado on the Upper Congo river of the steamboat Ville de Bruges last May.

Of the six Europeans who lost their lives four were caught by cannibalistic natives while attempting to reach the shore by swimming, and later killed and devoured. A total of seventy negroes were drowned.

Foul Play Suspected.

Unionville, June 17.—Facts have come to light with regard to the finding of the body of a girl baby at Unionville Monday, which give rise to the suspicion that death was due to violence.

The post mortem showed the child's skull to be in a condition, which in spite of excessive decomposition, would point to the theory that the head had been beaten in. Further than this all the wrappings, consisting of a number of cloths, were found about the head.

County Constable Robert Burns was in Unionville on Monday and is satisfied that the child belonged to none in that locality.

ONTARIO COAL CO. CLOSE FIRST YEAR IN BUSINESS

Has Been One of Great Progress. Company Has Received a Large Patronage—Have an Excellent Plant at Yards on Alymer Street South

If the business of the Ontario Coal Co. continues to grow in the future as it has done during the past year, which has just closed, the management will have every reason to feel encouraged. The first twelve months of the company's existence, have shown wonderful results and the amount of business done has exceeded all expectations.

The Ontario Coal Co. has its head office at the corner of Aylmer and Wolfe streets, while its up town office is at 387 Water street. Mr G. K. Rackham is the energetic manager and Mr. C. Currier is the secretary-treasurer.

As an evidence of the daily increase in the business done, is the fact that whereas the company started with only one double wagon, they now have two and in the course of a few weeks will have another one delivering. A sawing and splitting machine has recently been installed cutting wood to any length the customer requires it. The Ontario Coal Co. are the only dealers in the city having an electrical elevator for removing coal from the cars. Their elevator can unload as many as forty tons per hour. A concrete pit, ten feet square is placed under teh track and into this the coal falls. It is then carried by the elevator to the shed. The company deal exclusively in the D and H., Lackawana hard coal; while they also sell soft coal and wood They just recently purchased five hundred cords of dry pine slabs They have supplied by contract, soft coal to several firms throughout Ontario.

Messrs. Rackham and Currier are among the young business men of Peterborough. They are well and favorably known and judging from the patronage they are receiving, their customers are well satisfied. They are deserving of every success.

REV. DR. SYMOND'S STRIKING WHIT SUNDAY SERMON ON "THE RELATION OF THE CHURCH OF ROME TO CHRISTIAN UNITY"

In the Opinion of the Reverend Gentleman the Differences Between Roman Catholicism and Protestantism Are Not So Great That They Cannot Be Reconciled and Unity Accomplished.

The following sermon by the former rector of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, has been handed to the Review for publication;

At Christ Church Cathedral, on Sunday evening last, a really notable sermon on Christian Unity, was preached by the Vicar—the Rev. Mr. Symonds—before a large congregation. The special subject of the reverend gentleman's discourse was "The Roman Church and Christian Unity," and he based his remarks on 1 Corinthians, xii 4; "Now there are diversities of gifts but the same spirit. And there are diversities of ministrations and the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations but the same God, who worketh all things in all."

Dr. Symonds spoke as follows. The Greek, the Roman, and the Anglican churches are celebrating today the festival of Whit Sunday or the birthday of the Christian church. We are told in the Acts of the Apostles that after our Lord's bodily presence was removed from earth, the Apostles and their few faithful followers, about 120 people in all remained quietly in Jerusalem until the Day of Pentecost. On that day of Pentecost seven weeks from Easter as they were all worshipping together, the Holy Spirit fell upon them. They burst forth in praises to God, so speaking that the crowds of visitors to Jerusalem from many parts of the world understood them. When the first excitement had subsided, then Peter stood up and preached the first Christian sermon. A multitude were convinced, and 3000 were baptised. Thus began the Christian church.

Nineteen hundred years have rolled away. The Roman Empire is gone The Feudal System has gone. Nations and powers have passed across the stage of history. New worlds have been discovered. Revolutions have swept away old customs, and privileges, and manners, but the Church of Christ, founded in a private room with a few obscure men and women abides with us. It, too, has seen its vicissitudes. It has grown and developed. It has given birth to vast systems of theology, and to elaborate forms of ritual. It has been persecuted, torn to pieces by schism, but it has lived, and today is full of vitality.

Of all the many subjects that such an anniversary suggests I know of none more suitable than that of the Unity of the Church. It is a subject that would at any time be appropriate, but it is especially so today, when here on this North American Continent, in Australia in the Mission Field, and in Great Britain, the current of theological and of popular thought is acting so strongly in favor of a larger and a closer unity and concord amongst Christian people.

As many of you know, I have often preached on this subject from this pulpit, and elsewhere. But there is one aspect of it upon which I have never preached. I mean the relation of the Roman Catholic Church to Christian Unity. That subject, I need scarcely say, bristles with difficulty. On the one hand, one does not desire to treat it controversially, nor on the other hand to deal in vague generalities. Between the Scylla of controversy and the Charybdis of platitude, I desire to steer my course this evening.

ROME'S ATTITUDE TOWARD UNITY.

It is not necessary for me to dwell at any great length on the position of the Church of Rome with regard to this question. Speaking quite generally, that position is perfectly clear and quite intelligible; we are the one true Catholic and Apostolic Church. The centre of unity is the Pope, St. Peter's successor. To be of the true church is to be in communion with the See of Rome. To the Greek Church she says Orthodoxy is not enough. To the Anglicans, Bishops are not enough. To others, a scriptural creed is not enough. There is only one road to unity. It is the road that leads to submission to the Papal throne.

I will not deny that there is something impressive in this straightforward simplicity. No elaborate arguments, no diversity of opinion. A Roman Catholic 400 years ago or 800 years ago would have given virtually the same answer. I am sometimes surprised that the rank and file of people are not more impressed by it than they are. But whilst it has the merit of simplicity, and the force that comes of an unvarying unanimity, yet the fatal objection to it is that it does not convince. The Greek church for many centuries has listened to that claim unconvinced. Protestantism continues to flourish and dominates the thought, political and literary, as well as religious, of the most powerful and progressive peoples of the world. But no earnest-minded and fair minded person can rest satisfied with this condition of affairs. We must and we ought to feel a kind of Divine discontent that so wide and apparently insurpassable gulf separates us from so many of our fellow Christians. We must and we ought to strive in some way to bridge that gulf. Historians know that, after all, Rome is not quite so unchangeable as she appears to be. The greatest Roman Catholic genius of the Nineteenth Century, Cardinal Newman wrote his Doctrine of Development not to prove that Rome never changes, but to account for and to defend the great changes that had taken place. Who can tell then in what channels development may not in the course of time be directed?

II.

CONTROVERSY HAS FAILED.

The old methods of controversy, between the Church of Rome and Protestantism have failed. The Protestant triumphantly proves superstition, idolatry, false doctrine, monstrous claims, bitter persecutions, corruption of life against the Church, but the results are disappointing. The Church is neither convinced nor converted. Nay, a considerable number of Protestants become Roman Catholics in spite of these things. On the other hand in France and Italy immense numbers of people abandon the Church and fight even against her, yet they do not become Protestants. There is something here to give pause to the old style of controversialist, and to ask whether, in making these charges, he is not simply beating the air.

On the other hand, the Roman Catholic controversialist points to the divisions of Protestantism, the bareness and coldness of its churches, their emptiness on week-days, and, to what appears to him, our irreligiousness and unbelief. He marshals with a kind of massive force his arguments from his unity; how the Church has with one voice marched through the ages, ever speaking with the same voice, not shifting its ground as do Protestants. Wherever you go, all over the world, from St. Peter's at Rome to the little backwoods church, or even the lumberman's shanty, there you find the one central service, the Mass, sufficiently understood by by shantyman or king. And yet Protestantism is not convinced. Nay, not a few Roman Catholics brought up so carefully as they are in their faith, become Protestants, whilst in France and Italy and elsewhere a continually increasing host fall out of the ranks of Catholicism to lapse into some kind of philosophical free thought, or it may be, into black atheism. Is there not something here to give Roman Catholics pause, and to ask whether after all these apparently stately arguments are not futile.

In short, my Brothers, is it not time for the best men on both sides to call a halt, and to review the whole situation calmly and impartially, uniting in thought at least to find, not futile arguments, or bolster up each his own cause, but a solution of a problem that threatens the very life of organised Christianity.

What is that more excellent way, then, which may lead, not to mutual contempt and hatred, but to mutual respect, as the first step towards unity?

My friends, it is very simple. Hitherto the Roman Catholic, when he preached or wrote against the Protestant dwelt for the most part upon his bad points. In like manner the Protestant dwelt upon the bad points of the Roman Catholic. Neither can see any good in the other. I sometimes read Roman Catholic papers as well as Protestant, I find on both sides little but revilings. No honest attempt to understand, only such writing as deepens ignorance and prejudice, two of the most evil spirits of darkness.

Now, let us alter that. Let us look at each other's good points. I will not say that this is never done. I read not very long ago a really noble tribute to the charitable work of the Church of Rome in New York, by a Methodist minister. On the other hand, the Bishop of Three Rivers, not so long ago, on his return from England, was reported as paying a high tribute to the religion of Protestant England. There we are on new and better lines. By and by we shall begin to go a step further, and ask what is the secret of these mutual excellencies. Can we not share them?

But some of you—some on each side of this question—will say: "This is indeed good, but surely it is not enough? By itself this kind of thing would soon degenerate into a mawkish sentimentality, an unmeaning exchange of compliments." Yes, that, I think, is true. There are great and deeply-rooted differences between the Roman and Protestant positions, and no real unity can come unless the gulf thus created is bridged.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE.

Well, then, fundamentally, what is the difference between Romanism and Protestantism?

We must go below the surface. It is not simply the mass, not simply a difference of interpretation about some Scripture texts, not simply the Papal claims, not confession and Absolution, not the doctrine of Purgatory, not simply any of these, but something that goes down to the very roots of religion itself.

It is a difference in the conception of God.

There you see we go to the root of things. We cannot get below this. And I find the fundamental difference from which all other differences spring, right there at the root. The Roman Catholics and the Protestant have difference conceptions of God, I mean that the predominant conception of God in the one case is different from the predominant conception of God in the other.

1 The Predominant Conception of God in the Roman Catholic Church is the conception of a King or Lord. In heaven God is the King of hierarchy of angels and archangels who adoringly perform His will. They have no will but God's. They adore and obey.

So ought it to be on earth. Therefore, God institutes a Church; the Church is Heaven on Earth. God has therefore a Vicegerent, the Pope He, too, is supreme, the ultimate Lord of the earth. So, too, there is a hierarchy on earth. The Bishops and clergy in graduated scale perform the will of the Pope. To him they are obedient. To them the laity are obedient.

No doubt the Church teaches us that God is Love. It is the love of genuine and good King for his subjects, who earnestly desire their welfare. Such is the love of God, the King of heaven and earth. Such is the love of a good Pope, God's representative for the Church.

Thus the supreme, the controlling, the formative conception of God in the Roman Catholic system is that King. He is the one who has authority. The supreme virtue is of course obedience. Authority and obedience, these are the two key-words of the entire system. You see it is the case of our principal subject to-night, Christian Unity. The Roman Catholic have authority. To secure unity is easy; recognise our authority and be obedient to it."

Now, my friends, why should you or I deny that there is much of truth and goodness in all this? If it is the fundamental conception of Rome that God is King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, and that man's duty is adoring obedience, is that not a true conception? Is it not one that you and I can cheerfully admit. After all, the system is not, as Protestants have claimed, based upon a lie and falsehood, but it is based upon a profound and glorious truth; God is the Lord; the earth is the Lord's, and all that therein is; and we are His servants.

Further, that this conception of God should find expression in the Church is my firm conviction. There is such a thing as Church authority and Church obedience.

I find, then, much truth in this system. By it I can explain those characteristic excellencies which every honest person must admit in the Church of Rome. As things are at present, I, an ardent Protestant in many respects, can yet see how valuable, how necessary an instrument for the world's good is the Church of Rome.

2 But is this characteristic conception of God the whole truth? Is there no other conception of God, not at variance with the first, but equally true, and even more important? I think there is.

When our Lord taught His disciples to pray, He bade them address God, not as King, nor as Lord, but as Father, "When ye pray," cried He, "say 'Our Father.'" In other words the conception of God which is now brought to the front, and which we may claim to be the distinctively Christian conception, is that of the Fatherhood of God. And this conception of God carries with it a new conception of man. Man is the son or child of God.

Now, it is this conception of God and man which I should call characteristically the Protestant conception. I do not mean that Protestants have always seen truth in it. John Calvin, I think, fell back on the old conception of God as King and Ruler. But the doctrine of justification by faith, the characteristic doctrine of the Reformation, that depends for its truth upon the conception of God as a Father and Man as a Son.

Now you can see what follows: 1 That man—every man—has the right of free approach to God. The child has direct access to the Father. 2 The laity have, therefore, a right to a voice and share in the Government of the Church. 3 Liberty is a key note of Protestantism.

Let me repeat now. The two conceptions of God are:—In the Roman Catholic system God is King; Man is servant; the Church and Priesthood Mediator; the Pope God's vicegerent, and therefore absolute monarch; authority and obedience the key-words. 2 In the Protestant; God is Father; Man is Son; the Church the Universal Society of free man; the characteristic word, Liberty.

Now, my conception is that these two conceptions are not absolutely opposed to each other. Developed in a one-sided way, no doubt, they can be made to clash violently. But they need not do so. It is true God is King. It is true that authority of some kind there must be. Obedience is still a virtue. But these must be so developed that they may harmonise with the other conception of God as Father, of an authority that is not incompatible with Liberty, of an obedience that shall not be slavery.

There, my brethren, you have the real problem of our age. Do you say it is insoluble. Well, so long as the Roman Catholic says to the Protestant; You are all wrong; and the Protestant says to the Roman Catholic: You are all wrong; so long, of course, the problem is insoluble. But if you can see that the conception of God as Father and God as King, is not contradictory, and that they may be reconciled, then you can see that systems that grow out of these conceptions can be reconciled too. What is essential in the Roman Catholic system, and what is essential in the Protestant, can be retained, harmonized, unified.

Is there any prospect of this unification. In reply to this question, note these two points; 1 The same problem has had to be solved in the world of human politics. There was a time when Absolute Monarchy was the form of government. The citizen was not a citizen. He had no political rights. His whole duty was to obey. By and by, little by little, the conception of political rights and political freedom, grew. I have no doubt the reconciliation of the political freedom with authority seemed to men as difficult as the reconciliation of Romanism and Protestantism appears to us. But the problem has been solved. We have King, we have Law, we have Authority. But we have also a free citizenship and Government in which all may share. I do not say the heavenly or ecclesiastical politics are the same as earthly; but they are analogous. And it is by no accident that the Reformation carried with it the movements that led to political freedom.

2 But secondly. There is a movement within the Church of Rome today known as Modernism. This movement is profoundly religious, truly Catholic, but yet it is reforming movement. It is trying to do that which all ought to aim at—to be fair to both sides, by trying to understand both sides. Thus, Father Tyrell will not admit that in the Reformation, all the blame lay upon the Protestant side. "We condemn every schism," he cries, "as a mistake, not on the Philistine ground that the Church was all right, and the schismatics all wrong but contrariwise because there were vigorous vital elements of goodness and truth in nearly every schism. "Nearly every schism" he says elsewhere, "has been the work of the worst men on both sides, who have prevented the best from coming to an understanding."

Yes, the time is coming when the best men will assist in coming together. It will be impossible to keep them apart. What the fate of the Modernist movement may be none can say, but its existence as a vigorous living power amongst many of the ablest and most pious men of the Church of Rome is a fact of deepest significance.

3, Lastly, we may notice as a hopeful sign that the old arguments, the old reproaches the old prejudices are surely dying out, and disappearing.

We are learning the lesson St. Paul teaches us in the passage I have chosen for my text, and with which I will close: "There are diversities of gifts, but the same spirit. And there are diversities of ministratons and the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations, but the same God who worketh all things in all." —The Standard.

ARCHBISHOP OF TORONTO WAS INDUCTED YESTERDAY

Installation at St. Michael's Was Brilliant Spectacle—Papal Ablegate Conducts Ceremony—Large Crowd Witness Impressive Rites of Roman Catholic Church—Took Oath of Fealty.

Toronto, June 18.—The installation of the Most Rev. Fergus Patrick McEvay, D.D., formerly Bishop of London, as the Archbishop of Toronto in succession to his Grace Archbishop O'Connor, was the occasion of a brilliant and impressive ceremony in St. Michael's Cathedral yesterday morning. The event was distinguished by the presence of his Excellency the Papal Ablegate, the Most Rev. Donatius Sbarretti, Archbishop of Ephesus, and by many of the leading priests of the Roman Catholic Church in Ontario. The notable gathering was augmented by scores of clerical representatives from different dioceses, apart from those of the Archdiocese of Toronto.

St. Michael's Cathedral was filled with people. Where the clergy were counted in scores, the laity were numbered by hundreds.

Headed by acolytes, carrying book, candle and censor, and followed by the priests of the diocese, and the visiting and diocesan priests, the archbishop's procession passed from the palace along Shuter and Bond streets to the main entrance of the cathedral. The short route was closely lined with many hundred spectators, but the greatest order was maintained without any interference from the small squad of police on duty, and the stately procession passed along without any difficulty. Following the diocesan clergy came a long array of high dignitaries of the church, and bishops of other dioceses, not only in the province of Ontario, but from far down by the sounding sea, who delighted to do honor by their presence to the new archbishop. Escorted by a bodyguard of the Knights of St. John, in their quaint uniform, and with drawn swords, Archbishop McEvay, clothed from head to foot in golden raiment, with his crosier in his hand, came immediately after. The visiting bishops and the procession closed with another small body of the priesthood.

At the entrance to the cathedral his grace was received by Vicar-General McCann, and, after sprinkling holy water upon the people and blessing the incense, proceeded up the aisle to the sanctuary, where he knelt in prayer. He then proceeded to the altar, and read the prayer to St. Michael. After his grace had returned to the pre dieu, the vicar-general ascended the pulpit and read the papal brief transferring him from London to Toronto. The archbishop was then escorted to the throne by Archbishop Gauthier of Kingston and Bishop Dowling of Hamilton.

Addresses were presented by both clergy and laity to which the archbishop replied and the clergy of the Toronto diocese took the oath of fealty to their new diocesan.

IS ARRESTED FOR PERJURY

Judge Scores Witness in Divorce Case at Rochester.

Rochester, N.Y., June 18.—A series of dramatic incidents climaxed the divorce suit of Flossie Shewman of Brighton, Ont., in the Equity Court yesterday afternoon.

Archibald Shewman was the defendant, Mrs. Jennie Deforest, with whom Shewman roomed, was exonerated by the court for alleged improprieties with Shewman. Pearl Fosdick was declared innocent of one accusation, while Robert Allard of Lovett was arrested at the order of Judge Sawyer on the charge of wilful perjury.

The Shewmans were married at Brighton in 1903. Mrs. Shewman's parents are said to be well-to-do.

Judge Sawyer directed that Mrs. Shewman should be given a decree of absolute divorce on the grounds that he had relations with the Fosdick woman in Rochester in August last.

Future of Queen's College.

Kingston, June 18.—When asked yesterday concerning the outlook for Queen's College, since the Presbyterian Assembly refused to change present relations between the church and the university, Principal Gordon said that the question yet to be answered is: "Whether a growing university like Queen's can be adequately maintained on the revenue contributed solely by the church, great though that church may be."

The desire of the assembly was that the efforts to raise the endowment fund should be prosecuted vigorously along present lines.

Held Up, But Gets Off Lucky.

Brockville, June 18.—Robert Graham, G.T.R. car checker, was held up yesterday morning by two men, one having a revolver. They got nothing, overlooking a watch in an inside pocket.

Arrested For Bigamy.

London, June 18—(C.A.P.)—At Huddersfield John Walker, who passed as a doctor from Windsor, Ont., was charged with the larceny of £36 from a woman he married here in October, 1907. He subsequently disappeared and was found in Bristol, living with another woman, whom he had married.

LIVELY SCENES AT MIDLAND

Strike of Foreigners Employed by the Metcalfe Co.

Midland, June 18.—The foreigners employed by the Metcalf Co., contractors for the new G.T.P. elevator here, to the number of about 250, went on strike yesterday, demanding $2 per day. A few of the strikers created a riot by threatening, assaulting and intimidating the other men who remained on the work.

An information for a riot was laid before Police Magistrate Jeffrey, and the police, assisted by many citizens, went out to the works and succeeded in arresting six of the rioters, who are now confined in jail.

The Italians seem to have lost their heads and chased a workman named Smith with a rope and crowbar because he would not stop work. Others used clubs and gas-pipe to try and frighten the workmen who remained.

Many men received a beating, but only one was badly hurt and is in the hospital.

Boy Shot His Sister.

Fort William, June 18.—Two children of James Harrison, section foreman, aged 5 and 9, were playing round the roundhouse when the boy got hold of a rifle.

The boy, in play, pointed the weapon at his sister, and it was discharged, fatally wounding the little one.

HE WANTED TO BE A CLOWN AND HAD HIS FIRST LESSON

Young Man Who Had Circus Ambitions Had an Experience Yesterday Which He Will Not Soon Forget---The Paint Would Not Wash Off Because it Was Made to Stick on---A Peep Behind the Scenes.

He was a young man and had only come out to Peterborough a few months ago. He was out of employment and he wanted to join the circus. At any rate he wanted to secure employment, and when Cole Bros.' Shows struck town yesterday, he hunted up the manager and applied for a job. He had heard the "call of the footlights" and wanted to be a clown. It was decided to give him a trial and before the afternoon performance was started he was ushered into the tent at the rear, where the performers "make-up," introduced to the main clown, and the story of his aspirations to be one of the laugh-makers was told. Our friend's troubles were just starting to begin then. The main clown handed the hopeful over to a subordinate with instructions to make him up as a clown, and the subordinate certainly did make him up. Even his mother would not have recognized him. He shed his ordinary clothes and donned a clown's suit—one of those loose-fitting creations with the trousers made a la oatmeal sack. His hair was greased and induced to stand on end with the aid of various concoctions, and then his face was painted. And how it was painted! The pattern was more intricate than that of a crazy patch work quilt, and the colors were all those of the rainbow.

But the worst was yet to come. The new clown had yet to be given his first lesson. Whether he would have been able to make a circus crowd laugh is not known but at any rate, he provided all kinds of amusement for the clowns and other performers. They put him through a variety of stunts, including the application of the 'slat' and by the time the ordeal was over the greenhorn was of the opinion that he didn't want to be a clown. He remained in the dressing tent all afternoon, and the performers took turns in breaking him in when not doing stunts in the big show ring. By six o'clock he was fully convinced that he wasn't going to be a clown, and decided to doff the jester's suit, and get into his ordinary garb again.

Then the real trouble started. To remove the paint was the first operation. He was provided with a big pan of water, plenty of soap, and a corner in the dressing room, where he could perform his ablutions. He applied the water, then the soap and then rubbed. The paint didn't come. More soap and more water and more vigorous rubbing, but still the paint stuck. It was about 6.30 when the fellow started to try to get off the paint, and when a Review representative was shown into the dressing room about 8.30 he was still there, still washing and still had the paint on his face.

"Have you got a good stiff scrubbing brush you could give him?" one clown asked another.

"What's wrong, sonny?" asked another. "This stuff is a cinch to get off," and he applied some soap and water to his own face and had the paint off quicker than it takes to tell it.

"And that's good soap he has," said another. "I can't understand why he can't get it off."

"Better use turpentine," was another suggestion. "It's good for that kind of work."

The head clown explained to the newspaper man that the subordinate whom he had instructed to make-up the new man had used ordinary house paint in decorating the prospective clown's face. Of course grease paint should have been used but the circus men wanted a joke, and the house paint was applied. It had plenty of time to dry during the afternoon and it was little wonder that it wouldn't wash off. That kind of paint is made to stick on, and the brand used by the make-up man must have been of excellent quality.

When the newspaper man came away the fellow was still in his corner and still washing. And the clowns and other performers were having a big joke over it. It certainly was an amusing sight.

The Review man has not yet found out whether or not the paint is still sticking.

TO REFORM CIVIL SERVICE BILL HAS BEEN INTRODUCED

Competitive Examinations to Replace Nomination System—Merit to Count in Future—Commission of Two Will be Appointed—To Make Regulations and Control Exams—Important Measure Introduced in House of Commons.

Ottawa, June 18.—Reform of the civil service with competitive examinations and merit to count, and with two commissioners to manage and a re-classifications of grades—these are the principal features in the Government's policy submitted to the House yesterday.

The most important innovation is the establishment of an independent civil service commission of two members, who will have the status and salaries of deputy ministers. They will control the entrance examinations, and will give such certificates as may be necessary in regard to promotions and salary increases. The commission will have power to make regulations and control examinations and the arrangements for carrying out their work.

Entrance into the civil service, which is now left "entirely to the judgment of the nominating power," will be by open competitive examinations. Under this present system, candidates pass qualifying examinations, but are not necessarily appointed. Hereafter the appointment is to be made after competitive examinations, according to merit, by the commission.

The procedure is to be according to the British system; examinations will be held as often as necessary, say, twice a year. The heads of departments will notify the commission as to vacancies, etc., and the commission will advertise, stating the offices which are to be competed for. The commission will, while making appointments generally by merit, be given latitude in the case of candidates who excel in one particular branch, and who may therefore be appointed to offices for which they are specially qualified. The probation period will be six months. In that time a deputy minister may reject a new appointee, giving his reasons. The commission may, when advisable, give the probationer another appointment.

All departmental services at Ottawa are to be included in the inside service and brought under the Civil Service Act. Any outside service may be brought in from time to time by order-in-council, but otherwise they remain under the old law.

The classification of the service is to be made in three sections, the first including those qualified for administrative, executive and technical work; the second a class preparatory to the first, and the third will include those doing routine work under direct supervision. Those in the third class may enter the second only by competitive examination, and on an equal footing with outsiders.

In the first class the salaries are to be from $2,100 to $2,800 and from $2,800 to $4,000. In the second class the salaries will be from $800 to $1,600, and from $1,600 to $2,100. In the third class the salaries will be from $500 to $800, and from $800 to $1,200. There will be a statutory increase of $5 a year for those deserving it, and this may be doubled on certificate of merit from the commission.

The House made excellent progress with Government bills.

In committee the Chinese immigration act amendment was discussed. It provides that the head tax may be paid at the point of destination, instead of the point of entry. Mr. Bergeron thought this would help Chinamen to evade the tax.

R. G. MacPherson said the object was that other provinces might share in the head tax. He opposed the change.

Several amendments were assented to. One imposes a penalty on persons who aid or abet an infraction of the exclusion act.

The bill was left over to consider a suggestion that the word "students" be more adequately defined.

On a bill to encourage the construction of dry docks, Mr. Ames raised the question whether a municipality-owned dry dock would be aided.

Mr. Fielding said not, but, even if he was not so enamored of public ownership as some people, if there was any reason to suppose that a municipality would undertake the construction of a dry dock, there would be no objection to granting Federal aid. Leighton McCarthy, however, did not think that municipalities should be encouraged to enter into competition with private enterprise.

Mr. Monk urged the construction of a dry dock at Montreal instead of spending money on useless public works, for political purposes. Such a dock should be owned by the Government.

The bill was passed.

The bill respecting Government guaranteed bonds of Grand Trunk Pacific was next put through. Mr. Fielding explained that the bill dealt with the method of handling securities of the company. If the company find it inadvisable to sell the bonds, it may pledge them to any bank.

DAUGHTER ELOPED WITH COACHMAN

Governor Tweedie's Daughter Marries Immigrant Her Father Employed.

St. John, N.B., June 18.—Miss Tweedie, daughter of Hon. L. J. Tweedie, Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, eloped yesterday with her father's former coachman, David McEwan, a Scotch immigrant.

They were married in the afternoon at St. Stephen and left on the evening train for Montreal, en route for the old country.

The Governor and Mrs. Tweedie were in St. John attending the wedding of Judge Barker's daughter yesterday, and received the news by telephone from their home in Chatham. Both are almost heartbroken.

McEwan came to the province last summer with an importation of cattle bought in Scotland by the Provincial Government. He is a young man of fine appearance. Soon after his arrival the governor hired him as his coachman.

The affair has created a sensation in society and has aroused a great sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Tweedie.

Amongst those who got their pockets picked at the circus yesterday was a C.G.E. student who should have been above such a thing.

C.P.R. Conciliation Board.

Winnipeg, June 18.—It was decided at Tuesday's session of the conciliation board that it would sit in Moose Jaw next Tuesday, as there are many witnesses there. Excellent progress was made.

Two blacksmiths gave testimony as to past and present conditions in shops, and President Bartlett of the Trades and Labor Council, gave his reasons for believing there was a combination among certain classes to destroy unionism.

He stated the Canadian Manufacturers' Association were fomenting trouble with this end in view. In C.P.R. shops there had been marked improvement in working conditions, and until recently officials had shown a desire to meet the men on any grievance which had come up.

There is no suggestion that the C.P.R. took any part in an effort to disrupt the unions. So far the cross-examination has taken the line that no hardship would result from changes in schedules proposed by the company.

Three Black Hand Artists Shot.

New Orleans, La., June 18.—Following a series of crimes attributed to so-called Black Hand societies in the Italian quarter of New Orleans, one of the worst tragedies yet connected with that section took place yesterday, when three Italians were shot to death as a result of an attempt to extort money from Pietro Giacona, a wealthy Italian wine merchant.

End of Hodgins' Charges.

Ottawa, June 18.—The inquiry into the Hodgins' charges failed to go on yesterday morning. The final decision as to the course to be pursued, however, has been deferred till to-day.

The first incident of the brief morning sitting was the announcement of Frank Hodgins, K.C., of his retirement from the case. He said that he had decided that it was not necessary for him to re-examine the major.

Plague at Caracas.

Caracas, June 18.—The dreaded plague has at last come to Caracas, which for a few months past has been hoping against hope that it might be spared from the scourge which has stricken the neighboring port of La Guayra.

Lemoine Has Fled.

Paris, June 18.—The Lemoine diamond case came to a sensational ending with an unexpected climax yesterday afternoon. Lemoine has fled, and his famous formula for the manufacture of diamonds is a fantastic farce.

TO PROBE THE CONTRACTS SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE

Government Paid Five Times the Right Price—Contractor Merwin Overpaid—Commander Spain's Travelling Expenses—Accounts Paid Without Vouchers—Deputy Minister Informed.

Ottawa, June 18.—Auditor-General Fraser was the star witness before Judge Cassels yesterday in the Marine Department enquiry.

He said he had often called attention to the prices paid for goods, and to the omissions of calling for tenders. A refund of $1,100 secured on the purchase of silverware for the steamship Montcalm seemed to show improper conduct somewhere.

Witness complained of accounts being paid without proper vouchers, while one Merwin had been over-paid. Commander Spain, he said, had in 1905 been obliged to refund $800 overcharged for expenses. This fact had been well known to the Deputy Minister, and had been mentioned to the Minister.

Witness knew of no reason why the Deputy Minister should favor the commander, though he had given him two checks for one-half the amount of the refund.

Regarding the contract for gas buoys made with Mr. Wilson's company, the Auditor-General said such a large contract should have been concurred in by both the Deputy and the Minister before being entered into. Personally he knew of no undue influence exercised by Mr. Fraser to have the contract given this company. He understood, however, the Government had advanced $200,000 to this company before the goods were delivered.

Mr. Fraser knew of no personal dishonesty, and he said Mr. Brodeur was trying to do his best.

D. J. Coghlan of Montreal was asked regarding the refund of $1,100, and said the Auditor-General and Deputy Minister had "absolutely imposed" upon him this refund, and that he not only gave up his profit on transaction but $500 more.

Joseph Buskley, coal merchant, of Prescott, had made a three-year contract in August, 1906, to supply the Department with anthracite coal at $5.75 per ton, but later asked to be released as he was losing money. His books showed sales at $6.75 and $7 to other persons.

A number of employes of the Marine Department declared that their hands were clean and their conscience in fine working order.

Mr. Boudreau, assistant accountant, admitted being cognisant of an advance payment of $150 to W. J. Eyre before the receipts of some disinfecting goods. Mr. Watson read a letter from Mr. Eyre to his principals—the Wingate Chemical Co.—asking for "two extra cans, addressed to me, tagged, I want them for Mr. Owen, the accountant, and Col. Boudreau, Deputy Minister, both of the Marine Department. We cannot charge anything for the above."

Mr. Boudreau said that the advance payment was issued on an order of Accountant Owen, who will be examined to-day. He is now on leave of absence, pending superannuation.

Justice Cassels suggested that the diaphone signal contracts should be thoroughly investigated. Accounts showed that the Government had apparently paid $150,000 for apparatus worth $25,000. If more than a reasonable profit was being demanded, then the Government, under the patent law, had itself the privilege of manufacture.

ROOSEVELT IS THEIR IDOL

Thousands Cheered 45 Minutes---A Whirlwind of Enthusiasm.

Chicago, June 18.—The second day of the Republican national convention has brought the long-expected "Roosevelt yell," a whirlwind of enthusiasm, which raged within the vast amphitheatre of the Colliseum for full 45 minutes yesterday, and for a time presented to the timid the spectre of a Roosevelt stampede.

This demonstration was decidedly the feature of a day otherwise notable for a stirring speech from the permanent chairman of the convention, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, for much practical procedure in placing the convention on a smooth running basis, and for the final defeat of the plan to reduce the representation of the Southern States at future national conventions.

Probably the most important act of the day, and the one having greatest significance on the final result of the convention, was the adoption of the report of the committee on credentials, seating the Taft delegations practically in toto. If there had been any lingering doubt of the Taft strength it disappeared before this decisive action, which in effect placed upwards of 700 delegates in the Taft column.

President Goes to Prison.

Novorossisk, Russia, June 18.—The trial of the men who in December of 1905, during the revolutionary movement, organized and maintained for a short time the "Novorossisk Republic," came to an end yesterday.

Brown of Tillsonburg and W. E. Kelly of Simcoe.

BEEF-EATER MUST PAY

Little Hope of Opening British Ports to Canadian Cattle.

London, June 18.—(C.A.P.)—It is stated that neither the Dominion nor Home Government is anxious to re-open British ports to Canadian cattle. Any chance wherein an element of uncertainty exists, it is contended, would be prejudicial to the interests of the Dominion farmer, while the view is also taken that as long as Canadian cattle are unprotected against disease from the United States, it would be unwise to re-open the ports. The British beef-eater must therefore be content to pay.

Foolish Joke May Be Fatal.

London, Ont., June 18.—As a result of a practical joke, Hugh White, Hamilton road, lies in a critical condition from a fractured skull. Young White was being swung in a hammock when a companion loosened the supporting post, and a nail entered the man's skull.

ELECTRICAL POWER ON THE FARM

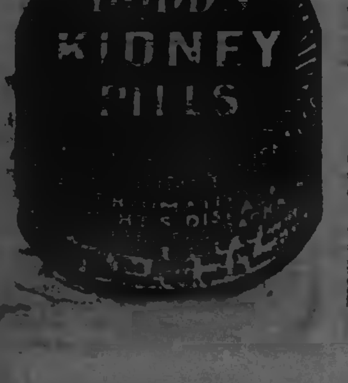
Prof. W. H. Day, of the Department of Physics at the O.A.C., has an interesting article on electrical power on the farm in the June number of the College Review. The writer says that along trolley lines in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, this form of power is quite extensively used for all stationery farm work, and there is, in his opinion, every reason to believe that like power will be utilized by farmers in Ontario in the near future. Electrical energy cannot be economically carried to any great distance from the transmission line used for serving suburban railways or the smaller towns, but it will be quite feasible to use it along the narrow strip of country bordering on such lines.

Mr. Day, taking Hon. Adam Beck's figures as his basis, says that farmers in the vicinity of Guelph, adjacent to the Provincial Government's proposed transmission line, should be able to obtain power for $25 or less per horse power per annum, while ten horse power engines, used only seventy-three days in the year, would cost the same amount. In addition to this there will be the first cost of the individual motor used by the farmer and through which power will be applied. A one-half horse-power motor, suitable for running a cream separator, is supplied by a Madison, Wis., firm at $40 at the factory, while a five horse-power motor costs $79. In addition to this there will be the duty on same, and cost of freight.

So convinced is the writer of the article in question of the feasibility of applying electrical power on the farm that he says every charter granted to a private electrical company should contain a clause binding it to supply energy at a reasonable price to anyone applying for the same.—Farmers' Sun.

The last man to feel the effects in a direct way of advanced policies of development and extension is the farmer. The power policy of the Whitney Government is such a contrast to what has gone before, that comparatively few seem disposed to grasp it. It means in a word the placing by the Government at the disposal of the people a ready and convenient means of developing energy. Water-powers are what furnaces used to be, and wires do the rest. In fact, before long we shall be able to do without wires. The old policy was to give over water-powers into the hands of speculators. That day has gone by. Government is becoming more for the people than it used to be, and why not? The farmer may be the last to profit by these improvements, but he will not be the least. His day in this respect has at last come.

Tramways for transportation and power for even the smallest machine or implement will give him a position in the world quite ideal as well as profitable. But the farmer must encourage his own prospects. Governments want and need encouragement as much as anybody.



EDITORIAL NOTES

One by one the Liberals throughout the Dominion are getting ready for the coming tussle by choosing their candidates. In Peterborough there is no sign of a Liberal convention. There is no doubt that the prospect here is gloomy for a Laurier candidate. Nobody seems anxious for the job.

The fortune of Hon. J. P. Whitney was made the day that Adam Beck succeeded in raising up enemies to the Ontario Government among the magnates who professed Conservatism and practice corporationism.

Ontario never heard sweeter music than the curses both loud and deep which were hurled at the Whitney Government by the affluent Tories who wanted to grab franchises and suppress municipalities.

The "Financial Interests" talked about what they were going to do to Hon. J. P. Whitney. Ontario was undisturbed by their shouts of "anarchist" and their wails about confiscation. The people realized that these rich and prominent Conservatives imagined they were the whole party and were noisy because they could not get what they wanted.

Ontario understood that a leader who was not owned body and soul by the richest, greediest and most arrogant members of his own party was worthy of continuance in the premiership. — Toronto Telegram.

Even in Peterborough we saw the effect of Whitney's offending corporate interests.

A British steel manufacturer is quoted as saying, "Colonial Preference has already benefitted us, but the Germans and Americans dump goods in the Britains beyond the seas as well as in the mother country, and they are, moreover, helped by cheaper transit rates than those paid by British manufacturers. We shall never hold our own till Imperial Preference is established. With that British manufacturers may defy the world, and British workmen be less dependent on charity and emigration and less likely to be tempted by Socialism." — The Toronto News.

It took twenty years to show the Liberal leaders that their idea of government was impossible. Even the new policy of Protection requires readjustment to the needs of the country. Even England is waking up, but the Liberal leaders — never. Who but a re-actionary, or a "blockhead" would in the face of a threatened stringency, coolly tie up twenty millions of hard cash? That is what the Laurier Government has done.

The above on the "Preference" is to say the least, instructive.

Intercolonial Railway finances make a gloomy showing. Mr. Graham undertook to explain the situation on Tuesday and revealed a scarcity of information. He does not yet know how much was expended on capital account in the year that closed with March last. But he admits that the alleged excess of earnings over expenses is only $16,000. He calls this a surplus, though a cross-examination by Mr. Fowler revealed the fact that there is a heavy deficit. Mr. Fowler ascertained from the Minister what was the lifetime of a locomotive and the various kinds of cars. He found out how many of each were on the road, and thus learned what number would be required every year to keep good the stock. The price of each was furnished to Mr. Graham by his deputy and it was ascertained that $800,000 would have been required to keep good the rolling stock alone, to say nothing of the depreciation of rails and other plant. This $800,000 and the other depreciation was made good out of capital account that is by borrowed money. The real deficit was over $1,000,000.

Toronto, June 15. — Hon. A. G. Mackay was in Toronto Saturday on his way back to Owen Sound from Mt. Clemens, Mich. He says he believes a Liberal convention should be called.

"But" he added, "I do not think that it would be the wisest thing to do to call it immediately. Men are apt to be a bit lethargic in the face of such an experience as reports indicate the Liberals have recently gone through. But I have a lot of faith in the Liberalism of the earnest aggressive kind that knows it has a mission and is ready to perform it. A year ago when I was tendered the leadership I expressed the view that a convention should eventually be held — a free gathering of Liberals, not to pass cut-and-dried resolutions, but to confer frankly together as to position and platform. Within the next year such a gathering might well be held.

"I put my best in the campaign and confess to a deep disappointment. I have written the various Liberal candidates" through the Province and expect when I reach home there will be a number of letters awaiting me. Perhaps when I have read these I will have a better idea as to how the elections were lost and as to the future."

A MINISTER'S SON-IN-LAW

Mr. L. S. Macoun, son-in-law of the Minister of Militia, has testified concerning his contracts with the Militia Department. Accepting his evidence, we find in regard to a $9,200 purchase of machinery for the Dominion Arsenal from a firm in Pawtucket, U.S., the following:

In January, 1905, the firm offered the machines at a quoted price. The Government did not buy.

In February, Mr. Macoun having learned of the negotiations, wrote to the firm asking to be appointed their agent. The appointment was made.

Then Mr. Macoun wrote to the Department as agent for the Pawtucket firm, repeating their offer.

The Government bought on these terms.

Mr. Macoun was paid 5 per cent. commission, or $310.

THIS IS A SECRET.

So much is stated by Mr. Macoun himself and by the officials. One thing Mr. Macoun refuses to disclose. He absolutely refuses to produce a copy of his letter applying for this agency. He claims that this was private. Though he is not reticent about other personal matters (for he produced, without being asked for it, a detailed account of Sir Fred. Borden's journeyings throughout Canada during several weeks) this letter could not be got out of him. Chairman Finlayson and the Government obstructors supported the refusal. Mr. McLean and Mr. Carvell furiously attacked Mr. Crocket for intimating that the letter might show whether Mr. Macoun informed the firm that his appointment would give them a Government contract at their own price.

Yet Mr. Macoun stated that the above contract was all the business he ever did for the Pawtucket Company.

PAID IN ADVANCE

As to the $70,000 copper contract, Mr. Macoun admitted that he got his pay before the larger part of the goods were tested or even delivered. A competing tenderer, who offered copper at a lower price, was refused the contract because he required pay on delivery, while the Government held in his case that there should be no pay until the copper had been received and tested.

If Commissioners Fyshe and Bazin had examined these transactions they would have reported that "lack of conscience" was not confined to the Marine Department.

MORALITY OF CANADIANS IS PRAISED

At Pan-Anglican Conference — Canon Tucker Tells of High Moral Standard of Canada.

London, June 16.—At the Pan-Anglican Conference the Archbishop of Toronto presided over the section which discussed the work in the prairies and foothills.

During the discussion of the marriage question, under the presidency of the Bishop of Montreal, the statements that divorce was practically unknown in Canada, and that no Canadian clergyman would celebrate the marriage of a man with his deceased wife's sister, were loudly cheered. Canon Tucker emphasized the high standard of morality obtaining in Canada, despite the growth of industrialism in the cities.

LIVING IN CONCUBINAGE.

A Whitechapel delegate observed that more than seventy-five per cent of the emigrants chosen to be helped to Canada were living in concubinage. The Bishop of Albany hoped that instead of the United States corrupting Canada, Canada would correct the United States. The Bishop of Montreal expressed great satisfaction at the magnificently conservative ring of the debate.

ARCHBISHOP PRESIDES.

Archbishop Sweatman, of Toronto, presided over section E, where work among the prairies' foothills was discussed.

The conference now in session is certainly a unique one. From every corner of the empire, from every quarter of the civilized world, and from parts of the earth still peopled with heathen, a host of delegates have come, representative of the English Church, and its large family of daughter churches.

SPREADS OVER WORLD.

In England and Wales there are thirty-seven dioceses but beyond the isle of the old land the English Church has gathered no fewer than two hundred and fourteen daughter dioceses. In the United States and Canada there are one hundred and eighteen such dioceses; in Australia twenty, in the West Indies nine, in India eleven, New Zealand seven, South Africa ten, tropical Africa six, in China and Japan eleven, and so on, until in far away Melanesia there is but one.

"O! MY POOR HEAD"

Stop Those Headaches.

Headache and neuralgia are pronounced signs of blood poisoning. This poisoning of the blood comes from the waste matter of the body being left in the system, instead of being regularly carried off by the bowels, kidneys and skin.

When the bowels do not move regularly, the refuse is absorbed by the blood. Thus, the blood is loaded with foul poisons which irritate the nerves.

Poor skin action also causes headache and neuralgia. Impurities cannot escape through the skin, so the blood must take them up and deposit them on the nerves.

If the bowels and skin are not ridding the system of waste, the kidneys try to do so and are overworked.

There is just one way to cure headaches and neuralgia—to regulate bowels, kidneys and skin so that all the poisons of the body will be properly carried off.

"Fruit-a-tives" keep blood pure and rich—relieve the stomach and kidneys—regulate the bowels; and invigorate the skin to healthy action. "Fruit-a-tives" are a wonderful discovery, being a combination of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box—six for $2.50. At all dealers, or from "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa.

TOO TIRED TO STIR!

ARE YOU ONE OF THE

WEAK WOMEN

To Become Bright, Happy and Healthy?—Use Ferrozone.

Modern life makes demands on every woman's strength that seem impossible to meet. Only the robust and strong can stand the strain. The weak, with their delicately balanced organisms, must fail. Blood gets thin, it's innutritious. Nerves go to smash, vitality declines, and then follows misery and suffering caused by interference with certain functions upon which the very existence of every female depends.

Don't let your condition grow worse. Check the decline of vital force before it is too late! The one sure remedy is Ferrozone—not a temporary stimulant—but an uplifting nutritive tonic that contains the kind of building material a weak body requires.

FERROZONE revitalizes the system by putting new life into the blood. Not only does it nourish the ordinary blood supply—it does more, it makes new blood, the rich, red kind that denotes health.

Energy is reinforced, strength is steadily and surely rebuilt. Keen appetite, strong nerves, more restful sleep, buoyant feelings, all tell of the enormous good Ferrozone invariably accomplishes. For restoring the weak, the pale, the despondent, there is no treatment so instant and permanent in effect as Ferrozone. A trial proves this. Won't you use Ferrozone yourself? It will surely make you well—its effect is instant.

BUILT UP HER STRENGTH

Mrs. M. E. Etherington, a well known merchant's wife, of Troy, writes: "I am quite willing to give a public testimonial for Ferrozone, believing it to be a tonic of superior excellence, and one that will rapidly build up strength and supply new energy to anyone not feeling well. Last Spring I was in a very poor condition of health. I was nervous, felt tired and completely worn out. No doubt it is quite a common complaint with ladies of my age, but I placed great reliance in Ferrozone, and took it for several weeks. It made me quite strong, and, in fact, I have been in better health ever since. I can heartily recommend Ferrozone."

Ferrozone Assures Good Health!

WARNING! Beware of the substitutor who urges you to accept something "just as good." Only FERROZONE can cure satisfactorily—see you get it, and nothing else. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all reliable dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ontario.

CELERY CULTURE.

The Right Handling For Seedlings. Water Supply.

By W. R. BEATTIE.

The ideal climatic conditions for the production of celery are bright sunshine, pure air, cool nights and a well distributed rainfall of about eight inches during the growing period in the field or garden.

In case the grower adopts the plan of transplanting twice the seedlings will be ready for the first handling in from four to six weeks from the time the seed is sown. The seedlings may be transplanted to trays or to beds in the open ground. This transplanting answers two purposes: First, the seedling plant of celery has a straight root, or taproot, which is broken in transplanting, causing a large mass of fibrous roots to be formed. In the case of a plant allowed to remain in the seed bed until planting out time this taproot has gone far down into the soil and the plant has formed very few side roots. Consequently it suffers a great shock in the process of planting in the field, and a large number of plants will need to be replaced. Second, when transplanting twice is practiced there is no necessity for thinning, and a more uniform lot of plants is obtained. Two handlings cannot be recommended where celery is grown on a large scale, as the cost of labor is too great. It is better to have a surplus of plants and to renew those that fail.

The Growing Crop.

No definite rules can be given for the application of water to a growing crop of celery, as the requirements vary with the character of the soil, atmospheric conditions and temperature. The cost of application should determine largely the extent to which water should be used, and as a rule it is not profitable to give more than three waterings during the growing season in addition to the one given at the time the plants are set in the field. When celery is to be grown on a large scale it will be desirable, where a natural water supply cannot be brought into service, to provide pumping machinery and to give the soil two or three good soakings during the season, especially in the absence of heavy rains. Celery requires the most water while making its greatest growth, which occurs late in the summer. As the crop approaches maturity the water should be applied sparingly, and it should be withheld altogether for some time before blanching.

Free Range For the Hog.

Hogs that have plenty of range and exercise are not nearly as susceptible to disease as those confined in a small pen. A hog that goes out after his feed will be well grown and thrifty, accustomed to the elements and not liable to be injured by a sudden change of weather. It is difficult to put a good finish on hogs while running in a large pasture. If they are allowed to run on good pasture until three weeks or a month before sending to market and are then shut up and given all the corn they want, with plenty of pure water, they will make very rapid gains.—C. B. Quinn.

Large Cotton Bolls.

Large cotton bolls are storm resisting, since the boll covering is thick and does not curve backward in drying and leave the locks unsupported, as in some sorts.

Faces Serious Charge.

Detroit, June 18.—Francis Taggert, aged 38, was placed on trial yesterday afternoon on a charge of importing an alien girl for immoral purposes. Taggert's wife arrived yesterday from Brantford, Ont. If she finds that he is married to the girl she will charge him with bigamy.

The girl is Mary Gwendolyn Webb, aged 20, who came from England a few months ago. It is alleged that Taggert and the girl went to Waterlie, Ottawa County, where he bought a house and the Webb girl was known as his wife.

Taggert tried to explain that he intended to get a divorce and marry the girl.

Summoned; Ends His Life.

Chatham, June 18.—Alex. Grover, aged 65, an engineer, shot and killed himself yesterday.

He had suffered from rheumatism and was despondent. Monday he quarreled with a neighbor over a cow's trespassing and had been summoned to appear in court on a charge of assault.

Norwegian Bark Ashore.

St. John, N.B., June 18.—The Norwegian bark Regulas, bound to Richibucto with a load of salt, is a total wreck near Shippegan, on the north shore of New Brunswick.

Native Hindu politicians are forming influential committees to safeguard the interests of British Indians throughout the Empire.

In the Russian Douma a bill was introduced authorising an internal loan of $100,000,000 to cover, among other things, the deficit in the budget of 1908. [illegible]

IN THE FIELD.

The Tangier pea is a native of northern Africa and has been tested quite extensively in California during the past few years. The hay is eaten readily by horses, and it is believed that the crop will become important.

Second Crops.

By the middle of June some Hubbard squash seeds can be put into potato hills, one seed in a hill in every other row, and a crop raised without bugs or much trouble, suggests a writer in an exchange. When early peas have matured, the vines can be pulled and the ground worked up and sown to rutabagas. Turnips can be put in after the early potatoes are dug.

Effect of Legumes.

The effect of legumes upon succeeding crops of any kind is beneficial because of the fact that the soil is enriched rather than impoverished by these plants.

The Busy Crow.

To prevent crows from pulling corn scatter a few quarts of corn in the field and keep them busy where they are most troublesome until danger to the crop is past—a simple and not expensive remedy, says a farmer.

Sowing Rape.

Ground for rape is plowed, harrowed and prepared as for a crop of corn. Rape may also be sown in the corn at the last cultivation. As a summer feed for sheep it is said to be excellent, but when too freely used is sure to cause bloating. It is advisable to feed grass and rape. The early crop of rape will be ready for summer use. A late crop may be sown in July for grazing.

Alfalfa Honey.

Alfalfa or lucern is an extensively grown forage crop in Montana and furnishes a light honey of a high grade. In some parts of the state this is the main yield and where three or four crops are had if allowed to bloom well before cutting can be made to last over a considerable portion of the summer.—Ralph Benton.

Catalpa and Locust.

It has been shown that where catalpa and locust trees are planted as close as 4 by 4 feet growth almost ceases or becomes very slow in many instances after the trees are eight to ten years old.

Revolutionist Apologized.

Tokio, June 17.—A despatch from Seoul says that during the trial of E. T. Bethel, the British subject arraigned before a British court for spreading sedition through the medium of his newspaper published in Korean vernacular, Bethel made a statement that he had apologized for the publication of the article, which reflected on Durham White Stevens, who was assassinated at San Francisco by a Korean revolutionist.

HALL HANGING LAMPS

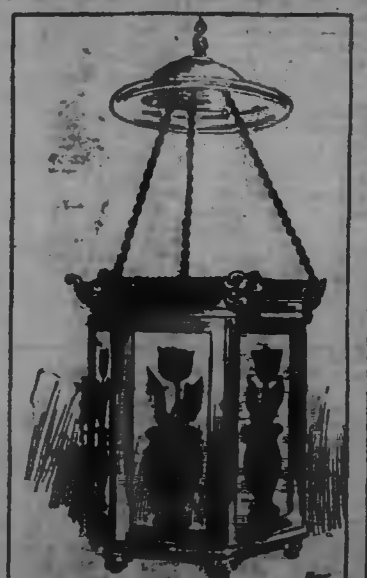
Many Genuine Colonial Lanterns Brightening Twentieth Century.

FITTED WITH ELECTRICITY.

Treasures In Lamps Stowed Away In the Dusky Corners of Country Garrets—Our Modern Light Must Combine Utility With Beauty.

In the twentieth century hallway of today is hanging, so says Good Housekeeping, many an old time lantern which formerly performed the same service in the hall of a colonial ancestor. Probably, alas, many treasures in this line are stowed away in the dusky corners of country garrets by those who have not yet come to a full appreciation of the antique. To be sure, those in use today do not, as in the olden days, contain an oil lamp, a tallow dip or a wax candle. On the contrary, they are fitted out with electricity and shine forth all the more bravely with a borrowed light. Certainly they look far from out of place in the midst of the old fashioned furniture that plays its part in so many of the homes at the present day.

Two hundred years ago lanterns were an indispensable part of the household furniture. They were manufactured then for one purpose, utility—and they were accordingly simple in design and crude in appearance, being made of straight bars of iron, with plain glass slides. Having no especial beauty of contour or material to recommend them, such specimens are not in great demand as ornaments today and are found only in collections. They are excellent examples of serviceable ugliness and as such are relegated to the background even of the curio department. Our modern light must combine utility with beauty, notwithstanding the fact that the uglier lantern can justly claim a greater age than any of the others.



DUTCH LANTERN.

Our ancestors sought for beauty, even as we do, and soon evolved better hall lanterns out of the same principle by the use of ornamental frameworks of iron or brass, with slides of ground glass stained, painted or etched. A Dutch design shown in the picture has retained the favorite hexagonal shape, while painted upon each of these six ground glass faces is a tulip in an oddly shaped vase. The result is quaint and pleasing, for the tulip and vase stand out boldly on the light ground glass surface. The framework of this lantern is but a slight modification of that of the old utility lantern, for it is decorated very simply.

An Orange Mold.

Jelly can be attractively molded in oranges with little trouble.

Cut off a circular piece from the stem end and scoop out the contents.

Wash the rinds in cold water and put them on the stove in boiling water and a little sugar. Boil for five minutes and stand on the ice to cool.

Make a jelly of some kind, either one of oranges colored in a deep tint or a port wine jelly whose rich tones is effective with the rind.

Pour the jelly in liquid state into the oranges and let it stiffen.

When ready to serve, it may either be sent to the table in the whole orange or the rind containing the jelly can be cut into quarters, which is perhaps prettier and newer.

Giving a French Touch.

There are various ways of making the pretty Frenchy costume. A little Eton of heavy black novelty lace lay in the wardrobe of a woman who dresses wonderfully well at all times. This spring, wishing to utilize the little black lace Eton, she took it in hand and made it serviceable by applying it to a black princess gown. The Eton was tacked in place, then embroidered upon the goods, so to speak. Then some colored touches were put into the lace, and finally the front was secured with some gold cords and tassels. It dressed up the princess in charming style.

Saying Things.

Better not.

There's less to regret.

There are fewer complications.

Those of strong feelings are also likely to say too much.

The satisfaction of saying things is but a poor thing.

Besides, one always has the pleasure of thinking what the little boy did who got the spanking anyway.

"All bye-play and sham." That is Mr. Victor Grayson's summing-up of the Government's old age pension scheme [illegible]

Making It Plain.

Henri was paying his first visit to London and was already wishing himself home in gay Paree, for he knew not a word of English. He had been very unfortunate and had lost all his luggage, a toothbrush. So he determined to buy another. But how was he to make his needs understood?

At last his luck turned, however, and he espied a chemist's shop with a notice outside, "Ici on Parle Français." In he went and told the assistant in French what he wanted. But that assistant knew no language except English, and another who came to help him was just as far at sea.

But the proprietor was an intelligent man, and he knew at once from the cut of the customer's clothes that he was speaking French.

"Leave him to me," he said, with a superior smile.

Then, forming a megaphone with his hands, he shouted in the Frenchman's ear:

"Our assistant who speaks French is out at lunch. You'll have to wait!"—London Scraps.

Swordsmen of the Sea.

The swordsmen of the sea are the sawfisher, spearfishes, sailfishes, swordfishes and the narwhal, with its spirally twisted straight tusks. The sawfishes inhabit the warmer seas, while the narwhal is a creature of the arctic. The tusk of the narwhal is hollow nearly to the point and is spirally grooved. It uses its tusk as a weapon of defense and to plunge through the ice to breathe, the narwhal being a cetacean. Sometimes when a boat has been caught in the ice great damage has been inflicted by the inquisitiveness or blundering of this great creature, that sometimes reaches a length of fifteen feet, with a tusk of from six to ten feet in length. As a rule, however, the narwhal uses its tusk for the purpose of killing fish for food. In the castle of Rosenberg the kings of Denmark have long possessed a magnificent throne made of tusks of this cetacean. These tusks are harder and whiter than ivory.

Beavers Train Their Young.

Naturalists have placed the beaver a long way down in the list of vertebrates, but it undoubtedly stands next to man in the variety of occupations in which it engages. All cats are hunters, while foxes that are not thieves may be included also among the Nimrods. All canaries are prima donnas, and monkeys make clever comedians, but it is only the beaver parent that educates its children to take up several trades. In a single colony among them you will find civil and marine engineers, woodchoppers, raftsmen, laborers, quarrymen, miners, plasterers, masons, carpenters, hodcarriers and fishermen. All beavers take contracts for building dams, but when the work is undertaken the task is so divided that each member of the colony has its own particular work to look after. In this way they make some wonderful excavations and construct their dams in an incredibly short time.

Marry and Part For a Year.

Among the many peculiar customs prevalent among the people of Central America is that of parting for one year after the marriage ceremony has been solemnized. This custom has prevailed among the Jarnos from time immemorial. There is no courtship allowed to be carried on between the parties prior to the wedding. When a man selects a woman he obtains the consent of the parents on both sides, and if this is given they are at once married. The reason, however, for their not living together as man and wife for one year after marriage is in order to permit of the parties visiting and staying with their respective friends in different parts of the country, which is a customary thing and occupies the time specified. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of these marriages turn out well.

A Chance to Spoon.

A young couple from the suburbs went to Dublin the other day to see the pantomime. Being early, they visited a tea room and had the place all to themselves. The attending waitress had omitted in serving them to supply the necessary implement to effectually assist in the proper and palatable admixture of the tea, cream and sugar.

"Can we have a spoon?" inquired the swain.

"Certainly," replied the observant attendant. "I am just tidying up, and you can have the whole room to yourselves in a minute or two."—Liverpool Mercury.

Holding His Job.

"I think the man who works at that place across the street is the most faithful and conscientious workman I ever saw. He never takes a holiday and always labors away till it's too dark to see any longer."

"Faithful workman! Great Scott! He's the proprietor of the shop!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Fireside Diplomat.

"I don't want to be nagging at you," Mrs. Marryat began, "but it's the little things that bother me most"—

"Ah!" interrupted her husband sweetly. "I suppose you're going to tell me you haven't a decent pair of shoes."—Philadelphia Press.

Homemade.

"We are told to cast our bread upon the waters," said a young wife.

"But don't you do it," replied her husband. "A vessel might run against it and get wrecked."—Simplicissimus.

A Wrong Guess.

Botanical Youth (in park)—Can you tell me if this plant belongs to the arbutus family? Gardener (curtly)—No, young man, it don't. It belongs to the county council.—London Globe.

There may be other corns, but Holloway's Corn Cure stands at the head of the list so far as results are concerned.

THIS INDIAN MUST CERTAINLY HAVE BEEN AN IGNORANT ONE

"Is this Lindsay," Why I thought I was in Peterborough."

So said John Shippegan, an Indian, of Georgian Bay in police court today. The aborigine was picked up last evening by Constable Short. He had come in on the evening train and according to his statement thinking he was at Peterborough, jumped off. The Indian was just about the most surprised man in the province when he found where he was.

His story as told to Magistrate Jackson was that getting out of work at Byng Inlet he took a notion to go down to Peterborough in search of work.

"What tribe do you belong to" inquired the court

"Oh the Chippewas, I guess."

"Where do you live,"

"I don't live nowehre exactly, just hang around the Georgian Bay."

"You were drunk and incapable last night. Do you often get that way."

"Not very often. Sometimes I do," replied Mr Shippegan.

The Indian could not read but he understood English well enough to understand the Magistrate when he read him aportion of the act concerning Indians who took too much of the stuff that won't freeze.

"You were making for Peterborough. Was that where you were going," asked the Magistrate.

"Maybe I was, maybe I wasn't, I dunno," he said.

"That must have been prime stuff, you got," commented the court.

Shippegan got the firewater from a man at Byng Inlet—three bottles of it—and since Monday night had been hitting the high places.

Two dollars and forty-six cents costs was what he paid into the treasury this morning to allow him to proceed to Peterborough.

THE MILITIA MIX-UP

The recurrent question of military display at Quebec came up on Wednesday when the House voted supplies for the annual drill. It may be mentioned incidentally that this money for the annual drill might have been voted at any time previously and the militia drilled in June as in former years. But the tangle and indecision which have characterized the Quebec arrangements have also infected the arrangements for the annual training of the troops. The Militia Department being unable to make up its mind what to do regarding Quebec, could not make up its mind whether to drill the troops until it had made up its mind whether there should be a mobilization at Quebec. As the failure of the Quebec mobilization was blamed on the difficulties of transportation, the failure to proceed with the regular training was blamed on the alleged refusal of the Opposition to vote supplies. Mr. R. L. Borden punctured this latter excuse by volunteering to vote the supplies for training the militia whenever asked. As matters stand now some of the militia will be trained in June and the remainder, it is said, will be drilled in the fall.

As regards the Quebec mobilization, there is still another change of mind on the aprt of the department. First 30,000 were to go; then 20,000 were to go; then none were to go; then 5,000 were to go; then 10,000 were to go; now 12,000 are to go. As regards composition of forces there has also been another change. Instead of only the regiments going the permanent, some of the city regiments and one company from each of the rural regiments will also go, and to offset the expense of sending composite companies of rural corps, each regiment will only be allowed annual pay for seven out of eight companies, and the money thus saved will be devoted to sending a composite company to Quebec. When the Ministers are exhorted by the Opposition to ask for an additional vote and do the thing properly by mobilizing 25,000 or 30,000 troops at Quebec. They fall back on the old reason that the railways could not handle that many troops in addition to the 100,000 visitors expected. As to what cavalry and artillery are to take part in the review no definite arrangement seems as yet to have been made. Having started out with an idea which aimed, not so much at making the affair of military value, as to a politic effort to jolly every corps from Fort William to Halifax, the matter has been going from bad to worse. As is usual in such cases, it is ending up with pleasing nobody. The rural corps are becoming jealous and discontented because the the city corps are being preferred, when the former are the ones who do the real hard work in camp; then, as some city corps are now to be taken and others left, discontent is bound to ensue among the city corps themselves. Then naturally the cavalry, artillery and engineers will be disgruntled because they are out of the running with the infantry. At the time of the reviews at Quebec and Toronto in 1901, when the Prince was here before, there was no difficulty or discontent whatever. The general officer in command was not a soldier of pre-eminent capacity, but he was a soldier and he was in command. He simply ordered out a certain number of corps to complete the quota that the Government decided upon mobilizing. The corps so ordered stayed at home. There was not the slightest grumbling. It was order and it was obeyed. The same would have been the case in this instance had there been a responsible head to the militia. The system of commanding troops by syndicate has never been a success.—Ottawa Citizen.

POLICE ROUND UP FOUR ALLEGED PICKPOCKETS AT DRIVING PARK YESTERDAY

Were Arraigned in Police Court this Morning—Remanded for a Week—Photographed at Roy's Studio—One Objected to Having Picture Taken—Over Four Hundred Dollars Said to Have Been Found on Them.

The four alleged pickpockets arrested at the Exhibition grounds yesterday afternoon by Police Constables Newhall and Meharry were arraigned before Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning. They gave their names at George Williams, Henry Hamilton, Joseph Adams and James Graney. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on behalf of the four and pleaded not guilty to the charge of stealing two dollars from James Groves.

Chief Rosset was not ready to go on with the case and asked for a week's remand. Mr. Gordon objected to this, stating that the chief gave no reason why he wanted them remanded other than to write all over the country looking for records. His Worship said that it was customary to remand them, whereupon he did so until next Thursday morning.

CAME TO CITY ON G. T. R.

P.C. Newhall when spoken to by The Review this morning, refused to talk about the matter at all, saying that the whole story would come out at the trial. However, it is said by a well known citizen that the four prisoners were seen getting off the 11.45 train from Toronto yesterday. Immediately upon their arrival they separated in different directions. There was quite a large crowd at the station yesterday and the alleged pickpockets it is reported, followed up their commercial traveller is reported to have been robbed of twenty dollars. He left on the Port Hope trainbut he did not miss his money till he got to Millbrook.

The alleged crooks, it is said, operated on the street cars and in the immense crowds at the grounds. While it is not authoritatively known, a gentleman this morning stated that over four hundred dollars was found concealed in the prisoner's clothes last night.

SOMETHING ABOUT THEM.

H. R. Hamilton is the oldest of the four. He is short and his hair is quite gray. He is dressed in dark clothes and, it is said, that he is the leader. He denied knowing anything about the other prisoners. He is 38 years old and gave his address as 32 Ashburn St., Charlotte, N.Y.

Joseph Adams is 24 years of age and rather good looking. He is dressed in brown clothes. He said that he was a printer by trade and his house was 162 St. James street, Toronto.

George Williams is also 24 years of age and his home is at 360 Yonge St., Toronto. His occupation, he said, was a showman. He is fair complexioned and wears a light grey suit and black christie.

James Graney is 23 years of age and follows the vocation of horseman. His address is 11 Hartford St., Detroit, Mich. He is dark and wears a brown telescope hat. He said that he came to Peterborough on Monday night, on the C. P. R. from Toronto.

WERE PHOTOGRAPHED.

Handcuffed, the four were taken to Roy's studio where they had their photographs taken. They attracted a great deal of attention from the citizens as they passed through the streets. Their pictures, when finished, will be forwarded to Toronto and other places.

DIDN'T WANT PHOTO TAKEN

Williams objected strongly to having his picture taken. He made all sorts of faces and it was impossible to get a good photo of him. When he was being taken to the gaol he walked with his head down. However, Mr. Fred Roy surprised him. As they were going up Water St., Mr. Roy stepped from the Post Office and photographed him. He did the same thing at Brock St. and secured two excellent pictures of him.

NINE MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON

Man Sentenced at Cobourg Says He is from Peterborough.

Cobourg, June 16.—Police Magistrate Holland sentenced John Kelly and Edward Williams, convicted here of stealing a valise containing about $50 worth of clothing, including a clergyman's surplice, Bible, etc., the property of Rev. C. F. Clark, of Mabberley, to nine months in the Central Prison. The clergyman offered to give the men the Bible, but, having probably changed their minds about a preaching tour, they refused the offer. Mr. Clark left his valise at the north side of the T.G.R. station here and sat down to read, while waiting for his train. Missing his property shortly afterwards, he communicated his loss to Stationmaster Buck, who informed Chief Ruse. The men, who were hanging about a hotel were placed under arrest that same evening. Kelly gave his place of abode as Toronto, while Williams said he came from Peterborough.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

REPLY TO MR. ELLIOTT

Editor of the Review

Sir,—In reference to Mr. Elliott's letter in last night's Review I wish, on behalf of the 57th Band and Musicians' union, to emphatically deny the truth of the following statements therein contained;

1 That the 57th played for less than Union rates. This is absolutely untrue.

2 That none but members of the 57th Band are eligible for membership in the Musicians' Union. This is also untrue. Any qualified musician is eligible and as a matter of fact we have men in the union today who are not members of the 57th Band.

3 That we are trying to cruch out opposition is also in a sense untrue. Fair and square opposition is healthy at all times, and we are quite willing to take all of this variety that comes our way but the other brand don't go.

Yours very truly,
J. A. HARPER
Secretary of Musicians' Union.

REASONABLE REVIEW

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—As considerable exaggerated gossip is being circulated concerning the trouble arising from the fact that a quantity of wheat belonging to the Central Milling Co., was, at different times during the past months, taken from a car that had been standing on the siding near their mill, and was sold to two respectable south end residents, one of whom, Mr. Mober, was suspected of having known that the wheat was stolen and in consequence of which was brought up in court, a few words of explanation might prove to throw some light on the matter. Although a small fine was imposed on the latter, still considerable doubt exists in the minds of many as to whether he was guilty or not. Those who know Mr. Mober best entirely repudiate the idea of guilty knowledge, notwithstanding the fact that some damaging circumstantial evidence was brought forward, but we must remember that it was only circumstantial— there were no facts produced, and there were also extenuating circumstances which should not be lost sight of.

As near as I can understand the facts of the case are about as follows; On or about the 20th of May, the seal on one of the wheat cars was found to have been broken. On being weighed, the car was 41 bushels short. Suspicions were immediately fastened on those two citizens, who had both, a short time previous, delivered wheat at the mill. Those persons, on being interviewed, acknowledged having bought wheat from five boys who said they had got it at the spur line and that it was what is known as sweepings. The sweepings, they said, are usually dirty but when taken from the linings of the car they sometimes got as much as a bushel and a half of clean wheat, from one car, and that they had swept as many as ten or twelve cars in one day. In bringing this wheat, the evidence went to show, that each boy brought about a bushel at each trip. In selling to the livery men and others during the past winter, they had often got more more than that amount at one time, and not only boys, but also respectable men have taken a hand in the car sweeping business. So that we cannot be very much surprised that an unsuspicious person could be duped into believing that it was what they represented it to be. He had no reason to conclude they were lying. He had on one occasion last winter bought a small quantity of oat sweepings from those same boys. This, however, was the extent of his personal experience in this kind of business. He had, when engaged in the dredge near the spur line, during the past two summers, seen eight or ten bags of sweepings taken from there in one load.

To this we may add that those persons who bought and sold this stolen wheat made no effort to cover their tracks. They acted as any honest people would act in the ordinary routine of business.

When they got a few bushels together, they hired a carter not at an unseasonable or suspicious hour, but in broad daylight and had it taken to the elevator and sold there. How they knew or even suspected it was stolen one would have thought it not a difficult matter for either of them, but especially the one who was up in court, and who has any number of friends in the farming community to have procured a farmer's outfit and have sold his load as farmer's wheat. Again, Mr. Mober's action neither before nor after the trial seemed to indicate that the man carried with him a guilty conscience Until the eve of the trial we find him at his usual employment and the day after we find him there again, proving that a man with a clear conscience does not fear the searchlight of public opinion.

Again, if they knew it was stolen, they must have known that it was stolen from the Central Milling Company. If they knew it was stolen from said company and then took it back to them for sale, they were fitter subjects for a lunatic asylum, than for a prison.

And now to "cap the climax" when all has been settled we find that not only the wheat but also the bags in which it was taken to market, belonged to the Central Milling Co. Can we be surprised that Mr. Mober was deceived in regard to their ownership, when those men at the mill who are handling those bags every day did not recognize them. The company have, however, one satisfaction, if they had to pay a second time for their wheat, their bags returned free of charge.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
NEIGHBOR.

THAT BAND MIX UP

Editor of the Review

Sir,—I notice in last night's issue of the Review that even a "disinterested" outsider has time to worry over the troubles which unions and bands occasionally fall heir to and in reply to most of his accusations would refer him to my letter in another column. The statement that the 57th band has its printing done at non-union offices is untrue. All our stationary, etc, bears the union label. To give the lie to the assertion that the public are tired of hearing the 57th we refer "outsider" to the 3000 or 4000 people who assemble weekly at our band concerts.

The fact of the matter is that in "outsider" we have a cur of the yellowest variety—one who lacks the courage to write over his own signature but hides behind a non-deplume. If we mistake not this "outsider has derived considerable benefit from the Musicians' union which he so roundly condemns but as he hails from a county in that tight little island across the herring pond that is noted for producing more than its share of modern duplicates of Judas andd Ananias, we leave him to the fate which sooner or later ovovertakes all traitors and—to be parliamentary— people who disregard the truth,

Col. R. H. Sylvester, of the 45th Regiment, has received notice that a company of 43 men will be sent to the Quebec tercentenary from the 45th Regiment. This company will be a composite one, that is the men will be picked from the various companies in the regiment. The captains will probably make the choice of the men who will go. The company picked will, with companies from other regiments, form a composite regiment. — Lindsay Warder.

SUDDEN BATH IN THE RIVER

Boat Overturned as He Stepped Into it—A Fisherman's Luck.

This morning about 7 o'clock, one of a party of four young men, who were going down the Otonabee for a quiet fish, received a sudden ducking.

Near the street car wharf he was stepping into the boat, which had been engaged for the occasion from Rye's boathouse, when the craft overturned sending him into the water.

He was helped out by another member of the party and the fishing expedition was continued. From the fact of his early dip with all his clothes on, it would not be surprising if the young man referred to had caught a cold, though whether he or any of his three companions caught anything else, has not been reported.

AUSTRALIAN LACROSSE TEAM MAY TOUR THE DOMINION

It is understood that Mr. Richard Garland, late of Toronto, but now of Melbourne, Australia, who was instrumental in getting the Canadian lacrosse team, under Jno. C. Miller's management, to Australia, last summer, is now contemplating a visit to Canada by a picked Australian team.

Mr. Garland was in Toronto a few weeks ago and he then discussed the proposition, though as yet he has not taken any active steps. It is well known that Mr. Garland has it of an Australian team to Canada so that an Australian team to Canada will be assured. The proposed visit will not likely take place this year but it is a probability for the season of 1909.

The Australians play fast lacrosse and have learned something about the effectiveness of combination play since the visit of King Sohn's team, which carried all before it, but had a difficult task to win some of its best matches against a team picked from all lacrosse centres of that country. A picked Australian team would win most of its matches in Canada, though it would lose to our senior teams. They are very aggressive players, and have several men who could catch a place on any Canadian team. One of their men, Lou Humphries, of Adelaide, who captained the All-Australian team in all its matches against the Canadians last year, is equal to the best of the Canadians in the game here.

Mr. Garland's idea is to bring a team to Vancouver, and play Canadian teams from the Pacific to the Atlantic, spending considerable time in the principal centres of population. The team would then go to England, where it would meet English teams, and would return to Australia by way of Suez canal.

Canadian lacrosse men ought to get together and offer the Australians a good guarantee to get their team to visit Canada. All they need is a little encouragement. Regular international lacrosse matches between Canada and Australia would do much for the great Canadian game in both countries.

A despatch from Niagara-on-the-Lake says that owing to recent criticisms emanating from the Methodist conference and other sources, the canteen regulations in the military camp there are to be rigidly enforced this year.

A MATCH PROPOSED BETWEEN HURTUBISE AND KARAKANOFF

Mr. C. G. Graham, manager of Hurtubuise, has received a letter from W. B. Naylor, of Montreal, in which the latter speaks of a best two in three, catch as catch can match between Gene Hurtubise and Karakanoff, the big Turkish wrestler.

Mr. Graham stated to the Review this morning that he had not done anything definite in the way of arranging the match. He is going to Montreal to-night on business and will when there look into the matter of having it take place.

Karakanoff and Hurtubise, if they come together, should put up a great bout. The Turk is a bigger man than Rogers. He was recently defeated by the latter in Sherbrooke, Quebec, as will be remembered by local followers of wrestling.

He is very powerful and knows the game well. Gene, though, has learned a lot by reason of his last bout, and with a good experienced man to work out with, should be capable of giving the mighty son of Turkey the razzle dazzle of his life.

PEPPER TWINS MAKING A HIT

Lindsay Entertainers Who Are Well Known Here Getting Glad Reception.

The Chattanooga News has the following to say of the well-known Pepper twins, who are doing excellent comedy stunts in Tennessee:—

"The Pepper twins, of Lindsay, are a bunch of hot stuff. When they first appear in Dutch regalia it would make a pail of saur kraut take a back seat, and their songs from the "faderland," dancing and other Dutch delineations would make Bismark open his eyes. They close their turn in kilties, dancing the highland fling and singing popular Scotch airs. They are the ideals of the matinee girl, who think they are the cutest things in kilties that ever came from Bobby Burns' land."

FINAL GAME IN CHURCH LEAGUE

The final game in the Junior Church League will be played to-night at six o'clock at Riverside Park between St. Andrew's and the Y.M.C.A. Chieftains. The match should be a fast one, as both teams are playing nice ball. The game commences at six o'clock. Mr. R. H. Kenner will act as umpire.

T.A.S. PRACTICE

Every man on the T.A.S. ball team is expected to be at the field tonight at 6 30 for the final workout before the great game with the Strathconas on Saturday. No chances will be taken, as the team must win to keep well in the running and the very best nine will represent the red and black. The following are requested especially, to be out:—McFadden, Hayes, Doris, Derocher, Cahill, Delorty, C. Giroux, C. Lacombe, J. Corkery, J. Devlin, H. Quinlan, F. Whatley.

OUT OF WORK

The Cobourg Post says, "ball players out of work are very numerous these days Manager Mulhall has applications from no less than four this week." He had better sign them all for something terrible is in store for the Cobourgites next Saturday.

Y.M.C.A. baseball team are asked to be at the Nicholls Oval at 6.30 sharp tomorrow night for their game with the Wellingtons. All the men are asked to be on the grounds.

SPORTING COMMENT

The bout that has been suggested between Hurtubise and Karakanoff the Turk, should attract a big house if pulled off here.

The management of the Lindsay Free Press should put their present sporting edition on the Indian list as far as the handling of sporting dope goes.

On the bills of the Georgia Minstrel Company, the public are advised not to fail to hear Fred Simpson's Challenge Band. It is understood that the Fred Simpson referred to is not the famous runner, and the band is in no way connected with the Mississaugas.

LACROSSE

Charlie Querrie has signed Nattress of Port Hope. The new man can play inside or outside home.

Vancouver, BC. June 17—The Westminster lacrosse club has finally decided to send the local team East after the Minto Cup. The championship games are to be played on July 21 and 25th. No exhibition games will be played on the way down, but matches will be arranged for on the return trip. Several enthusiasts will accompany the team.

The YMCA lacrosse men are reminded of their practice at the Riverside park grounds on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Both seniors and juniors are asked to turn out.

FOOTBALL

GAME TO-MORROW NIGHT.

The Havelock football team will meet the Y.M.C.A. eleven at Riverside Park to-morrow evening at 6.30 o'clock. The railroaders are coming up strong and are looking for a victory. They will be opposed by a strong team. The admission to the match is only 10 cents and there should be a large attendance. The game will be a fast one.

NEITHER TEAM COULD SCORE

Oshawa and Bowmanville Played Tie Game in the Midland League.

The second game in the Midland Football League was played in Oshawa Saturday afternoon with Bowmanville as their opponents. The first game played in Bowmanville, was a draw, neither side scoring. As the winning team in this section play in the finals against the winners in the Peterborough district both teams had put in some hard practices and strengthened their forces since the last game. In the first half play was about even both teams rushing the ball on goal but the shots either went wide or are arded out by the backs. Neither side was able to score. The second half was a repitition of the first and at full time the score stood 0—0. Bowmanville forwards played a better combination than their opponents but were checked too close to score. It would be hard to pick the best players of be hard to pick the best players on the Bowmanville team, as all played good fast ball. Dr. J. C Devitt of Bowmanville acted as referee and as a result made the boys cut out rough work and play a clean game. Doctor is one of the best authorities on association football in Eastern Ontario and always gives good satisfaction when he handles the wistle. As the teams are still a tie another game will be played on the High School grounds, on Saturday, June 20 at six o'clock. This game will be played to a finish.

Bowmanville lined up as follows;

Goal, G James, Cap.

Backs, Moore, C Higginbotham.

Half backs, A Brown, P Westlake, P Gimlet.

Forwards, E Sisson, C Adams, R Trimble, M Bradley, C. Mason.

TENNIS

THE COST OF FIRES

The fire losses in the United States and Canada during the year 1907 averaged sixhundred thousand dollars per day for every one of the 365 days. The recent fire in Chelsea, Mass., looked big to the people who saw it, but if the loss be figured at $12,000,000 it only represented the regular steady never-let-up loss of any twenty days in the year that you choose to select. In other words, we have one Chelsea fire every three weeks, right straight along. What are we going to do about it?—Fibre and Fabric.

FIRE ESCAPE THAT SHOULD BE EFFECTIVE

"Cement Age" Describes One That Appears to Have Many Good Points, Especially for Public Buildings.

A novel type of building construction as applied to that class of structures adapted to house great assemblies of people and especially to safeguard school children and their teachers against constant peril from both fire and panic, is described in the fire-proofing number of Cement Age, New York.

The central idea embodied in the plan presented for school buildings, is to form, centrally, within the walls of the building structure, a fireproof place of refuge, which shall be instantly available through fire doors within its walls connecting directly with every floor and its series of rooms, and which shall have sufficient capacity to temporarily house and safeguard all the occupants of the building and from which by ample stairways they can leisurely wend their way to the outer air through a protected causeway in the basement, unhampered by fire, smoke, or even undue heat.

While the saving of human life is the primary object of this novel feature in building construction, a secondary object of great significance to fire departments and to the public generally, is the ready access afforded and the means employed for fighting the fire centrally, and at close range, without in the least imperiling the lives of the firemen.

A third feature of much incidental value lies in the direct access which the citadel gives to every room in the building, and their inter-connections, and especially its value as a means of ingress and egress of the pupils, without in the least disturbing the occupants or recitations in any of the other rooms in the building.

The citadel proper save for numerous fire-doors connecting with each floor and basement causeway, is a closed and independent structure resting on its own foundations and extending from basement to roof, which is capped and fireproofed, presenting no opening save for firemen's use and for artificial ventilation.

It is provided with floors inter-connected with stairways, which floors are coincident with those of the building proper, and are rigidly secured to the inner walls of the citadel.

This citadel, in structure, may be of brick or reinforced concrete and may be of any desired prism and of dimensions suitable for any special requirement. Being a closed structure and absolutely fireproof, no fire can originate within its walls, nor can fire and smoke enter from without, as no draft can be created in either direction, except voluntarily through artificial means. However, under normal conditions an electric fan or blower in the dome of the roof, will serve for purpose of ventilation.

The immediate space between the walls of the citadel and the outer building serves the purpose of continuous connection of every school room with all the fire doors, while the space is aptly located for lockers, cloak rooms, closets, etc.

MR. HENRY W. KING, TORONTO.

Mr. Henry W. King, who has been connected with the Zam-Buk Company—C. E. Fulford, Limited —for a number of years, has resigned his position as manager for Canada, to take up the position of Secretary-Treasurer with the Dr. T. A. Slocum Limited, having acquired an interest in the company.

The Dr. T. A Slocum, Limited and their president, Mr L. B. Levee, are to be congratulated on their success in securing the services and interests of Mr. King, especially at a time, when their business is undergoing considerable change and expansion. Mr. King is well known in advertising circles, and carries with him to his new position the good wishes of the firm he has left and the large number of business friends who have made his acquaintance.

For the present Mr H W King, will devote a great deal of time to the preparation of copy in connection with an extended advertising scheme, the company has under consideration for Psychine and its other preparations.

The Dr T. A. Slocum, Limited, have outgrown their present quarters and are compelled to find more accommodation to enable them to cope with their rapidly increasing business—to which has been added the 7 Sutherland Sisters' preparations—are erecting a four storey brick building on the corner of Spadina avenue and Phoebe street. The building will be erected in modern style and complete in equipment, and will cost about $30,000.

IMPROVED SEATS FOR THE SCHOOLS

Adjustable seats and desks are coming on the market for schools. They can be raised or lowered to suit the pupil, thereby checking the habit which becomes a slight deformity or ailment. Boys during school time form slovenly habits, lolling, which they also practice elsewhere. While walking they stoop, and while halting they drop into a slouchy form—seeming very tired or lazy. There is really no excuse for the habit becoming a deformity. Teachers should try and check it. A word of warning by them once a week might have the desired effect. With few exceptions the school boy entering a place of business instinctively flops against the counter and tangles his legs, apparently paralyzed.

The Mississippi river, which has been steadily rising for the past three weeks, has reached a stage of 33.7 feet at St. Louis, almost four feet above the danger line and the levee is completely submerged.

PROMPT PAYMENT

Peterborough, Ont., June 12th, 1908

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Globe Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,879 Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 1 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and presented us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,
Canada Flakes Co., LIMITED.

JUNE

Now they begin,
To buy frock coats all silk or satin lined
And tailors grin;
Because a man in love is always blind
And does not know
That forty bucks, e'en on a two month's note,
Is too expensive for a wedding coat.

He orders too
Fine trousers of a light and fearsome gray,
With stripes of blue,
And patent leathers wonderfully gay,
And wears a smile,
When he digs up eight dollars at one blow,
To buy a hat—a topper, dontcheknow

He tries to get
Accommodation down at old Quebec,
It's hard, you bet,
But he and she would like to rubberneck,
At things, by Jove,
And so he pays large monies in advance,
The Chateau says it is his only chance.

A sunburst he
Secures to give the lady of his heart,
Oh, holly gee,
The cost of it would make a broker start,
And wipe his brow,
He gets the very finest in the city,
And what that merchant does—
Well, it's a pity

And fancy truck,
Like rings and brooches for the bridesmaids fair,
—They are in luck—
The ushers, too, get necktie pins to wear,
One bank account
Goes down like snowbanks in the summer sun,
Oh, getting married is a lot of fun.

It is understood that a handsome cottage will be built just inside the gate leading into the park. The caretaker will be appointed at an early date.

CHICAGO DESPATCH SAYS THAT TAFT WILL BE THE MAN

Reported What He Will Have the Convention on First Ballot—The Republican Platform.

TAFT NOMINATED

(Special to J. N. Barber)

Chicago, June 18.—Flash—Taft received the Republican nomination this afternoon.

Special to the Review

Buffalo, N.Y., June 18—A News special from Chicago says "It is Taft today on first ballot. Long ago the President predicted seven hundred votes for the secretary and it is seven hundred and five for good measure. No one has a lead for vice-president and it is idle to guess about the winner. New York can have it but must drop Hughes. It may be too late after the ballot for president."

Chicago, Ill., June 18—The injunction of the Republican platform as allotted by the committee on resolutions is as follows, "The Republican party will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, state and federal, and will ever insist that their powers to enforce their process and to protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate. We believe however, that the rule of procedure in the federal courts with respect to the issuance of the writ of injunction should be more accurately defined by statute and that no injunction nor temporary restraining order should be issued without notice except irreparable injury would result from delay in which case a speedy hearing thereafter should be granted."

This is considered a victory for the Taft forces.

UPS AND DOWNS OF THE CYCLIST

Inoffensive Citizen Had His Troubles---Nearly Lost His Watch.

The cyclist has his troubles. Riding on the right side of the road an inoffensive citizen was pedalling along, when he was rammed into by a speedy one coming around the corner. Our friend was bowled over in good shape. Picked himself up and returned to the house to dust off. While renovating he found he had no watch. Returned to the scene of the spill and found his watch lying on the street in the dust. A passing rig had just missed it. Is now looking for the man that ran him down in order to run him up.

TWO CURIOS FOR THE MUSEUM

Presented by Mr. C. R. D. Booth of Apsley---Proof of Beavers in that Township.

C. R. D. Booth, of Apsley, who is at present attending the June session of the County Council, has presented the Victoria Museum, through Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers, with a section of a young tree, which, when it was a tiny sapling, had been tied in a knot. Such an unusual thing as a tree continuing to grow under these circumstances makes this specimen a curiosity. Another specimen presented by Mr. Booth is a piece of birch tree, probably eight inches in diameter, which had been gnawed through this year by a beaver. It is chiefly valuable as evidence that beavers are still in existence in Apsley.

That is What Hyomei Will do in All Forms of Catarrah and Troubles of the Breathing Organs

It's not a question of Hyomei having cured some one else, but will it reach your own particular case. If its Cold in the head, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Croup or any affection of the breathing organs, W. Madill, druggist, corner of Hunter and George street, Peterborough, says yes, and will refund the money if it fails. No other preparation for the same purpose can successfully do this, because the Hyomei system of treatment is different from anything else.

You simply breathe and inhale its medication in dry air from which destroys the germ life that causes oppressed breathing. Nasal Catarrh, Throat Irritation and Lung Troubles. It brings to these suffering organs the balsam laden air they would get in the Pine and Eucalyptus forests. The air that stamps out Bronchial troubles.

THIS HORSE WAS PERSISTENT

A runaway with some features occurred on Charlotte street this afternoon. A horse attached to a buggy was standing in front of a grocery store and became frightened at a piece of paper being blown into its face. It immediately tore up the street towards the G.T.R. station but was stopped by a young man who ran out and caught it by the bridle.

After he had stopped the horse he got into the buggy and was driving back, not paying much attention to the horse or to keep a tight rein on the animal when it suddenly bolted and commenced to run again giving him such a ride that his hat was shaken off and went onto the road. It was stopped again however, and the equipment handed over to its owner.

THE DEATH OF W. COULTHARD

Demise of One of Oshawa's Most Prominent Citizens --- Was Father of Mr. A. G. Coulthard of Colonial Weaving Co.

The following despatch has been received telling of the death of Mr. Walter Coulthard, of Oshawa, father of Mr A. E. Coulthard, of the Colonial Weaving Company:

Cobourg, June 17— After an illness extending over a period of about five years, Mr Walter Coulthard, a prominent citizen and retired manufacturer of this town expired at his home here last night, in his 80th year. Mr. Coulthard was born in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, and came to this country with his parents when quite young, and settled at Manila, in the northern part of this county. He moved to Oshawa in 1875 and entered the manufacturing business, first with the Masson Manufacturing Co. He later founded the Coulthard and Scott Company, Limited a firm widely known throughout Canada as manufacturers of agricultural implements. This firm did a successful business for many years, and finally about six years ago, sold out to Frost and Wood Company of Smith's Falls, who after continuing the business for a couple of years here, amalgamated it with their own plant. Mr. Coulthard always took a keen interest in politics, being a strong Conservative. He was also a great worker for the benefit of the town, and served in nearly all positions of honor on the town council, being Reeve for a period of sixteen years. He also served many years on the county council, and was elected Warden in the year 1899. He leaves a family of six daughters and three sons, all of whom, with the exception of one daughter, are married, the sons and sons-in-law are all prominent business men in the different towns and cities in which they reside. The surviving members of the family are, Mrs Ed Armstrong, of Whitby; Mrs George Thompson, of Cobourg; Mrs George A. Somerville, of Toronto; Mrs C W Scott, of Toronto, Mrs. D T. Hepburn of Wingham, and Miss Coulthard, at home; Mr A E Coulthard, of Peterborough; Mr W W Coulthard of of Barrie; and Mr Arthur Coulthard of Oshawa.

The funeral will take place on Friday.

A REPLY TO MR. McMURDO.

To the Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir, — In your issue of Saturday June 6, you publish a quotation from Mr. McMurdo, in which he relates an incident where an alleged Christian Scientist got up in a rage and said that "the blood of Jesus Christ is no more than the blood of a bull"

As the gentleman does not give the name and date, it is not within my present privilege to verify the statement, and perhaps verification is not important, but I would most earnestly condemn this sort of practice and teaching. Consistent Christian Scientists would not be enraged over so trivial a matter to say the least.

Again, the declaration is certainly misleading. While Christian Scientists do not recognize that the efficacy of the Master's sacrifice consisted in matter, they none the less place due value upon this sacrifice, for in addition to our Saviour's manifestation of his unbounded love for mankind there is this to consider; that he thus proved certain facts concerning God and the relationship between God and man which mortals need to know in order to follow the Scriptural teaching, "Work out your own salvation."

Christian Scientists believe that our Lord's experience, including his death and resurrection, was essential to the salvation of the world though they may differ from some other Christians in their belief as to what these experiences mean to the Christian and how they are to benefit him.

Yours sincerely,
ALFRED FARLOW.

Considerable Color in an Advertisement in a Lindsay Paper.

The following correspondence from Reaboro appears in the Lindsay Warder:—

June 17.—Do you want to see the famous Kirkfield lift-locks? Do you want to spend the long day through on the water with the blue sky above you, the blue waves beneath and the inimitable Kawartha scenery around you? Do you want to convince your Madonna you love her truly? Here's your chance. On Thursday, June 25th, the Reaboro Baptist and Union Sunday schools will run a lift-lock excursion to Kirkfield per steamer Kathleen, leaving Lindsay at 8.15 a.m., arriving at Kirkfield about 12.30 or 1 p.m., staying at Kirkfield about one hour, and then returning to Lindsay. Fare, adults, 50 cents; children 30 cents. The long sail on the water, the congenial companions with whom you will have sweet intercourse, the sights to be seen along the way and at Kirkfield, all these things will combine to make the 25th of June a red-letter day in your career. And you will come home believing that after all this is a big, beautiful world, and that it was good for you to have been born.

A gambling den on West 43rd St., near Broadway, New York was raided by the police, and twelve persons arrested all in evening dress. The place is said to have been patronized by guests of several hotels.

The Manitoba Methodist Conference has recorded a vigorous protest against agricultural fairs becoming a gaudy framework to hide the doings of a gang of gamblers and crooks who follow the crowd from fair to fair. A recommendation that all such be deprived of provincial and municipal support was referred to a committee.

THE PLUNDERBUND AT OTTAWA THE DAILY ROUND OF SCANDALS

Almost Beyond Belief—Sarcastic Remarks of a Liberal Judge and a Liberal Prosecutor—The Last Semblance of Government and Administration Vanishes—At the Mercy of Tiberius.

Ottawa, June 16.—Before the Cassells enquiry into the Marine Department this morning John P. Northey, said he was one of the three who formed the Canadian Fog Signal Co. in 1902. Probably forty-three diaphones had been supplied to the Government. They made a profit of $70,000 a year, but he claimed there was a loss on the plant. The cost of a diaphone was $600.

"Our total profits on what I was supplied to the Government was 9 percent.," said Mr. Northey, in reply to Mr. Watson.

Mr. Northey said he got the patent without any expenditure, but by reason of royalties. There was no cash investment in the company. He could not tell how much he got out of the company during the last year and a half.

MIGHT BE $50,000.

It might have been $50 000. He could not say within $5000, $10,000 or $20 000. Neither could he tell what profit had been made out of the Marine and Fisheries Departments. The books would show.

"That is the queerest thing in the world to me," said Mr. Watson. "You, a sharp, accurate, shrewd business man, and cannot tell within $20 000 what you received."

"You have so much money that you cannot keep track of it," remarked Judge Cassels.

Mr. Northey said he might have received $150 000 within the last five years.

GOT $20,000 IN DEPT.

"I see from the ledger that on September 3, 1906, that you got $20,000 cash dividends, $8,000 in March, 1907, and $20,000 in September?"

"Yes."

"That is about $50 000 in one year?"

"Yes."

"And your partners, Mearns and Forbes, drew the same proportion?"

"Yes."

"That was on profits on goods supplied to the Marine and Fisheries Department?"

"Yes."

"No other business?"

"No."

VERY PROFITABLE BUSINESS

"There is no other such profitable in the country, I should think. Why do you charge such prices to the government?"

"I suppose because the government is willing to pay."

"Because you can get it?"

"Yes."

"And you make the most you can get?"

"That is the usual way in business." (Laughter.)

"And your are making $70 000 a year profits?"

"Why not."

JANETVILLE CITIZENS FINED; ABUSED A RELIGIOUS SECT

The Lindsay Warder says.—There was a legal case up before the magistrate at Millbrook yesterday afternoon which is of some local interest. Some time ago the Warder printed a newsy item from Janetville which told of the strange doings in that burg. It stated that the followers of a new belief calling themselves "The followers of Christ," were holding street corner meetings and that to many their belief appeared the true belief. As a result harsh things were said of the citizens and hard feelings arose between several residents. Family troubles arose, and in fact there were ecumenical disturbances.

The result was that on one stilly night a number of the residents proceeded to make things unpleasant for the followers of Christ and rotten-egged them while they were on their way to Fleetwood.

As an outcome of this unlawful outbreak, Mr. Vincent Wetherup, of Janetville, laid a charge against Gill, Wm. McGill, Stanley McGill, Messrs. O. McGill, J. Walker, J. McJohn Sanderson, Allen McGill, Birk McGill and several others.

The case came up before the Justices of the Peace at Millbrook yesterday and after taking most of the evidence, the case was dismissed and a charge of common assault was laid against the young fellows. The accused pleaded guilty and they were fined five dollars and costs each and were bound over to keep the peace for a year.

FARMERS INSTITUTE HAS MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The annual meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held in the Council Chamber last Saturday afternoon. There was a good attendance of farmers interested. Discussion was entered into as to how to improve the Institute's work and influence in this district.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Pres.—Mr. J. N. Telford.

Vice-Pres.—Mr. J. H. Garbutt.

Sec.-Treas.—Mr. Wm. Collins.

The old Board of Directors was re-elected.

Mr. W. Collins was unanimously appointed secretary-treasurer.

The report of the Executive Committee, the financial statement and the auditors' report were presented by Mr. Collins, and adopted, and were as follows:

GENERAL REPORT.

To the members of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute,—

Gentlemen:

On behalf of the Executive Committee I beg leave to submit to you for approval the nineteenth annual report for the financial year ending May 30, 1908.

Our regular meetings were held in December, 1907, at Ennismore and Lakefield and were well attended. The delegates were—at Ennismore, Messrs. Raynor, Drury and Dr. Annie Backus. The latter organized a women's institute with 32 members. The attendance at our meetings was 42 in the afternoon and 350 in the evening. Nine addresses were delivered at the two meetings at Lakefield, with the same speakers. We had also Mrs. Colin Campbell of Clinton, who took the place of Dr. Backus. We had a good attendance, 65 in the afternoon and 350 in the evening and seven addresses were given. The supplementary meetings were held in January. The speakers were Messrs. J. N. Paget, of Canboro, and J. G. Cornell, of Scarboro. The first meeting was held at Lakehurst in the afternoon with 32 in attendance, and three addresses were given. At Hall's Bridge, Buckhorn, in the evening, four addresses were delivered to an attendance of twenty. The next afternoon a meeting was held at Selwyn, with 15 in attendance when two addresses were delivered, while in the evening three addresses were given to an audience of 40. The next meetings were held at Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, with an audience of 35 in the afternoon and 80 in the evening, three addresses being given at each session. The next day at the hall on the fourth line of Smith we had 23 in the afternoon and 80 in the evening with three addresses at each. The following afternoon a meeting was held at Peterborough, when we had an additional speaker, Mr. Reynolds of Scarboro, and an attendance of only 25 but three addresses were delivered. In the evening, and a stormy one at that, we went to the Townhall in North Monaghan where we had 30 in attendance, four addresses being given.

Now, while we had in the delegates first-class good and practical speakers, we fail to see why we do not get a better attendance of the farmers, to receive instruction from those who are sent to speak to them of their own interests and to discuss with them the most practical and up-to-date matter of handling the farm and the live stock, and it is also surprising to find so many who even come to our meetings but who will not pay a paltry 25 cents to become members when by so doing they would be entitled to receive copies of all the valuable reports and bulletins published by the Department of Agriculture.

Now, your executive would advise dropping out some of the meetings formerly held at some points where the attendance does not warrant the holding of meetings.

We ran our usual excursion to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph this year on June 11.

Now, in conclusion, I might say that we must get out of the old rut, as our membership, during the past year has decreased. I think farmers' clubs should be formed in at least every place where meetings are held, and I also think we should have a two-days' meeting at some central point where we could have some live stock, so that we could have a judging class. It might also be well to have a seed meeting. At any rate, we must make some effort to keep up the interest which appears to be lagging and we think our large Board of Directors could one and all do a little more to help us along by each helping in his own locality to secure some new members, as it is only by united effort that we can reach a good record membership.

WM. COLLINS,
Secretary.

Peterborough, June 80, 1908.

GENERAL BUSINESS

On motion of Messrs. Mann and Stewart, the Selwyn meetings will be dispensed with owing to the lack of interest taken and the small attendance.

On motion of Messrs. Garbutt and Galvin, the regular meetings next winter will be held at Lakefield and Ennismore.

A vote of thanks to the City Council for the use of the buildings and to the press for the many courtesies was adopted on motion of Messrs. McGregor and G. W. Mann.

"BELCHASSE" HAS BEEN OPENED FOR SEASON

Mr. H. LeBrun and Party Leave on a Fishing Expedition to Stony Lake.

It is just about as well to be born lucky as rich. Among the lucky ones are those who received an invitation from the genial Harry LeBrun to share in the pleasures of his summer home, "Belchasse," at Stony Lake. This morning Mr. LeBrun and seven others, all members of the Ketcheecum Hunt Club, left for "Belchasse," where the party will be for eight or ten days. This is not the formal opening of the cottage for the summer, but just an extra, and marks the beginning of the lawful fishing season. The party includes a couple from Chicago, two from Montreal, and the balance are not new — only lucky. All are more or less expert anglers and the strings of fish will tell the tale. "Bel-chasse," it may be explained, means good hunting and in this instance will be stretched to include good fishing. The June expedition has been the regular thing for the last five years and may now be looked on as an annual affair, longed for by those fortunate enough to participate. News may be expected from the scene of operations as soon as the party arrive and get their boats and lines out, and gifts of fine fat maskinonge will be in order, as it is well known that there are in the lake as good fish as ever were caught.

Applied Yesterday to the Management of Cole Bros. Circus---A Couple Were Taken On.

The circus management were besieged yesterday by an army of the unemployed. Over a hundred men from this city asked the management for work yesterday, and say they were willing to accept employment in any department where they could do the work.

A couple were taken on, but as the various positions on the circus staff were already filled, the large majority of the applicants were not engaged.

SLIPPED IN LIFT LOCK ARCADE

Horse Had Right Hind Leg Broken and Had to be Shot.

While going through the arcade at the Lift Lock on Tuesday evening, a horse belonging to one of the Free Methodist ministers slipped and fell, breaking its right hind leg near the hip. Dr. Johnston was called, but nothing could be done for the injured beast, so it was ordered to be shot. A man was sent over and the horse was killed. It was a valuable animal and its unfortunate accident caused a heavy loss to the owner.

NO SOLDIERS FROM ST. KITTS

19th Regiment Will Not Send a Company to Quebec.

St. Catharines, June 17.—It is hardly likely that the 19th Regiment of this city will take advantage of the Government's offer to take one company of that corps to Quebec for the tercentenary, and it is said that other regiments, which have been similarly dealt with, will also refuse to send a company. The trouble here is that as the whole regiment expected to go, a good many of the men will have to be disappointed, or rather than disappointing any, it is thought none will go. Some time ago, when uncertainty existed as to what the Government would do in the matter, the regiment held a meeting, and by a vote decided to throw up the trip altogether.

DRAWING IN HAY IN WEST ONTARIO

A Particularly Bountiful Harvest is Looked for---Crops Never Were Better.

Mr. W. A. Edwards, of the Crystal, says the harvest in Western Ontario this year will be a very bountiful one. The growing conditions there this year have been excellent.

He saw the farmers between Berlin and Preston drawing in their hay and states that a splendid yield is looked for in the different grains. In fact the harvest season will be one of the best in the history of Western Ontario.

CIRCUS PLEASED THE PUBLIC

Cole Bros. Were Welcomed with Good Crowds at Both Performances.

The circus has come and gone after giving two performances here yesterday—in the afternoon and at night. The show is not a mammoth one, but those who attended it were well satisfied. Aerial work is thrilling and original and all of the schooled performed gracefully on their several appearances in the ring. Many of the platform features were clever and daring and the artists were given liberal applause.

Cole Bros. band is certainly a fine one and lent much effect to the different proceedings.

A good sized crowd saw the show at both performances.

THIS IS YEAR OF ECONOMY SAYS THE HON. MR. PUGSLEY

Several New Military Projects in Ontario Struck Out—Mr. Foster Criticizes Methods of Finance Minister—Reserves Drawn Upon to Supply Banks.

Ottawa, June 19.—Most of yesterday in the Commons was devoted to Mr. Fielding's bill to authorize a certain issue of Dominion notes, and it was finally passed.

The action of Finance Minister Fielding in drawing upon reserves to furnish banks with $5,000,000 with which to move Northwest crops last fall, was vigorously criticized by Mr. Foster and other Opposition members. who objected, not to the doing, but to the method of doing.

Mr. Fielding stated that the entire $5,315,000 advanced had been repaid within the appointed time. The only expense being the commission of $1,500 to the Bank of Montreal.

Dr. Sproule criticised the method, but claimed that the Opposition were quite as willing to render aid to move crops as the Government, while Mr. Cockshutt said the whole proceeding revealed the weak position of the Finance Minister at a critical time. There should have been funds available. He was surprised that Mr. Fielding had not expressed regret.

"I will say that, under similar circumstances, I will do it again," declared Mr. Fielding, amid applause.

Mr. Cockshutt asserted that any banker who breaks into his reserve or makes false returns is put behind bars. The Finance Minister had set a dangerous precedent.

Mr. Oliver discovered in this financial legislation proof of the assertion that the Government is not only helpful in times of prosperity, but also when conditions are adverse. It was all right now to say that the Government played the part of thieves in taking the money from the reserves, but it was necessary.

"We can say to the country," said Mr. Oliver with warmth, "that if the Opposition should come into power and such conditions should arise, they would not meet it."

Mr. Fielding's bill to authorise the issue of Government annuities for old age was also discussed in committee and stands for third reading.

The House got into estimates and passed a number of votes for public buildings in British Columbia and military buildings in Ontario.

Some of the military items caused considerable discussion; in fact, after a week of peace, the members are getting into a fighting mood again.

Mr. Pugsley finally struck out several Ontario military buildings, saying the Minister of Militia thought he could get along without them and this was a year of economy. The list of buildings dropped included the new magazine at Kingston, veterinary hospital at Kingston, magazine and new gymnasium, London; additional stores buildings, Kingston, and gun and wagon sheds, Ottawa.

Mr. Pugsley promised that if two more items were allowed to pass he would consent to adjournment, but on the Opposition agreeing the Minister asked for a few more votes. This precipitated a lively discussion.

Before the House rose at midnight all the Ontario public buildings' votes were passed.

NEW RATES FOR FORESTERS COMPROMISE MAY BE REACHED

Toronto, June 19.—Rates was the great question before the Foresters yesterday, W. H. Hunter, supreme counsellor, presenting the report of the committee of 25 appointed to deal with it.

The rank and file of the members appear to have lost sight of the assessment system of life insurance under which the order operates. Members have to pay what insurance costs, and if the level assessment paid monthly is not sufficient to meet cost it must either be raised or paid more frequently.

The present monthly assessment, according to the Government, the actuaries and the officials of the order, does not pay cost. As the extra assessment plan is generally recognized as inconvenient and undesirable, the rates must be raised. But the members appear largely to forget that if the rates are not raised extra assessments must be paid.

In order to let the older members down as easily as possible in the increase of rates several plans have been suggested. Three are before the supreme court in the committee's report.

The first is to re-date the members on the scale adopted in 1899 as at age of entry.

The second, the proposal of Mr. Stevenson, is to give old members credit for insurance for the amount their present premiums would entitle them, and for the balance of their policy charge them the rates now in force for the age which they have now attained. This is a compromise to enable members to retain their policies at present face values.

The third plan is simply to adopt the rates laid down by the insurance authorities, which experts believe will have to be adopted finally by all fraternal orders. With it goes the alternative of reducing the policy to an amount which the rate now paid would legitimately carry.

To all these plans the old members, who want something for nothing, strenuously object. They want to go on paying present rates and getting present benefits, forgetting that an assessment system means paying cost and increasing when necessary the number (or amount, if preferred) of the assessments paid.

All these points will be argued at length to-day.

Mr. Foster Denies.

Ottawa, June 19.—Hon. G. E. Foster, yesterday denied charges made against him in relation to the Foresters. Two specific charges he cited. "Mr. Foster used his influence as a member of Parliament to get lands from the Canadian Pacific." "He condemns the middleman, but he made a profit out of lands sold to his own company by the Roblin Government."

To both statements he applied the term "absolute falsehood." He had never bought a rod of land from the C.P.R.; for the second statement there was "no basis."

Mr. Foster also objected to a pamphlet entitled "Frenzied Finance and the Foresters."

This document, he said, was "almost diabolically concocted." It referred to nothing in his public life, but to his relations with the Union Trust Co. The statements in it were often true separately, but quite untrue as quoted; it contained also actual falsehoods.

He had no other way of meeting such tactics except by a protest in the House. He would send the document over to the Premier and appeal to him if it was a fair political practice.

THE METHODS ARE DILATORY

Complaint is Made that Patent Proposals Are Delayed.

London, June 19.—(C.A.P.)—In the Commons, responding to Joynson Hicks, who asked if proposals might not be made to the Canadian Government of the reciprocal character affecting the validity of the patents of both countries, Winston Churchill said the committee will, in accordance with the resolution of the Imperial Conference, ascertain the views of the self-governing colonies on the question of uniformity of the patent laws. In the meantime the Government could not approach a single colony.

Comments are made of the fact that the lapse of twelve months sees nothing done to carry out the conference's resolution.

Churchill denied the report that the Austrian Government is exhibiting in Vienna, 15,000 samples of manufactured articles in demand in Canada. The truth was that an Austrian merchant placed some samples in the commercial museum at Vienna.

Bank Man In Trouble.

Toledo, Ohio, June 19.—George C. Metzger, one of the wealthiest men of Toledo and president of the Broadway Bank, which closed its doors a few weeks ago, has been indicted by the grand jury on counts charging him with embezzlement and misappropriation of funds.

Laborer and Horse Drowned.

Woodstock, N.B., June 19.—Albert Sparrow of Newburg, a laborer on the C.P.R., near Lower Brighton, and a horse were drowned owing to the horse which he was driving backing over the steep dump into the river.

NOTHING TO INVESTIGATE

The Committee of Enquiry into Hodgins Charges Will so Report.

Ottawa, June 19.—The committee of enquiry into the Hodgins' charges by a vote of 3 to 2 will report that Major Hodgins has withdrawn his charges and there is nothing to investigate.

All yesterday afternoon the committee talked to little purpose. Haughton Lennox took the position that it was not a question whether Major Hodgins could make out a case. Hodgins was merely a witness. The point was, whether the contractors were being paid more than they should be paid.

Mr. Barker insisted that letters of Chief Engineer Woods of G.T.P. to Chief Engineer Lumsden of the N.T.R. containing charges of over-classification were sufficient upon which to go on with the enquiry.

Killed by Sulphuric Gas.

Raleigh, N.C., June 19.—Daniel Jones, Frank Spikes and Haywood Lee (white), all of this city, were killed yesterday at the Raleigh Phosphate Works, on the outskirts of the city, by the escape of sulphuric acid gas in one of the rooms. Three others were overcome.

Wife Killed Husband.

Little Falls, N.Y., June 19.—Martin Finn, a farmer, was instantly killed by his wife, Elizabeth, as he lay asleep in his home in Salisbury, N.Y., early yesterday. Mrs. Finn used an axe. Mrs. Finn walked to the home of her mother, a mile distant, where she drank paris green and chloroform. She probably will die.

THE PUBLIC WERE FLEECED PARTY FRIENDS ARE FAVORED

Marine Department Took $200,000 in That Way in Three Years—Col. Gourdeau's Evidence at Ottawa—Reckless Extravagance Charge—Judge Makes Severe Remarks—Commander Spain's Notebook.

Ottawa, June 19.—W. N. Noble, assistant commissioner of lights, startled the Marine Department investigators yesterday afternoon just before Judge Cassels adjourned the enquiry till Sept. 2.

When asked if he knew of any irregularity in the Department, he rather astonished everyone present by answering without hesitation in the affirmative.

Col. Gourdeau, the Deputy Minister, said Noble, through his (Noble's) immediate superior, J. F. Fraser, commissioner of lights, had sent him word that if he would not agree to certify to certain accounts he could send in his resignation. The dispute had arisen because of his refusing to certify that the price paid for certain goods, of which he did not know the origin, were fair and just. The matter was referred to Auditor-General Fraser, who suggested that Mr. Noble be supplied with a stamp marked "certified correct, prices arranged by Department."

Noble said that he had defied the deputy and since then the deputy had ignored him and he felt that Fraser had little use for him. Quite recently Mr. McPhail, a young man, had been placed over him as acting commissioner of lights. He had had no promotion or advance in salary for three years.

Mr. Noble said that he had in a general way complained to the deputy about extravagance at Prescott. The goods over which trouble occurred were purchased from George T. Merwin and from Brooks & Co. He had complained to Mr. Fraser that prices were excessive, and had also reported the matter to Mr. Owen, accountant of the Department. Mr. Noble said he had used the new stamp for six months. He considered that it relieved him of personal responsibility. The hint that he send in his resignation came when he had declined on Fraser's instruction to revert to the use of the regular stamp marked, "Prices fair and reasonable."

Noble said that he did not know of any misconduct on the part of Fraser, and he had no grounds to suspect secret relationships between him and people doing business with the Department.

When asked by Judge Cassels to give instances of extravagance at Prescott, Noble said that the whole system of new buoys was extravagant. A wharf and pier, which was unnecessary, had been built, likewise a $2,000 boathouse.

J. F. Fraser, who gave his main testimony earlier in the afternoon, was recalled. His explanation was that Noble had declined to certify to the price of goods delivered at Prescott, the origin of which he did not know. The arrangement did not prove to be satisfactory, and after consulting with the Deputy Minister, he told Noble to revert to the regular stamp and to satisfy himself as to the price of goods.

To Judge Cassels Mr. Fraser remarked that he would take the same stand again under similar circumstances.

"I think you would take a wrong stand," remarked the judge.

Fraser maintained that Noble had never been asked to certify as to prices when he could not conscientiously do so. He had no recollection of having told Noble that he could send in his resignation. Judge Cassels remarked that it seemed an absurdity that Noble should be asked to certify to prices when contracts were made and prices fixed by the powers at Ottawa. He subsequently remarked that it seemed to be largely a matter of discipline.

Mr. Godfrey submitted that as there had been so much delay and nothing had been proven against Mr. Fraser, Judge Cassels should suggest to Mr. Brodeur that he be reinstated. Judge Cassels said that it was not his place to do so, but gave Mr. Godfrey permission to say that there had been nothing proven against him.

Commander Spain was a witness yesterday morning and explained the refund of "traveling expenses" as having been due to overcharges made in error through the loss of his pocket-book memoranda. He had trusted to memory in making out his account, neglecting to refer to the attendance book, which would have set him right. Col. Gourdeau had not contributed a portion of the refund; his assistance had been to another matter.

Col. Gourdeau, on the stand, commenced by charging Commissioners Fysbe and Bazin with having shown animus against the Department.

Col. Gourdeau admitted that no proper order had been given for the Montcalm silverware. Mr. Prefontaine had given it. Asked why he had not detected overcharges, he retorted that it was not his business.

Retail prices had been paid by the Government for supplies owing to the system of patronage, but hundreds of cases of overcharging had been objected to and reduced. In the last three years he estimated that the Government had lost in the difference between retail and wholesale prices perhaps $200,000. It was a matter of policy, he said.

"A matter of election policy," commented the judge.

Disguise That Failed.

Port Huron, Mich., June 19.—Fleeing from Thedford, Ont., where he is wanted on a burglary charge, James Henry, an Indian, aged 32, blacked his face and thus disguised attempted to cross over into the United States.

He thoughtlessly neglected to blacken his hands and the Port Huron immigration officers placed the man under arrest.

FISHERY INSPECTOR WATT IS TO BE COMMENDED FOR GOOD WORK DURING CLOSE SEASON

The Fact That There Are so Many Fish Being Caught Now is Due to Quite an Extent to His Careful Watching During Close Season—Reported That Fish Under Regulation Length Are Being Kept by Trawlers.

The fishing in the Little Lake and Otonabee is very good this year. The 'lunge are biting in a way that is causing the greatest satisfaction to the many trawlers on the lake and river, and it is reported that the bass are also numerous for so early in the season.

Much credit is due Fishery Inspector Watt for the careful watching he did during the close season and it is doubtless due to quite an extent to his great vigilance in the critical period that the fish are so plentiful now.

He succeeded in getting four convictions and his seizures were four nets, two spears, six snares and six gaffs which show that the fishermen in his division were on fairly good behaviour. The fact that he was on the alert had the effect of making others with nets, snares, etc., hesitate to set them.

However, there are ways of violating the fishery laws other than by catching fish in the close season and it is said that undersized 'lunge are being taken out of the local waters.

Some that are caught, it is stated, are not more than 10 inches in length. At any time a very poor spirit of sportmanship is shown by those who neglect to throw back into the water fish that are under the regulation length, and this year when the fish are so plentiful the offence seems a particularly contemptible one. It might be stated that all lunge caught must measure 24 inches from the V of the tail to the tip of the nose and four is the limit that may be caught in a day by one person. Bass must be 10 inches in length and eight in a day is the largest number that any one person may legally catch.

ENGAGED BEFORE THEY HAD MET

Romantic Wedding of Wealthy Brandon Man to Ottawa Lady.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—

A wedding that was practically arranged before the principals had met each other was celebrated in Ottawa last evening when Mr. John Watson Brougham, a wealthy farmer of Brandon, and Miss Martha Malinda Clarke of this city, were united in wedlock by Rev. Dr. James Henderson, pastor of Dominion Methodist church.

Mr. Brougham had been a member of the South African Constabulary and passed through Ottawa some seven years ago when the contingent was going from Canada. At that time his bride to be, who is a daughter of the late C. A. Clarke, of the Post Office Department, was in Ottawa, but the couple did not meet. It was some time after Mr. Brougham learned of Miss Clarke through a mutual friend in Ottawa with whom he was corresponding. This friend made very favorable mention of the lady who was afterwards to play so important a part in the life of the patriotic wanderer.

Before long communications passed between Miss Clarke and Mr. Brougham and about two years ago the latter was so satisfied that he had found his affinity that he decided to return to Canada, marry, and resume his quiet agricultural pursuits in the west. In doing this he tore himself from a life he dearly loved and refused a promotion to captaincy which was offered to him.

Mr. Brougham on returning met his fiancee in Ottawa. He then went on to his estates near Brandon. In the last two years the affection between the lovers grew all the more.

The nuptial knot was tied last evening at a quiet ceremony in the parsonage of the Dominion Methodist church. Only intimate friends were present. The newly wed couple will leave shortly for the west. Mr. Brougham is a native of Scotland and is 35 years of age.

THE HOTEL FIRE MYSTERY MAN SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Sequel to Tillsonburg Holocaust When Three Lives Were Lost—Accused Alleged to Have Confessed—Had Threatened Revenge Against Landlord.

Tillsonburg, June 19.—Chester Buckborough appeared before Police Magistrate Hare yesterday, charged with setting fire to the Queen's Hotel, when three lives were lost. After the crown evidence was heard the young man was committed for trial. None of the defence witnesses were called, but the cross-examination of the crown witnesses revealed an intention to try to prove that the fire had not originated in the lower part of the house, as Mero claims, but in the third storey, and therefore could not have been started by the prisoner. The evidence given by the last crown witness made a commitment inevitable, however.

W. E. Barkey, electrician, on behalf of the crown, testified that he had wired the hotel in accordance with the rules of the underwriters, and was confident that it was safe. He had read about fires being started by defective wires, but had never had such an experience.

John Mero, proprietor of the burned hotel, told of having been wakened by his wife, had looked down the front stairway and saw the flames burst beneath the stairs. He escaped by the back stairs, and at the back door as he stepped out, he saw Buckborough a few feet distant in the passage leading to the street. The fire had originated under the front stairs, where the toilet paper was stored and where there was nothing kept that could cause spontaneous combustion. He had examined the electric wires and found them all right.

He had known Buckborough a long time, and the young man had been an annoyance to him and every hotel-keeper for fifteen years. Buckborough was on the "Indian" list, but came into the hotel occasionally and tried to get liquor. He had been put out of the house several times and had been arrested. Buckborough had called him vile names and threatened that he would get even with him. The back door of the hotel was not locked at night, and anyone familiar with the premises could get in.

Joseph Snowden said he was working in the livery barn the night before the fire occurred, and ran out to the street as soon as he heard the alarm. When he got to the hotel he saw Buckborough, to whom he said, "It looks as if the building was going up," and Buckborough replied, "Let the —— go." He and Buckborough were the only two persons on the street at the time.

Robert Hawthorne, proprietor of the feed stable in connection with the hotel, said that while the hotel was burning Buckborough came to his barn and said he had "got even with that cock-eyed ——."

Thomas Erley, veterinary surgeon, said he had conversed with Buckborough about Mero in the spring after Mero had put Buckborough out of his hotel, and Buckborough said he would get even.

Louis Swarts, an employe of Becker's livery, said that he slept in the office of the livery the night of the 19th, and when he went to sleep at 11 o'clock Buckborough was sitting in a chair at the foot of the couch. About 5 o'clock in the morning he was wakened by Buckborough, who said, "Lou, there is a fire." He got up and went to the door and then the bell rang. When he was up at 1 o'clock Buckborough was still in the chair and he thought Buckborough could not have left the barn without waking him.

Charles Crossitt said he talked to Buckborough the morning of the fire, and said to him, "This is a pretty bad thing," and Buckborough replied, "I did it." Crossitt then said, "You had better keep quiet," but told Chief Chilton what Buckborough had said.

Cross-examination did not weaken Crossitt's evidence, which completed the crown's case.

W. E. Kelly, the prisoner's counsel, claimed that there was no evidence that Buckborough was guilty and asked for his discharge, but the magistrate decided that he must commit. He would not consider the question of bail, leaving that to be dealt with by the county judge. Buckborough will be taken to the county jail to-day. A local subscription has been taken up for his defence.

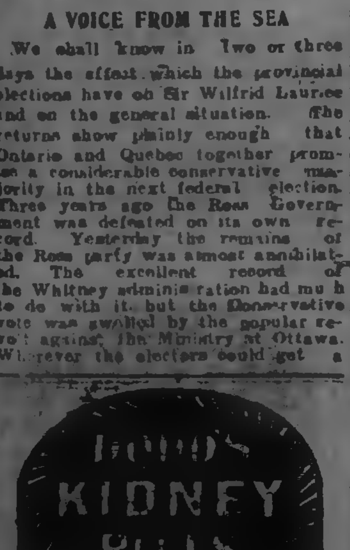
THE PORT OF MONTREAL.

We have received an elaborate "Report on British and Continental ports with a view to the Development of the Port of Montreal and Canadian Transportation," by George W. Stephens, President of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal and Fred. W. Cowie, BA., Sc., M. Inst. CE., chief engineer river St. Lawrence Ship Channel. The report sets out a complete scheme of development for the Port of Montreal as the great port of the Dominion on the Atlantic seaboard. This can only refer of course to a portion of the year. While Montreal is a credit to Canada or indeed any other country, we think that a port to be a true national port, should be open all the year round. No other entry can in our opinion qualify. Quebec it seems is on the border line, being by virtue of the ice-breakers a possible winter-port. Halifax, St. John and a few others are not only "possibles" but actual. Until these are developed and connected with the interior in some more reasonable way than at present we cannot look for greater things.

A VOICE FROM THE SEA

We shall know in two or three days the effect which the provincial elections have on Sir Wilfrid Laurier and on the general situation. The returns show plainly enough that Ontario and Quebec together promise a considerable conservative majority in the next federal election. Three years ago the Ross Government was defeated on its own record. Yesterday the remains of the Ross party was almost annihilated. The excellent record of the Whitney administration had much to do with it, but the Conservative vote was swelled by the popular revolt against the Ministry at Ottawa. Wherever the electors could get a



THE SORT OF GOVERNMENT CANADIANS HAVE AT OTTAWA

Yet the Opposition is Charged With Obstinacy—The Conservatives Have Saved the Country Millions by Their Determination to Investigate—Original Document Trouble Re-called.

"An intimation from the judge that owing to the revelations of exorbitant charges and amazing profits on diaphone fog alarms supplied to the government the patents may be cancelled and damaging evidence given by the auditor-general regarding business methods and doings there, were outstanding features of this morning's sitting of the judicial enquiry into the marine department. G. H. Watson, K.C., had several witnesses under fire.

Upon the resumption of the enquiry Mr. Justice Cassels referred to the grave state of affairs brought out in connection wiht the purchase of diaphones by the government. He stated that in the last three or four years diaphones and plant had been sold to the Government which had paid $500,000. The statement was made that of the total $150,000 had been for the diaphones and $350000 for the plant. Under the patent act the government had a right to ask that only a reasonable charge for this equipment should be made and if the company failed to do so the patent would be void. Under another clause of the act the government itself could do the manufacturing on paying a certain price. It had been shown that the diaphone selling for $1,600 cost to make only about $400. A 50 per cent profit would bring it to $600 and $100 might be added for royalty, making $700 in all. Fifty per cent. was a reasonable profit. All the government should have paid on this basis was $35,000. Instead of that it had paid $125,000. This may have risen from negligence or misconception. The judge concluded by expressing the opinion that the evidence touching on diaphones should be proceeded with and he desired to see the agreement as to the royalty and the terms of manufacture. The relative proportion of the total outlay applied to plant and to diaphone should be established.

Mr. Watson, K.C., agreed with the suggestion and said the books of the Canadian Fog Signal Company were in such a condition that nothing could be made out of them"—Ottawa Citizen.

Here we have a statement by a recent appointee of the Laurier Government. Mr. Justice Cassels concurred in by the Crown prosecutor. It is plain and direct but eminently unsatisfactory. "That the whole system of administration is "without conscience" is only too plain! Canadians have reason to blush at the type of Canadian representative life as exemplified at Ottawa. It begins to look as if the cycle of corruption had returned or is it that plundering of the nation by its representatives before they are compelled to withdraw from parliament? Sir Wilfrid Laurier cannot be held excusable. He is the head and front of government just as the president or general manager of a great railway is in that branch of business. But then we are told "the world has come to set up in a exacting standards of morality in politics and governmental relations than in ordinary matters" (The Examiner). Why look further for an explanation of the trouble?

good blow at a Federal Minister, they delivered it.

HARD ON FEDERAL MINISTERS

The Minister of Railways went down to lead the fight in his own city of Brockville, which he formerly represented at Toronto. His candidate was beaten by a majority of 500. Mr. Paterson went to Brant, an old Liberal stronghold, and both Brant ridings were carried by the Conservatives with large majorities. South Brant for the first time in forty years' provincial elections. Mr. Aylesworth hied him away to York, and not only his own riding, but the other two in the county were carried by the Conservatives, with an aggregate majority of 2800. Kingston, the home of Sir Richard Cartwright, which gave a large Liberal majority three years ago, and is represented in the House of Commons by a Government supporter, has gone Conservative by 400. All the Ministers did what they could in Ottawa, and in this city a Liberal majority of 400 has been changed to a Conservative majority of the same size, and only a division of the city into two ridings has prevented the capture of both seats instead of one.—Evening Mail (Halifax.)

EDITORIAL NOTES

The British preference operates to the injury of the Canadian pickle industry, it is claimed.—Galt Reporter. The next election will have the "Preference" for one of its issues.

Three seems to be a general desire on the part of American sportsmen to consider Longboat a professional. If he is one it is by misadventure and not deliberate. It is not likely that he will meet with much success in England. It is generally conceded that the English climate takes the edge off Canadian athletes.

The frequent occurrence of school disasters of late has induced some inventive genius to suggest a plan by which each school building shall be furnished with a cement chamber or hall extending from the top of the building to the bottom, into which the children go in case of fire and descend by an iron stairway at their leisure.

M. Lefort, secretary of the French Geographic Association, says the French must thank America for dance which gives breadth of movement and expands the chest and lungs and is now popular in drawing rooms. He says:

"We have now started a new dance called 'the wave,' more undulating and gliding than the Boston. These are great improvements on America's negro cakewalk, whose inexplicable vogue is now past."

The new route of the Canadian Pacific from Toronto to the West via Sudbury is destined to be of immense value to the capital of the Province. It is fitting, therefore, that the first train over it should be made up entirely of Toronto products.—Ottawa Free Press (Liberal.)

This is an unconscious attack on that heavily-subsidized monument of folly, the G.T.P. What the C.P.R. and C.N.R. are doing for nothing the G.T.P. requires untold millions for for doing. It is a great graft.

It is suggested that the health of the Liberal party in Ontario would be improved by a provincial convention. A convention might do good if it helped to concentrate the mind of the party upon some particular such as public ownership or prohibition, unless the party is willing to take advanced ground on some leading question and make it an issue, the advantage of the convention is not so apparent.—Toronto Star (Liberal.)

Let us hear from the Examiner now that it is not evident that the people of Ontario are a lot of common crooks in politics or religion either. Liberals are not in touch with their leaders and who could wish them to be?

Chatham, Ont, June 17— Indignant because the Dominion government has only invited one company from the 24th regiment to take part in the military display at the Quebec tercentennial, Lieut.-Col. J. R. Rankin, the officer commanding the 24th has sent his resignation to the militia department.

The regiment at Windsor has received an invitation for all its companies, and Col. Rankin thinks that the Kent regiment is, in comparison, well worthy of equal honor. The action of the government in thus discriminating is looked upon as a direct slap at the Kent regiment, and it is the subject of much adverse comment in local military circles.

There is universal anarchy at Ottawa.

The following recipe for diamonds, bears a striking resemblance to the Liberal pamphlet on "Government."

The Lemoine diamond case came to a sensational ending, with an unexpected climax this afternoon. Lemoine has fled, and his famous formula for the manufacture of diamonds is a fantastic farce.

Henry Lemoine is the Frenchman who was taken into custody a few months ago on a charge of having secured money from Julius Wernher, the English diamond merchant, on false pretences. Lemoine declared he could manufacture diamonds, and it is alleged that he secured a large sum of money from Mr. Wernher on this pretense.

Lemoine was released to give an opportunity to manufacture diamonds and make good his claim and he was to vindicate himself by exhibiting stones of his own manufacture. When the case was called in court Lemoine did not appear and it was announced that he had fled. In the presence of Mr. Wernher, the court then opened the famous envelope said to contain Lemoine's formula. The paper inside was read, but it contained only a jumble of fantastic and senseless phrases.—Exchange.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

Dr. Norman M. Geer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "During the last twelve years I have frequently recommended your Castoria as one of the best preparations of the kind, being safe in the hands of parents and very effective in relieving children's disorders, while the ease with which such a pleasant preparation can be administered is a great advantage."

An Anchor to Windward.

The solemn faced man who drove the stage between Willowby and Greenfield never lost an opportunity to display his knowledge to a new passenger, nor had he ever been known to suppress his opinion on any subject, no matter what it might be. "They tell me you're the man that wrote the story that's running now in one o' the big magazines. I forget which 'tis," he said one day to a cheery passenger who had been endeavoring to ask a few questions himself.

"I believe I am," admitted the gentleman.

"I've never turned my hand to writing," said the stage driver, flicking his horses in meditative mood. "No, sir, I've been too much took up with other things, but I read everything most. I was having a little talk with Bill Sears about you yesterday. We'd both been reading your last book before this new one. Now, do you rely entirely on what you write for a living?"

"Not entirely," said the author, with due humility.

"That's what I thought when I finished the book," and the stage driver looked kindly at the man of letters. "I'm real glad for ye that you've other means," he said benevolently. "Got 'em well invested, I expect, too. I told Bill Sears that was most likely the case."—Youth's Companion.

DEVONSHIRE'S TREASURES.

Pictures and Drawings at the Duke's Castle at Chatsworth.

The recent death of the Duke of Devonshire draws attention to his magnificent collection of pictures and drawings. The finest examples have been frequently exhibited, and more than one attribution has been questioned, the most important being the "Consecration of Thomas a Becket," ascribed to Jan Van Eyck, which is said to have been given to Henry V. (it should be Henry VI.) by his uncle, John, Duke of Bedford, Regent of France. This story is incorrect, for the Duke of Bedford died in 1435, and there is distinct proof that the picture in its present state was not painted before that date. The importance of the work was supposed to lie in the signature, which reads thus: "Johes De Eyck Fecit and MCCCC. 21, 30 Octobris." This inscription led certain writers astray, among them Crowe and Cavalcaselle and Mr. Weale. But Mr. Alfred Marks has proved to the satisfaction of Mr. Weale and others that the signature is a forgery, and thinks that the fraud was perpetrated with the object of foisting a picture on the Earl of Arundel, the greatest collector of his day, to whom it once belonged. Mr. Marks also declares that there is no reason to suppose that the Chatsworth painting represents the enthronement of Thomas a Becket. The picture is now generally supposed to be from the brush of Jan Gossart, who was born about 1470.

One of the treasures of Chatsworth is the famous triptych of Sir John Donne, 1468, by Hans Memling. The collection likewise contains a magnificent portrait of "Richard Boyle, first Earl of Burlington," by Vandyck, and the two hundred drawings in bistre touched with white of the "Liber Veritatis," made by Claude as a record, perhaps incomplete, of his pictures and their destination. This valuable volume was bequeathed by the great artist to an adopted daughter, "Mia Zitella," for life, it afterwards to remain in his family as an heirloom. Cardinal d'Estrees tried to induce the painter's grandsons to part with it, but they would not sell it at any price. Their successors, however, less scrupulous, sold it for 200 crowns to a jeweler, who disposed of it in Holland, and since about 1770 this precious book has been the property of the Dukes of Devonshire.

It was the published plates of this work on which Turner founded his "Liber Studiorum." In 1806 Mr. W. F. Wells suggested to the artist that he should produce such a volume. After long and continued persuasion, says Miss Wells, Turner at last gave way, and one day, when he was staying with the family in Kent, he said: "Well, Gaffer, I see there will be no peace till I comply, so give me a piece of paper. There, now! Rule the size for me and tell me what I am to do." Mr. Wells replied: "Divide your subjects into classes—say, Pastoral, Marine, Elegant, and so forth." The "Liber" was published in parts containing five plates, proofs at 25 shillings and prints at 10 shillings. The complete series of seven-one realised at auction as much as £892 10s. in the Turner sale of 1873, when no fewer than thirty-three sets reached nearly £9,000.

THE MAHRATTA METHOD.

Queer Devices by Which Some Debts Are Collected In India.

Many queer stories are told of the persistence and clever devices of the collectors of bad debts, but even a professional humorist would find it hard to invent anything more absurd than the method actually in use among the Mahrattas—at least if travelers' tales are to be trusted.

In that country, so they say, when a creditor cannot get his money and begins to regard the debt as desperate he proceeds to sit "dhurna" upon his debtor—that is, he squats down at the door of his victim's tent and thereby in some mysterious way becomes master of the situation. No one can go in or out except by his sanction. He neither himself eats nor allows his debtor to eat, and this extraordinary starvation contest is kept up until either the debt is paid or the creditor gives up the siege, and in the latter case the debt is held to be canceled.

However strange it may appear to Europeans, this method of enforcing a demand is an established and almost universal usage among the Mahrattas and seems to them a mere matter of course. Even their "scindiah," or chieftain, is not exempt from it.

The laws by which the "dhurna" is regulated are as well defined as those of any other custom whatever. When it is meant to be very strict the claimant takes with him a number of his followers, who surround the tent and sometimes even the bed of his adversary to make sure that he obtains no morsel of food. The code, however, prescribes the same abstinence for the man who imposes the ordeal, and of course the strongest stomach wins the day.

A similar custom was once so prevalent in the province of Benares that Brahmans were sometimes systematically put through a course of training to enable them to endure a long time without food. They were then sent to the door of some rich person, where they publicly made a vow to remain fasting until a certain sum of money was paid or until they perished from starvation. To cause the death of a Brahman was considered so heinous an offence that the cash was generally forthcoming, but never without a resolute struggle to determine whether the man was likely to prove stanch, for the average oriental will almost as soon give up his life as his money.

Old Temple Building.

The decision of the Benchers of the Middle Temple that 1 Brick Court must be pulled down, by reason of its having become unsafe, removes an interesting building. Erected in the early years of the reign of Elizabeth, the block was originally known as Brick Buildings, being the first structure of this material in the Temple. Many famous lawyers have had chambers in 1 Brick Court, the most notable being Thesiger, Coleridge and Bowen.

The Commencement.

The word "commencement" enables orators in frock coats to tell beautiful young ladies in white organdie that the extinction of the academic era marks the "commencement of their real lives." Maybe you have heard them and witnessed the thrill with which the notion was received by blushing maidenhood. It is a stupendous thought, bulging with originality, and I suppose it is mean to meddle with it, even though one knows how that use of the word commenced—or "began," if you prefer. In the old days degrees or diplomas were not granted in June. They were granted in September, and the seniors of yesteryear were forced to reinvade the academic shades to acquire them at the commencement of the new term. After awhile it dawned upon our institutions of learning that the arrangement necessitated undue bother, so they moved the "commencement" exercises back across the vacation and put them at the end of the year. However, they neglected to rechristen them, and oratory has gained much by that inspired oversight.—Boston Transcript.

A Fountain of Ants.

The house I was occupying in India was a bungalow, and, as is the case with many bungalows, the inner walls were constructed of merely sun dried bricks, and in the recesses of one wall a colony of white ants had established a nest. It was evening. I heard behind me a buzzing sound. I turned, and from a hole near the bottom of the wall I beheld a fountain of young white ants ascending. They reached the ceiling, and then the descent commenced. They alighted by thousands on the table and there shook off their wings. In a few minutes the cloth, the plates, the glasses, even the lamp shades, were covered with the little white, feeble, crawling creatures. The fountain of ants continued to play for at least ten minutes. When, next morning, the floor was swept the wings that the ants had shaken off filled a large basket. What became of the ants themselves I cannot say.—"Haunts and Hobbies of an Indian Official."

Sly Old Commodore.

"When Commodore Vanderbilt was alive," says a New York Central official, "the board of directors of the New York Central used to find their work all cut out for them when they met. All they had to do was to ratify his plans and adjourn. Yet they had their uses. Occasionally a man would come to him with some scheme which he did not care to refuse outright.

"'My directors are a difficult body of men to handle,' he would say. 'I'll submit it to 'em, but I warn you that they are hard to manage.'

"The matter would be submitted to the board when it assembled and promptly rejected.

"'There,' the commodore would say when his visitor came to learn the result. 'I did the best I could, but I told you in advance that my directors were an obstinate lot.'"

His Card.

Mr. Newrich, the dust contractor, having made a fortune, part of which he had invested in house property in the east of London, wished to rise, like a phenix, from his ashes into some sort of society. His golden key, applied to the coffers of an impecunious aristocrat, opened the way.

His new friend, among other things, advised him that visiting cards were a necessity, and, as a guide to drawing one up ready for the printer, handed him one of his own, which read, "Harold De Vere, Iona House, Portsmouth Square, W."

Two days later, as De Vere was sitting in his dressing room at breakfast, a servant brought in on a salver a visiting card bearing the following: "Ephraim Newrich, I Own 23 Houses, London, E."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Pepys' Kiss.

For more than two centuries the body of Katherine of France, Henry V.'s queen, uncovered in the building of Henry VII.'s chapel, was one of the sideshows seen by every visitor to the abbey. Pepys, indeed, records that on Shrove Tuesday, 1669, he "had the upper part of her body in my hands and did kiss her mouth, reflecting upon it that I did kiss a queen."—P. P.'s London Weekly.

A Little Matter Among Friends.

Two boys were in fighting attitude, like bantams. Another and a smaller one stood watching them, wiping his eyes, sobbing the while.

"What did yer hit him for?" said one.

"'Tain't none of your business."

"Yes, it is. He's my friend."

"Well, he's my friend too."—New York Globe.

Farm, Field and Garden

ON THE HORSE MARKET

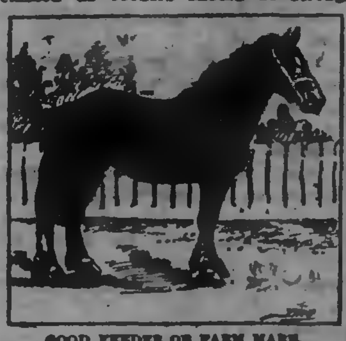
Spring Trade In Farm Chunks—Feeders and Ponies.

By RUFUS C. OBRECHT, University of Illinois experiment station.

Horses of the farm chunk type may be found on the market at all seasons of the year, but during the spring months they form an important feature of the trade. They are bought to be used on the farm and are in most urgent need during the season when crops are being planted. They are usually of mixed breeding, draft blood predominating, and commonly known among farmers as "all purpose horses." Mares are more generally taken than geldings.

For this class low down blocky horses are wanted, not so heavy as the eastern chunks. Farm chunks are usually lighter in bone and often slightly blemished or unsound. Since farmers do not usually care to pay for high priced horses they are often compelled to accept those with slight injuries, such as small side bones, curbs, wire marks, etc. In general the typical farm chunk should be a moderate sized all round good individual, standing from 15 to 15.3 hands high and weighing from 1,200 to 1,400 pounds.

Feeders are horses thin in flesh, purchased to be put in condition and resold. They may belong to other classes, but the practice is more generally followed with the fitting for sale of draft horses, chunks and wagon horses. The old adage, "A little fat covers a multitude of defects," is still true. The value of flesh when put on thin horses can hardly be appreciated unless one has seen them fleshed and placed again on the market. Horses to be classed as feeders should be strong, healthy animals, with a deep, broad chest, a deep barrel and closely coupled, indicating a capacity to utilize large quantities of feed. The ribs should be well sprung, the back short, the loin broad and strong, the quarters deep and thighs broad. The shoulders should be long and the distance between the points broad, according to the class to which the horse belongs. The head should be of moderate size, which may appear large in thin horses. The bone should possess quality and be of sufficient size so that there may be no appearance of top heaviness in the horse when he is fat. The feet should be sound, large and of good shape. In order to be good feeders they should have a quiet, mild disposition.



GOOD FEEDER OR FARM MARE.

About Ponies.

Ponies of various grades and breeding are frequently found on the market and are usually bought for the use of children and ladies. The characteristics distinguishing ponies from horses are not easily described, but to the discerning eye the "earmarks" are perfectly evident at a glance. The principal distinguishing feature most generally accepted by authorities is that of height, a pony being fourteen hands or under. But there are dwarf horses that do not have pony blood or characteristics that come within these limits.

Other pony characteristics are a deep body and rounding barrel, heavily muscled in thighs and quarters, croup not drooping and width well carried out, all of which the small horse does not usually possess. The neck is usually short and heavy, though this is not a desirable quality. Ponies are essentially children's horses, and because of this they must be kind and gentle in disposition and with as much spirit as is compatible for their use. There is no special requirement for weight, the limit being quite wide. They should be straight line movers, and the more knee and hock action they possess the greater they will be appreciated and the higher prices they will bring, other things being equal. The Indian pony, or "cayuse," as he is sometimes called, is larger and a descendant of the native range stock and is classed on the market as a range pony.

The Onion Crop.

Frequent and clean cultivation should be the watchword in the care of the onion crop, and hand weeding will be found necessary, especially with the main crop of onions from seed.

BUGGY SHAFT WAS BROKEN

Horse Did Some Damage in Cemetery Yesterday.

A horse attached to a buggy was left standing in the cemetery yesterday afternoon, while the owner of it walked over to the platform to listen to the addresses. The animal evidently got tired of its position and after a struggle succeeded in freeing itself from the buggy and started to run around the grounds. The shaft of the buggy was broken and the harness too, was damaged.

SAWMILL HAND HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM VIOLENT DEATH

A Lindsay despatch says.—Caught by his shirt in a belt wheel and whirled around the shafting a few times at a mad rate, and finally hurled to the floor below, was the awful experience of Mr. Robt. Allen, an employee of Mr. Geo. Martin's saw mill at Tory Hill yesterday morning.

The mill had just started up and Allen, as was his usual custom, was around oiling the machinery, when the accident happened. He was standing on a ladder which was about two feet away from the shafting; he leaned over, oil can in hand, and attempted to put some of the oil in the cup beside the wheel. While in that position his shirt, which was hanging loosely about him, caught in the wheel. He attempted to tear himself away from the shafting, but was lifted off his feet and dragged by the wheel towards the shafting and whirled around. His chest came against the shafting with considerable force he shrieked for help. He was hurled from the shafting to the floor below. Several of the men, who were around heard Allen's cry and rushed to his assistance and found him lying on the floor, stunned but uninjured, save for a few bruises on the chest and limbs.

Allen's shirt was torn in shreds, and the remainder of his clothing was torn in ribbons.

Those who saw the accident say it was nothing short of a miracle how Mr. Allen came off alive. They felt positive when he struck the floor that his back was broken.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY OF DECORATING GRAVES

Was Observed Yesterday at Little Lake Cemetery—Immense Concourse of People—About Eighty Oddfellows Headed by Peterboro Band Paraded to the Cemetery—Interesting Addresses by Local Clergymen.

The annual ceremony of decorating the graves of departed brethren was last evening observed at the Little Lake cemetery by the Oddfellows of Peterborough. The pretty, attractive and impressive ceremony was heartily joined in by a large number of citizens and friends of the Order.

The city of the dead never presented a lovelier or more beautiful appearance and all nature seemed in harmony with the spirit of the occasion.

The flowers resting on the grassy mounds of the departed reminded all present that the interest of the living extends beyond the grave, and that there is a bond of sympathy and affection between Odd Fellows that even death itself cannot sunder.

The representative gathering took much interest in the solemn and impressive proceedings and many appreciative remarks were heard, not only upon the tender, loving and sympathetic nature of the ceremony, but upon the splendid appearance of grounds, which reflects the highest credit on the care and industry of Supt. Wass and his staff.

Shortly after five o'clock the members of Peterborough Lodge No. 111 and Otonabee Lodge No. 13, headed by the Peterborough Band, marched down George street to the necropolis.

About 80 Odd Fellows were in the procession which was marshalled by Bro. J. W. Miller, P.D.D.G.M.

Arriving at the cemetery and while ascending the hill the brethren counter marched. Near the chapel they formed a circle, when, led by the band, all joined in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Rev. C. H. Coon then offered prayer and the members separated in four sections, when a bouquet of flowers was deposited lovingly on the graves of each Odd Fellow. The guides of each section were; — Bro. M. J. Breakenridge, P.G., No. 1 sec.; Bro. Wm. H. Hill, D.D.G.M, No. 2 sec.; Bro. Wm. Freeburn, P.G., No. 3 sec., Bro. Frank Wise, P.G., and Bro. W. S. Robinson, No. 4 sec.

As each grassy mound was strewn with flowers an appropriate quotation or verse of Scripture was recited.

Beside the waters of Little Lake some eighty triple-linked brethren sleep their last long sleep.

The following is a complete list of the graves decorated, together with the number of the lodge to which the deceased brother belonged. Peterborough Lodge number of 111. and Otonabee Lodge is No. 13.

ADDRESSES DELIVERED

After the decoration ceremonies a large number gathered about the platform to listen to the addresses.

Rev. C. H. Coon, of Mark St. Methodist church, occupied the chair. He said that, as a member of the Order, he was pleased to be present to join in the beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of their departed brethren. There were many things in Oddfellowship that commended themselves to him. When a young man the speaker was much impressed with the Order. The decoration ceremony had evidently commended itself to the citizens generally, judging from the large number who had turned out yesterday evening.

There were benefits accruing from the Decoration ceremony. It brought to the minds of the people remembrance of their dear, departed friends. All that was best in their lives, and one forgot their failings. He thought that the friendship and love between brethren should be made stronger as a result of yesterday's ceremony.

The chairman then introduced Archdeacon Batty, who is officiating at St. John's church, during Canon Davidson's absence in England.

ARCHDEACON BATTY.

Archdeacon Batty said that it was with a feeling of diffidence that he was present on the platform on the occasion of the Decoration ceremonies. He referred to the devotion and love of the Odd Fellows to their deceased brethren. It was a happy thought that as they were gathered among the graves of their dear ones, said the speaker, that they did not think of them as being dead. "He is not dead, but only lyeth asleep," said the Archdeacon.

The reverend gentleman went on to say that bereaved ones were greatly strengthened when they realized that their deceased loved ones were happy in Paradise and were looking down upon those they had left behind. People were very often blessed through sorrow and the pang of grief they suffered was a blessing sent from God.

REV. E. A. PEARSON.

Mr. Pearson said that he esteemed it a great honor to be present at the Decoration ceremonies. While he was not a member of the three-link society, they strongly commended themselves to him. The three links represented friendship, love and truth. The greatest of these was love. The Odd Fellows, Mr. Pearson said, through their beneficent acts, had relieved much suffering. They had brought much love and happiness into homes where there would otherwise have been none. Great credit was due to the Order for the custom of annually paying honor to their departed brethren by decorating their graves. One thing the speaker left with his hearers was that they should not wait till their dear ones had passed away to search the conservatory or garden, but speak messages of love to them by sending them flowers in their illness.

REV. MR. POGUE.

Rev. R. A. Pogue, of St. Paul's church, referred to the beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves. It was a Christian thing to do. They had met together for that purpose. They did not believe their dear ones were dead. They were alive forevermore. Christ's parting words to His disciples were "This do in remembrance of Me," and so people remembered their dear ones. "How could we forget them, though they have passed away," asked the speaker. "We are truer because they lived."

The speaker hoped that long might the ceremony of Decoration continue It's influence was uplifting and nothing but good could result from it.

Rev. C. H. Coon then pronounced the benediction and the annual ceremony of decorating the graves of the dead was over.

CITY NEWS NOTES

PREPARATORY SERVICE.

Preparatory service in Knox church will be held this evening at 8 p.m. The address will be given by Rev. Dr. Marsh. There will be a reception of new members. A brief choir practice at the close.

AN EXCUSE

We went to Peterborough to the circus yesterday along with the crowd, and, of course, to take the youthful members of the family to see it. Don't know what excuse we'll have when the youngsters grow up.—Millbrook Reporter.

A CORRECTION.

A paragraph in last night's Review stated that the owner of a horse was injured at the Lift Lock, called Dr. Johnston, a local vet., to attend to the case the Review was misinformed. It was Dr. Poole that handled the matter and advised putting an end to the sufferings of the animal.

INSPECTED BRIDGE

The Government tug, "Bessie Butler," arrived in town to-day from Peterborough about noon, and remained at the Wellington street bridge for over an hour. It then went back to Rosedale. The tug was expected here at midnight last night, but it did not arrive. The object of the trip was to inspect the bridge, which was disabled some time ago. Mr. McClellan, the Superintendent, was on board, and will likely make his report when he gets back to Peterborough.—Lindsay Free Press.

THE BAND CONTROVERSY.

The Review had handed to it this morning a communication signed by Mr. W. A. Elliott, secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Band, and dealing with the late unfortunate controversy in regard to band matters, and the engagement of the band for the Decoration Day Parade. While The Review does not wish to call off reasonable discussion it is apparent to the public that little good, if any, may be accomplished by a continuation of publication of letters. The men of both bands, of all bands, for that matter, are our own citizens, living and working together, and it is a pity to let a misunderstanding be fanned and worked on until it grows into positive animosity and pronounced ill-feeling. The men of both bands come together in their work life in the several places where employed, and it is in the interests of all that personal prejudices and hard words be laid aside. On reflection, all will agree that it would be better if the unfortunate controversy had not sprung up, and however insistent, nothing can be accomplished by mutual recrimination. The public are the judges in any case, and the issue may safely be left to public opinion to settle. Union or non-union, we all belong to the commonwealth and will be esteemed for our efforts to inculcate a feeling of respect and consideration one for another. Such a discussion as has been going will only serve to set men farther apart.

THE MILLBROOK LODGE IS COMING

Will Attend Celebration at Peterborough on July 13th.

The annual convention of Cavan District L.O.L. met on Saturday last and was well attended, each primary lodge being well represented. The lodge opened in due form, Bro. Jas. Paul, D.M., presiding.

Invitations were received from Peterborough and Fenelon Falls, inviting the district to participate with them in the commemoration of the 218th anniversary. It was unanimously carried to accept the Peterborough invitation.

A committee was appointed to secure a band for the 13th, and a railway committee was also appointed to look after the railway accommodation.

The District Master was authorised to take possession of the lodge property of L.O.L. No. 32, which has been dormant for some time.

Although considerable business was disposed of, and the lodge being in session up to late in the evening, it was decided to adjourn until Saturday evening next, June 20th, to wind up the unfinished business.—Millbrook Reporter.

30 FISH CAUGHT ON FIRST DAY

Anglers Having Excellent Luck—There is an Abundance of Bass.

The fishermen are very enthusiastic this season and are favored with the best of luck. On the first day of the open season June 15th, there were thirty 'lunge caught before eight o'clock in the morning and this probably established a local record.

The biggest catch on the 15th was made by Messrs. J. Stanger and Rutherford, who secured six 'lunge and Dr. Amys and Mr. Gus Corcoran next with four.

In the lake and river and along the canal the fishing is splendid. In fact the fish seem to be unusually plentiful in the Peterborough waters. The bass have not commenced to bite much yet, but there is an abundance of them old anglers report.

Mrs. Garbutt had a most sumptuous repast prepared for her guests and it was thoroughly enjoyed. After supper the evening was spent pleasantly, a musical programme being given. Many thanks were tendered Mrs. Garbutt for her kind hospitality to the choir.

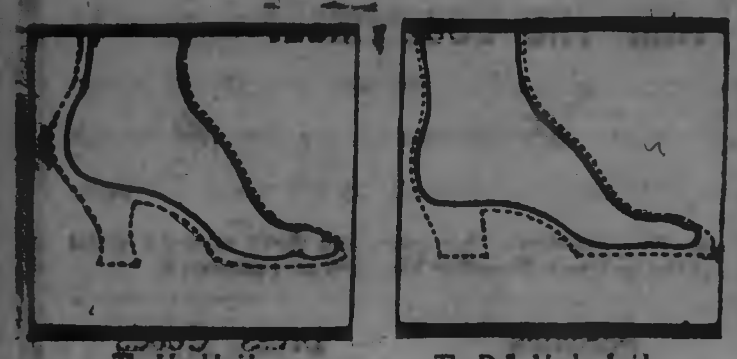
Barefoot Comfort

"One of the 14"



The Usual Inside

The Dolly Varden Inside

The claim that a shoe is as comfortable as a barefoot is a pretty strong claim, but we claim it for the Dolly Varden Shoe and our agent in your city is ready to prove our claim. By trying on a few pairs you can soon find out.

Why are they comfortable?

Because they are copies of perfect feminine feet which allow the feet to lie in their natural position.

Because of their Free Flat Tread.

Because of their newly devised, restful steel arch support which relieves the fatigued muscles of the arch and prevents crowding of the toes into the narrow front of the shoe, by holding the heel close to the back.

Because of their Dead Level Ball and Heel Balance.

Because of their Harmless High Heels—as comfortable as moccasins.

And because of their new "velvette kid" leather, which is as soft as cloth.

$4.00 to $5.00 in Canada or the States. Every pair Goodyear welted.

SLATER'S CHALLENGE WILL PROBABLY BE TAKEN UP

Tom Slater's challenge to walk any five men in Canada from ten to twenty miles will probably be taken up and he will likely be given more favorable accommodation than he asked for.—that is three men instead of five will go against him on the conditions he has named if the match is made. The terms that will likely be made to Slater are that the winner or winners take all the purse. The three men to meet him are Stacey, Harrison and Spenceley and that trio should be able to hold Mr. Slater nicely. Arrangements will be made if possible to have the handicap pulled off here at the Brock street rink on July 12th.

CHIEFTAINS ARE CHAMPIONS OF JUNIOR CHURCH LEAGUE

Won From St. Andrews in Final Game at Riverside Park Last Night by 7-6—Good Work of Both Pitchers—An Interesting Contest.

It was a mighty contest that St. Andrew's lost to the Chieftains last night in their game at Riverside Park for the championship of the Junior Guild League. When the former went to bat in the ninth innings Chieftains led by 7—5. St. Andrew's team took a brace in their batting and scored another run. Their supporters coached them on to win, but third man was retired and the game was over with the Chieftains the winners of the pennant by a score of 7—6.

The match was a very interesting one and the kids did good work in all departments. It was a big battle between the pitchers, six hits being made off Creswell and seven off Kirn. Both boys twirled cleverly and had a good delivery and assortment.

The stick work of the teams was excellent and the fielding generally good although a little off color at times. The teams, however, played in splendid style and the result was always doubtful. No very heavy rapping was done, the best drives being a two-bagger each for Fortye and Brown of the Chieftains. Mr. H. R. H. Kenner gave splendid satisfaction as umpire.

The Church League has provided some surprisingly fast exhibitions since it opened, the one last night probably being the best of the season. The teams have played good ball and a permanent interest in the league has been awakened. The season has been a successful one and the executive of the league and the different teams are to be congratulated. Next year it should be better than ever and will be a great means of developing fast men for senior ball.

The teams for the game last night were:

LACROSSE

GORMAN FOR OLYMPIC.

An Ottawa despatch says;—Tommy Gorman, Capital's young "phenom" at inside home, has been selected for the Canadian Olympic lacrosse team which sails for England in September.

Tom was always looked upon as a good intermediate player, and figured prominently in the Rideau Valley League playing on the home field of the Beavers. Some years ago a twilight game played on Lee's field, Ottawa East, where the breadth of the grounds was limitless, Gorman got a crack over the head that opened up his scalp for a couple of inches. Play was stopped till Tommy ran down to the banks of the Rideau to wash off the blood and tie a towel around the wound. Then he resumed playing and scored the winning goal. Beavers and Shamrocks were the contending parties and often the players were scattered on both sides of the crowd.

Tommy's first test in fast lacrosse was last Saturday and he made good the first dash out of the box. He conducts the sporting columns of the Ottawa Citizen, and is an all round popular fellow. Tommy can play some hockey, too.

PROMPT PAYMENT

Peterborough, Ont., June 12th, 1908

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Globe Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,879 Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 1 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and presented us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,

Canada Flakes Co., LIMITED.

Signed, H. B. COLLIER, Manager.

A SPASM LIFE

Tell me not in idle jingle,
Marriage is a blissful dream
For the man is wise that's single,
And girls are not what they seem.

Girls are shrewd and dead in earnest
And to wed's their only aim;
"Miss" that is to "Mrs." turn out,
Anything to change their name.

Not flirtation, not coquetting
Is their studied end or way
But to act that each tomorrow,
Near brings the bridal day.

Smiles are sweet and glances killing,
And poor man, bewildered thing,
Thus bamboozled, may, unwilling,
Pony up and buy the ring.

In the world's broad field of battle,
In the flirting match of life
Be not like dumb, driven cattle,
Be not humbugged with a wife.

Trust no woman, howe'er pleasant;
Do not heed her artless trash
Wed. Wed in fatal present
And your future's minus cash.

Lives of bachelors all remind us,
We can live our lives the same,
And departing, leave behind us
No cross kids to bear our name.

Kids, perhaps, to whom another,
Hoeing out life's solemn row
Some forlorn and henpecked brother,
One day may step-father grow.

Let us then, be not demented
And lured in through Hymen's gate,
Still unmarried, still contented,
Learn to let the damsels wait.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

Some Recent Results of Monthly Tests—Some Individual Yields.

Some recent results of monthly tests in associations organized by the staff of the dairy and cold storage commissioner are:

May 10th, Victoria, B.C., 43 cows averaged 708 lb. milk, 4.2 test, 30.2 lb. fat.

May 12th, Milton, Ont., 97 cows averaged 548 lb. milk, 3.6 test, 19.9 lb. fat.

May 15th, Dixville, Que., 40 cows averaged 451 lb. milk, 4.2 test, 19.2 lb. fat.

One of the best individual yields yet to hand throws these "average yields" very much in the shade. A seven year old cow in the association at Innerkip, Ont., that calved 25th March, gave in the 30 days of April no less than 1,910 lb. milk, testing 3.3, or 63 lb. of butter fat. If only one cow has to be housed, fed and milked, in place of three, there is an immense saving of labor and material. Look to the individual, not the average yield. The work of these cow testing associations is helping farmers to detect the poor cows; it is also proving useful in securing better treatment for good cows, so that more milk from fewer animals can be obtained. There are now over 70 associations in Canada.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

Sydney Brooks, in an entertaining character sketch, in the Fortnightly Review says of William Howard Taft the prospective Republican candidate for President of the United States;

"He is in every sense a big man. Whenever some peculiarly difficult, or complex problem arises he is at once deputed to solve it. Work on the Panama Canal, for instance, is disorganized and threatens to stop through the friction of multiplicity of boards and the resignation of one engineer-in-chief after another. Mr. Taft visits the Isthmus, looks into things, decides that the army engineers are the men to dig the ditch, and all is peace and progress. Cuba, again, conducts itself by the usual Spanish-American route to the very brink of revolution. Mr. Taft steps in, examines, humors, conciliates, takes over the whole business of government and almost makes the outside world question the gravity of the situation by the ease with which he adjusts it. The American and Japanese papers and the people who read them scowl at one another over the immigration difficulty. Mr. Taft, en route for the Philippines, calls in at Tokio, has an audience with the Mikado, and straightway the rumors of trouble are dissolved in a douch of sanity. An ugly controversy of personal charges and recrimination breaks out between two American diplomats. It is a matter altogether outside Mr. Taft's department, yet it goes to him for settlement, and he settles it. "Go over and see Taft about it," is a formula so often on the President's lips that it has passed into a slang of the day and the War Secretary's nickname, "General Utility Bill," gives both the popular and the official measure of his capacities.

"He has a peculiar gift of lubricating sagacity. He radiates jollity and conciliation. All men instinctively like and trust this huge, good humored giant, whose mere physical immensity impresses one with a sort of guarantee of invincibility. He crashes through problems and tangles with the all conquering certainty of a smiling patient, supremely human steam roller. I have met no one, even in America, more wholly destitute of fussiness and affectation. Nothing seems to flurry him or break through his reserves of genial placidity. Though scarcely less badgered than Mr. Roosevelt himself, he never explodes. He has the evenness of temper, the cheery self-continence, which it would be positively dangerous for a man of his colossal bulk not to have. There is a hearty and most winning naturalness in his intercourse with people. He has all of the average American's indifferences to externals and appearances—a snapshot of Mr. Taft seated at his official desk, would make an admirable study of democracy in undress. His mind, I should judge, is a healthy and vigorous, rather than a pliable instrument. It works with a ponderous, probing thoroughness. One would not look to Mr. Taft for any original contribution to the philosophy of politics any more than one would expect him to bubble forth in epigrams. He is not a man of wide reading or of diversified intellectual interests and has as little of Mr. Roosevelt's manysidedness as of his flashing alertness or his somewhat volcanic temperament. But his qualities if not of the minor order of merit, are strong, genuine and serviceable. He has had far more than the ordinary candidate's experience of men and affairs and high responsibilities, and Mr. Taft, like Cobden, is one of those men on whom no experience is wasted. His administrative aptitudes are unquestionable. He has that kind of impersonal disentangling mind, of perspective and judicial balance, which when engaged with an engaging personality and a dependable character makes its possessor a court of final appeal for private friends and public colleagues."

BOARD OF WORKS TAKES ACTION TO PROTECT STREETS

A meeting of the Board of Works was held last night at which there were present Ald. Phelan, chairman; Ald. Tovey, Buller, McIntyre, Morgan and Elliott.

The Board visited the water-front in regard to the claim made by Mrs. Rogers, respecting dead water in front of her property.

Harry Evans, street commissioner, reported that the Peterborough Light and Power Company had opened Charlotte street to lay gas mains, where the street had been laid with broken stone and rolled.

It was moved by Ald. McIntyre and seconded by Ald. Buller, "That Mr. McDonald be heard. Mr. McDonald addressed the Board in regard to the proposed sidewalk on the north side of Parry street.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the chairman be requested to consult the city solicitor and have such steps taken as he may advise to stop the Peterborough Light and Power Co. laying gas mains on Charlotte street or other street without the consent of the Council.

ONLY TWO CASES WITH THE NON JURY SITTINGS ON MONDAY

There are only two cases to come up in the non-jury sittings of the High Court, which opens here at 1 o'clock on Monday next. His Honor Mr. Justice Teetzel will preside.

The first case is that of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Co., of which Robt. Wallace, of Port Hope, is the secretary-treasurer, against Mr. Thos. Reid, of Marmora.

On or about the third day of Mar., 1904, the defendants entered into an agreement with the plaintiff in writing whereby the said defendant agreed to take two shares of stock in the company, to the amount of $200.

The plaintiffs claim from the said sum of $200 and interest upon the instalments agreed to be paid by the defendants from the respective dates upon which the same became due and payable. They also claim the costs of the action.

The second case is that of the same company against J. H. Burton, of Bracebridge.

In April, 1904, Burton agreed to take two shares to the amount of $200. The plaintiffs are claiming the $200 and the interests and costs of the action.

Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon are solicitors for the plaintiffs.

CHILD BADLY BURNED BY FLAT IRON.

As a family balm and salve Zam-Buk is unequalled, and should be on every Canadian farm. Mrs. C. E. Tibbs, of Oak Vale Farm, Winnipeg Beach, writes:—"We have found Zam-Buk a wonderful healer. I used it for a very bad burn on my hand, and by the next day the pain had gone and the wound well on the way to healing. My husband also used Zam-Buk for a nasty flesh wound on his arm, which it healed. In several ways we have found Zam-Buk so healing and soothing that we would not like to be without it in the house. Before we could get Zam-Buk in Canada, we used to write to England for it, we thought so much about it."

This great skin healer is sold by all druggists and stores at 50 cents a box.

THREE OUNCES FROM THE PRIZE

Mr. D. Oliver Came Very Nearly Getting Banks' Fishing Tackle.

The fishermen are hot after Banks' three dollars worth of fishing tackle. It will be given to the first person who brings in a 'lunge weighing 16 pounds or over. Dave Oliver came mighty close to landing the prize this morning. He brought in a fine 'lunge that tipped the scales at 15 pounds 3 ounces, just three ounces, just three ounces too light to win the prize. Mr. Oliver made his catch in the Otonabee River near Rye's boat house. He caught two 'lunge, the second one being of fair size.

EAT WHAT YOU WANT

But Find the Way to Digest What You Do Eat.

The first thing to do in the case of indigestion or stomach weakness is to strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines, so that they will care for the food that is eaten. In no other way can this be done as well as by taking a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal. This restores strength to the stomach, muscles and stimulates the pouring out of gastric juices, then the food digests readily and you begin to get the full benefit from what you eat.

Use Mi-o-na whenever you have sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, spots before the eyes, sleeplessness and the many other symptoms that are the direct result of indigestion.

W. Madill, druggist, corner of Hunter and George streets, Peterborough gives with every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na a guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy cures.

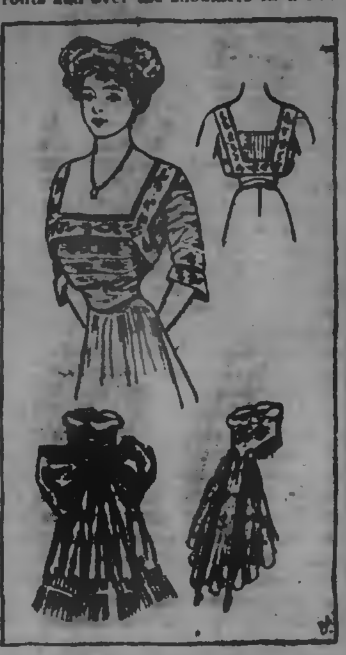
VOGUE POINTS.

Ribbons Used on Summer Frocks In Many Attractive Ways.

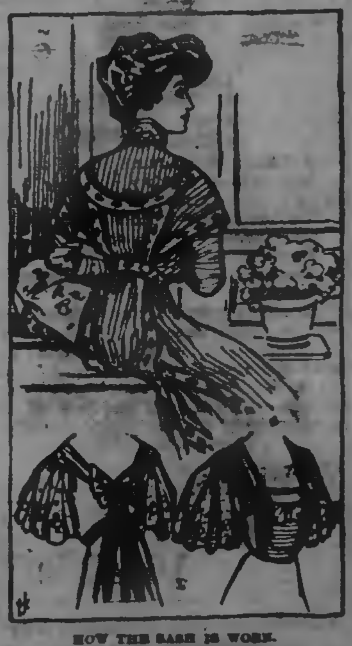
The summer season will see the use of ribbons for all sorts of dress trimmings. The illustrations show some very smart ways of adorning new frocks and bringing others up to date with ribbons. A dainty stock collar, for instance, is of lace trimmed with velvet ribbon, a color to match any costume being easily slipped around the lace collar. A charming way to trim a simple, plain bodice is seen in one of the cuts. Wide ribbon or galloon is employed in a pretty delicate design, such as bunches of flowers scattered on a pale background—pink or green if the color scheme will admit of the shade being used.

The ribbon is carried across the fronts and over the shoulders in a novel bretelle design and, is repeated as a trimming on the sleeves. The plain, slightly gathered sleeves, by the way, are just the correct thing for evening wear, the new sleeve being almost tight and worn just below the elbow. Another illustration shows an effective ribbon garniture for decorating an inexpensive evening dress or afternoon gown. The front and back views are the same except for the long sash ends, which add a still further smart and dressy touch at the back. The straps which go over the arms are kept in place with fancy safety pins on each sleeve. Still another ribbon trimming is a high bow at the back of the neck, ribbons over the shoulders and around the high waist, with long ends floating to the hem of the skirt. The jabot to go with the all black costume may be made of mousseline de soie, malines, chiffon or net. By far the newest and most stylish ones are made of net edged with lace or braid.



UP TO DATE NECKWEAR.

For deep mourning nothing is more appropriate than a bow and two straight ends, one longer than the other, made of black net with an inch border of crape.



HOW THE SASH IS WORN.

To wear with a white blouse a pretty jabot can be made from a black and white handkerchief. Find one with small black dots in the center and a border of black lines. Half the handkerchief laid in fine plaits and worn with a white linen collar embroidered in black will be both suitable and stylish for one whose costume is void of colors.

Are You Classical?

You must be classical this season to the best of your ability and figure. Peplums, draped bodices, walls of Troy and Greek key trimming, tight clinging sleeves coming well down over the hand, elaborate tunics often edged with deep silk fringe or again with Greek designs in gold or silver embroidery are some of the fancies of the hour.

To be classical without judgment is fatal. This style is only appropriate to certain types of women and is ugly, even grotesque, on short and stout persons.

It should also be confined to certain materials and times of wearing. Long, loose, flowing draperies are wonderfully becoming in house, evening or tea gowns, but are utterly out of place for heavy cloths and for morning wear.

Many of the new silks, however, are being shown with tunic drapery skillfully modified to stiffer and more conventional lines for street wear.

The corner stone of Sherman Ave. Presbyterian church, Hamilton, was laid yesterday by Rev Dr Lyle.

MIDNIGHT MARAUDERS TRIED TO ENTER HOUSE IN WEST END

A man by the name of Munsey and his wife called at the police station this morning and complained that a woman who lived near them had used abusive language to Mrs. Munsey and her children when he was away from the house. Her conduct was most disgraceful and she had even threatened the people that if they didn't move away from there in a week, she would burn them out. Last night at midnight the man said that he and another gentleman living with him had to get up. Two men were knocking at the front door and then they went around to the back. In the dark Mr. Munsey fell over a chair, making such a noise that the midnight marauders became scared and ran away.

And Geo. E. Chamberlain, Formerly of Peterborough, Has Gone to Take Charge of the Installation.

Mr. George E. Chamberlain, who was for about two years on the staff of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, at their central office here, and who went to Toronto a few months ago, where he was employed in the Company's factory, left Toronto yesterday for New York, where he sails on Saturday for Rome, Italy. The Canadian Machine Telephone Company has manufactured and shipped an automatic telephone exchange, which is to be installed in the city of Rome, and Mr. Chamberlain goes to take charge of the work of installation. His friends in Peterborough will wish him a safe journey and success in the important work which the company has sent him to look after. Previous to his leaving Toronto, the employees of the company's factory presented him with an address and a very handsome camera. The address congratulated him on being chosen to make the Rome installation and wished him a safe journey and success.

The Company will early in July, be shipping an automatic exchange with all necessary equipment in connection with toll lines, to the city of Lyons, France.

JIM HARRISON TELLS ABOUT THAT WALK AT ST. KITTS

Poor Support of Papers and General Public—Thinks Stacey Can Beat Hoagland in Anything up to Two Hours—Band Played Only One Night.

Jim Harrison and Gilbert Spencely, local starters in the St. Catharines Walk; Murphy, Harrison's trainer, and Mark Spencely, arrived in the city from St. Catharines last night. Harrison, who was in second position when the walk concluded on Wednesday, through lack of patronage, says the walkers are all much dissatisfied with the outcome and express displeasure at the way in which it was managed. He said it was given practically no publicity whatever, and states that the newspapers in St. Kitts have not the slightest idea how to support an athletic event. He states the race was given lamentably poor assistance from the press of the city. In conversation with a Review representative this morning he said the receipts of the opening night amounted to $3.75 about 50 being in attendance. On the second night the receipts when totalled reached the magnificent figure of 6.25 and on the third and last night three live sports bought their way past the ticket collector, swelling the receipts by 75 cents.

Harrison says when he arrived at St. Catharines the majority of people there were apparently unaware that the walk was going to be held. The papers had done little to boom it along and no posters had been put up. He reached there the day of the walk and the outlook was so black that he was for coming home again, but his trainer advised him to stay and see how things panned out. A few years ago a six days' go as you please race at Dunville, a short distance from St. Catharines, also proved a failure and the sporting instinct is apparently not as keen in the Niagara towns as it is in Peterborough. When he saw the town had not been billed, Mr. Neil, trainer for Charlie Stevens, tacked up a few of the small bills that had been given out and left lying at the places at which they had been printed.

NO MUSIC.

The conditions of the walk were that the management was to provide a band each night of the walk. They did so only on the first night and on the other two nights the pedestrians became quite downhearted going hour after hour with no music and with only a handful of supporters to urge them on.

They protested against the band not being engaged, but were informed that expenses had to be cut down. As far as the walkers' own expenses went, they didn't get a cent of them, and all of them went behind for their railway tickets, hotel bills, etc.

Mr. Mark Spencely was appointed the representative of the walkers and was on the door the first night, but the management said they could attend to that end of the matter, and he was taken off and made referee, the official one not being on hand.

STACEY A GOOD ONE.

"Stacey is the best short distance man I ever walked against," said Harrison. "In my opinion he can beat Hoagland in anything up to two hours, but at the end of that time he tires some. He is 21 years old, stands 6 feet 3 1-2 inches in height and sets a terrific clip. He walks straight as a dart and carries himself with the hip roll and shoulder movement of Hoagland and Slater.

Spencely, the local boy, who was third, is a find. He is also a great man for the shorter distances. Joe Guerin, the young French Canadian from Peterborough, is twenty-one years of age, and walked very well indeed. Stevens also did nicely but did not appear to be in the best of condition. Brown, one of the three negroes who were in the race, proved a strong steady walker, and with Lydiatt, a white man, would probably have been within the limit at the finish. I think I could have won had the walk lasted the scheduled time, for, as I said, while Stacey is a fast one, I think I have it on him in the matter of endurance."

Harrison stated that since he had met several good ones and done so well, he is of the opinion that he can hold his own with any man in Canada for a six day 12 hours a day grind. And what he says seems quite reasonable.

HALCYON, B.C., IS A BEAUTY OF BEAUTIES

Mr. P. A. O'Farrell, of New York, who is well known in Toronto and in cities all across Canada, is perhaps the most intimate friend in America of T. P. O'Connor. When "Tay Pay" was in Canada last year Mr. O'Farrell was his body guard and his inseparable companion on his American tour. In the latest issue of T. P.'s Weekly appears a letter from Mr. O'Farrell, describing the beauties of Halcyon, B.C., and it will interest many of our readers who know — or should know — the Arrow Lake country. He writes:

Twenty years ago when I first sailed over the lonely waters of the Arrow Lakes, there was not a house nor a hut nor log cabin on either shore for its whole 150 miles. Not a hut or a hunter along its 300 miles of shore line; All was strange, weird, wild, fascinating beauty. We did pass one canoe in which we recognized some Kootenay Indians, because of the weird, wild chant that fell upon our ears. A Corsican priest lived among them and taught them this chant, and this was their interpretation of it. But save these few wandering savages, the Arrow Lakes were as lonely twenty years ago as in the dawn of the world's existence. Some of the old voyageurs had seen them and some intrepid hunters had climbed the passes of the mountains above the lakes, and had looked down in a wonder akin to that which filled the soul of Pizarro at that first sight of the Pacific, when all his men looked at each other with "a wild surmise, silent upon a peak in Darien."

And I have seen this wilderness transformed into fields of golden grain, and orchards and flowers, and gardens and lawns where happy children played and sang, and have seen men and women grow young and happy, being sharers in the creation of a new world of altars and of happy homes. Only yesterday I sailed over these wonderful lakes again, but this time it was not a skiff, as twenty years ago.

I was in one of the excellently appointed Canadian Pacific steamers that ply daily between Robson and Arrow Head. Already along the shores on either side the pioneer has done his work, and the meadow and the orchard and the garden have displaced the wood. The pear tree, the cherry, the apple and the peach have supplanted the pine, the fir, the tamarac and the cedar. Girt on every side by mighty mountains, neither the typhoons that lash the Pacific to fury nor the tornadoes that scourge the plains can touch these shores. Storms and tempests are utterly unknown and as equally unknown are the extremes of heat and cold. Picture Killarney on a vast and far more magnificent scale, and free from tempests and rain and you begin to realize the Arrow Lakes with their beauty, grandeur and attractiveness.

You are right in directing the attention of your readers to British Columbia. The picturesque beauty of its lakes and rivers, and the sublime grandeur of its mountain scenery find no parallel upon this globe of ours. And its climate and soil are all that are desirable for men or women who love open air life and bracing mountain air, and an occasional hunt for cariboo and elk. The apples grown on the shores of these lakes are the finest I ever tasted, finer even than those I have sampled from Lord Aberdeen's wonderful orchards about fifty miles further west. There is something in the sunshine, in the soil, in the serene atmosphere, in the ozone of these pure woods, and in the absence of strong winds that permit the growth and blossom and bloom of the apple in this country as nowhere else on earth.

Sometimes I think of building a chalet over there on the other side of the lake where slopes the Halcyon Mountain. There you can now see the dark woods rising one plateau above another. I could have a thousand acres cleared away for flowers and fruit and meadow and lawn, and would have trails cut through the trackless forest to the great field of sea green ice that nestles up yonder in the bosom of those mountains. Just think of what a place this would be to escape that species of tiger hunt that prevails in Wall Street. It is only four miles across the lake from these wonderful mineral springs of Halcyon. Over there blow the softest zephyrs, and from those sloping hills you can watch the moonlit lake, or see the dawn, rosy and lovely as when the world was young, skipping from peak to peak, till chased away by the advent of the glorious sun that smiles upon this enchanted land.

A FIREBUG AT VICTORIA PAPER BOX FACTORY BURNED

Loss Seventy Thousand Dollars—Six or Seven Other Incendiary Blazes Started—Fire Bug Rushes Into Architect's Office and Sets Fire to Papers on Desk—Firemen Kept Busy.

Victoria, June 20.—All day firemen have been kept busy following up fires, which are constantly breaking out. Fortunately all have been caught in time and little or no damage followed. Of eight fires since Thursday evening, five are undoubtedly incendiary. In one case yesterday, Ridgeway Wilson, architect, left his office for 15 minutes, and, returning, found that someone had entered during his absence and set fire to papers in it. The fire-bug escaped from Mr. Wilson's office just before his return. [illegible] that the door was slammed violently and someone ran down the hall. All efforts to trace the criminal have so far been futile. It is probably the work of a crazy man.

As the climax of a series of fires, the work of some unknown firebug, the paper and box-making factory and plant of T. N. Hibben & Co., occupying the top of a three-storey building on Government street was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The damage is about $75,000, mostly covered by insurance.

MAY DECIDE THAW IS SANE

But Justice Dowling Says Prisoner is Dangerous

New York, June 20.—In his argument in support of the application to transfer Thaw to another asylum than Matteawan, Col. Bartlett yesterday made known that it is the intention of the Thaw family at some time later to ask for a jury trial to determine the question of Thaw's sanity.

Col. Bartlett said the demand would be made on behalf of Thaw, Thaw's mother, brothers and sisters and friends, but made no mention of Thaw's wife.

Col. Bartlett argued against sending Thaw to Matteawan as he is not a criminal. Justice Dowling asked if there was any difference, since he committed Thaw to Matteawan. He said that from the testimony of Thaw's own experts it was clear that Thaw was not in his right mind, and that the only proper place to send him was Matteawan.

Justice Dowling said that he was convinced that Thaw's condition of mind was such that he was likely if not properly safeguarded to do injury to himself or others.

Dr. Reid and His Yacht.

Ottawa, June 20.—In the public accounts committee yesterday morning Dr. Reid, M.P., was called to give evidence as to the charge that he had his yacht repaired in the Marine Department shipyards at Prescott. He said that in 1904 he had his yacht hauled out in the usual course with the permission of Mr. Prefontaine. He had anticipated that his own men would haul the boat up, but he had learned only when this enquiry began that the boat had been hauled out by Government men. He had asked what there was to pay, and had been told $6, which he had paid.

He admitted that for the purpose of chemical experiment in the laboratory of the starch factory in which he was interested a small quantity of acetylene gas had been piped from the Dominion tank to the adjoining premises of the company, but the supply lasted only for a couple of days. He also admitted having borrowed an engine for some time, but it had been returned in improved condition.

Was No Extravagance.

Ottawa, June 20.—J. C. Tache, resident at Chicoutime, was cross-examined in the public accounts committee yesterday by Mr. Cardwell as to charges made by Mr. Ames that there had been gross extravagance in the construction of telegraph lines and other public works in Chicoutime and Saguenay.

Mr. Tache swore there had been no extravagance and that a number of bridges built by the Government had been necessary to maintain the Dominion telegraph line, which runs down the north shore of the St. Lawrence to the Straits of Belle Isle.

Immigrants Must Have Money.

Ottawa, June 20.—An order-in-council has been passed requiring every immigrant over 18 years to have $25 in addition to his ticket to destination in Canada, unless evidence is furnished that the immigrant is going to definite employment or to relatives or friends who will take care of him, and requiring each Asiatic immigrant other than those with whose countries Canada has special arrangements is to have $200.

Caterpillars Delay Trains.

St. John, N.B., June 20.—A regular army of caterpillars is reported from York County between Tracy and Cook Station, on the C.P.R., between Fredericton Junction and McAdam.

On Thursday evening the pests started to cross the track, and a heavy freight train that came along and rushed on them was soon stalled.

MAKE APPEAL TO GERMANY

Persians Are Asking for Protection Against Turkey.

St. Petersburg, June 20.—Special despatches received here from Teheran say that Persian patriotic societies at Teheran, Kasvin and Ispahan have united in a demand for German protection against Turkey.

They ask that Germany send officers and officials to reorganize the Persian army and Government. The Turkish invasion of Persia arises from a question of sovereignty over Armenian territory.

Sherman of N. Y. For Vice.

Chicago, June 20.—With Congressman James S. Sherman of New York chosen as vice-presidential candidate and running-mate of Secretary Taft, the Republican national convention of 1908 passed into history yesterday.

The final session lasted less than two hours.

The New York delegation solidly stood back of Mr. Sherman, and when the voting began there was a rush of delegates to fall into line, victory being assured to the New York representation before the roll had been half completed.

Speaker Cannon appeared unexpectedly upon the floor of the convention, and, by unanimous consent, was granted the privilege of making the seconding speech for Mr. Sherman, who had been placed in nomination by Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the New York delegation.

Mr. Sherman's victory was an overwhelming one, 816 votes being the total before the nomination was made unanimous.

HE CALLS THEM GRAFTERS A CLASH IN THE COMMONS

Discussion on Government Office Buildings—W. F. Maclean Suggests Skyscrapers as an Experiment—But Idea is Not Favored by Minister of Public Works—Increasing of Bank Capital

Ottawa, June 20.—During discussion of the estimates for public buildings last night W. F. Maclean submitted for the consideration of the Government the erection of administration buildings according to modern ideas of architecture with abundance of light and accommodation for a large number of people. In Washington, the Government was coming to that idea and he would like to see the experiment tried here. A municipal building was being erected in New York at the height of 30 storeys or more.

Mr. Pugsley answered that in the new postoffice in Montreal not so much attention was being paid to architectural effect, but he did not favor the skyscraper.

G. W. Fowler could see no reason why public buildings should not only be architecturally beautiful, but in the highest sense useful as well. He thought that it was not right that the civil service should be scattered all over the city.

During the subsequent discussion David Henderson made use of the term "A Government of grafters." This was objected to by Mr. Pugsley, who protested that it was not in order and was ungentlemanly. Opposition members demanded a withdrawal of the Minister's statement, but Mr. Pugsley declared he meant no offence, as he regarded Mr. Henderson as a gentleman.

Mr. Henderson, not to be outdone, said he need not think anyone would object to a reference to grafters, as it had become so common that no one took any notice of it any more. However, he would say that Mr. Pugsley was not a grafter.

On an item for improvements to Rideau Hall Mr. Pugsley said he had had prepared plans for a new front, but as it would cost in the neighborhood of $225,000, he thought it would be better to postpone any general scheme of improvement. He had in mind a new site for the Governor-General's residence, but this, too, was out of the question now.

A vote of [illegible] for Yukon public buildings was reduced to $15,000.

Hon. Mr. Fielding's Bank Act amendment, which provides for an emergency note circulation during the crop moving period equal to 15 per cent. of the combined paid up capital and reserves, was passed yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Foster criticized the proposal on the grounds that it was unwise to tinker with the act in advance of the decennial revision, and that no provision is made for deposit by the banks of additional security.

W. F. Maclean (South York) declared that there ought to be increase in available bank capital of the country. The country was growing rapidly and therefore needed more money. There were two or three ways in which that might be obtained. As the Minister of Finance had pointed out, it might be got by increasing the bank capital, which would of course admit of a corresponding increase of issue of bank notes, but he had said that banks were slow to increase their capital. That was a fact.

Mr. Fielding agreed with Mr. Maclean that the bringing in of foreign capital was very desirable, but it must be left to the banks to take their own steps in that direction. The failure of the Sovereign Bank might be a hindrance to that being done, but Mr. Fielding understood that certain banks were contemplating getting capital from abroad.

The Finance Minister in reply to Mr. Foster admitted the general wisdom of decennial revision, but submitted that the need of the west for more currency was urgent. He was willing to send the bill to the banking and commerce committee, but thought it unnecessary. The bankers generally approved the act, though they would rather not pay interest for it. The rate of interest in the bill, a maximum of 5 per cent., he thought unreasonable; the banks should have margin of about 2 per cent. for profit. He said nothing about the failure of the banks to use the note issue above authorized, &c.

MAY RESUME THE BLOCKADE

Opposition Feel They Have Been Tricked by Sir Wilfrid.

Ottawa, June 20.—The Conservative caucus yesterday was told that their vision of settlement of the Aylesworth election bill was an illusion that, having succeeded in getting a fair proportion of public business through, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not in a mood to hurry up negotiations.

It was as western Conservatives feared when Mr. Borden consented to the one-eighth vote going through. They said then that the Prime Minister was playing a game and that although it appeared to be settled that the Manitoba lists were satisfactory, new complaints would be heard which would at the proper moment entirely upset the understanding that the leaders apparently had arrived at.

Yesterday Conservatives are full of fight, and it would not be surprising if next week there was a renewal of hostilities. The Government side is resting in the belief that the Opposition dare not hold up supplies, that they have found out that such a policy is not approved by the country.

But Conservatives are not worrying over that. They exhibit many letters from all over Canada urging them to hold out against the Aylesworth bill, even to the extent of refusing the granting of supplies.

Girl Bride Set Free.

Stratford, June 20.—Mrs. A. H. Saunders (nee George) the 20-year-old Stratford bride, who was arrested in Toronto charged with stealing a gold watch from Mrs. Sylvester, Stratford, while in the latter's employ, was tried yesterday afternoon and allowed off on suspended sentence.

She claimed innocence of the affair, and said the watch had been accidentally dropped into her trunk by one of Mrs. Sylvester's children.

The couple left the courtroom in high glee bound for Toronto.

Killed by Lightning.

Welland, June 20.—Andrew Hoover, a well-known farmer, whose farm adjoins the Town of Welland, was killed by lightning last evening.

He had been working with his son-in-law, James M. Putman, in the fields, and the two started for home in a boat, when a terrific storm came up. Putman was rowing. There was a flash and Hoover fell backward on the seat. He was 70 years of age and leaves a family of four daughters.

THE I.O.F. RATES QUESTION COMPROMISE IS AGREED ON

Two Options Are Offered—Can Lessen Policy or Else Borrow From Order—One Hundred and Ten Members Affected by Ruling—Several Salaries Are Cut Down.

Toronto, June 20.—In a compromise which is somewhat of the nature of an experiment but which will certainly increase the assets of the society, and should be acceptabe to the majority of the old members, the I. O. F. arrived last night at a settlement of the rates. To style it a compromise may perhaps contradict the idea of a final settlement, but no one was willing to give an official opinion as to what the result might be.

The report, which was adopted by a vote of 123 to 58, is as follows:

"That the old members be re-rated as of age of entry on the schedule set out on page ten of Supreme Chief Roger's report under column headed nine, such re-rating to start Oct. 1, 1908, with the option set out in the supreme chief ranger's report as option A, or a new option to borrow from month to month the additional premium required, the same to be charged with 4 per cent. interest against the policy as a lieu thereon, also that the same provision regarding extra assessments contained in plan 1 of the report of the committee on rates be adopted.

"That the executive arrange to ascertain the experience of the I.O.F. for a period of twenty years or upwards for submission at the next special or regular session of the Supreme Court.

"That the committee on constitution and laws be instructed to report the necessary amendments to effectuate this recommendation."

The option A referred to is for members who do not wish to increase the amount of their assessment payments. They can take out a reduced policy calculated for the amount their present premiums will carry.

The next most important matter was the question of salaries. This was dealt with by reducing the supreme secretary's by $2,000, and the supreme treasurer's by $3,000. The new salaries will stand thus:

S. C. R.	$15,000
S. Secretary	5,000
S. Treasurer	4,000
S. Physician	7,000
S. Auditors, each	2,000

The other business done was of a formal nature, and the supreme court closed shortly after 11 to meet in Toronto in 1912 unless otherwise ordered.

DELAY IN THE MARINE ENQUIRY

And it May be Indefinitely Postponed.

Ottawa, June 20.—The adjournment of the marine enquiry was the subject of a question by Richard Blain, Conservative whip, at the opening of the House yesterday morning. The Finance Minister replied that Justice Cassels was master in his own court. Mr. Watson had no arrangement with the Department of Justice as to his trip to Europe, he added:

It develops that the enquiry may be indefinitely prolonged. It has nominally adjourned to Sept. 2, but unless the Government takes action it will be necessary to adjourn again to enable Judge Cassels to attend to his Exchequer Court work. It has been supposed that Parliament passed the legislation necessary to relieve the judge from his work, but it develops that this is not the case. What Judge Cassels asked for was a provision to enable the registrar, Mr. Audette, to act as deputy-judge and hear cases in his absence. What Parliament enacted was to enable the registrar to act as judge in chambers and do certain routine work, which is far from enabling him to hear cases.

Consequently, the investigation may drag on interminably.

Killed by Dynamite Explosion.

Sargent, Col., June 20.—By the explosion of a carload of dynamite near here yesterday, a freight train was blown to pieces, two tramps were killed and several trainmen were injured, one fatally. A hole 40 feet deep was blown in the ground.

Struck by Tidal Waves.

Victoria, B.C., June 20.—The British ship Lord Shaftesbury, which has arrived from Port Talbot via Iquique, reported that when 200 miles west of Cape Horn a tidal wave was encountered which swept her decks, taking all her boats and houses off, starting the hull and partially wrecking the ship.

Scores King's Report.

London, June 20.—(C.A.P.)—The Guardian, commenting on Mr. Mackenzie King's report, says that the document is both exiguous and redinidant. The Yorkshire Post says that it would have been wiser for the Canadian Government to modify King's flamboyant style.

Twenty Passengers Injured.

Meadville, Pa., June 20.—Twenty passengers were injured, one fatally and several seriously yesterday on the Meadville & Cambridge Springs street car line. A passenger car telescoped a freight car on a sharp curve.

Brantford Boy Drowned.

Brantford, June 20.—A little boy named William Wilsoncroft, ten years of age, living at 94 Henrietta street, was bathing with two other little boys at Wilke's Dam, about two miles north of this city and got into one of the many deep holes in the Grand river bed. An alarm was 'phoned into the fire department, but when the firemen reached the river with the life-saving boat the body had sunk to the bottom, and the strong undercurrent that flowed hindered them from finding the body.

Independence of Philippines.

Manila, June 20.—The Philippine Assembly yesterday on the eve of adjournment declared by a vote of 57 to 15 that independence was the aspiration of the Filipino people, and that they were ready for immediate independence.

Took Too Much Poison.

Strathroy, Ont., June 20.—Bertha Skinner, a domestic employed by Rayford Thompson, took a dose of iodine in mistake for cascara. An overdose produced vomiting, which saved her life.

Wonderful New Weapon.

Dijon, June 20.—An engineer named Ponteaux announces the invention of an electric gun, which, without powder or other explosive, is capable of firing 1,200 shots a minute.

"NOT GUILTY" SAYS THE JURY

Young Man Who Shot Rival Escapes Death Penalty.

Summerside, P.E.I., June 20.—The jury in the second trial of Alonso Doherty here yesterday rendered a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity. The judge then ordered the prisoner to be placed in custody until the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor be made known. The jury was out two hours and a half.

Last Saturday the jury in the first trial disagreed after voting 7 to 5 for acquittal and in spite of the judge's strong charge against the prisoner.

Doherty crime was atrociously brutal and cold-blooded, and was not denied. He met the victim walking on the railway track with a young woman whom he himself sought after, and shot him dead, sending one bullet into his head after he had fallen. Then he assisted the girl to carry the body to her home nearby. Next day he surrendered himself to the police.

THEY FEAR MAN MAY EXPLODE

Wound Causes Air to Enter Beneath Skin, Causing Inflation.

Cincinnati, June 20.—Slowly inflating like a balloon, Peter Deal is a puzzling proposition to the attending physicians, who have strapped him down to his cot with wide bandages for fear he will explode.

Deal's condition is due to a knife thrust he received Thursday. He was bent over an ash barrel looking for something he had lost, and it is alleged that Charles Tray, an enemy, came up from behind and stabbed him.

According to the physicians, the wound created a valve, and, instead of the air being drawn into the lungs and out through the bronchial tubes, it enters into the muscles and is driven under the skin.

Lightning Causes Fire.

Hamilton, June 20.—A storm of the tornado variety, with brilliant lightning and violent wind, broke over the city at 7.15 last evening, and did much damage. Four buildings in the centre of the city were set on fire, many trees were blown down, and the electric system was badly damaged, leaving much of the city in darkness.

Alleged Serious Offence.

Guelph, June 20.—A Greek peanut vendor, G. H. Liampotis, was arrested yesterday on complaint of the postal authorities. He is charged with having sent improper matter through the mails.

The complaint originated from Geo. Mits, 1,151 Columbia avenue, Boston, who got postcards which he says contained obscene references. The Washington postal authorities took the matter up and forwarded the complaint to Ottawa, with the result that Inspector Henderson of Toronto was detailed to make an investigation.

There are five Greek families here, but it was decided that Liampotis is the man wanted. He comes before the magistrate this morning.

Paper Mill Burns.

St. Catharines, June 20.—Yesterday morning the lower mill of the Lincoln Paper Co.'s mills was totally destroyed by fire, which was discovered about 12.30 by four men at work in the building. The flames burst forth from the machinery room with great fury, and when the firemen of the city and Merritton arrived the whole building was on fire.

The president and general manager, Welland D. Woodruff, is in England with reference to the Woodruff succession duties appeal. The mill was burned some years ago, and a blind man was burned to death. The loss will reach $50,000, insured for [illegible]. About twenty men were [illegible]

INVESTIGATE AND PUNISH.

It is to the last degree satisfactory to find Mr. Justice Cassels and those associated with him impartial and thoroughgoing in their investigation of the affairs of the Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa. Such an investigation is what the Minister, the Hon. Mr. Brodeur, demanded, what the Government and parliament ordered, and what the public, especially the Liberals, desired. When Mr. Brodeur took charge he found the department in an unsatisfactory condition. From the evidence given yesterday by officials who were carried over from the Tory regime it might be inferred that such had been its condition for a generation. The courage and determination of the Minister that led to the first investigation under Messrs Courtney, Fyshe, and Bazin, and now to the more detailed scrutiny under Mr. Justice Cassels, will be properly rewarded if the searchlight is turned on every corner and just recommendation made upon the whole evidence.

It would be highly improper at this stage to pass judgment upon the men or the matters involved. The whole evidence must be presented and weighed. But it is both proper and pertinent to say with the utmost unreserve and directness that the day has come when incapable and especially untrustworthy officials ought not to be retained in the service of the Government. At least one-half of the burdens and worries of any Government come through inefficient or dishonest officials and servants. And these burdens and worries in turn become the deadweight and destruction of the political party supporting the Government. The price is far too great. Such officials should be dismissed, no matter what threats they may hold over the Minister's head.

No reasonable man would expect the business of the country, involving the expenditure of many millions, to be done without some wrongdoing and defalcations. Business is not so done anywhere. There is no railway no banking corporation, no private enterprise of any kind, conducted on a scale at all similar to that of the Government's business, but would show, were the searchlight turned on wrongdoing and petty graft quite as could possibly be shown in Government departments. That is quite true. But it is also true that no private business can afford to allow graft or malfeasance to go unchecked and unpunished. No more can a Government. It is no reflection on a Minister or a Government that wrongdoing should be revealed; not to punish wrongdoing is the only offence. And no permanent official has any warrant either from the Government or from the party in paying what he knows to be excessive prices on the pretext of conciliating party friends. The Liberal party is in no need of such conciliation or of such friendship.

Certain it is that the Press of the Liberal party and all true Liberals everywhere join in the demand that investigation shall lay bare the misdeeds of all those who have betrayed their trust and have dishonored their office, whether through official wrongdoing or by scandalous personal conduct, and also that such investigation shall be followed by just punishment. The burdens and annoyances incident to politics are at best as grievous as honest and self-respecting men in Parliament and on the Press are able to bear, and it is intolerable to have added to that load the sins and shortcomings of petty office-holders or of high and trusted officials, whether at Ottawa or anywhere else, in the service of the Government. Let the investigation be searching and let the punishment be adequate. No man is worth shielding at the cost of party self-respect and public honor.—Globe.

The above leader from the Globe of Friday, June 19th, is as near as can be expected to a confession that all has gone wrong in the departments under investigation at Ottawa. The Globe cries "Investigate and punish." The investigation has been going on all session and the punishment will come at the polls in October. However it is some satisfaction to note that the Globe admits what the Liberal press has persistently denied a rotten state of affairs at Ottawa. To upbraid the Opposition too, is folly intensified. Where would this country be but for the Opposition!

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is said that regiments with Tory commanding officers have received invitations for a unit, but that Liberal C.O. are in receipt of more general invitations.

Times are very bad and they are not made any better by pretending that they are not bad. In fact "optimism," as it is called, works great injustice to the unemployed, who are told to go and get work, when as a matter of fact, there is none to get.

Mr. S. H. Blake, K.C., may be said to be "fairly raising Cain" at the Anglican Synod in Toronto. What we need is more resolutions about the necessity of being good, not by the Synod, however, but by individual people.

Greater Ontario, which was said to be in open revolt against Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of Mines and Forests, returned a solid phalanx of members to support the Whitney Government. The average majority was 450. The people up there seem to know which side is doing the "lying."

The recommendation by the County Council that a magistrate be appointed for the northwestern townships is a good one. Mr. Louth could not be improved upon as the first holder of the new office. It is to be hoped that the Whitney Government will appoint him.

According to the despatches things are being said about Canada and Canadians at the Pan-Anglican Synod which are not strictly correct. The resolution at the now being held Synod at Toronto requiring less worldliness and more godliness in the clergy and people comes not a moment too soon—if they are to be attained by paper resolutions.

All the Liberal newspaper men who held seats in the last Legislature — Auld, Pense, Smith and Preston, the latter voluntarily retiring, are out. Mr. Warren who tried to get in, failed. All the Conservative newspaper men — Bowyer, Clark and Downey, — are returned, and Charters, of the Brantford Conservator is added to the number. — Exchange.

A June bug nearly broke up a wedding in Ohio last week. The thing flew in the face of the bride and she screamed when she should have promised to obey. The groom made a swipe at the bug and landed on the best man. The minister had quite a time in quieting the party before he could proceed with the ceremony.

The Tercentenary mix-up is a good deal like this. Sir Frederick Borden Borden being the bug.

Elbert Hubbard, editor of the Philistine, says he was nearing the end of a lecture before 1,000 attentive inmates of a state asylum when an old woman came screaming down the aisle waving her arms frantically.

"My God! I can't stand this nonsense any longer."

"That" said the superintendent to Mr. Hubbard, "is the first sign she has shown of returning sanity."—Buffalo Times.

She had been reading the Examiner.

Morning sir! Yes sir! Hair-cut, sir? Shave sir?" sang out the obsequious babber.

"Shave, please," said the gentleman, seating himself in the chair. "And I'm in rather a hurry."

"Quite so, sir," went on the assistant, lathering the customer's face. "I pride myself on my quick methods, sir."

Then he brought the razor into operation.

A few lightning strokes and first blood was drawn.

"Sorry, sir!" apologised the man, scraping away, and making gashes here and there, till the operation was at last concluded. "Want anything on your face, sir?"

"Well," said the customer, ruefully surveying himself in the glass. "I'd be obliged if you'd leave my nose!"—Exchange.

Perhaps the most extraordinary example of Britain going to war for "no reason at all" occurred in the reign of George II. One Robert Jenkins an English merchant-captain, trading from Jamaica, arrived in England in 1738, reported that the sloop had been boarded by the Spanish coast guards and that, no proof of smuggling had been found he had been tortured and his ear torn off. All England flew into an uproar. "Jenkins' ear" divided parties and shook Walpole's ministry itself. The House of Commons sent for Jenkins and he was told to bring his ear with him. The incident grew into a crisis, though Walpole did his best to persuade the people to keep their heads, but the popular indignation was so great that the next year the government was compelled to declare war against Spain.—Pearson's.

It was evidently not the ear, but the corn that had been tread upon. It is so yet.

Horses Eat Hay from Wagons Standing on the Market Square—Stealing Must be Stopped.

Mr. George Ball, the local market clerk, says that there are some persons who never buy any hay for their horses. They come to the market with their horses and allow the animals to eat hay from the wagons standing on the square.

This such a frequent practice on the part of some that as soon as their horses are left standing on the square, they make for the hay wagons. Mr. Ball says the owners of horses must see in the future that they are kept away from the hay.

Jewelry Protection.

"The general public is not aware of the carefully worked out system by which the large jewelry houses continue to protect their splendid wares long after these have been sold and passed out of their hands," said a detective, discussing daring modern burglaries. "Most large establishments dealing in precious metals and gems have a carefully organized and very efficient detective system, which makes it easy for a patron to recover stolen goods without charge and with little or no delay in the institution of the search. In the safes of these large jewel houses are minute descriptions of every piece of valuable jewelry which goes out from the establishment. Each piece is numbered too. When the gems are missed the patron telephones the shop in which the articles were purchased. At once a special detective, thoroughly acquainted with the business in hand and armed with a detailed description of the jewelry, is hurried to the scene of action. This is without expense to the client."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Something Hotel Clerks Remember.

"There's lots less danger of the night clerk forgetting an early call left by some guest than most travelers imagine," remarked a hotel manager the other day. "The fact is," he declared, "the average night clerk could not forget one of those early calls if he wanted to. You know, it's a mighty lonesome job the night clerk has. There is little for him to do, few arrivals to take care of and little to break the monotony of his long vigil. About the only fun the night clerk has is those early morning calls. When I was a night clerk I used to count the hours until I could start in on those early calls. There was nothing else to do or think about, and it would keep going through my mind what fun it would be to make some guest share my forlorn state by getting him out of his warm bed all sleepy eyed. I could not any more have overlooked one of these early calls than I could have overlooked my breakfast when the time came."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In the Jaws of a Lion.

A lion comes at its enemy at full speed, galloping low, and dashes a man standing upright to the ground by the full impact of its body. Major Inverarity states that "the claws and teeth entering the flesh do not hurt as much as you would think," but that the squeeze given by the jaws on the bone is really painful. When knocked over he was still keenly conscious and felt none of the dreamy sensations experienced by Livingstone.

Major Swaine, struck down by a lioness going full gallop, was unconscious for some minutes and did not know what had happened till he found himself standing up after the accident. "I felt no pain," he writes, "not, I believe, owing to any special interposition of Providence, but simply that the shock and loss of blood made me incapable of feeling it. There was no pain for a few days till it was brought on by the swelling of my arm on the twelve days' ride to the coast."—London Spectator.

A Woman Governor.

Queens have ruled many nations, but Pennsylvania is the only one of the United States that ever had a woman for governor. A passage unearthed from Armor's "Governors of Pennsylvania," page 126, says:

"On the 30th of July, 1718, William Penn died, at the age of seventy-four. By his will his wife, Hannah, was made his sole executrix and assumed the management of colonial affairs, executing this difficult task with rare tact and business capacity. 'She became,' says Watson, 'in effect our governor, ruling us by her deputies or lieutenant governors during all the term of her children's minority.'"

Not a Sure Mixer.

Poultry manure is very rich in all the fertilizing elements, but especially so in nitrogen, owing to the fact that the urinary secretions, which contain large amounts of nitrogen as well as potash in readily available form, are voided with the solid excrement. It quickly loses nitrogen, however, by fermentation if not properly mixed with absorbents or preservatives. In no case should alkaline substances like lime, wood ashes, etc., be mixed with poultry manure.

REPORTS ON BRIDGES IN THE COUNTY WERE PRESENTED

At County Council Meeting by the Representatives of the Various Municipalities—Bridges that Have to be Looked After.

Members of the County Council from the various townships and villages submitted reports on Wednesday of the work that had been done or was necessary to be done to bridges in the municipalities they represented, thus giving an accurate account of the state of repair of every bridge in the county. The following are the reports;—

LAKEFIELD.

To the members of the Roads and Bridges Committee.

Gentlemen,—In accordance with clause 7 of the Roads and Bridges Committee report at the January session I beg to report that I called for tenders for cedar for the flooring of Lakefield bridge.

The lowest tender we received was $18.00 per thousand feet, and there being upwards of 20,000 feet necessary, the cost will be considerable. The contractors are delivering the cedar at the present time and it appears to be of good quality.

The painting I have decided to let by day work or minor contract and purchase the material myself to be used. The rust and scales that are now on the ironwork being so detrimental to a new coat of paint is sufficient reason to have the work under control all through.

Respectfully,
F. J. MOORE.

ASPHODEL.

To the members of the Roads and Bridges Committee.

Gentlemen,—According to the regulations of this Council it became my duty to inspect certain bridges in the part of the county known as Asphodel and boundaries.

I found the Ouse bridge in need of some repairs and would ask your permission to have the same attended to.

The new bridge built last year will require some repairs due to rush of water against approach, and some railing for approach.

Steel's bridge can be made passable by cutting the floor in the centre and placing both ends in centre thereby renewing floor at a much less cost and be just as serviceable as a new floor for ten or fifteen years more.

Comstock's bridge appears to be in good repair.

I would recommend keeping the bridges properly painted.

Respectfully yours,
WM. OAKMAN.

CHANDOS.

To the members of the Committee.

Gentlemen,—Chandos having only one county bridge, I am pleased to state that the same, known as Dosee bridge, needs no repairs at present.

Yours respectfully,
WM. HALES.

BELMONT AND METHUEN.

Gentlemen,—Having examined the county bridges in the municipality of Belmont and Methuen, I beg leave to report as follows;—

Brown's bridge is a steel one, built on wooden piers and abutments. The structure is in good repair, except that a coat of paint would be beneficial in preserving the steel work from rust.

Deer River bridge is a wooden one throughout. It is in good condition, except the flooring, which will soon need some repairs, though, I think it quite safe for this year.

Taylor's bridge is a steel structure built on wooden abutments and is in good condition.

Burnt Mill bridge is an old wooden one and is in need of a railing. Otherwise it is in fairly good repair.

North River bridge is an old wooden bridge and is unsafe for travel and should be repaired.

Respectfully submitted.
JAS. W. RUSSELL.

SMITH

To the Warden and Council:

We beg leave to report on the Chemong bridge. The ice went out without doing very much damage. Part of the railing was torn off but outside of that, the cost of repairs was small. This bridge will need new flooring before long, perhaps next year. The township having no county bridges, the cost of maintaining them is nothing outside of the Chemong floating bridge.

R. R. SCOTT,
Reeve.
THOS. B. GRAHAM,
Deputy Reeve.

HARVEY.

To the Members of the Council;

Gentlemen,—As you have all seen by the report in the local newspapers, Gannon's Bridge suffered greatly as a result of the ice going out during a high wind. The bridge, so to speak, was entirely taken from its proper position, and floated away in three pieces, thereby causing breaks that necessitated considerable repair; the same stripping the railing from one side.

Through the inclemency of the weather we were detained in commencing repairs, but we are pleased to state that when once started we were successful in opening traffic in a short time. The repairs, as you will see by the accounts, cost in the neighbourhood of $300, although the general estimate of repairs was much larger.

The floats purchased last fall by my predecessor have all been delivered and they are of a satisfactory quality, the same being delivered to the three floating bridges.

Nogey's Creek bridge, due to high water and timber floating against it has suffered to some extent, the pier at the west end requiring some repairs when the water lowers.

The Buckhorn bridge, at the time of high water suffered so as to require temporary repairs, that is the approach at the west was partly gutted out by the rush of water and the caretaker has temporarily fixed it to maintain traffic for the present.

With reference to the Deer Bay Creek bridge, although not a county bridge it has been visited by a committee of the council from the county who will no doubt have seen the necessity of the bridge and the claim that township has upon the county with regard to assuming and maintaining of said bridge.

The committee will no doubt have been impressed with the fact that the road upon which the bridge is now being used is a road leading from one main road known as the Buckhorn road at the west to another main road known as the Burleigh Road at the east, the same being travelled by the lumbermen and general public and of greater convenience and necessity to such traffic than to the traffic of the residents of the township of Harvey.

Respectfully yours,
JAS. INGRAM.

OTONABEE.

To the Committee on Roads and Bridges;

Gentlemen,—We beg to report on county bridges in our municipality as follows: We inspected O'Leary' Bridge, which is a wooden structure on Indian River and we found it not needing any immediate repairs.

We also inspected Evans' bridge on same river which is a steel structure, built two years ago and found it in first-class condition and should not need any expenditure of money for several years.

Armstrong's bridge which is next on the stream, is the bridge about to be built this year. We will not report on it.

We also examined Hope's bridge, which is also a wooden structure, built years ago. We found it in ordinary repair for an old bridge. We discovered that the side timbers supporting the bridge are decaying and in our opinion will need to be replaced by a permanent structure in the near future, as this bridge has not been safe for years for traction engines.

We inspected Allandale and Keene Station bridges and found them not needing any immediate repairs.

We also had a look at Keene bridge which was built two years ago and found it in good condition.

In the inspection of Bensfort bridge which is situated between Peterborough and Northumberland counties, we found it in good condition.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Respectfully yours,
J. FIFE,
W. J. PORTER.

DOURO.

Report on county bridges in the township of Douro:

To the Warden and Members of the County Council.

Gentlemen;—

Having examined the county bridges in the township of Douro, I beg leave to report as follows:

Burns' Bridge is in good repair, with the exception of the railing, which is badly in need of painting.

Sullivan's bridge is in good repair with the exception of the railing, on approaches which is badly in need of repair, the posts being leaned sideways. They would need to be straightened up and new hub boards put on.

The boundary bridge between Douro and Otonabee built in 1905, is in good repair, and unless something unusual happens, will entail no expense for years to come.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. MOLONEY.

DUMMER.

Report on county bridges in the township of Dummer:

To the Warden and Members of the County Council.

Gentlemen;—

Having examined the county bridges in the township of Dummer, I beg leave to report as follows.

Payne's bridge on the Indian River is in good condition.

On Spencer's bridge the covering on the top of the old flooring is completely worn out and should be recovered.

Warsaw bridge is in good condition.

Douglas' Bridge is in good condition.

Robson's Bridge on the boundary between Asphodel and Dummer is in need of repair. Mr. Oakman having examined this bridge, no doubt he will also report on it.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

CHRIS J. DARLING.

ENNISMORE

To the Warden and Members of the County Council.

Gentlemen;—

The Pigeon Creek Bridge, being maintained by the municipalities: namely; Victoria 6.20; County of Peterborough 4.20; City of Peterborough 7.20, I take this opportunity of stating so that all concerned may be apprised of what action has been required with regard to repairs necessary to said bridge.

As you will notice by the accounts that will come before you, more repairs than usual have been made this year. Since the repairs of 1904, no year has required so much as this present year. It is not necessary for me to refer to the items of expenditure, but permit me to say that all expenditure has been made consistent with good work, of course. The new supply of floats will be useful for the succeeding year, or years.

Your commissioner has the gratification of reporting extra care and careful attention of the caretaker.

Some of the accounts have been met by the other municipalities already and will appear in the June financial statement of the county.

We hope to maintain traffic for the balance of the season with comparative safety to the public.

Respectfully yours,
D. KILLEN,
Commissioner.

GALWAY AND CAVENDISH

To the Warden and Members of the County Council.

Gentlemen:—

I visited the Black Lake Creek Bridge, Cavendish, recently with the intention of making preparations for re-building but found that owing to the very heavy rains this spring, the water was still too high to commence operations and upon investigation I find I will have no difficulty in securing the necessary timber for re-building the same. I think the month of August or September will be the proper time to do this work. I might say that in consultation with the caretaker of those waters, I was informed that all driving would be through by that time, and that he would lift the stop-logs and let the water off.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

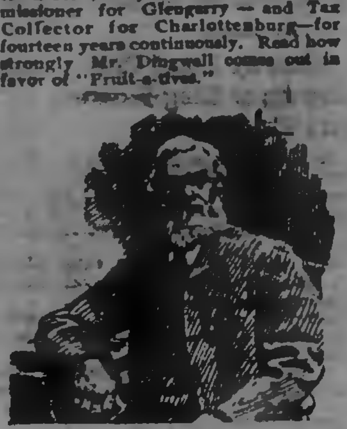
ALMOST GIVEN UP
"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HIS LIFE

Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of St. Andrews Sunday-School in Williamstown for nine years and License Commissioner for Glengarry — and Tax Collector for Charlottenburg—for fourteen years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-a-tives."



Williamstown, Ont., April 5th., 1907.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a life long sufferer from Chronic Constipation and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring, I had a severe attack of bladder trouble with kidney trouble, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can stronghly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for Chronic Constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action. 147

(Sgd) JAMES DINGWALL.

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box —6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE REPORTER'S JOKE.

In a Lindsay paper a short time ago appeared a notice of the organization of a ball team at the Collegiate Institute there.

The local Collegiate team wrote to the Lindsay scholastic nine asking them for a game and received an answer that there was no Collegiate team at Lindsay but the newspaper man had published the account of the organization of the team merely as a good joke. And it was a good joke too—in Lindsay.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

The hot weather months are an anxious time for all mothers, but particularly for young mothers. They are the most fatal months in the year for babies and young children, because of the great prevalence of stomach and bowel troubles. These come almost without warning, and often before the mother realizes that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. It is the duty of every mother to use all reasonable precautions to ward off summer complaints. For this purpose no other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets. An occasional dose will keep the stomach and bowels free from offending matter, and will ensure the little ones good health. If the trouble comes unexpectedly the Tablets will speedily cure it. Every home, therefore, should keep the tablets on hand always; they may be the means of saving your child's life. They are guaranteed free from opiates and narcotics, and may be given with perfect safety to a new born babe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COULDN'T AGREE FOR VERY LONG

After a twelve days' courtship, James and Susie Donovan linked their lives together in the holy bonds of matrimony, vowing faithfulness until death them did part. It took just four weeks, however, to change their dream of happiness into a nightmare, and yesterday morning James was in the Toronto police court dock, charged with wifebeating, and his wife clamoring for an order of separation. They were given a week's time in case a change of mind should occur.

OBITUARY

ANDREW FINNIE

The death occurred yesterday morning of Mr. Andrew Finnie at his late residence, South Monaghan. The deceased had been ailing for some time, never having recovered from a severe attack of lagrippe that he contracted last February. He had resided in South Monaghan for over fifty years and was one of the best known farmers in Peterborough county. His wife predeceased him about 35 years ago.

Deceased was a Presbyterian in religion and was a member of the Centreville church.

The late Mr Finnie leaves to mourn his loss, ten sons and daughters, as follows; Edward and James, Peterborough; John, Andrew and Walter of Monaghan; George, Carman, Manitoba; Mrs Robert Fisher, and Mrs. Thomas Dawson of Monaghan; Mrs. Walter Fisher of Peterborough and Mrs. Jas Finnie, of St. Mary's.

The funeral will take place at 9.30 on Sunday morning, interment taking place at Centreville cemetery.

The slight trouble of looking for the name "Salada" on a package of tea is well repaid by the satisfaction you have in drinking it.

RAIN INTERFERED WITH TENNIS TEA

The Nicholls Oval tennis club held a most enjoyable tea at the oval last night. The rain interfered somewhat with the attendance and it was necessary to serve the refreshments in one of the rooms of the caretaker's house. The apartment was spacious, however, and everything passed off most successfully. A picture of the members present was taken by Mr. D Easson.

MONSTER CELEBRATION ON THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH

Extensive Preparations Being Made by Local Orangemen —Over Two Thousand Followers of King William Will Assemble Here That Day.

The twelth of July demonstration in Peterborough this year promises to be the best ever and extensive preparations are being made in anticipation. It is expected that on the glorious twelfth, nearly two thousand Orangemen will assemble here exclusive of the many hundreds outside the Orange Order who will visit Peterborough on that day. The city will be thronged and the celebration will doubtless surpass anything of its kind ever put on in this city.

Invitations have been sent to Orange lodges all over the province, and several special trains will be run on the twelth.

As Toronto is celebrating on Saturday the eleventh, many will come down here on the Monday.

A special will be run from Havelock on the CPR. and it is expected from Lindsay, Belleville and Port Hope on the GTR. Each place will send large numbers and from all intervening points, hundreds of people will come. Some will arrive on the boats, those up from down the river and others from the back lakes.

Apsley lodge is going to run an excursion by steamer to Lakefield, and then by train to Peterborough.

It is four years since the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne has been celebrated here. The city on that occasion was crowded but this year's celebration will greatly outdo it.

The great parade will take place at 2.30 o'clock from Central Park, through the principal streets.

Interesting speakers have been asked to give address on subjects relating to the day.

A meeting of the Orangemen was held last evening in their hall, Simcoe street, when the following committees were appointed.—

Printing and programme —Messrs W H G Armstrong. E G Clarke and R E Juby.

Decoration Messrs. H T Everett, C E Wiley, F G Allan and N Hopkins.

Park—Messrs G E Williamson, H. Patterson, O Barrie, A E Weir, and George Bartley.

Subscriptions —Col. J W Miller, and W A. Kincaid.

Reception—Messrs Jos. Jones, J. S. Batten and J B McWilliams.

The several committees have power to add to their number any members they may desire.

The meeting adjourned until Saturday, June 27th.

SOLDIERS AT NIAGARA CAMP DON'T LIKE ARRANGEMENTS CONCERNING QUEBEC TRIP

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 19—The camp is talking 'Quebec' today. Militia orders from Ottawa covering the main feature of the trip—the corps selected, their strength and details of transportation— were received by General Cotton yesterday and will be given out probably this afternoon to the OC's concerned. In the main, they are the same as announced unofficially a few days ago. One company is to go from each of the rural corps of Eastern Canada; Toronto's infantry regiments are on the list, and every possible man will be taken from the Royal Canadian Regiment, Royal Canadian Dragoons, Horse Artillery and other arms of the permanent force.

Most of the men especially the older soldiers, are anxious to see the Quebec pageant and the British warships, and many are planning schemes to get taken some way. There is some speculation also, as to what will be the result of the rural crops turning out in their usual strength to camp. The orders as reported unofficially provided that rural regiments sending a company to the Tercentenary should attend the annual training at about sixty-five per cent of their strength.

There are some disgruntled souls in the lines who feel insulted because their whole regiment cannot go. A non-commissioned officer in the 12th York Rangers, ascribing his grievance to "politics" prophesied in vigorous terms that 'Aylesworth would lose 2000 votes in North York over it."

However, few if any officers are complaining, recognising doubtless the difficulties in the way of assembling the force that is being taken, even. When a Toronto paper arrived in camp, with a story about Lieut.-Col J B Rankin resigning because that corps was not to be sent, thoughtful officers looked up the militia list, saw that Col. Rankin's time had expired, anyway, and said, "That settles that."

LEFT ON WHARF BOAT DID NOT CALL

Stony Lake Visitors Were Disappointed Yesterday— Fishing Good at the Lakes—Many Cottages Have Been Opened.

Mr. Felix Brownscombe returned to the city last night from Stony Lake where he had spent two pleasant weeks at his cottage near Burleigh. The lakes are beautiful and are already populated by a large number of tourists. During the past week several cottages were opened and each makes things become more lively.

The fishing during the first week of the open season has been excellent, several fine catches having been made. The water has gone down 4 feet below the high water mark, tending to make the fishing excellent. Mr. Brownscombe said that the water was still very high in Lovesick Lake and the fishing there is not early so good as this time other years. Mr. Brownscombe made several fine catches during the week and returned with some nice lunge and bass.

BOARDING HOUSES

The hotels and boarding houses have been kept pretty busy during the past week, a large number of tourists having arrived.

"Victoria House," McCracken's Landing, is filled and "Glenwood" and "Vuamede" each has its large quota of visitors. The "Park" hotel, Burleigh Falls, expects a large number of Americans during the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Irwin are at their cottage, "Headlands,"

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McBain returned to the city last evening after spending the past week at "Bona Vaita."

Mr. D. Moore went up to "Yarrow Brae" this morning.

Mr. Ernie Best has been spending a fortnight at "Eagle Mount.

BOAT DID NOT CALL.

Yesterday afternoon quite a number of people who wished to get to town, were left at Stony Lake, at different points, especially on the lower end of the lake, for which all calls were cut out.

This was not to be blamed to the steamboat people for they did all they could in the limited time between the arrival at the lake of the boat on the up trip and the time of leaving in order to connect with the afternoon train from Lakefield. In former years the GTR have put on their evening train earlier in the season, but have so far delayed. It is simply impossible to make all calls and reach Lakefield on time for the train to the city.

An early boat has bene advertised commencing on the 15th June, as in former years. After getting it out it has been learned that the GTR would not put on the evening train until the 29th. On the representation of the steamboat company the GTR have consented to start on Monday next, June 22nd, which will be done.

FINED TWENTY DOLLARS AND COSTS FOR ASSAULT

Chas. Healey was fined $20 and costs, amounting to $37.50 or one month in jail for assaulting Robt. Maxwell on Wednesday, June 17. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the prisoner and pleaded not guilty. As the case proceeded he changed the plea to guilty.

Robt. Maxwell, the complainant, said that on circus day he was standing at the corner of Brock and George streets and the prisoner and another fellow were standing on the opposite corner. The witness went into an hotel to get out of his way. Healey followed him in, called him out into the hall and commenced abusing him, striking him on the head. The proprietor of the house put Healey out. Maxwell then got on his wheel and started down water St. At the post office Healey rushed out at him, pulled him off his wheel and then kicked him on the head, knocking him senseless.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams was called. He was standing in his office door on Water street when his attention was attracted to the row. He did not see Healey knock Maxwell off the wheel nor did he see him kick the old man. When Mr McWilliams saw them Healey was striking Maxwell with his fist.

Chas. Polson said that he saw Healey run out at Maxwell. He could not say that he kicked him. He saw the two rolling in the ditch and Healey was on top striking Maxwell.

At this point Healey changed his plea to guilty and went into the box and told his version of the affair.

The Reason Why
Zutoo
Is Used by Thousands.

It would probably surprise you to know how many thousands of people are using Zutoo Tablets who had never before used a headache cure.

This is due to three facts.
They tried the tablets.
The tablets cured their headache.
The tablets did not hurt them.

Like sensible people, they do not suffer from headache any more. They either let Zutoo ward off the headache—nip it in the bud—or assist nature in stopping it.

Which do you do? Do you suffer from headache or do you take Zutoo?

RUNAWAY WAS SENSATIONAL

Horse Nearly Struck Little Boy Who Had Fallen Down on Crossing.

A horse ran away this morning in the west end of the city and narrowly escaped striking a little boy in its wild gallop. The horse, which had harness on it, but which was not attached to any vehicle stumbled and fell in front of Routley's grocery, as it was turning the corner at Park and Brock streets. A little boy, who was on the crossing at the time noticed the horse coming and in his haste to get away fell down. The horse, when it got up jumped clean over the boy and continued to run. It was at last caught at the Little Lake cemetery by Mr. Frank Wise, who put it in his stable and telephoned the police of his capture. The name of the owner has not yet been learned.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

FROM THE ORANGEMEN.

To the editor of The Review

Sir,—On various occasions, since the date of the Provincial elections, statements have been made which would convey the impression that the Orangemen of the East Riding of Peterborough were guilty of introducing religious animosity into the contest for the representation of that constituency in the Legislature, by publishing and distributing pamphlets calculated to injure one of the candidates, who happened to belong to the Roman Catholic faith. We were somewhat astonished on reading these assertions, as we had heard nothing concerning such a proceeding until it appeared in the press after the election took place, and as executive officers of the County Orange Lodge we naturally thought that if any such thing really occurred we would have been made aware of it. However, after having investigated the matter thoroughly, we find that no member of the Loyal Orange Association had anything whatever to do with the matter, and we therefore utterly repudiate any assertions to the contrary. It is strictly opposed to the principles of Orangeism to persecute or injure anyone on account of his religious opinions. The Association demands as an indispensable qualification, without which the greatest and wealthiest may seek admission in vain, that the candidate for admission to an Orange Lodge must aid and defend all loyal subjects of every religious persuasion in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights. We have come to the conclusion, therefore, that this objectionable and pernicious pamphlet could only have emanated from enemies of our Association, which is constituted on the broadest principles of individual and national freedom.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, in advance, for the publication of this statement, we beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
W. H. G. ARMSTRONG,
County Master.
E. G. CLARKE,
County Secretary.

It's Natural Walking

the Wooden Walk.

When you afflict your feet with an ill-fitting pair of shoes you will soon be the owner of a wooden walk—and a heavy, toilsome tread which tires the body.

Nature intended that you should walk easily and freely without growing weary—that you should be light on your feet, and easy and free in your stride.

The Napoleon Shoes have the 20 improvements which Nature says you must have in shoes. They give toe-freedom. They have a hurtless instep, an artistic-shaped steel arch, and a plumb-line heel and sole.

There is ease and comfort in every pair of them.

SPORTING NEWS

SOME LIVE NEWS OF THE PLAYERS IN BIG LEAGUES

Cincinnati is giving all the teams in the National League a merry chase for first place honors. They have been winning games with much frequency.

Terry Turner the lightning short stop of the Cleveland Americans thinks he will be out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Ben Caffyn the new outfielder of the Toronto Eastern League team has only played one game with the Leafs that he did not hit safely. The way Ben is swatting the ball lately is making all the start wirlers look cheap.

Myrne Grimshaw of Toronto is expected to get into the game any day now. His lame side is healing very quickly.

The Detroit team is certainly getting their innings very regularly these days, even Washington goes there and beats them three straight games at their own sweet home grounds.

Chicago Americans have won fourteen out of the last fifteen games played and are leading the American League, followed closely by Cleveland.

Adie Joss and Ed. Walsh are having a merry battle for the leading position in the pitching department of the American League.

Young McQuillan of Philadelphia Nationals is certainly a hard luck pitcher. He pitched against Chicago the other day and let them down with two hits, yet he lost his game by the score of 1-0.

Joe Kelly's Boston team are dropping to the bottom of the ladder very quickly having lost 10 of the last 12 games played.

Walter Johnston, the boy pitcher of the Washington team is gradually rounding into shape after the severe sickness and it is expected he will soon start pitching winning ball with the Senators.

Philadelphia Athletics are certainly a disappointment to the fans of the Quaker City. They are near the bottom of the ladder and Connie Mack says he is going to get after a new bunch of players, to strengthen his weak departments.

Indianapolis is surprising the wise ones in the American Association this year. Charlie Carr's team is leading the League by a handsome margin.

The Columbus team of the American Association, who have won the pennant for the last three years, in that league, are travelling very slow this year, being away down to fourth position, being headed by Indianapolis, Louisville and Toledo.

Jack Thoney formerly with Toronto, is making a sensation in the American League by his great hitting and base running. In a recent game at St. Louis, he was cheered to the echo repeatedly by his fine base running.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Mr. D. H. Moore of the Sun Life Assurance Company will speak to men at the Y.M.C.A. Sunday afternoon at 4.15 on "How to be Happy."

The interest in the Bible Study of Sunday School lessons and personal Christian work is well maintained. Three classes meet at 10 o'clock on Sunday mornings. Any men or boy is invited.

The Synod report on education met with sharp criticism. The private schools mentioned therein it was contended not all teach church of England doctrine. Mr. R. J. Devey moved, and Mr. E. W. Trent seconded that "it be an instruction to the Synod committee on education to publish in the next Synod journal the names of public schools visited by our clergy.

The mover of this instructed plainly stated that the present facilities for giving Bible instruction to public school children did not make it easy for the clergy to act, but this motion would ascertain, if anything at all was being done along those lines.

The instruction was negatived, but a substantive motion adopted that a committee wait on the Minister of Education for Ontario and ask for additional facilities for Bible teaching in Public schools during the next school year.

A Filthy Condition

Many a man, otherwise scrupulously clean is dandruff dirty. The small persistent germs of dandruff working all day as well as night are constantly throwing off the small white dandruff scales which falling on the shoulders of a coat gives it a filthy appearance, which is repulsive to the friends of the victim.

Many men allow this condition to exist because they believe there is no cure for dandruff; they have tried various so-called cures with unsatisfactory results and naturally condemn all.

The famous prescription called Parisian Sage now put up in America, but only by the Giroux Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., is for sale in Peterborough by Wm. Madill druggist, who guarantees it to cure dandruff in two weeks or money back.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to do more; it will make short, thin hair, grow long, lustrous and luxuriant; it will stop hair from falling out; it will cure all diseases of the scalp. W. Madill guarantees it —every bottle of it. The price is only 50 cents and if you want to stop the filthy dandruff flakes from lodging on your coat and disgusting your friends, get a bottle at once.

PROMPT PAYMENT

Peterborough, Ont., June 12th, 1908

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Glob e Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,878 Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 1 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and presented us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,

A COMMERCIAL MIRACLE

The archives of the Board of Trade, we imagine, could not reveal many such annals of official obstruction as the story of the movement which led to the passing of the new Patents Act. Mr. Levinstein, of Manchester, whose own part in that movement was probably second to none, has shown in his account to the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, a charitable leniency towards those whose stupidity so long delayed the realisation of that reform, but the facts of the matter ought, for several reasons, to be reviewed from a more critical standpoint. It may be said at once that Mr. Lloyd-George has well deserved all the popularity he has gained from the passage of this measure, though not because he is more deserving of credit than the pioneers who perceived the opportunity and long and strenuously insisted on the need of reform; it is the extraordinary independence which he showed when the matter was brought under his consideration that deserves recognition. Many authorities were against him in the course he took, but he had the courage to question the decision of his predecessors, and he has now the pleasure of seeing their opposition fully condemned by the success of this act.

As far back as 1881 Mr. Levinstein called attention to the great injury inflicted upon British trade by foreign inventions patented in this country which were worked exclusively abroad, and in 1883 an act was passed, when Mr. Chamberlain was at the Board of Trade, with the intention of providing an adequate safeguard of British interests; but it was framed in such ambiguous language that it was found to be practically useless for the end it was devised to serve. Mr. Levinstein and others again took up the cause, and in 1897 Mr. Ritchie, then president of the Board of Trade, was pressed to consider the matter, but even at that date he did not consider that the Act of 1883 had failed, and refused to take any action in the matter. The Manchester Chamber of Commerce then began its active support of the movement, of which it has been the foremost champion ever since, with some success. To satisfy him of the uselessness of Section 22 of the 1883 Act, by which it had been sought to ensure the working of patents in the United Kingdom, Mr. Levinstein's firm arranged for a test case, by lodging a petition with the Board of Trade for the grant of a certain license. The hearing of this petition took the form of a trial in the Law Court; it extended over 11 days, and although the compulsory license was finally granted, the utter uselessness of the Section, for all practical purposes was abundantly proved. The total expenditure of the parties concerned amounted to about $20,000, the expenditure of the Board of Trade being probably less than $3500. As the result of these proceedings Mr. Ritchie was induced to appoint a Departmental Committee to enquire inter alia "Whether any and if so what amendments are necessary in provisions of Section 22 of the Patents Act of 1883." That Committee, however, was chiefly composed of officials lawyers, and a patent agent, while manufacturers and inventors were conspicuously absent, a deficiency which the Manchester Chamber's appeals could not induce Mr. Ritchie to make good. The economic side of the question was deliberately ignored by this Committee, who met the suggestions that some plan for the defeasance of a patent in the event of its being worked in this country would be preferable to the compulsory granting of licenses by the curt remark in their report that, "We are not able to accede to this suggestion," and Mr. Levinstein has shown that the Committee really misunderstood the object for which the enquiry was sought. To a witness by whom reference was made to the desirability of having as many manufacturers as possible worked in this country, the Master of the Rolls, a member of the Committee, replied, "That it is not very material to our present enquiry." Not satisfied with this Departmental Committee's report, the Chamber's of Commerce and other bodies approached Mr. Gerald Balfour, but again to no purpose for his bill of 1902, as far as compulsory working was concerned, was quite valueless. The Associated Chambers, however, did not lose heart, and in 1906 they passed a resolution that was submitted to Mr. Lloyd-George, and is now embodied in the Patents Act of 1907. It is the provision based on this resolution that has already resulted in the establishment of many foreign manufacturers in this country for the purpose of working their patents, and it is an act by which the Chambers of Commerce have greatly redeemed their vanishing reputation for efficient public service.

Since the passing of the Act, Mr. Lloyd-George has raised high expectations of it by his own enthusiastic way of estimating its probable results. The number of British patents owned by foreigners and not worked in this country was generally understood to be very large but Mr. Levinstein has given in his address to the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce a more definite basis for such conjectures, which he states, as follows:

"Section 27 is retrospective in its application. It includes all patents which were taken out from 1894 to 1904. Putting aside the years 1894 and 1895, as patents taken out in these two years will shortly lapse, there are still remaining the patents granted between 1896 and 1904. The average number of patents granted annually to residents outside the United Kingdom is about 8,000, which would give a total for these eight years (1896-1904) of 64,000. Allowing that, say 75 per cent. of these have lapsed, or are not worked, there will still remain about 16,000 patents to be dealt with. If half of these are already worked in this country, which is a liberal allowance, there are finally left about 8,000 patents to which Section 27 applies. I know these figures are somewhat risky, but still they shew at least that a very large number of foreign patents, granted in England, must at once come within the province of this new act."

In addition to the foreign concerns which we have reported to be erecting works in England, viz., two by German syndicates engaged in the chemical industry and the American Shoe Co., of Boston, and the firm making the Gillette razors, Mr. Levinstein learns that a large foreign electrical engineering company proposes to erect works on the Thames, and a number of other foreign manufacturers are negotiating for the acquisition of suitable sites. Before long Mr. Levinstein expects we shall also see the artificial silk industry fully developed in this country. This is a very profitable business, one German concern paying last year 40 per cent. in dividends. There are, however, a large number of other industries which come within the act, among which Mr. Levinstein names the motor industry, electrical engineering, labor saving appliances and machinery, chemicals, etc., all largely depending on patented inventions which will have to be worked in this country.—Commercial Intelligence, London, Eng.

GRANTS TO EXHIBITIONS REMAIN SAME AS LAST YEAR

Much Business Put Through by County Council—Committee Reports—Police Magistrate Recommended for the North—Resolutions Passed.

During Thursday afternoon's session of the County Council, reports from the Property Committee and Joint Committee were submitted. They were as follows:

To the Members of the Council,—
Gentlemen;

I respectfully ask permission to lay before you not a regular report but an explanation from your joint committee with reference to the effecting of a lease of the park to the Horticultural Society.

The same being county property, and properly speaking under the supervision of the Property Committee, yet in accordance with clause 2 of the Finance Committee report at the January session, your chairman consulted with the chairman of the Property committee which, with myself, thought it advisable, not considering any hurry necessary, to defer matters until we met at this session and before the close of the session we hope to be able to report a satisfactory lease, signed by all parties required to sign such.

Respectfully yours,
C. J. DARLING,
Chairman Joint Committee.

To the Members of the Council,—
Gentlemen;

Your Property committee herewith through your humble servant beg to report by way of sub-report to your Council the following;

Referring to clause 1 of the County Property Committee, January last your, committee appointed, namely; Messrs. Brown and myself, having discussed the matter, that is the repairing of the steps and walk to the Court Clerk's office decided to leave the matter over until the present session, from the fact that material and men would be more available now and could be reached by your committee at less cost to the county due to the fact that we could attend to it along with our sessional duties.

With reference to Clause 2 we have authorized the expenditures that will be presented to your Financial Committee, barring some smaller accounts that will come in later, the same being repairs to jail and residences, the account for clothing for the old poor in the jail, your treasurer thought it wise to have laid before the Board of Audit in duplicate, thereby enabling him to send it to the department with the expectation of some reimbursement from the Government, the result not being known yet as the returns have not come back yet. Other repairs have been ordered to the county offices, which are now under way. This seems to be an abnormal year from the fact that repairs that seemed absolutely necessary cropped up.

With reference to the negotiations between the city and County, with regard to county property or park, the chairman of the joint committee will report upon the same in accordance with Clause 2 of the Finance Committee at the January session.

Trusting that any suggestion or comment will be cheerfully given, and I can assure you that it will be appreciated.

Respectfully yours.
W. J. PORTER,
Chairman Property Committee

GRANTS TO FAIRS

On motion of Messrs. Moloney and Hales, a deputation from Douro, namely, Messrs. Hamilton and O'Brien, addressed the Council, asking for assistance to repair a hill and make it passable, said hill known as O'Briens Hill. This was referred to to the committee on Roads and Bridges.

Moved by Messrs. Scott and Moloney, that East Peterborough and West Peterborough Agricultural Societies be granted each $150 and Lakefield Agricultural Society $50, and Lakehurst, Kinmount, Kyene Societies each $25.00 for the year 1906.

It was moved in amendment by Messrs. Coben and Forter, that the grants be the same as last year, namely East and West Peterborough Societies get $100 each, Lakefield $25, Keene, $25, Kinmount $25, Lakehurst $25.

An amendment to the amendment was moved by Messrs. Graham and Moore, that the grants be East and West Peterborough $100 each, Lakefield, $50, Lakehurst, Kinmount and Keene, $25 each

The amendment being the only one supported by majority of the council, was declared carried, viz., that East and West Peterborough get $100 each, Lakefield, Kinmount, Keene and Lakehurst $25 each.

FRIDAY'S SESSION

At Friday's session of the County Council, a resolution was passed recommending the appointment of a police magistrate in the north-western township of Peterborough county. If this is carried into effect County Magistrate Edmison will be relieved of trips into that section and it will also lessen the expenses for witnesses, who formerly very often had to come to Peterborough.

Mr. C. R. D. Booth, reeve of Anstruther and Burleigh for nine years was recommended, and no doubt if he becomes the police magistrate the government will have made a good appointment.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Moved by Messrs. Scott and Fife that in the opinion of this council it is expedient that a police magistrate should be appointed for that part of the county of Peterborough comprising the Townships of Anstruther, Chandos and Burleigh and of that part of the Township of Methuen lying north of lots numbered twenty-five in the said township, and pointment by the Lieutenant-Governor of Mr. C. R. D. Booth to that position, and that the warden be appointed to wait upon the Government in order to have this recommendation carried into effect.

Moved by Messrs. Breault and Graham, that any grant made by this Council to the Horticultural Society be made on condition that the said society expend the same in keeping the upper part in proper condition and that the grant this year be $100 instead of $75 as recommended in a former committee report and that the payment be made to the treasurer of the Agricultural Society upon certificate, consistent with the conditions satisfactory to the County Property Committee.

Moved by Messrs. Moloney and Russell, that Clause 2 of the Finance Committee's report, June Session, 1905, be rescinded and that in future all renewals of insurance upon county property and administration of justice buildings be left in the hands of the County Property Committee, the chairman of the Finance Committee and the Warden.

On motion of Messrs. Breault and Hales, the County Solicitor was authorized to prepare a by-law to provide for the borrowing of $6,000 by debentures to be met during the next 20 years equal payments.

It was moved by Messrs. Ingram and Scott that clause 3 of the Finance Committee's report be struck out, and that the bridge referred to in the clause, known as Deer Bay Creek Bridge, be assumed by the county and that it be rebuilt this year and that the timbers from the old Buckhorn bridge be used as far as possible for the purpose and that Messrs. Ingram, Killen, Scott, Booth, Brown and the warden be a committee to carry out the said work.

OF INTEREST TO FISHERMEN

The following is an extract from the Canada Gazette of Saturday, June 11th, 1904:

"The Governor-General in Council is pleased, in virtue of the provisions of Section 16 of The Fisheries Act, Chapter 95 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, to order that the General Fishery Regulations for the Province of Ontario, established by the Order in Council of the 18th day of July, 1889 shall be and the same are hereby amended by adding thereto the following sections;

"9 No one shall fish for, catch or kill, in the waters of the Province, in one day by angling, or shall carry away a greater number than eight small or large mouthed black bass, four maskinonge, twelve pickerel —dore—or four lake trout.

"10. No one shall fish for, catch or kill, in any of the waters of the Province in one day by angling or shall carry away a greater number of speckled trout or brook trout than in the aggregate shall weigh ten pounds, and no greater number than thirty speckled trout or brook trout though said number weigh less than ten pounds."

11. No small or large mouthed black bass less than ten inches in length, no speckled trout less than six inches in length; no pickerel —dore—less than fifteen inches in length or no maskinonge less than twenty-four inches in length, shall be retained or kept out of the water, sold, offered for sale or had in possession; but any one who takes or catches any of the fish mentioned of less than the minimum measurement named,—which measurements shall be from the point of the nose to the centre of the tail —shall immediately return such fish to the water from which it was taken, alive and uninjured.

12 The sale and export of speckled trout, black bass and maskinonge, is hereby prohibited for a period of five years from the date of this Order in Council, provided, however, that any person from a foreign country fishing in the waters of the province, and applying and paying for an Angler's permit, may, upon leaving the province, when the same are accompanied by him, take with him the lawful catch of two days' fishing."

FROM CHILDHOOD TO MIDDLE LIFE

All Women Need the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

From girlhood to middle life the health and happiness of every woman depends on her blood. If her blood is poor and watery she becomes weak, languid, pale and nervous. If her blood supply is irregular she suffers from headaches and backaches and other unspeakable distress which only women know. At every stage of a woman's life Dr. Williams Pink Pills are her best friend, because they actually make the rich red blood which gives health and strength and tone to every organ of the body. They help a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply. Mrs. H. Gagnon, who for twenty years has been one of the best known residents of St. Roches, Que., says:

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I was weak, worn out and scarcely able to drag myself about. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, my appetite was poor and to attempt housework left me utterly worn out. I slept badly at night and what sleep I got did not refresh me. For nearly three years I was in this condition and was constantly taking medicine, but found no benefit from it. One of my neighbors, who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, advised me to try them. I did so, and the whole story is told in the words 'I am well again.' There are times yet when I take the pills for they seem to me a guarantee against the troubles which so many women suffer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act on the bowels. They contain just the elements that actually make new blood and strengthen the nerves. That's why they cure anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, lumbago, headaches, backaches, heart palpitation and skin diseases like pimples and eczema. That is why they are the greatest help in the world for growing girls who need no blood, and for women who are troubled with irregular health. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The passenger department of the Grand Trunk Railway system has just made an important announcement in connection with the movement of passengers from Eastern to Western Canada. Commencing June 14th, and daily thereafter, the agents of the Grand Trunk in Ontario and Quebec, and connecting lines, will be able to issue all classes of tickets from Eastern to Western Canada, via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis at the lowest current fares by any route.

As the Grand Trunk Railway have a double track from Chicago to Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, Woodstock, Ingersoll, London and other principal stations in Quebec and Ontario and maintains a superior train service, including the famous "International Limited," it is expected that many passengers will prefer to travel by way of Chicago. In addition to this advantage, the Grand Trunk now offers the choice of seven connecting lines between Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and other large American cities passed through by the new routes, who will doubtless appreciate the opportunity thus afforded of a brief visit at the stations in such cities.

All arrangements have been completed so that the baggage of passengers will be carried through the United States in bond without requiring any special attention on the part of passengers, and there will be no detention or inspection of such passengers at any point in the United States.

While through cars will not at present be operated beyond Chicago, it is believed that many passengers making so great a journey will much prefer the comfortable transfer at points like Chicago and St. Paul into freshly ventilated clean cars. The connecting lines from Chicago are credited with running some of the finest limited and other passenger trains on the American continent.

Another feature of the new route is the electrification of St. Clair Tunnel which has now been completed, and all trains are handled by electric locomotives. It will interest those who have in the past heard or imagined that under the former methods of handling trains through the tunnel there was occasionally a disagreeable odor from engine gases, to know that now under the new electrical equipment all its elements of gases and smoke are entirely eliminated and that the inside of the Tunnel is as bright as day.

He was surprised at how the sores healed. "I took your NEW METHOD TREATMENT for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, pains of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the NEW METHOD TREATMENT for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. LAST NIGHT'S BIG STORM DID SOME SLIGHT DAMAGE

Last night's slashing storm, while it did much in the way of refreshing growing things, was not without its ill effects and caused some slight damage and inconvenience in different parts of the city.

On Park street west the wind blew down some wires of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, putting out for a short time the lights on the circuit affected. Some of the lights of the Otonabee Light and Power Company were also out for some time.

Considerable trouble was caused the Bell Telephone Company, the lightning testers and wires were broken down by trees falling against them.

In various parts of the city trees were toppled over by the strong wind, and big branches were scattered around. On Hunter street near the residence of Mr. R. Neill a big tree was blown across the road blocking the traffic. This happened early in the evening. A lantern was hung out on the tree as a warning to drivers.

No accidents are reported and nothing has been learned of any places in or near Peterborough being struck by lightning.

LAST EVENING'S RAIN WAS WORTH THOUSANDS TO COUNTRY

After over three weeks of drought, the rain came down with a rush that night and thirsty nature was refreshed. The storm, for it can well be described as such, was the worst of the season. Still it was thoroughly welcome and will do incalculable good. The rain was accompanied by thunder and lightning and the wind that blew was almost of the hurricane variety. Several trees were blown down in the city and some damage was done to the electric telephone wires.

The storm blew up about seven o'clock, and, while the thunder and lightning were not severe, the wind was terrific for some time. The worst of the storm was over in about half an hour although the rain continued to fall till about nine o'clock.

The moisture was badly needed, as practically no rain had fallen in three weeks. The country was suffering from the drought and farmers in the city at the market to-day state that last night's rain was worth thousands of dollars to Peterborough county alone. In addition to the benefit done the crops and pastures, the dust has been allayed, and nature freshened up generally.

PETERBORO'S NEW FIRE CHIEF A MAN OF WIDE EXPERIENCE

Chief Howard Arrived in City Last Night—Has Been Connected with Fire Brigades for Nineteen Years—Honored Before His Departure by Firemen and Merchants.

Mr. W. A. Howard, Peterboro's new fire chief arrived in the city last night at midnight, and will commence his official duties on July 1st, Chief Rutherford and the old brigade retiring at 12 o'clock on the night of June 30. Chief Howard is a man of courteous address and good appearance. He is accompanied by his son Clifford and his wife, who is visiting friends in London will be here shortly. Before coming here Chief Howard visited Brantford, and Hamilton for the purpose of consulting with the fire chiefs there concerning the annual convention of fire chiefs which will be held in Columbus, O., in August.

The new head of the local fire brigade, or the man who will have that office in 10 dayys time, is much pleased with Peterborough and the way he has been received here. He had a drive around the city this morning and at 10 o'clock attended a joint meeting of the Fire Water and Light Committee and the special committee appointed to look after the securnig of a fire chief.

After the meeting the Mayor and members of the comittee went with him to the fire hall and he was shown through the building.

He says that it is a splendid, up-to-date fire hall and equal to that in any Canadian city of Peterborough's size.

When asked what course he intended to pursue regarding the conducting of the fire brigade he said he could not give any definite information along those lines as yet as he had been in the city too short a time to give the matter full consideration. He is looking around now, and getting his bearings and will be ready for the discharge of his duties when he accepts the responsibilities of his new office the first of next month.

He has been connected with fire brigades for 19 years, his first experience being gained as a volunteer fireman in London. He was later appointed to the permanent staff of the London brigade and after a service in that city of about nine years altogether accepted the position of chief of the Berlin fire brigade where he stayed two years. His next appointment was as chief of the Owen Sound brigade and he was in that capacity for about a year and a half, coming from there to Peterborough. He reorganised the brigade in both Berlin and Owen Sound.

Before leaving the latter place for this city he was presented with an address and a beautiful grip by the firemen there and the merchants also showed their feeling of friendliness toward him by presenting him with a gold-headed cane.

"I had a most efficient brigade of 13 in Owen Sound," said the new chief to the Review this morning, "and both they and myself were much affected when the time for my departure arrived. And at the same time they were very glad of my promotion."

Chief Howard has excellent credentials, which are in the hands of City Clerk Armstrong, along with many newspaper clippings referring to his good work.

The chief has always made a speciality of inspecting mercantile, manufacturing and public buildings and reporting regularly to the council. He will adopt the same policy here. As he thinks the responsibilityy of his position calls upon him to do so he will sleep in the fire hall every night when he begins his work as chief of the fire department.

YOUNG MAN ON "INDIAN LIST" FINED FOR GETTING DRUNK

The first charge in the local police court against a young man for buying intoxicating liquor after being placed on the "Indian list' was heard today when Charles Healy was fined ten dollars to be paid forthwith or one month in gaol.

His Worship said that as this was the first case that had come before him under the new act he intended to make it an example and impose a fine. Chief Rossel testified to his being drunk on Wednesday and Inspector Stewart swore that he had served the papers on the different hotels and liquor stores.

James Healey, father of the boy, said that he had received the papers and his daughter delivered them to the prisoner in his presence.

Chas. Healey was asked to tell the name of the man that he had got the liquor from. He got it from a man on Water street, also he got drinks at the Windsor hotel.

ANOTHER CIRCUS IS COMING

The citizens of Peterborough are to have the pleasure of witnessing one of the biggest circuses in America in August, when either Ringling Bros.' or Hagenback's Circus will show at the Driving Park.

The Peterborough Turf Club having control of the Driving Park, the management of the circus that will be here will have to rent the grounds from them.

This morning the Review inquired of Mr. Charles Nixon, secretary of the Turf Club, concerning which of the two above mentioned circuses was coming and at what date it would come. He said no definite arrangements had been yet made, but it was assured that either Ringling Bros. or Hagerback's would visit this city in August.

Ringling Bros. is too well known to call for any passing comment on it, but Hagenback's show has never been here. It is also a splendid organization, carrying as magnificent a menagerie as any circus on earth.

TWO KILLED AND ONE HURT EXPLOSION AT FORT WILLIAM

Fred Jeffries and James Crowley Were Instantly Killed—William Jack Badly Injured—Went to Rake up Piece of Dynamite Lying on the Floor.

Fort William, June 22.—An explosion of dynamite in the tunnel of the Fort William waterworks construction Saturday night killed two men and seriously injured another. The work of obtaining water for the city supply from Loch Lomond, seven miles distant, is now being prosecuted day and night, and it was during the night shift that the accident happened. James Crowley was machine man and Jeffries was helper. William Jack was mucker. The latter had just come to that end of the work and as he stopped the car he saw a piece of dynamite on the floor of the tunnel. He called the attention of Crowley to it, and the latter remarked that they had better be careful, as there might be more around. He took a rake and began a search for any other pieces, but the tool struck it too heavily, and an explosion followed. Crowley and Jeffries were killed outright.

It is presumed the dynamite was the remains of some of a former shot that had been broken off without being exploded, and was concealed in the rock. William Jack, the injured man, was brought to McKellar Hospital, in this city, and is in a very dangerous condition. Crowley is an American, coming here from Hancock, Michigan. Jeffries is an Englishman, from Reading, England. Not much is known of Jack, nor where his friends reside.

SEVERAL COTTAGERS HAVE ARRIVED AT CHEMONG PARK

Considerable Boating Being Done—Fishing is Good—Pavillion a Splendid One—Those Who Are at the Popular Summer Resort.

That beautiful summer resort, Chemong Park, is looking at its best and again has assumed its summer attractiveness. Several of the cottages are now occupied and many transient guests are patronizing that popular hostelry, the Chemong Park hotel. No visitors for the summer or part of the summer have registered there yet, however, but will commence to arrive the week after next. The rest of the cottagers will also come a little later and spend their summer vacation at the park.

Among those who are already at the park are Prof. Bull and family of New York. Prof. Bull is the popular commodore of the Chemong Yacht Club; Admiral McComb; Mrs. McAlpine and family, New York; Mrs. Kelly, of Rochester and her daughter Miss Mabel; Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe, Buffalo; Mr. Heaton and family, Toronto; Mr. G. H. Popham and family, and the following from Peterborough, Mrs. Dean and family; Mr. R. J. Moore and family; Mr. Jas. Long and family; Dr. Young and family; Mr. R. H. Fortye and family; Mr. D. Hughes-Charles and family; Mr. A. E. Dixon and family.

The pavilion has been moved from its former position in the park to opposite the hotel, and just inside the big gate at the main driveway entrance. It has been placed in an excellent position and with the work that has been put upon it, looks much brighter and more inviting than it did before. Its change in location and appearance will be greatly appreciated by those staying at the park and the visitors. A special pianist who has been engaged to supply music for dancing will arrive later. No dances under the auspices of the resorters have been given yet but doubtless dancing will be quite as popular or even more so than it has been in former summers.

Two of the most inviting pastimes at any summer resort are boating and bathing, and Chemong offers advantages for these that cannot be excelled.

Only a couple of launches are at the park so far, due to the earliness of the season. They are both gasoline boats and are the property of Prof. Bull and Dr. Young. There are many sailing craft on the lake, however, and the weather has been excellent for the enjoyment of this exhilirating sport.

The fishing is good and the anglers are having splendid luck. No record catches have been reported yet this year, but as Lake Chemong yielded up some big prizes to the fishermen, there is no doubt that innumerable "whoppers" will be landed during the season.

UNDERWRITER'S REPORT OF THE RECENT FIRE AT PETERBORO CEREAL COMPANY'S PLANT

The report of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the fire a short time ago at the premises of the Peterborough Cereal Company, has been prepared by Inspector Robert Howe. It is as follows:

Fire was discovered about five p.m. on Sunday, May 31st, by some people sitting on the verandah of a house on Simcoe street a little west of the mill. An alarm was immediately sent in from box No. 22 just opposite the house referred to. Mr. Meldrum says he arrived at the mill about twenty minutes after the alarm and at that time one stream of water had just commenced being thrown from a hydrant at corner of Water and Simcoe streets; the firemen say the stream was thrown in four or five minutes after the alarm was received. taking the average of five and twenty minutes it would appear that a stream might be thrown in about 12 1-2 minutes after sending in the alarm, which discloses a condition of affairs not at all creditable to the fire protection of the city. Distance from fire hall to fire about 1,700 feet. Owing to some disagreement between the fire brigade and the City Council, the former had sent in their resignations to expire on the 30th instant, the chief had sent in his resignation, to expire immediately. When the hose waggon arrived at the fire it was only accompanied by the driver and two other men, the hook and ladder truck following later, the steamer does not appear to have turned out at all. In view of the location of the building, on south side of Simcoe street, S. 7, B. 37, between N. 83 and 101 Goad, and near the river, it is my opinion that the steamer should have responded immediately and thrown water from the river, and its capacity being rated as 1,000 imperial gallons per minute it should easily be capable of throwing three substantial fire streams. The building appeared to have been full of smoke when the firemen arrived and after the windows were broken it immediately burst into flames, resulting in the destruction of two fire doors in the fire wall between the eastern portion of the building and that on the west; the two fire doors referred to were on the ground floor and the floor above, another fire door in basement resisted the fire. Simcoe street extends in a westerly direction through Water street to the river, a distance of about 600 feet from Water street and as the Gas Works are situated at the foot of this street, and the burnt mill in about the centre, I think a five inch main should be laid from the five inch on Water street to the river, with one hydrant placed close to the river and another midway between that and Water street, to afford such reasonable protection as appears necessary for the property in question. Since the fire the Council appears to have made arrangements with the chief and members of the fire brigade to continue in office until the end of the present month or longer, until a paid brigade has been appointed or some permanent arrangement made. A new fire hall (in place of the old one which has been abandoned) has been built on west side of Aylmer street between Simcoe and Charlotte streets, in which is located a 1,000 gallon Waterous steam fire engine, purchased about two years ago, a hook and ladder truck with 55 feet extension ladder and other usual equipment, bought about a year ago, one 1,000 feet hose waggon, and another 1,000 feet hose waggon which is to be converted into a chemical combination hose waggon, for which a chemical cylinder has been ordered; a foreman and two drivers are on duty by day in fire hall, four firemen and two drivers sleep there by night, the brigade consists of a total of sixteen men, each having a five inch fire alarm gong in his dwelling; seven horses are stabled in fire hall by night and four by day; a fire alarm telegraph system has been installed with 25 street boxes, each in connection with a 15 inch gong in fire hall, an 8 inch in P[illegible] House, a 5 inch in each fire[illegible] dwelling, and also with the general alarm bell on the market building. The total quantity of first-class hose appears to be about 3,000 feet and should be increased to at least 4,500 feet; the number of fire streams required for a town of this size, but 16,000 population, is 11 and the number of play pipes should not be less that 15 to provide for any that may be damaged during fire. The brigade should consist of at least 20 men, exclusive of those required for chemical and steam fire engines.

Inspector.

PEDLAR'S SON HAS WON OUT

Senior Wrangler at Cambridge After Two Years.

London, June 22.—The Senior Wrangler at Cambridge this year is a Russian student, the son of an East End Jewish pedlar who has been driven to London by persecution.

This young man is named Selig Brodetsky, and his success furnishes a remarkable example of the possibilities open to the poorest boy in the English elementary schools. His father landed here practically penniless sixteen years ago. Selig was sent to the Jews' free school in the East End of London of which Lord Rothschild is president. There he won a scholarship which enabled him to go to Trinity College, Cambridge, in October, 1906. He is now in possession of scholarships producing £250 a year. Selig's father was interviewed when the news of his son's success reached London.

This is the second time that a Jew has been "Senior Wrangler" at Cambridge. The first occasion was in 1867, when the honor was won by the late Tuma Hartog, who was a prominent figure in the agitation for the removal of Jewish disabilities.

TARIFF REFORMER CARRIED THE SEAT

Liberal Defeated in Yorkshire Bye-Election Through Labor Intrusion.

London, June 22.—(C.A.P.)—The bye-election for the Pudsey division of the west riding of Yorkshire has resulted in a tariff reform victory, the poll standing: J. J. Oddy, Conservative, 5,444; F. Ogden, Liberal, 5,331; J. W. Benson, Labor, 1,291. Mr. Oddy's plurality over his Liberal opponent was thus 113.

The bye-election was caused by the elevation of Sir George Whiteby, the chief Liberal whip, to the peerage. At the general election of 1906, when there was a straight contest between Liberal and Conservative, Sir George's majority was 3,502, the figures standing as 7,045 to 3,541. His majority at the general election of 1900 was 519, the vote closing 5,973 to 5,424.

The result of the bye-elections just held shows the Conservatives to have regained the position held by them in 1900, while there has been a reduction of about 400 in the combined Liberal and Labor vote as compared with the Liberal vote given the late member in 1906.

OTTAWA MEN DROWNED WHILE FISHING NEAR PORT ARTHUR

Young Soldier Also Lost—Gallant Attempt at Rescue—Dr. Fare's Son of Port Colborne Was Bathing in Welland River—Storm Swamped Boat at Hamilton—Percy Young Drowned in Lake Erie.

There is an unusually long list of victims of tragedies occurring in this province in the past two days. Drownings have been especially numerous, as the following records show:

Port Arthur, Ont., June 21.—A double drowning occurred Friday in a narrow lake in the English river district, west of here.

The victims are Albert Bertrand, aged 32, from Hull, and William Clarke, aged 27, from Ottawa, the latter being a married man.

In company with Lawrence Bertrand, who was employed at the same lumber camp with them, they were out fishing in a canoe. Clarke stood up to cast the line and upset the canoe.

Lawrence Bertrand swam ashore, but Clarke, who could not swim, grasped Albert Bertrand and both sank. The bodies have not been recovered.

Drowned at Goderich.

Goderich, June 22.—Private Harry Porter, 33rd Regiment, was drowned in Maitland river while in swimming with his brother, also a private. The brother went to the rescue and almost sank himself. Porter was formerly a clerk in the Sovereign Bank at Clinton.

Boat Was Swamped.

Hamilton, June 22.—James McEwen, an employe of the steel plant, was drowned in the bay, near Gage's Inlet, Saturday. He lived at the beach and went to and from work in a rowboat. In the afternoon he started out in the boat for his home, the boat was swamped by the storm and he was thrown into the water. He managed to cling to the bottom of the boat for a while, but was finally exhausted. Wm. Johnston, 288 North East avenue, saw the mishap, but he was in a shooting boat and was unable to give any assistance. Chief Hazell grappled for the body yesterday, but did not succeed in finding it. McEwen leaves a widow and several children.

Walked to His Death.

Ottawa, June 22.—George Barbeau, aged 23, who returned on Saturday night from an excursion to Cornwall lacrosse match, was drowned in the canal immediately after the train arrived. He was asleep on arrival and some friends awakened him. He got off the train drowsily, but refused to accompany friends out of the station. Instead he walked over the tracks and those around heard a splash of water.

Drowned While Fishing.

Port Bruce, Ont., June 22.—Percy Young, aged 24, son of George Young, one of the best known fishermen on the Canadian side of Lake Erie, was drowned Friday night in the lake.

The body was found Saturday morning, washed up on the beach. He had gone out in a rowboat to bait a night-line when a wave upset the boat.

Armenian Drowns.

Brantford, June 22.—The Grand river claimed its second victim within two days here yesterday afternoon when H. Manoogian, Armenian, 45 years old, was drowned while bathing below Lorne Bridge. Three fellow countrymen ran for assistance, and the firemen recovered the body after three hours' work. Manoogian came from Watertown, Mass.

Youth Drowns.

Welland, June 22.—Arthur Fares, 20 years of age, son of Dr. Fares, Port Colborne, was drowned while bathing in the Welland river.

Fatal Mine Accident.

Fernie, B.C., June 22.—A serious accident occurred in No. 2 mine at Coal Creek, when three men lost their lives. The killed are:

George Neath, aged 45, engineer, married.

George Rudolph, aged 40, married.

Steven Loey, aged 21, Slav.

The fatal bump was felt all over Coal Creek and people came flocking to the mouth of the mine. The bump occurred in section six at the bottom and squeezed up to the top, stopping the air from getting in and the gas quickly accumulated.

General Superintendent Sinser, Local Superintendent Strachan and the pit bosses were soon on the scene with a rescue party, but were unable to get to the men owing to the large accumulation of gas.

Miners Entombed.

Monongahela, Pa., June 22.—Three miners are dead, two others are fatally burned and 15 entombed, many of whom are supposed to be dead, from an explosion at the Ellsworth No. 1 mine of the Pittsburg Coal Co., near here Saturday.

Of the victims taken from the mine, John Beal is the only one identified. The others are foreigners, whose features were too scorched to be recognised. The two burned men were hurried to the hospital here, where it was said they will probably die.

Passed Russian Budget.

St. Petersburg, June 22.—The financial commission of the Council of the Empire passed the budget of the Ministry of Marine, amounting to $42,500,000, inclusive of $5,500,000 to lay down four battleships this year.

A deadlock in the upper and lower Legislative Chambers is now threatened in view of the Douma's recent refusal to pass the latter item.

Powder Works Blew Up.

Denver, June 22.—One man was killed and many are reported to have been injured by an explosion that blew up the Dupont Powder Co.'s plant at Louviers, 20 miles south of Denver, Saturday. Several persons are also reported missing.

Three Villages Destroyed.

Detroit, June 22.—Fires in Northern Michigan forests, fanned to gigantic proportions by gales, have destroyed at least three villages, rendered hundreds homeless, swept over thousands of acres of timber land, and caused damage estimated at about $200,000.

The heaviest loss has been sustained in Presque Isle and Cheboygan counties.

Boy Shoots Brother.

Windsor, June 22.—Andrew Sherman, 6 years old, son of John Sherman, Walkerville, was accidentally shot on Saturday by an elder brother, who was using a small bore rifle to shoot sparrows. The skull was pierced.

Eddie Howe, 14-years-old, fell from the new Grand Trunk bridge at Walkerville and sustained serious injuries.

Willie Brown, 9 years old, fell off the dock here and was rescued by John Langdon, a youth of 16, who plunged in fully dressed.

Trio of Accidents.

Belleville, June 22.—At the Lehigh Cement Works George Martin, a carpenter, fell from a scaffold, injuring his spine, spraining both wrists and cracking a rib.

A large iron pipe fell on Edward Milne's shoulder, breaking it. Dr. Yoemans attended the men. On his way back his horse shied and threw him out of the buggy.

Shot by Car Thieves.

Buffalo, June 22.—Daniel McCrea, a railway detective, was shot in the head in the yards of the Buffalo Creek, near Filmore avenue, last night, by five alleged car burglars. McCrea will not live.

Roy Gets Bail.

Montreal, June 22.—Hon. P. H. Roy, president of the Bank St. John, was liberated from jail Saturday evening, personal bail to the amount of $30,000 and three sureties for $10,000 each having been accepted.

Liberal Elected.

Quebec, June 22.—Petit (Liberal) is elected in Chicoutimi by 274 majority.

INSANE PREACHER SHOT TO DEATH

Blazed Away at Four Men Who Returned the Fusilade.

Hermann, Mo., June 22.—While insane Rev. V. Strauss, 70 years of age, a retired clergyman of the German Evangelical Church, was shot and killed in the streets of Fredericksburg Saturday, after he had fired at close range on four men standing in the street.

The preacher's mind had been failing for some time. He started for Fredericksburg Saturday, carrying his rifle, despite the entreaties of his family. Seeing the four men talking he fired at them.

One of the men, Max Kneiche, returned the fire with a revolver, killing Strauss. None of the four was hurt.

McCART ELECTED IN STORMONT

Recount Confirms Liberal in Possession of the County.

Cornwall, June 22.—The recount in Stormont, which was in progress for three days before Judge O'Reilly, was concluded on Saturday.

There was an equal number of errors, and the result left W. J. McCart, Liberal, elected by a majority of eight.

There were two polls, Aultsville and Moulinette, where the deputy returning officers had not detached the numbered coupons, but the judge allowed these to be counted. McCart had a majority of 44 in these two polls.

Crushed Under Derrick.

Welland, June 22.—The first fatality at the huge plant of the Canadian Portland Cement Co. of Port Colborne, which has just begun operation, took place on Saturday, when Alexander Cross, engineer, lost his life by the overturning of a traveling derrick. He was crushed under the boiler. The body was horribly burned and scalded. The derrick was used in the quarries for lifting limestone, and the cause of its overturning is unknown. Mr. Cross was 47 years of age and leaves a widow and four children.

A Successful Flight.

Freidrichshaven, June 22.—Count Ferdinand Zeppelin, made his first flight in his new airship Saturday evening.

A half hour's manoeuvring in the air fully established the stability and dirigibility of the balloon, which executed circles and short turns at full speed in a most satisfactory manner.

All on the Water Wagon.

Saratoga, N.Y., June 22.—Riding on street sprinkling carts and carrying banners inscribed "The water wagon for ours," Sunday school children from Saratoga and Schnectady counties marched in a parade which was the day's feature of the world's temperance congress.

Motor Cyclist Killed.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 22.—While speeding around a track on a motorcycle at sixty-five miles an hour, Theodore Shults was killed by his machine crashing into a fence, and Joseph Rice, another rider, seriously injured.

Suicide at Falls.

Niagara Falls, June 22.—A medium-sized, dark complexioned, young man about 28 years of age blew out his brains at the foot of Jolly Cut, opposite the American falls, in Queen Victoria Park, at 7 o'clock last evening.

The body is that of a man 5 feet 7 inches tall, about 150 pounds weight, black hair, smooth face, with monthly receipts for the Electric Encyclopedia of Pittsburg bearing a subscriber's name of Alexander G. Luck, 7,801 Cedar avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. He also had a ticket, Cleveland to Niagara and return, dated Cleveland, June 21.

Want Officials Removed.

Brantford, June 22.—Petitions are in circulation inaugurated by the Moulders' Union and other union men against Crown Attorney Wilkes and Chief Slemin. The complaint is in connection with recent cases arising out of trouble at the Buck Stove Works.

The men allege that there has been discrimination against them in favor of the strike-breakers and they ask the Attorney-General for investigation with a request for removal of Mr. Wilkes, and the petition regarding the chief will go to the police commissioners with a like request.

Firebug Captured.

Victoria, B.C., June 22.—C. B. Bratton, local agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., was arrested Saturday afternoon, charged with incendiarism. He was caught coming from the Board of Trade building basement, from which flames were bursting. He is thought to be responsible for fifteen fires which have broken out since Thursday, one of which did $50,000 damage.

Bratton was formerly in the employ of the United States secret service department, and has been here two years, coming from Salt Lake City.

Boys' Scrap May Prove Fatal.

Walkerville, June 22.—A typical boy "scrap" Saturday afternoon resulted in injuries to 15-year-old Edward Howe, that may cause his death. Young Howe, with a number of companions, was crossing the new bridge when they met another crowd of boys. A tussle ensued, during which one of his antagonists pushed Howe over the edge. He fell 28 feet and the bones of his feet were broken, as well as injuries to his neck and back.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT BURK'S FALLS ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Business Blocks are in Ashes—Fire Originated in Drying Kiln—Spread by the Wind Until Whole Town Was Threatened—Church Burned.

Burk's Falls, June 22.—The worst fire in the history of Burk's Falls—one of the worst, in point of comparative size in the province—occurred Saturday afternoon when property to the value of $150,000, went up in smoke.

The insurance is about $70,000.

The fire started in a drying kiln at the Knight Bros.' Co.'s works, but through the heroic work of the Burk's Falls fire brigade, under Chief Jones, and assisted by the employes, the big factory, saw mills, machine shops and lumber yards were all saved.

Unfortunately, while the kiln was burning, the wind, which was blowing a terrific gale, carried flaming fagots over the mill and into the business part of the town, and in less than a quarter of an hour several buildings were in flames.

Soon the whole town was threatened with destruction, and women as well as men set to work to fight the flames. Gravenhurst and Huntsville fire brigades were wired for, but did not arrive until the flames had been got under control.

Every business block on the east side of Ontario street, from Yonge street to the Salvation Army barracks, was burned to the ground, including the Clifton House.

They were all wooden structures, which have for many years been a menace to the town.

On the west side of Ontario street every building from Yonge street to the Partridge Block, was destroyed, with the exception of three brick buildings. All of these were also wooden structures.

The fire burned fiercely until well into the night. Yesterday hundreds of people have come in to see the ruins.

Too much credit cannot be given the firemen for their valiant efforts. Thanks are also due to the firemen from neighboring places, who came by special trains, bringing their apparatus with them.

The town's fire wagon was reduced to ashes.

Many other buildings caught fire, but were put out.

The five fireproof brick walls in the Partridge block with heroic work by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Partridge and others stopped the southerly progress of the flames on the west side of Ontario street, and the splendid work done in saving the Salvation Army barracks stopped the fire on the east side, and doubtless saved the residential part of the town south and east of that point.

Desperate and well directed efforts prevented the flames crossing to the north side of Yonge street and catching in the Sharpe block and The Arrow office building, the proprietor and editor of which, A. R. Fawcett, is so well-known in West Toronto as former editor of The Leader and Recorder. Had the flames gained control in these buildings every structure on the north side of Yonge street almost to the G. T. R. station would have gone up in smoke.

The absence of rain for over a week and the gale of wind that was blowing all the time the fire was in progress made it seem probable that the entire town would be wiped out. Indeed, it is marvelous that the town escaped as well as it did.

Among the buildings destroyed is All Saints' English Church. A handsome communion service, valued at $350, and presented to the church by a lady in England, was also destroyed.

HARRY COLLINS SUCCUMBS AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

Supreme Treasurer of the Independent Foresters Passes Away at Toronto.

Toronto, June 22.—Harry Collins, supreme treasurer of the I. O. F., and one of the most prominent Mystic Shriners in America, passed away at his home on Saturday afternoon.

He had been confined to his home since Wednesday and on Friday he became unconscious and continued so until the end came.

Last Monday, when he handed out his statement to the press, announcing his withdrawal from the S. C. R. contest, he was seen to be far from well, and the attack culminated in a few days in an acute condition of nephritis, a form of kidney disease from which he had suffered for some years.

Mr. Collins was 64 years of age last May, and was elected treasurer of the I. O. F. 18 years ago, holding the office continuously ever since.

The death of Mr. Collins is a tragic sequel to the crucial events in the history of the I. O. F. during the past ten days. Mr. Collins had announced himself as a candidate for the post of supreme chief ranger. Whether the opposition to his candidature which developed affected him is difficult to say, but on Monday, as stated when he announced his retirement from the contest, he was plainly ill. He of course never knew that the supreme court had on Friday night formally made the expected reduction from $7,000 to $4,000 in the salary attached to the position of treasurer.

Mr. Collins was born at Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1844. He was educated at Dublin and came to Canada at the age of 17, when he entered the employ of A. R. McMaster & Bro. as a clerk in their wholesale business in Toronto. After a connection with the firm for nine years he entered the employ of W. H. Sparrow, and later went into business for himself.

He was a member of the Church of England. He was married June 1, 1871, to Marie Adelaide, daughter of Robert Fraser of Toronto.

Mr. Collins was a past grand master of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows, a prominent Mason, a member of the A. O. U. W., of the Royal Arcanum, of the Knights of Pythias and of the Independent Order of Oddfellows.

In the Masonic order his prominence was marked. For a year he was imperial potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Northern Mystic Shrine — the highest office in the Shriners. His medal received in connection with this office is jeweled and is said to be worth about $700. It is said Mr. Collins was the first Shriner in Canada, being initiated in Detroit, Mich., 25 years ago.

THE BIG TRUSTS ARE CONDEMNED

Judge Hannington Leads in Vigorous Denunciation at Conference.

London, June 22.—(C. A. P.)—At the Pan-Anglican conference, the Bishop of Yukon described his work among the Canadian Indians, who, he incidentally mentioned, had given most liberally to the thank-offering in connection with the conference.

Judge Hannington, in the course of a speech in opening a discussion on monopolies, said it was a subject the church should express its opinion upon in a decided manner. Monopolies were prejudicial to public interests and the best interests of the church and Christianity. In fact, the trusts were hostile to the interests of everyone, pressing down and impoverishing the people. It was wrong morally and constitutionally for any subject to have the monopoly or control of anything which was intended for the well-being of the people. He held that people who raised the price of coal or bread were as big monopolists as anyone else. The food of the poor, from milk upwards, was terribly charged for by people who talked of thriftlessness of the poor, but the poor were robbed by everyone and exploited in every way.

Amongst the other speakers, who all condemned trusts, were several Canadians.

Poisoned by Grass.

Prescott, June 22.—While walking through the fort field at Prescott a boy, John Dow, picked up a blade of grass and put it in his mouth, and in some manner it lacerated the tongue. Dr. Featherston pronounced it blood poisoning and an operation was necessary in order to save the boy's life.

STRIKERS MAKE BRUTAL ASSAULT

Employees' of Stove Works Attacked and Badly Injured.

Weston, June 22.—While T. L. Moffat, Jr., secretary of the Moffat Stove Co., Weston, in company with six moulders in the employ of the firm, was returning home after attending the service in the Weston Methodist church last night, they were pounced upon by a party of the striking moulders and beaten almost into insensibility. Mr. Moffat received a severe cut over the eye, and his head is badly bruised by being hit with stones. While he was lying on the road with blood gushing from the cut above his eye, one of the strikers commenced pounding him with his fists till he was almost insensible. Every one of the six moulders in his company were badly cut about the face and head, and one man is so badly hurt that his recovery is doubtful. The road was spattered with blood for several yards around. Drs. Charleton and Irwin of Weston were communicated with and dressed the wounds of the injured men, some of which the doctors state are very serious.

The first intimation the party of returning church-goers had of trouble was when they were met by a shower of stones from both sides of the road while coming down Main street. When these gave out, the strikers rushed in to close quarters and used their fists. F. W. Moffat, brother of the man who is hurt, stated last night that there were at least 15 men engaged in the attack, and all of them are known.

George Martin, blind, graduated from the Rochester university, Rochester, N.Y. He intends to take up the practice of law.

U.S. AND PROTECTION.

The Republican party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a special session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the next President, and commends the steps taken to this end in the work assigned to the appropriate committees of Congress, which are now investigating the operation and effect of existing schedules.

In all tariff legislation the true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production with a reasonable profit to American industries. We favor the establishment of maximum and minimum rates to be administered by the President, under limitations fixed in the law, the maximum to be available to meet discriminations by foreign countries against American goods entering their markets, and the minimum to represent the normal measure of protection at home: the aim and purpose of the Republican policy being not only to preserve, without excessive duties, that security against foreign competition to which American manufacturers, farmers and producers are entitled, but also to maintain the high standard of living of the wage earners of this country who are the most direct beneficiaries of the protective system.—Mail and Empire.

Tariff revision in the United States by the Republican party means the periodical readjustment of Protection so that it will the more correctly and effectively protect. Once every four years it is found necessary to audit the national tariff in order that any change required in it may be made and any undue discrimination corrected. This is of course but simple justice and common sense. The principle of Protection has been at the present convention even more strongly affirmed than ever. But it is recognized that a re-organization of the cash medium of exchange is necessary if the principle of Protection is not to be set at naught by the hocus-pocus of Wall St. National development in the United States has astonished the world and continues to do so. There is nothing like it anywhere, either in modern or historical times. The Americans are quick to realise that a wrong demands a remedy and unlike our own Government at Ottawa, and its Liberal ancestors they put their ideas in practice without being hindered by prejudice or the seeming inviolability of a theory. A theory misunderstood and misapplied becomes a millstone instead of a milestone. It is an absolute brake that stops the wheels of progress utterly instead of being a help to energy and an aid to progress. The modern United States is a product of the Republican party as Canada a nation is the production of the Conservative party. The next year will witness a great change in the United States when they get their new system of exchange worked out and do away with the absurdity of demand failing for want of a supply simply because the middle man says "No."

THE CANKER OF CORRUPTION.

It is unfortunate that the Cassels enquiry into the Marine Department should have to adjourn with so many loose threads flying. The evidence of the Auditor-General that there were three men in the department in whose vouchers he had no confidence was disquieting in the extreme, and the country would like to know as soon as possible what opinion Judge Cassels formed of the explanations which these three gentlemen gave. The evidence of Mr. Noble, assistant commissioner of Lights, which he gave just as the enquiry was about to adjourn, to the effect that he was ordered to certify to accounts as "fair and just," on pain of being asked for his resignation when he was in no position to know whether they were "fair or just," is not a charge which should hang in the air until autumn. —The Montreal Star.

"The Laurier Administration has shown itself the most shamelessly corrupt in the history of Canada, and that is saying a good deal. There is only one remedy for it and that is to sweep them from power at the earliest opportunity. Will someone rise up and say why it is that in the face of revelation after revelation of the most appalling kind, Sir Wilfrid Laurier continues to approve and defend the men of his administration and their methods? Sir Wilfrid must have a curious mind that it will allow him to look with complacency on these performances. It is all very well for Liberals to say "Laurier is clean," when he continues to profit by the most profligate and corrupt following that ever "ruled" this Dominion. The old adage cannot be set aside, "Tell me the company you keep and I'll show you what you are." Even the most shallow-minded of opportunists and latter-day politicians must see to what lengths the despoilers of this country could go with a little further encouragement. But what do they care? "What is the good of having a country if you can't realise on it?" Isn't it about time too, that we had less "preaching" all round,—and a little more "practice?" Beyond all cavil as a people we deserve the criticisms of travellers who laugh at our complacency (see Canon Tucker at the Pan-Anglican) and smile at our general lack of a sense of moral responsibility. We live on catch-words; Politics, Prohibition, Reform, Christian Unity, etc. Any old thing will do so long as it rattles and makes a noise. We are all to blame as Canadians for allowing it to be possible for premeditated and shameless plundering to continue in the name of government.

THE TRUE TEST.

Jim Jeffries paid a splendid tribute to the late George Siler the other day. "The death of Siler is a great loss to the sporting world especially in pugilism, as he stood at the top of the list of capable referees, and had the fullest confidence and respect of every fighter. I know he was offered an immense sum of money to enter into a deal when I fought Sharkey in New York whereby he was to make Sharkey win. He declined to even consider the proposition. No taint attaches to his record, and every square fighter has lost a friend."—The World.

If an honest man really be the noblest work of God George Siler stood the test. Do we Peterborough people think him wise? Do we really admire him? Some of us may, but most of us will think him a fool for rejecting the almighty dollar. That is the way we were brought up, don't you know, and we can't help it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Review is accused by the Examiner of having a guilty conscience. We are sorry that we cannot say anything even so complimentary as that about our contemporary. It was never accused of having a conscience.

"In the grouping of industries by the Census Bureau, 'textiles' ranks third, according to the value of the products, the group of 'food and kindred products' being first and 'iron and steel and their products' second. But when the manufacture of clothing is taken account the class so formed rivals the group of iron and its products; and in the number of wage-earners the textile and allied industries are far in excess of any other group. They reported the impressive number of 1,156,305, which is but a little below the number employed in the 'food and their products' and 'iron and steel and their products' combined."—Canada Textile Journal.

Our Canadian textile industry has gone by the board, thanks to the "Preference," which is nothing less than an excuse for bringing in old worn-out Liberal theories, which even Great Britain is giving up. They are re-actionaries at Ottawa.

It is hardly to be doubted that Bryan will beat Taft in the coming struggle for the Presidency. Bryan is a sincerely religious man. He practises what he preaches. He is really a great man. But Taft is a Unitarian, and while of a character perhaps quite unimpeachable, he would represent the U.S. as without a Christ. To vote for Taft is to deny Christ. How many will do it? What a pretty figure some of our little Canadian mannikins cut alongside of Bryan. His advocacy and abandonment of 16 to 1 were weak, the abandonment being even weaker than the advocacy. It showed that his "convictions" were not convictions after all, but merely for the purpose of catching votes. Notwithstanding this, however, he has true moral courage, and that is a lot in this thieving world.

Bearing in mind the expansion and elevation of citizenship, the progress of the University is matter of moment to every citizen, and as the establishment to which our College of St. Michael's is affiliated it is of particular interest to readers of the Catholic Register. We are therefore glad to be in a position to offer our congratulations to President Falconer on the encouraging evidences of his efficient and telling rule on the life of the University during the first year in which he has reigned as its official head.—Catholic Register.

There can be no question that President Falconer is making good. He is calm and yet alert, just and yet sympathetic, of strong opinions, yet unprejudiced—in a word he is a man of a statesmanlike mind. The disorders referred to were altogether overdone. Students are not long out of swaddling clothes and need to be restrained, especially those who have that most banal of all Canadian faults, the desire to show off.

HOW ROYALTY ENTERTAINS.

An Invitation From the King and What It Involves.

The King will take no denial when he sends you a "dine-and-sleep" invitation, or one for a lengthier visit. His invitations rank as commands.

Their Majesties entertain their subjects for the most part at Windsor Castle and Sandringham, and their guests are bidden, as a rule, from Saturday to Monday, or from Tuesday to Friday—the latter for shooting parties.

It is correct to arrive in plenty of time to dress for dinner, but visitors must not expect to be met by their royal host and hostess, for, although when he was Prince of Wales His Majesty was on the doorstep of his abode ready with a hearty welcome, now it is not until dinner is served that the sovereign and his consort meet their visitors.

Neither at breakfast nor at lunch—unless it be partaken of at the shoot—will Their Majesties appear; therefore the great occasion of dinner is all the more auspicious, though tea is also graced by the royal presence.

At Windsor Castle dinner is served in the oak room, after a most impressive entrance has been made by Their Majesties into the reception room, where the guests are assembled, bowing and curtseying low, all splendid in their full-dress attire, and a perfect coruscation of glorious jewels.

The King is a great connoisseur upon dress, and though he does not, as monarch, stoop to take the personal notice of it that he did on one occasion—when, as Prince of Wales, an unlucky guest appeared in a black tie instead of a white, whereupon a white one was served up to him by a flunkey upon a silver salver—his order that knee-breeches and silk stockings are to be worn with evening dress by all men when ladies are present is so well known that it is followed in society invariably by many well-garbed men.

The dinner will not be a long one, but it will be perfectly cooked and served, and the table will be set out with absolute good taste, and always with great variety, owing to the enormous range of gold and silver ornaments at the command of the dresser. Two special silver services appertain to the oak room at Windsor, one called the "Lion" and the other the "Crown," and there are special service dishes for special viands.

At Sandringham—where by the way, it is the royal pleasure that all clocks be kept half an hour fast, an order carefully explained to those guests not already aware of it upon their arrival—dinner is served on a flower-decked table in an oak room, the predominant color of which is blue, and it, too, is heavy with tapestries and portraits of royalties.

No one sits down in the white drawing room at Windsor, nor in the suite of apartments that serve as drawing rooms at Sandringham until the Queen has seated herself. But Her Majesty is kindly thought personified, and never keeps her guests standing long.

Music and conversation are the order of the evening, and bridge for those who like it; and there are always quantities of curios and exquisite pictures, many of them with the personal touch afforded by their being the production of royalty's own hands, to be shown and examined.

The King and Queen leave their guests for their private apartments at the end of the evening, which does not mean, however, that special invitations may not be given by Her Majesty to great friends for a chat in her own private sitting room, or by the King to some favored individual for a smoke and talk before bedtime comes.

A HAIR-RAISING EXPERIENCE.

How the Captain of a Sailing Ship Took a Cruise Upside Down.

An almost incredible instance of the perils attending those who go to sea was the basis of a story told in a maritime court of Datzig some years ago by the captain of the sailing ship Erndte. Nothing that Jules Verne, Clark Russell or H. G. Wells ever fancied in their wonderful tales ever surpassed the story told by Capt. Engellandt.

He had sailed from Memel with a cargo of planks for Oldenburg. The captain remained at the wheel during a gale which overtook the vessel next night, and at four in the morning went to his cabin to change his wet clothes.

He had just got into dry underclothing when his vessel capsized, and he found himself standing on the roof of the cabin, the door of which the sea had hermetically closed.

By loosening the boards of what was now the roof, he got into the hold, which contained only loose sails. Fortunately some shelves of a high cupboard remained intact, and from them he collected some cans of condensed milk, some prunes, rice, sugar and sausage. He also found a hammer.

For 12 days the master of the ship lived in his prison, eating as sparingly as possible, and drinking sea water, which appeared to have no ill effect on him. He employed his free time in hammering on the steel bottom of the ship to attract the attention of passing vessels. He knew when it was day, for a dim light penetrated the water.

On the 12th day the Norwegian steamer Aurora sighted the wreck and sent a boat to take it in tow. Engellandt had fallen asleep; but hearing footsteps over his head he began knocking with his hammer and shouting for help. The Aurora's men returned to their ship for tools, with which they bored a hole through the bottom of the Erndte where they had heard the shouting. When they drew out their drill, a man's finger followed, and they soon learned that Engellandt had food for four days more and wished to be towed to land; for it was impossible to release him in the open sea.

The Aurora towed the wreck safely to Neufahrwasser, where with considerable difficulty it was attached to a huge crane, a plate was unloosened, and the imprisoned master was freed. He was perfectly conscious, and even able to walk alone. The three men who had constituted his crew were, of course, drowned when the vessel capsized.

POSTAGE STAMP CHEATS.

Foolish Persons Who Run the Risk of Going to Prison.

"You would be surprised," said a postoffice clerk, "at the efforts people make to avoid the payment of postage. And quite often it is not the work of children either. The most common trick is to take the stamp that has been canceled by hand and the impression just touches the edge of the stamp. After pricking the marked edge with a pin or cutting it with a pair of shears to resemble the punctured edge of the stamp or tearing away that part the stamp is put on an envelope for another voyage. All these are placed in the hands of postal inspectors for investigation.

"Others try to give the impression that a stamp had been put on an envelope and become loose and lost in transit by sticking a stamp on the envelope and then pulling it with part of the envelope sticking to it off again. These as well as underpaid letters, unless they have a foreign destination, where postage is then collected, are marked 'Returned for postage' and sent back to the sender. Second class matter, as a roll of newspapers, is often sealed against inspection by having the stamps overlap the cover. Whether foreign or not it is returned for postage. When it again shows up, the mistake rectified, upon inspection it is usually found to contain written letters, photographs (unmounted), jewelry, merchandise of all kinds, making the package underpaid; hence it is again returned.

"But the limit of foolishness comes when a person tries to efface the indelible ink from the stamp and with half the features of the stamp missing or rubbed away and some of the ink still remaining affixes it to an envelope, with the address of the sender upon the back to facilitate investigation.

"This, though, is stretching it a little too much: A postcard that had been put through a canceling machine and delivered to the addressee had the canceling impression and the address scratched off with the aid of a sharp knife and a new address substituted and a written message pasted on the reverse side."

AN OLD GORMANDIZER.

One Man Who Lived That He Might Simply Eat and Drink.

In a little yellowed English magazine, dated April, 1804, I came across the following amusing scrap:

If the Duke of Q. does not extend his life to a still longer period, it will not be for want of culinary comforts and those other succulent arts by which longevity is best promoted. His grace's sustenance is thus daily administered:

"At 7 in the morning he regales in a warm milk bath perfumed with almond powder, where he takes his coffee and a buttered muffin, and afterward retires to bed. He rises about 9 and breakfasts on cafe au lait, with new laid eggs just parboiled; at 11 he is presented with two warm jellies and rusques; at 1 he takes a veal cutlet a la Maintenon; at 3 jellies and eggs repeat; at 5 a cup of chocolate and rusques; at 7:30 he takes a hearty dinner from high seasoned dishes and makes suitable libations of claret and madeira; at 10 tea, coffee and muffins; at 12 sups off a roast poulet, with a plentiful solution of lime punch; at 1 in the morning he retires to bed in high spirits and sleeps till 3, when his man cook, to the moment, waits upon him in person with a hot and savory veal cutlet, which, with a potation of wine and water, prepares him for further repose that continues generally uninterrupted till the morning summons to his lacteal bath.

"In this routine of living comforts are the four and twenty hours invariably divided, so that if his grace does not know, with Sir Toby Belch, 'that our life is composed of four elements' he knows at least, with Sir Ague Cheek, 'that it consists in eating and drinking.'"

A Reason For Thanks.

The impecunious author's wife was trying on a new dress and endeavoring to observe the hang of it by means of a round mirror on top of a high chiffonier. Every woman will appreciate what that means.

"Oh, dear," she exclaimed as she thought with some pathos, "I haven't seen the bottom of my skirt since I was married."

Her husband looked up, brute that he was, and remarked:

"Well, you can thank your lucky stars for that."

Had Left For Parts Unknown.

In a murder trial in Texas some years ago the counsel for the defense was examining a venireman regarding his qualifications to serve. The candidate admitted that he had once been a member of a jury which tried a negro for murder. It is not permissible in such cases to ask the result of the trial, so the counsel said:

"Where is that negro now?"

"I don't know," was the reply. "The sheriff hanged him at the appointed time."

Imposing.

"The Swelltons seem to keep up an imposing establishment," remarked the canned goods drummer.

"You bet they do," replied the groceryman, with a sigh long drawn out, "and I'm one of the fellows they impose on."

A BISON AT BAY.

Fight to the Death Between a Bison and a Pair of Tigers.

On a hunting trip in India C. de Crespigny witnessed a remarkable fight to the death between a mighty bison and a pair of Bengal tigers, of which he tells in Outing. With two trained Indian trackers he had been stalking the bison for days, for his huge tracks left no doubt that he was a prize well worth the trouble. A fortnight passed before the fresh appearance of the tracks indicated that they were not far from the huge animal, when one of the trackers discovered they were not the only hunters on this quest. The tracks of a couple of tigers followed those of the bison. There was the more interest in the search as the huge animal was not alone, everywhere the tracks had made evident that he was accompanied by his mate and her two calves. It was well towards the close of the day when from the vantage ground of a slight rise the human hunters at last saw their prey about a hundred yards off.

Before I could make up my mind whether I should interfere or not, the fight had begun—and I gazed, spell-bound. One, the tigress, as I subsequently found out, had stealthily wormed her way round behind the bull, while the tiger remained facing him. Suddenly a yellow streak flashed through the air from behind, and the tigress landed fair and square on the bull's neck, and her claws tearing cruel slashes along his sides. As the bull, taken entirely by surprise, involuntarily threw back his head, the tiger facing him sprang for his throat, and seemed to get home despite the quickly lowered horns, for his fore paws were round the bull's neck, his fangs apparently in his throat, whilst his hind claws were tearing his chest to ribbons. The attack, ably conceived and skillfully carried out, appeared to be entirely successful. In vain the poor brute rushed through the undergrowth shaking himself, and toiled here and there trying to dislodge the monstrous clinging cats; all his efforts seemed unavailing, and the blood was soon pouring down his lacerated chest and sides.

My rifle was again at my shoulder, for I could not let my old friend be butchered in this cold-blooded way, and the end seemed imminent. The indignant snorts had turned to labored breaths and then to moans, twice he was down on his knees, and twice he struggled again to his feet. Round and round he blundered, pushing up against the trees and doing all he knew, but the tigers' deadly grip never relaxed.

Suddenly the huge brute was down on his knees for the third time. Surely it was all over now and this was the end! No! it was his last card and he played it well. With a quick, convulsive movement he threw himself on his side and rolled over; there was a sickening thud, and when he was up again, the tigress's yellow form lay motionless on the ground, whilst the tiger had relaxed his hold of the throat. In an instant the tide of battle had turned, for the tiger did not seem anxious to renew the attack by himself—on the contrary he seemed to be trying to get off quietly; perhaps he too bad been damaged in the fall, for the fight seemed knocked out of him. But the enraged bull, with the lust of victory in his eye and mindful of the cruel treatment he had received, was not going to let him off so easily and was pressing him hard. And so they stood facing each other, the tiger snarling and showing his fangs, and the bull threatening him with lowered head. Again and again the bull charged, but the tiger managed to evade him, giving ground toward us. Finally, in desperation, finding he could not get away, he sprang once more for the bull's throat; but he met the lowered horns and was flung with a heavy thud over the bull's back. The bull ran in, butting and tossing the inanimate form, until at length satisfied he stood victorious; but it was a sore-wounded and exhausted victor with lolling tongue and heavy, blood-stained sides.

Slowly and timidly the cow and calves joined him, the calves pressing up close against their mother's flanks as if they had been glued there; and it was a touching sight to see her licking his wounds. And so, within thirty yards of me stood the family, to meet which I had spent so many hours and toiled so many weary miles.

"Maro, maro, Sahib," whispered Ram Dass hoarsely, pointing to the bull. But no, I simply could not shoot, my rifle declined absolutely to come up to my shoulder. It would have been sheer murder to have killed that helpless and exhausted brute, who had fought so gallantly for his mate and offspring. And so as the sun sank behind the hill and the short Indian twilight came on apace, I watched my old friend walking slowly, but I am glad to say firmly, away into the depths of the jungle with his mate and calves nestling close up to his wounded sides; and figuratively I took off my hat to him for the brave old sportsman that he was. He left behind him as my share of the perquisites two tigers, with their skins rather the worse for wear it is true, but still two royal Bengal tigers. And though he was taking away forever from my ken those splendid horns, which I had coveted so anxiously and worked so hard to get, I did not have it in my heart to wish it otherwise.

Wooden Bread.

It is commonly known that bread when very stale becomes practically as hard as wood, but a German paper devoted to the wood industry has conceived the idea of making bread of wood. In fact, in order to exploit the idea a "bakehouse" has been constructed in Berlin in which the "loaves" are made. It is prepared by first of all submitting the wood in the form of sawdust to various chemical processes, then mixing it with a certain proportion of rye flour, after which it is worked into a paste and put in the oven like ordinary bread. It is necessary to add, however, says The London Globe, that the "bread" is only made for horses.

The approaching season for soft shell crabs will bring 1,000,000 of them from the Jersey coast to Chicago.

PRUNING TREES.

Proper Treatment of Roots and Top at Planting Time.

All are agreed that trees intended for orchard purposes are best if nursery grown. Nursery grown trees, however, are produced under conditions which subject them to more or less crowding, with the result that the normal development has been changed. The planter should at planting time have in mind the natural form and habits of the plants with which he is dealing and should therefore use the knife so as to bring about results which will allow the tree to assume its normal shape.

From the Nursery.

As the trees or plants are removed from the nursery a greater or less proportion of the roots is necessarily lost in the operation of digging. If the trees are large only the main roots will be left upon the plant, while if small a very much larger proportion of the fine fibrous feeding roots can be retained. Then, too, the distance which plants are removed has a direct bearing upon the amount of root surface which is left at planting time. Plants which can be dug and immediately reset suffer much less than do those which have to be shipped long distances. The planter should take these factors into consideration in pruning the tree at planting time.

Growth of the Branches.

As the growth of the branches depends entirely upon the food supply made available to them by the roots of the plant, it follows that in order that the roots shall be able to furnish food for the branches and leaves the area of the top of the tree must be reduced in proportion to the loss which the root has sustained—in fact, the pruning of the top should be somewhat more severe than has been the pruning of the roots, because the demand for water which is made by the growing parts cannot be so successfully met by a newly transplanted tree as by one thoroughly established.—L. C. Corbett.

Applying Lime.

In view of the renewed interest in liming of soils and a widespread desire for information regarding the best methods of applying lime, the following statements by C. E. Thorne of the Ohio experiment station on the latter subject are believed to be especially timely:

One way of applying lime is to distribute the freshly burned lump lime in piles over the field after the land has been prepared for the crop, throw a little water on the lime, cover it with fine earth and after it has thoroughly slaked mix it with more earth and distribute with the shovel. Half a peck of lime to the square rod would give twenty bushels, or 1,400 pounds, to the acre. As lime absorbs nearly one-fourth its weight of water (24 per cent) in slaking, this would give about 1,750 pounds of slaked or hydrated lime per acre.

Slaked lime is a disagreeable material to handle, but it is sometimes applied in this condition, being spread from wagons, but any method of hand spreading involves irregularity in distribution and therefore a waste of material. Slaked lime may be successfully spread with the ordinary manure spreader by first placing a quantity of litter on the spreader apron to prevent the lime from sifting through and to bring it within reach of the teeth of the spreader and setting the apron to travel slowly.

The best manure spreaders are now fitted with hoods and slow gearing for lime spreading.

It is very difficult to spread lime satisfactorily with the ordinary fertilizer drill, because the fine powder packs above the feeders and fails to run out evenly. Moreover, these drills are not usually made of sufficient capacity to apply more than about 500 pounds of material per acre.

The best form of lime for this work is the ground quicklime which is now made by several manufacturers for building purposes, it being more convenient to handle in this form than in lumps. Such lime can be used in the fertilizer drill when fresh and coarsely ground, though it usually contains considerable fine dust, which interferes with distribution by that implement.

The most satisfactory implement for distributing lime is one made especially for that purpose. Such machines are made by several manufacturers of fertilizer drills.

Henroosts.

Make all roosts on the same level. The ladder arrangement is a nuisance and offers no advantage. Arrange the roosts so that they may be readily removed for cleaning. Do not fill the chicken house full of roosts. Put in only enough to accommodate the hens and let these be on one side of the house. The floor under the roosts should be separated from the feeding floor by a board set on edge, or, better still, a tight roost platform may be built under the perches. By this latter scheme the entire floor of the house is available as a scratching floor.—Oscar Erf.

Ammonia In Commercial Fertilizers.

Ammonia occurs in commercial fertilizers as sulphate of ammonia and furnishes nitrogen in one of its most active forms of combination. The commercial article of high grade contains about 20.6 per cent of nitrogen, equivalent to 25 per cent of ammonia.

Land For Tomatoes.

Land that would produce from ten to twelve barrels of corn per acre should, other things being properly looked after, easily produce six or eight tons of tomatoes. This would be called average or medium conditions.—Maryland Experiment Station.

Pietro Giacona, a New Orleans merchant killed three Black Hand agents and wounded a fourth.

PATIENTS' RISKS.

183 Deaths Under the Influence of Anaesthetics.

Mr Herbert Gladstone, Home Secretory, recently stated in the House of Commons that in 1906 64 deaths in London and 119 in the rest of England and Wales were caused by anaesthetics administered for operations. According to a London coroner, the large number of deaths from this cause shows the necessity for a thorough revision of the practice of the giving of such drugs in the London hospitals. That many of the most influential members of the medical profession are not satisfied with the existing methods of anaesthetic administration was shown at the last meeting of the Medico-Legal Society, when various suggestions were made as to the best ways of remedying the existing evils.

Dr. Fred Hewitt, the well-known anaesthetist, proposed a resolution asking for legislation to make the administration of anaesthetics by any person other than a duly registered medical practitioner a penal offence, and further asking the General Medical Council to include a course of instruction in anaesthetics among the requirements in regard to professional education. Amended copies of these resolutions have been forwarded to the General Medical Council and to the Privy Council. Dr. Hewitt decried the present "slipshod and unsatisfactory system" by which any inexperienced and unqualified person might administer an anaesthetic so long as his intentions were good and he administered to the best of his ability. Of twenty-two medical examining boards of England, Scotland, and Ireland, said Dr. Hewitt, only eight made it compulsory for candidates to have received any instruction in anaesthetics. Another doctor said, "Notwithstanding that Dr. Hewitt personally has never seen a death from anaesthetics, and asserts that nine out of every ten deaths under anaesthetics are the fault of the anaesthetist, the majority of these medical men who specialize in giving these drugs have not had the same happy experience, nor are they of the same opinion. Operations are often performed on people in extremis, with bad hearts and lungs, and that even more deaths do not occur is a tribute to the high degree of skill of the anaesthetists."

Thin Glass and Thick.

Glass is a substance that we cannot figure the strength of as we can a great many other things with which we are familiar. It varies greatly in itself. The strongest glass, as a rule, breaks into the greatest number of fragments. Comparing the strength of thin glass with thick, the former is relatively the stronger. This is a thing very often lost sight of. Then, again, as to the difference between rough plate and polished plate, we find polished plate the stronger. This is perhaps to be attributed to the fact that all these very fine surface hair cracks are polished out. These only go into the glass to a certain depth, and when they are all or nearly all polished and ground off there is less chance for some of them to form the basis of a crack, and thereby the glass is increased in strength. Tests have been made, and some formulae have been arrived at. As was to be expected, they show very irregular results as to the strength of glass.

SOLD TO A MAN ON "BLACK LIST" AND WAS FINED

Hotelkeeper Fined Thirty Dollars and Costs in Court Today.

A local hotelkeeper at the police court this morning was fined thirty dollars and costs for a breach of the liquor license act, by selling intoxicating drink to Chas. Healey who had been placed on the "Indian list." Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the defendant and pleaded not guilty.

The accused however, admitted giving Healey one glass of lager, not knowing him and thinking that it was another young man who was Healey and who was on the "black list."

His Worship said that in view of there being no previous conviction against the defendant, he would not impose the maximum fine.

MASONRY HAS LEFT A STRONG IMPRESS ON WORLD'S HISTORY

Masons Attended Service at All Saints' Chunch Yesterday Afternoon and Heard an Excellent Sermon.

Yesterday afternoon the members of Peterborough Masonic Lodge, accompanied by members from Corinthian Lodge, attended, in a body, divine service at All Saints' church, going there in a body from the lodge room, corner of George and Simcoe streets. The service had been printed in pamphlet form that all might join in the beautiful service of the Church of England.

The sermon was preached by the Rector of All Saints' church, Bro. Rev. W. Major, and was appropriate and instructive, dealing with the moral objects of Freemasonry, the duties of the citizen, the preservation of the ancient landmarks that make for a better life and character. Some historical references to the Craft were also of great interest. At the conclusion of the service the members of the Order returned to the lodge room and dispersed. During the prayers the Rector made feeling appeal and reference to Bro. W. J. McCallum, who was lying at the point of death at the Nicholls Hospital, and who has since passed away.

An allegorical treatment of this. David's charge to Solomon regarding the temple which he was to build in honour of God, was the subject of Rev. Wm. Major's sermon at the special service for the local Masonic fraternity at All Saints' church yesterday afternoon. In an eloquent manner he reviewed the grandeur and magnificence of God's temple, the thoroughness, the care and exactness with which the costly walls were erected and the beauty and adornment of the interior work and lavish furnishing. Rev. Mr. Major emphasized the fact that everything that was employed was of the best; it was perfect. Symbolically he spoke of the soul of man that temple which God destined as His temple, but the preparation of which was left with the individual. It was a forcible comparison and was elucidated in an easy and comprehensible manner.

"God expects me to build up a character that my would shall be a fit habitation for God," he said, and urged his hearers to see to it that God's temple in each of them be a habitation befitting His majesty.

MANY PRESENT.

The accommodation of the church was almost taxed to its utmost by the representative assembly of members of the Peterborough and Corinthian Lodges of the Masonic Order. The service was begun at four o'clock, the Masons having met in their hall and marched to the church.

In finishing his remarks Rev. Mr. Major extended the Order a hearty welcome. He was particularly pleased, he said, to see them attending divine service because there were not wanting those outside of the Order who violated the ninth commandment in referring to it. The statements had been made that the Masonic Order ignores Christ and that there is no religion in it. It was peculiarly gratifying to him, the speaker said, that their attendance at church was a complete refutation of that idea, and he only regretted that it was not an annual affair. The future might result in something in this respect. He spoke of the impression that it made on the general public by the members attending church in a body.

On behalf of the congregation he also expressed his thanks to the Order that the collection be given towards the building fund.

THE SERMON.

The sermon has been partially referred to above. To complete the building of that spiritual temple, which is in every man, the footsteps of God, the perfect man, should be followed. Many obstacles would have to be met and overcome, and with firm reliance and trust in Him, by faith, hope and love, the temple could be built for divine habitation.

Masonry, Rev. Mr. Major said, had accomplished a gigantic work. Wherever civilization has opened a way there the Order has also been represented. Widows and orphans have felt its beneficence, countless men have received help, have been revivified and "Masonry has left an indelible mark on the history of the world. The speaker next dealt with the antiquity of the Order, of its existence in prehistoric times, of even its foundation before the world, since it was based on the divine law. Its modern organization in 1717 when a Grand Lodge of four lodges was formed in London, England, was also also spoken of. The Order's tolerance of all creeds, its exalted ideas of morals and its sublime impressions of the resurrection of the body had been a prime factor in spreading truth.

Rev. Mr. Major concluded by reminding his hearers to have patience, love and kindness for our fellowmen and to render every assistance possible. "Live in love and charity with your fellowmen and your hope will have its fruition in the love of God.

The church service was printed in booklet form, at the Review Job Room, and was much admired as a neat piece of the typographical art.

NON-JURY SITTINGS OF THE HIGH COURT OPENED TO-DAY

His Lordship, Mr. Justice Anglin, the Presiding Judge—Only Two Cases to be Heard in Both of Which the Port Hope B. & M. Co. are the Plaintiffs.

The non-jury sittings of the High Court opened this afternoon before his Lordship, Mr. Justice Anglin. Only two cases are to come up before his Lordship.

The first case is that of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Co., of which Robert Wallace Smart, of Port Hope, was the secretary-treasurer, against Mr. Thos. Reid, of Marmora.

On or about the 3rd day of March 1904, the defendants entered into an agreement with the plaintiff in writing whereby the said defendant agreed to take two shares of stock in the company, to the amount of $200.

The plaintiffs claim from the said sum of $200 and interest upon the instalments agreed to be paid by the defendants from the respective dates, upon which the same became due and payable. They also claim the costs of the action.

The second case is that of the same company against J. H. Burton, of Bracebridge.

In April, 1904, Burton, it is said, agreed to take two shares to the amount of $200. The plaintiffs are claiming the $200 and the interests and costs of the action.

The case of the Brewing Company vs. Reid, is being tried this afternoon. Messrs. O'Connell and Gordon are solicitors for the plaintiffs and Mr. Wright, of Wills & Wright, is looking after the interests of the defendant. The evidence of several witnesses is being heard.

TWO CHILDREN RAN AWAY FROM SHELTER YESTERDAY

The two Longdo children have again run away from the Children's Shelter and Mr. Henry, the caretaker, has been out all day searching for them. They left the shelter last evening and haven't been seen since. It is the opinion that someone is enticing these children away and the authorities when they find out who is doing it, intend to prosecute them. A watchful eye has to be kept on the youngsters but last night they succeeded in getting away. Their mother resides on Concession street, Ashburnham.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

Mr Editor,—Evidently Mr. Munro, and with him Christian scientists of the city, have been hurt by Mr. McMurdo's reference to Mrs. Eddy's doctrine. Mr. McMurdo is out of the city, I have sent him the Review with Mr. Munro's letter, if he cares to reply he may but in the meantime we want it distinctly understood that we have no quarrel with Mr. Munro and his followers, but with "Christian Science" as taught by Mrs. Eddy in her books. Mr. Munro may be sincere and we believe he is, but like so many of the same sect, they are sincerely mistaken. Let us look at "Christian science" as found in Mrs. Eddy's book, "Science and Health," and not what these men think, but what she says. First, on page 10 she states, "God is not person or personal" and when asked what God is, she replies, "Mind, Principle, etc.", and all through her system, whatever term is used, the term she calls God is always an impersonal quality, her writings are so worded as to mislead minds accustomed to the use of Christian terms, this is what is so misleading and deceptive, whenever God is mentioned by her, one must always substitute "Mind or Principle." It is simply a mixture of Atheism and Spiritual Pantheism. Second, look at the other terms in her astutely worded creed and we will show from her own book the meaning of them. She says, "We acknowledge His (God's) son, and goes on to say, that when she discovered, Christian Science, Isaiah was renewedly fulfilled in his prophesy that "Unto us a son is born," which is God, with us, "and this is often repeated by her until she comes straight out and says "Christian science is the second coming of Christ." So you see in the first place, God the Father is taken away and mind or principle substituted and in the second place His Son disappears and Christian Science, alias Eddyism, takes His place. The Bible states and proves beyond question, that Christ is a person, the Son of God, born of the Virgin Mary, and called Jesus; who after He had suffered and died for our sins, rose from the dead and ascended to God's right hand. How can Mrs. Eddy make Eddyism to be Christ. She does it in exactly the same way that she takes away God, the Father, as a person. She says in her book that Christ was not a person, but an "idea." Emanating from "Mind," which came to Jesus (another idea) and taught him the true meaning of God (mind). As Eddyism now comes trying to teach us that all we know, whether learned from the Word of God or from creation, All we see and feel; all is "illusion," "the Christ idea came and taught the mortal Jesus idea," She also interprets the sufferings of Jesus to be simply His struggles up through the "illusions of mortal mind," that with her is the only meaning of Gethsemane and Calvary, (page 338). She further says, "Jesus did not die," sin sickness and death are all a dream under which all remain until they believe her theory. This is, she says, the revelation she discovered. How it can be a revelation and a discovery at the same time, some one else may tell. The ascension she tells us was "the Jesus Idea" rising beyond the physical knowledge of his disciples and material senses knew him no more. (Page 351) the system further teaches that Jesus was only an "Idea" conceived in the mind of the Virgin Mary, which Idea she called Jesus." So you see our Jesus with her is not a person at all,

THE HOLY GHOST.

Mrs. Eddy says, "Christian Science" is the Holy Ghost and the promised comforter (page 493), and when Eddyiests say we acknowledge one supreme God His Son and the Holy Ghost, they simply mean "Mind, principle, Idea," all known to us as Christian Science. The whole system is nothing but an atheistical skeleton masquerading in Christian clothes, padded with Christian expressions and palmed off on the Christian public. A satanic imitation of the Holy trinity and purposely meant to deceive, and many poor souls are being blinded by the hedious thing. I have no desire to deal gently with it. I thunder no in the ears of Mrs. Eddy, Mr. Munro or any other follower or teacher of this destructive hierarchy and doctrine of the devil. Our Lord left us His mark how His sheep know not the voice of strangers. Mrs. Eddy's voice has the ring of the pit and not the ring of the joy of heaven, where there is a real man in the glory, who died for me and paid my debt with His own precious blood. Mrs. Eddy says Christ never came in the flesh, John tells us this is Antichrist, let me close with a prayer that God may open the eyes of Mr. Munro to see the marks of this wolfe in sheep clothing.

THE ENDLESS PRAYER CHAIN

Interesting Document Which is Circulating in the City.

The "Endless Chain of Prayer," which is circulating in the city is of more than passing interest. Many people are receiving the document, which is as follows:

"Lord Jesus Christ, the Eternal God have mercy upon all mankind, keep us from all sin, and take us to be with Thee eternally."

This prayer was sent to Bishop Lawrence recommending it to be written and sent to nine others persons. It must not be signed. He who writes this prayer for nine days, commencing the day it was received, distributing it to nine other persons, will on or after the ninth, experience great joy. At Jerusalem during a great feast it was said. He who writes this prayer will be delivered of all calamity. This chain must not be broken.

CAN OF CREAM SPILT ON ROAD

Scissors Grinder Scared Horse on Burnham St. and it Ran Away.

A runaway accident on Burnham street, Ashburnham, the other day resulted in the loss of several gallons of cream to Mrs. R. Wilson, of Otonabee. Her buggy, with the cream in the back, was standing in front of her son's residence. She was bringing the cream to the creamery. A scissors grinder who was calling on the residents of the street, had the audacity to grind the scissors under the horse's head. The animal became scared and started off. However, it did not run far, before it was stopped, but not before the cream had been spilt over the road.

WAS GIVEN TIME TO PAY HIS FINES

Chas. Healey who was heavily fined on Saturday in the police court for assault and for buying liquor after having been placed on the "Indian list," and whose fines were made payable forthwith, was today allowed to go. He will be given time to pay his fines but in case he gets drunk again or neglects to pay the money he will be immediately locked up.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on his behalf.

BAND PLEASED BIG CROWDS IN LINDSAY

Most Successful Trip Ever Taken by the Local S. A. Band.

The Salvation Army band returned this morning from Lindsay after one of the most successful trips ever held by this musical organization. They gave a concert on Saturday night in the barracks there when there was a good crowd in attendance.

However, the chief feature of the visit was the band concert in the park there yesterday afternoon. The number that attended was tremendously large and everyone was delighted with the excellent programme rendered. It is needless to comment on the programme as anyone who has ever heard the Peterborough Salvation Army band knows the excellency of its playing.

Yesterday evening the academy of music was packed to the doors when the band gave another delightful concert. Lieut.-Col. Mrs. Sharpe of London, conducted the meeting and gave the address of the evening which was very interesting.

OBITUARY

The following concerning the late Susan De Wolf, whose sister, Mrs. W. Spilsbury, resides at 367 Perry street, is from the Reinbeck (Ohio) Courier;—

Susan L. DeWolf was born at Somersham, England, December 10th, 1843, and here her girlhood days were passed. Her father, George Ashby, was by profession a civil engineer, and hearing of the wonderful possibilities in the then state of New York, he moved there, bringing the family with him. They made their home at Albion, and it was there that she at the time of the civil war was married to William DeWolf, Nov. 28, 1867.

About the year 1872 they moved to Lee County, Illinois and in a couple of years came still further west, locating at what is now called Morkour, in Tama county, Iowa. Here they lived until the spring of 1875, when they, together with a couple of other families from the same neighborhood, decided to cast their lot with the proposed town of Reinbeck and moved their goods thirty years miles across the country, bringing lumber with them, and started a general merchandise business here before the railroad was built.

Since that time her life is a matter of common knowledge to the people of Reinbeck, and it was here that she passed away on the night of Wednesday May 20th.

About the middle of February she was taken sick with lagrippe and later on it developed that she was suffering from some internal growth. She underwent an operation, thinking it might bring relief, but without avail. She kept getting weaker and weaker, and finally passed into her last sleep.

Mrs. DeWolf was a member of the Episcopal Church, but in the early days of Reinbeck did much active work with the Congregational church. She was at the time of her death a member of the Eastern Star and of some local clubs.

Of the near relatives Mrs. DeWolf leaves two brothers Thomas Ashby, of Albion, N.Y.; Charles Ashby, of Iona, Mich.; and one sister, Mrs. W. Spilsbury, of Peterborough, Ontario.

There were five children born to her, of whom one died in infancy, and another, Mattie E., died at the age of about three years. The others, Mrs. Lenora Mullarky, Mr. Sherman W. DeWolf, were with her at the last. The funeral services were at her request very quiet and simple, and she now lies in the Reinbeck cemetery—at rest.

Messrs. James Barrett, W. H. Stevens, A. P. Colburn, of Waterloo, and C. C. Bean, George M. Hall and J. H. Dunn members of Thompson Post, acted as pall-bearers.

THEATRICAL

R. AND P. MINSTRELS

It was an entertaining show that Richards and Pringle's minstrels put on Saturday night at the Grand Opera House. The olio was especially good and some excellent vaudeville features were introduced. The act in magic was an excellent one and included many mysterical and puzzling parts. Marsh Craig, is a contortionist who can outbend the large majority of human eels and does a 'turn' with great merit. The slack wire artist, who works without the aid of a balancing pole does some really clever work both in the way of straight wire walking and critical balancing.

PETES TAKE FIRST LEAGUE GAME FROM THE ATHLETICS

Score Was 11-6 and Game Was Exciting All the Way—Clements and Quinlan Were the Pitchers and Honors Broke About Even—Teams Meet Again Next Saturday.

The Peterboroughs trimmed the Athletics, 11-6 in a Midland league game at Riverside Park, Saturday afternoon and their string of victories is still unbroken. It was only after the hardest kind of a struggle that the Johnstonites won from the Lynch aggregation and a warm contest is looked for when the two teams meet again on Saturday afternoon. The Petes won on Saturday by superior work on the bases and snappier fielding. The errors on the part of the Athletics were more costly too than the winners and let in several runs that were not in the earned column. Quinlan and Clements were the opposing pitchers and the honors were about even. Each was found for ten hits and each issued two charities. Quinlan fanned ten men and Clements seven. Quinlan kept his hits well scattered except in the third and ninth innings was the only period of the game in which Clements was batted any way freely. The Petes played their regular team and all did good work. McDermott's one hand catch off Connors swift drive in the third was one of the features of the game. The ball was ticketed for two bases had the little second baseman not pulled it down. The Athletics had two new men, Saunders at second base and Mackrell at shortstop. Both made good. They fielded their positions well and did well with the willow, Saunders having two hits and Mackrell one. Heaslip showed up good at first base and had a timely single in the last innings. Connors laid on the wood hard, having a double and a single, and Jimmy Callaghan figured prominently in the run-getting.

The game was witnessed by about 400, and they enjoyed it immensely. The excitement was keen all the time and there was an abundance of the hit and run game—the kind the fans like.

Jack Rosevear of Port Hope was umpire and the majority of his rulings were satisfactory. He had a hard time controlling some of the players who have an idea in their top-pieces that a baseball match is more of a debate than a sporting event. It's about time they mended their ways.

Two players almost came to blows in the last innings but some of the bystanders whose heads were cool prevented any blows being struck.

Below will be found the summary and how the scoring was done:

HOW THE PETES SCORED.

The Petes were first to bat and annexed two runs in the first innings although no hits were made. Burns struck out and Murphy went out, Rattray to Heaslip. Maddock drove the ball to left field and it got away from Callaghan. O'Brien sent a hot one down the third base line and Shea missed it, Maddock scoring. Callaghan got the ball and his throw to the plate was wild, allowing O'Brien to score. McDermott went out, Mackrell to Heaslip. Edmunds, Lawson and Cheetham went out in one, two three order in the second but three runs came in in the third as the result of a base on balls and three hits, one a three bagger. Clements struck out and Burns was walked. He stole second Murphy singled and followed Burns to the plate on Maddock's three-base hit to right field. Maddock scored on O'Brien's single. McDermott flew out to Heaslip and Edmunds struck out.

A two-base hit by Clements was the only feature of the fourth, there being no scoring.

Two runs came in the fifth. Murphy got life on Mackrell's error, stole second, and Maddock advanced him to third with a sacrifice hit to the outfield, and he scored on the replay. O'Brien struck out, but McDermott drew a base on balls, stole second and scored on Edmunds' single. Lawson went out, Mackrell to Heaslip.

In the sixth another run came in. Heaslip didn't hold Cheetham's grounder. Clements struck out and Cheetham stole second and third and scored on Burns' sacrifice. Murphy flew out to Connors.

There was nothing more doing till the ninth when three more runs were scored. Burns singled and stole second. Murphy did the same, also Maddock, scoring Burns. O'Brien fived on fielders' choice, Maddock getting caught at third. McDermott grounded out to Heaslip but Quinlan dropped Edmunds' fly and Murphy scored. Lawson singled and Cheetham went out, pitcher to first.

HOW ATHLETICS TALLIED

The Athletics were blanked till the fifth innings when they got their first run. Callaghan got to first on Maddock's error. Heaslip flew out to Cheetham, but Quinlan made second on Burns' error. Connors doubled to left and Callaghan scored. Quinlan got caught at the plate. Saunders went out, McDermott to Heaslip.

There was no scoring by the Athletics in the sixth, but the seventh was productive of two runs. Callaghan dropped a lovely bunt on the third base line and made first. Quinlan went down on fielder's choice, Callaghan being caught at second. Connors singled. Quinlan scored on Edmunds' bad throw to second. Connors scored on a passed ball coming from second base. The decision was disputed but Rosevear stuck to his ruling. Saunders singled and Shea flew out to Maddock.

Three more tallies were chalked up in the ninth. Callaghan was walked and Heaslip singled and made second on O'Brien fumbling the ball, Callaghan scoring. Quinlan flew out to Lawson, and Connors went out, Clements to Lawson. Saunders singled and Shea got first on Cheetham's error. Rattray singled, scoring Saunders. With Rattray on second and Shea on 3rd, Mackrell went out McDermott to Lawson, retiring the side and finishing the game.

NOTES.

Maddock twisted his ankle but remained in the game.

Edmunds, as usual caught a good game and there were few stolen bases by the Athletics.

The strong wind made it a bad day for the fielders. The sun also bothered them considerably.

Corney Burns picked one right off his toes. It was one of the neatest plays of the day.

Quinlan is getting better every game and the Petes will have a hard time to win next Saturday.

For a wonder, no balls were lost. The infielders had the bulk of the work.

Heaslip had a busy afternoon at first, and gave a good account of himself.

Lawson's error resulted from him tripping over the bag. It was more of an accident than anything else.

The Lakeviews doubled the score on the Karnots in an interesting city league game at the oval on Saturday. Both teams played nice ball and the exhibition was a good one. A walking match will be held at Port Hope in connection with the reunion there on July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th. The winner will take forty per cent of half the total gate receipts, and second twenty-five per cent, third, fifteen per cent, fourth twelve per cent., fifth eight per cent. This competition is open to the world. Several American walkers will take part. Jimmy Reynolds will be the referee.

GAME MAY TAKE PLACE AT 6:30

Every T.A.S. ball player is requested to be out to-night at the field at 6.30 when the final workout for the game on Wednesday night with the West Ends. There will be lots of balls and bats and all the players who attend the practice will have plenty to do.

An effort is being made to have the game between the Straths and West Ends played at 6.30 o'clock. Maddock of the Peterboroughs, has been suggested as umpire by both teams.

SPORTING COMMENT

Mr. R. M. Roy, judge of water sports at the T.A.S. picnic on July 1 says that in the gasoline-launch races the launches will be duly classified according to their size and power. There are a large number of such launches in these waters and a great afternoon's sport may be looked for.

Five entries are already in the 15 mile Marathon in connection with the Boys' Championship Meet on July 1st. They are G. Fowler, Jim Drysdale, M. Hart, Art, West, Gillistte.

WAS BIG HITTING IN THIS GAME T.A.S. BEAT STRATHS. BY 21-14

In a game that lasted two hours and forty minutes and in which the ball was slammed inconsiderately, the T.A.S. nine got in on the Strathconas by a score of 21—14. The contest was a thoroughly exciting one, and some sounding willow work was indulged in by both nines. Umpire Jack Gibson, who was a most impartial official had his work cut out for him in keeping tab on the play.

The temperance team showed much improvement in form and were materially strengthened by the presence of Jack Corkery on the line-up. Hayes pitched a clever game for the winners and was given pretty good support. He seems to be improving with every game. Manager Derocher played a good game at second, and coached his men to advantage.

Weatherstone, who held down second station for the Straths, played the position well, and Shaw, at left field, while he missed a couple of difficult tries, raked in some good ones and filled the position well. Bellegham at times pitched well, but was hit rather freely and was replaced in the seventh by Graham, the T.A.S. also hitting the latter in a way that counted.

HOW THEY CAME.

In the first innings Doherty, the first man up for the T.A.S. smashed the leather over the race-track for a home run. The side was retired without any further tallies. Weatherstone, the first man up for the Straths singled and scored, while the other three were put out, making it 1—1. In the first of the second T.A.S. pounded the sphere without reserve, six of the batters making the circuit thus making it 7—1. From this on hitting was pretty heavy both ways. In the fourth innings McFadden had his thumb put out, and L. Giroux took his place behind the bat and caught a steady game, the former taking the field.

The teams were;—

T.A.S.
Doherty, 3rd base.
Derocher, 2nd base.
Cahill, short-stop.
C. Giroux, left field.
J. Corkery, centre field.
L. Giroux, right field.
Doris, 1st base.
McFadden, catcher.
Hayes, pitcher.

STRATHS.
Weatherstone, 2b.
Kendry, ss.
Bellegham, pitcher.
Wilson, catcher.
McMillan 3rd base.
Shaw, left field.
Parnell, centre field.
Allison, 1st base.

JIMMY REYNOLDS WILL WALK AGAIN ON SEPTEMBER TENTH

"I'll never die happy till I've made that trip."

This is the slogan of Jimmy Reynolds, the walking barber, of Port Hope, who was in the city this morning for a short time. Jimmy is as cheerful as ever and seems in no way put out over his recent failure.

Of course many people can't understand why anyone should want to go to Toronto, walking or otherwise, but the Port Hope barber has his heart set upon making the return trip in thirty-three hours and will never rest content until he has accomplished the feat.

"I'm going to try again on September 10th," said Jimmy to the Review, "and I'll make it then. I'd have done it last time if I hadn't taken a glass claret and an egg-nog on the way up. They made me sick and I lost over an hour as a result. I also stopped too long at Toronto. I'll avoid these things next time and see if I don't be successful. And I'm 58 years old, too."

PRACTICE OF T.A.S. TWELVE

First One of Season Will be Held Wednesday Evening at Riverside.

The TAS. lacrosse team will hold a practice on Wednesday evening at Riverside Park. All the players who can possibly do so are requested to turn out.

This will be the first practice of the season and providing the men turn out well enough the TAS. should be represented by a good twelve. It is in the interests of the team that as many players as possible turn out from the commencement of practice.

LINDSAY WILL HAVE A WALK

Mr. George Stevens to Hold One There, July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

Mr. Geo. Stevens is holding a walking match in the Lindsay skating race on July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Arrangements are being completed and a successful contest is looked forward to. Charlie Stevens will be one of the competitors.

The walkers will go three hours each night, twelve hours in all. It is expected that there will be a large number of entries from Lindsay.

FOOTBALL

The Springville football team are playing the Cavanville eleven at the garden party at Cavanville this evening.

WALKER FOUND DEAD IN BED

Sudden Death of Rod Brown the Colored Pedestrian of St. Catharines---Inquest Today.

An inquest is being held to-day to enquire into the death of Rod Brown, the colored pedestrian, who took part in the St. Catharines walk last week.

He was found dead in bed on Saturday morning. Brown was a well-known go-as-you-please man. He appeared to be in the best of health while the walk at St. Catharines was being held.

UNCOMMON FLAVORINGS.

Foreigners who come to England often complain of the sameness of the flavoring in English dishes. These always seem to taste of some patent saucethey say. Watching Mr. Herman Senn prepare an entire dinner was a liberal education in the art of flavorings. He blended his seasonings as carefully as an artist blends his colours. Among the novelties which he recommended specially was Spanish red pepper. It is perfectly sweet, and has a peculiarly pleasant flavour. He directed that pinches of pepper should be passed around on white paper so that all might taste or smell it. Again, in dealing with the soup called Consomme Carmen, which had a foundation of veal and chicken stock, he directed that a few thin slices of cucumber, finely shredded should be dropped in the tureen just before it started for the dining-room. The cucumber, he said, would thus impart a fine aromatic flavor.

PROMPT PAYMENT

Peterborough, Ont., June 12th, 1908

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Globe Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,879 Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 1 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and promoted us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,

Canada Flakes Co., LIMITED.

Gives Shape to the Foot

A Corset-Fitting Shoe

"ONE OF THE 14"

Corsets reduce the appearance of the figure and give it shape and style. Why not a Corset Shoe which will make feminine feet look smaller and give them a pleasing form?

Dolly Vardens contain no stays, but they'll do these things, and this is why:

Their narrow construction takes the place of lacing. This narrowness reduces and shapes the foot by clinging to it at every point with the gentle firmness and snugness of a corset.

Their newly devised steel arch support takes the place of stays. It gives the foot's arch and waist an exquisite form, and besides it raises the arch, which draws back the toes, making the foot shorter.

And being exact copies of perfect feminine feet Dolly Vardens will give to most wearers nearly all of the exquisite form of the original master-pieces from which they were copied.

This may strike the wary as exaggeration; but if the wary will call on the Dolly Varden Store, we will gladly prove what we claim. Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. In the States and Canada at same price—$4.00 to $5.00. Every pair is Goodyear welt sewn too.

AS OTHERS SEE US

During the last two or three years we have heard and read so much about the prospective union of divers Protestant churches and the return of these communities to the original unity which in the design of Christ our Redeemer was to be essential to the Church which He established on earth, that we are almost driven to the belief that the day of universal harmony was already at hand, and that as there is unity of the spirit in the bond of peace . . . one body and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all who is above all, and through all and in you all." Eph. iv., 3-6, Prot. Version. So there is also one and only one true Church of Christ.

But the sermon of the retiring Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly of Canada, the Rev. Dr. Robert Campbell, of Montreal, in his address to the Assembly on his retirement, has thrown a new and strange light upon the subject. He has given a new and curious view of the Churchs' duty towards mankind. According to this theory, the truths of revelation are not a deposit which will remain always in the keeping of the Church of Christ, to be taught by her to the end of time, but though they were indeed infallibly taught in the first place by Christ, the Church being composed in fallible men is liable to fall into most gross error in regard to her teaching. Let us see whether this is the doctrine actually held by the retiring Moderator, to whom we would not wish to attribute unjustly any erroneous opinion.

The Rev. Dr. said, according to the report given in the Toronto Globe of June 4th:

"Christ being Himself the embodiment of truth, His authority is to us one from which there is no appeal, and yet the idea of the man in the street has often brushed as something to be taken into account in arriving at conclusions. This is rather a snare to be avoided. It is ours to inform public opinion not to follow it. We must not lower the banner of Truth to make Christ's cause popular. There is no compromise with the world in the Sermon on the Mount."

And again "truth is addressed primarily to individuals, and my own reason is to be my guide in reaching conclusions." . . . Yet "right reason teaches me that if nine men equally competent and truth-loving differ from me in their judgment, that may not indeed exempt me from the duty of obeying my own convictions but it ought at least to lead me to review the grounds of them, and if I still have to adhere to them, to do so with modesty, while the nine would be justified in maintaining the presumption that truth is on their side. This is especially true in matters into which learning enters, or when others have had opportunities for knowledge that we ourselves have not, as was the case with disciples." And yet he tells us that "creeds are are to be defended as the expression of the conclusions arrived at by the members of the community, as a whole, and there should always be a presumption in favor of the position held by the many, and it is the unchallengeable right of the church to formulate its own views by the promulgation of creeds" or Articles of Faith.

We must say that Dr. Campbell's theory will not stand the crucial test of the words of Christ, neither does it express the doctrine contained in the Westminster Confession. It ignores the fact that Christ gave a commission to His Apostles which was to last to the end of time, and that He Himself would remain with them while thus teaching till time shall be no more. St. Matt. xxviii., 20.

And what must be inferred from the theory of the retiring Moderator?

A creed is not any longer what it was held to be in Catholic times, and whatever the Church of England declares it to be when it says:

"The three creeds, Nicene, Athanasian, and the Apostles' Creed, ought thoroughly to be received and believed, for they may be proved by most certain warrants of Holy Scripture."

According to Dr. Campbell's faith as promulgated before the General Assembly, these ancient summaries of Christian belief have not at all the force of law, nor are they to be held at all as a declaration of the faith found revealed in the Sacred Scriptures. They are only human opinions in regard to what a few men have adjudged to be the truth after fair consideration of the matter but the respectable Arian minority who opposed these creeds some fifteen and a half centuries ago may have had the truth on their side. The question between the majority and the minority was merely a matter of scientific or grammatical research and not of revealed truth. Purely personal learning comes into play and the question of doctrine is to be decided solely by such secular methods as the weighing of the meaning of the text according to Gullien's Grammar or Ainsworth's dictionary, and not according to the teaching of the Holy Ghost whom Christ promised to send to teach them all truth and to abide with them forever.

"If you love Me keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever. Even the Spirit of Truth whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth Him not, neither knoweth Him; but ye know Him, for He dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. "But the Comforter, Who is, the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in My name, He shall teach you all things to your remembrance whatever I have said unto you."

We cannot doubt that the Rev. Dr. Campbell presents fairly well the present belief of his church, as we know that during the last half century the faith or belief of most of the Protestant denominations has been rapidly disappearing, but we have not seen it so authoritatively declared by the highest cleric in any one of the Protestant denominations which so boastingly call themselves "Evangelical" that there is no obligation on the Christian, especially if he have a smattering of secular learning to believe any of the doctrines of Christianity, provided he has wit enough to distort the words of Holy Scripture to some new and hitherto unheard of sense.

How different is all this from the positive assurance of the General Assembly of the Scottish Church in 1590, 1638, 1639, and 1640 to the effect that this "Confession of our Faith —the Westminster creed or confession—only is the true Christian faith and religion, pleasing God and bringing salvation to man which now is by the mercy of God revealed to the world by the preaching of the blessed evangel and is received, as God's eternal truth and only ground of our salvation, etc."

It is no wonder that the new generation of Presbyterian ministers may express themselves as ready to join any other church which shall be as accommodating as their own, not to accept for the future any specific doctrines as the sure revelation of God. In fact it is clear that the union of Protestant sects as now proposed can be effected only by the abnegation of all Christian faith.

We leave for another date the consideration of Rev. Mr. Campbell's remarks upon Catholic tradition. —Catholic Register.

Brantford, June 20.—Severe electric storms passed over the city early last evening. AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The passenger department of the Grand Trunk Railway system has just made an important announcement in connection with the movement of passengers from Eastern to Western Canada. Commencing June 11th, and daily thereafter, the agents of the Grand Trunk in Ontario and Quebec, and connecting lines, will be able to issue all classes of tickets from Eastern to Western Canada, via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis at the lowest current fares by any route.

As the Grand Trunk Railway have a double track from Chicago to Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, Woodstock, Ingersoll, London and other principal stations in Quebec and Ontario, and maintains a superior train service, including the famous "International Limited," it is expected that many passengers will prefer to travel by way of Chicago. In addition to this advantage, the Grand Trunk now offers the choice of seven connecting lines between Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and other large American cities passed through by the new routes, who will doubtless appreciate the opportunity thus afforded of a brief visit at the stations in such cities.

All arrangements have been completed so that the baggage of passengers will be carried through the United States in bond without requiring any special attention on the part of passengers, and there will be no detention or inspection of such passengers at any point in the United States.

While through cars will not at present be operated beyond Chicago, it is believed that many passengers making so great a journey will much prefer the comfortable transfer at points like Chicago and St. Paul into freshly ventilated clean cars. The connecting lines from Chicago are credited with running some of the finest limited and other passenger trains on the American continent.

Another feature of the new route is the electrification of St. Clair Tunnel which has now been completed, and all trains are handled by electric locomotives. It will interest those who have in the past heard or imagined that under the former methods of handling trains through the tunnel there was occasionally a disagreeable odor from engine gases, to know that now under the new electrical equipment and its elements of gases and smoke are entirely eliminated and that the inside of the Tunnel is as bright as day.

YOUR SOUL COLOR.

Find Out and Get a Mate Who Harmonizes With Your Scheme.

Mrs. F. F. Wieland is the most recent advocate of the theory that every human being has a soul color. So says Nixola Greeley-Smith. She maintains, moreover, that every woman's gown must from babyhood match her soul.

What are termed in the fashion journals "conservative dressers" will, however, incline to the preservation of the safer rule to match the costume to the eyes. Eyes are so much more easily found than souls, and they are less changeable.

The mere matter of preserving harmony between one's soul and one's dress seems the least interesting and least important feature of the subject. If there were really such a thing as a psychic color, there must result from it in the emotional world color affinities. A man with a green soul must naturally seek a damsel whose psychic shade was blush pink or daffodil yellow. A lavender girl would have to choose a white or pearl or amethyst mate. In divorce petitions the appealing husband or wife would merely have to state that he or she was deceived as to the soul color of the defendant. Experts would be called in to testify as to the actual psychic tints of the contestants, and a jury would have to pass upon the question as to whether or not the tints harmonized. This would pave the way to the establishment of feminine juries, for it is an acknowledged fact that more men are color blind than women. Persons summoned before the commissioner of jurors would have to pass a specially devised test as to whether or not they were qualified to decide the question of soul harmony.

"What is the fashionable shade in souls this year?" would be the query of anxious maidens desiring to lead the mode.

As yet Mrs. Wieland has not stated whether the mothers' custom of adorning boy babies with blue bags and girl babies with pink is consistent with her ideas of soul colors. If so, it would seem that all men have blue souls, all women pink ones.

NEW TABLE KINKS.

Rock Candy For Coffee Instead of Sugar—Volcanoes of Rum.

"Have you noticed that many hostesses are serving rock candy crystals instead of sugar with after dinner coffee?" inquired an observing woman. "I've tried it myself and have found that the prettiest effect is gained by buying an equal amount each of red and white rock candy and mixing the irregular shaped crystals in a low glass bonbon dish.

"These are served with a bonbon spoon. There's an especial advantage in this plan for those who want very little sugar, as the smallest quantity possible may be taken, less than an ordinary piece of cut sugar. This rock candy is absolutely pure, very cheap and gives a particularly delicious flavor to black coffee.

"Another new kink I noticed at a luncheon was the passing of two little glass dishes with the salad course. One dish held finely minced green peppers and the other tiny slices of little new onions. The guests took what they wanted and sprinkled it on the salad, which was a combination of lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers.

"At the same luncheon a fancy omelet with burning rum was served instead of the usual sweet course. Instead of the ordinary river of fire running placidly around the platter, the effect was quite spectacular and reminded one of miniature volcanoes. I found that this effect was the result of stacking lumps of sugar in heaps at intervals round the platter."

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

A small quantity of vinegar boiled on the range will counteract the odor of boiled cabbage or other vegetables.

Where white underslips are not used the pillowcase should be of linen, as the stripes of the ticking do not show through this as plainly as through cotton.

Nickel plating may be cleaned with water and whiting or with water and alcohol as easily as silver. Where there is a large amount of nickel to be cleaned gasoline will do the work well and quickly, but of course extra precautions must be taken.

In cleaning upholstered furniture do not beat directly upon the covering, as this helps to wear it out and scatters the dust in clouds, but lay towels or thick cloths on top and then do the beating. These cloths should be carefully gathered up and shaken out every little while.

If last year's linen suits look yellow they may be whitened by boiling in a lather made in the proportion of a pound of pure white soap to a gallon of milk. Rinse thoroughly in several waters and blue slightly. A double boiler should be used that the milk may not scorch.

An ingenious householder who wanted to have a cedar lined closet, but hesitated at the expense, tried a good grade of cedar shingles, put on overlapping, as on a roof, lining the whole closet, with most excellent results. The work can be done by any amateur carpenter.

An Esperanto Cabman.

M. Pelletier, a Paris cabman, is the first of his calling to become an Esperanto adept. He can be recognized on duty by the Esperanto star badge he wears. The police of Paris and Stockholm are receiving instructions in the system, and in view of the congress in Dresden in August next the police of that city are also being taught the language.

VALE, OYSTER!

Tempt me no more! I must not eat you now,
Although from you I hardly can refrain.
Relentless fashion says I must abstain,
And so to her decree I humbly bow.
Tempt me no more!

Tempt me no more! Or scalloped, fried or roast,
With pepper, salt, cloves, cinnamon, allspice.
I'm quite aware you are extremely nice.
I hardly know which way I like you most.
Tempt me no more!

Tempt me no more! Disconsolate I sit,
Thinking I dare not touch your luscious fare.
Oh, hang it all! For mode I do not care.

Seems Queer.

"George," confided the fiancee to her mother, "is somewhat equivocal."

"What do you mean, dear?"

"Well, when I said 'Yes' he said he was the happiest man in the world."

"Yes—that was the proper thing to say."

The Danger to the Fleet.

The teacher was telling the class about the great American battleship fleet now bound around the world when she broke the main thread of her narrative to ask:

"Children, is there any danger to these precious battleships in going around this immense circle?"

"Do they keep going around in one direction all the time, teacher?" inquired one eager pupil.

"Of course."

"Then they're liable to get dizzy!"—Judge.

And the Moon Man Laughed.

They were jogging along the old road, and Cupid was so busy that the young man dropped the lines either side of the runabout. It was then that the wise old nag turned lazily around.

"What are you looking at?" queried the owl by the roadside.

"I am reading between the lines," laughed the old nag as she gave a horse laugh and showed her long yellow teeth.—Detroit Tribune.

And She Is Proud of It.

Two ladies were lunching together one day when one, who is a member of the Colonial Dames, said to the other: "Why do you not join the Colonial Dames? You surely must be eligible."

"Why in the world has that old farmer a dozen pitchforks sticking in his load of hay?" asked the astonished tourist. "Is he crazy?"

"No; he is wise, stranger," replied the old gatekeeper at the crossroads. "Them thar pitchforks are to keep these pesky automobiles from runnin' into him."—Chicago News.

Why, Indeed?

A certain spinster was being condoled with because she had no husband. "Why," she said, "I don't want a husband. I'm just as well off. You see, I have a dog and he growls; I have a parrot and he swears; I have a cat and he stays out nights. Now, why should I get married?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Hopeless Case.

"A great big, ablebodied man like you ought to be ashamed to ask a stranger for money," said the well to do citizen.

"Not right away," answered Mr. Meekton. "Henrietta gets so much enjoyment out of lecturing about it that it would be a pity to stop it."—Washington Star.

The Real Kick.

The bashful man had stolen a kiss.

"I—I hope I haven't rumpled your feelings?" he ventured.

"Oh, bother the feelings!" retorted the pretty girl in confusion. "You have rumpled my hair and my shirt waist."—Houston Post.

LINDSAY HAS OLDEST VOTER

John Butler Who Voted at Late Election is 100 Years of Age.

A Lindsay despatch says:—Who is the oldest voter in Ontario? From various places in the province come stories of very old men who registered their ballots during the last election. Robert Hope of Villiers, a little village near Keene, who is in his 96th year seemed to hold the record, but the record is held by a Lindsay citizen.

100 YEARS OLD

Living with his son-in-law on Durham St. at the southern extremity of Victoria Ave. lives the oldest man in the province who has the right to exercise manhood suffrage. John Butler of Lindsay, is the name of the patriarch, and he has passed his 100th birthday. Last election he went to the polls and cast his vote with the best citizens of the province.

For over one hundred years John Butler has seen the sun rise and set and has watched the seasons come and go. Father Time so heartless in many cases, has dealt very leniently with this son of Adam, and though toil and hardship has been his lot, the five score years sit comparatively lightly on his shoulders, once erect and broad, but now bended with hard and toilsome work.

A SON OF ERIN

The Emerald Isle, the gem of the ocean claims this centenarian as her son and he still bears that deep-seated love for the land of his nativity, so common to the breasts of all Irishmen.

RECEPTION OF MRS. BARNETT

An Important Event in Society Circles at New Westminster.

The following item from the New Westminster correspondence of the Vancouver Saturday Sunset will be of local interest:

Westminster society was astir on Wednesday when Mrs. H. G. Barnet received at her home Third Ave. and Third St. The house was a bower of flowers. The bride, assisted by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Barnet, of Renfrew, Ont., received in the drawing room, where the end of the room was banked with palms, marguerites and dogwood, and the mantle completely transformed with smilax and enchantress carnations. These flowers were used in profusion and showed up beautifully with the rich green rugs and exquisite mahogany furniture. This made a fitting background for the rich gowns worn. The bride wore a gown of Limerick lace of exquisite design with coat effect accentuated by pink chiffon and panne velvet and fluffy trimmings of French Valenciennes. She wore lovely pearl ornaments and carried a bouquet of palest pink roses tied with ribbons. Mrs. Barnet wore a Parisian gown of ashes of roses panne velvet with trimmings of Venetian lace and chenille applique. Handsome diamond ornaments were worn with this costume. Mrs. McAllister, of Peterborough, sister-in-law of the bride, and a much-admired visitor in town wore an imported gown of white lace, the chic effect brightened by its gold coatee and trimmings of black Irish lace at the hem; her ornaments were diamonds and pearls. The tearoom was typical of spring. The tea table with its rich cloth of Florentine lace, was exquisite. Streamers of smilax, and daisies extended from the chandelier to the corners and were held in place by pert bows of white liberty ribbon, the centrepiece being a crystal glass basket of daisies and ferns. Mrs. Bannerman, of Vancouver, presided at the tea urn and wore a very smart dress of blue crepe de chine with trimmings of white and touches of Persian embroidery, while Mrs. Entboven of Melbourne Australia, wearing black eolienne with handsome lace and jewels, served the ices. Mrs. Barnett will receive on Wednesday next and not again until the autumn.

The Steamer Water Lily will leave the Wolfe Street wharf to-morrow, (Tuesday) morning at nine o'clock, for all points on Stony Lake for passengers and freight. All persons having freight for Stony Lake please take note.

RE-BUILDING HAS NOT BEEN DECIDED UPON

Meeting of Directors of Peterboro Cereal Co. Was Held on Saturday Night.

A meeting of the Peterborough Cereal Company was held Saturday night. The question of rebuilding the plant was not considered, however, and a meeting of the shareholders will have to be held before this is taken up. The business transacted at Saturday night's meeting was of a private nature and nothing of public interest was done.

It is understood that the wheat and flour of the Peterborough Cereal Company have been sold. The underwriters have made their report of the fire at the Cereal Co's premises and it will be found in another column of the Review.

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN HAS PASSED AWAY

Death of Mr. W. J. McCallum This Morning at Nicholls Hospital--Funeral on Wednesday.

The news of the death of Mr. William James McCallum which occurred at Nicholls Hospital at 3 o'clock this morning, was received throughout the city with profound regret. The late Mr. McCallum had been ill for the past seven weeks, suffering with internal trouble. Three weeks ago Saturday he was removed to the hospital where he underwent an operation. It was thought at first that it was going to prove successful but a week ago he began to sink gradually growing worse until the end came as stated above. He was surrounded by his wife, mother, two sisters and Mr. Chas. Banks.

The deceased was 36 years of age and was born in Toronto. He was the only son of the late James McCallum. He came to this city when 18 years of age, and shortly after entered into business, successfully conducting a restaurant on George St., until a year ago. Last July he joined Mr C R Banks, in the sporting goods business.

The late Mr. McCallum was very popular and widely known. His many sterling qualities won for him a host of friends who are deeply grieved at his death.

He was married thirteen years ago to his now sorrowing wife.

He was a member of Corinthian Lodge, No. 101 AF & AM, being a Mystic Shriner in the order. He was a member of Peterborough lodge IOOF Court Langton IOF, Knights of Pythias, and the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife his mother, and two sisters, Mrs. Wiles, of Brantford and Mrs. Banks of Toronto. Mr. C R Banks, is a half-brother of deceased.

The funeral will leave his late residence, 573 Gilmour street Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery. It will be under Masonic auspices.

'LUNGE CUT LINE LIKE A SCISSORS

Poor Luck on a Sunday Fishing Expedition---Notes of the Fishermen.

Big fish and big fish stories are much in the limelight. Mr. Charlie Seymour of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, caught a seventeen pound lunge on Saturday and Dr. Amys pulled in a fourteen pounder. Mr. Rupert Gliddon and his son Otto caught a lunge apiece this morning. They were both good specimens.

A young man who went down the river on a fishing expedition yesterday didn't find the luck as good as the day. He lost his hook, trawling spoon and a small piece of his line. He affirms that he hooked a lunge that must have weighed 18 pounds, but it was one of those that got away. It bit the line and cut it as neatly as a pair of scissors would have done. The fish carried off the hook and a valuable trawling spoon.

A horse belonging to the Peterborough Lumber Company was electrocuted this afternoon in the lane at the rear of the Commercial hotel and leading from Brock street to Water street. The horse was one of a team hauling a load of wood and the wire was a broken one hanging downward. It touched the horse on the hip and the animal instantly fell to the ground. Dr. Poole was sent for, but the horse was dead when he arrived.

Stable on Property of Mr. Robert Sanderson, 57 Harvey Street, Completely Destroyed This Afternoon.

This afternoon shortly before one o'clock a fire broke out in the stable owned by Robert Sanderson at 57 Harvey street, and in the rear of his dwelling house. The stable and its contents were destroyed and a result of the fire a cow which was in the stable at the time had to be killed, the animal slipping and breaking its leg as it was being brought out. It was rather badly burned also. A blow from the axe of one of the firemen quickly dispatched it. The other buildings on the property were not injured by the flames. It is not known whether or not the loss is covered by insurance.

CAMP MEETINGS ARE NOW OVER

The Free Methodist camp meetings are over for another year, and the visitors to the camp are leaving for their homes to-day. The tents are down and the exhibition grounds present a rather desolate appearance after the liveliness of the past ten days. Rousing meetings were held yesterday, Revs. Davidson, Worthington and Slingerland all giving interesting addresses.

The customary farewell took place last evening at the close of the service, the ministers lining up in front of the tabernacle and the people walking around it, singing and shaking hands with their pastors as they passed before them.

HALF OF THREE RIVERS DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Started in Livery Stable—Spread With Terrible Rapidity Fanned by High Wind—All Principal Buildings in Town Wiped Out.

Montreal, June 23.—One-half of the town of Three Rivers, a place of about 12,000 inhabitants, was wiped out by fire yesterday morning.

All of the telephone wires are down, and there is only the single telegraph wire running, and details are hard to obtain.

The fire is said to have started in Duval's livery stable and spread with great rapidity through the flimsy wooden buildings in the vicinity.

The fire swept down Notre Dame street, destroying everything in its path, and at one o'clock it was stated that thirty buildings had been burned.

These included the postoffice, several banks, two hotels, and the three largest stores in the town.

The Methodist church is also said to have been destroyed.

Several advance parties of the regiments, which go to camp there today, are in town, and the soldiers were put to work fighting the flames.

The fire started just before noon, and help was soon called from outside points. A strong wind was blowing.

Three Rivers applied for assistance from Montreal, and shortly after two o'clock a special train was despatched with fire engine and reel.

Telephone messages shortly before two o'clock stated that over half the business section of the city had been wiped out; and that the fire was still raging fiercely.

The whole population is distracted, and the fear of the fire reaching the residential districts had resulted in the people piling their furniture into carts and hurrying out into the fields.

Quite a strong breeze is blowing, and unless it subsides there is little likelihood of saving much of the town at all.

All the principal buildings, including the town hall, banks and churches, have been destroyed.

Early in the afternoon the flames, which had been spreading along the waterfront, had leaped into the many lumber yards along the St. Lawrence river, and in a short time hundreds of lumber piles were ablaze.

As far as could be learned, no fatalities have occurred, but it is now evident that hundreds in the lower sections of the town will be homeless, and it will be a difficult matter to feed them.

Shortly after three o'clock all communication was cut off from Three Rivers, the telephone and the telegraph companies reporting that their wires were down.

A later wire states that one hundred buildings have been destroyed, including the postoffice, telegraph offices, Bell Telephone office, all the banks, all the drug stores, all the principal groceries, all the dry goods stores, the old parish church, several private residences and all the principal hotels. The loss will probably be about $1,500,000.

WHOLE BLOCK IS BURNED OUT

Port Chester, N.Y., June 23.—Defying the efforts of firemen from this and several nearby towns, a fire raging uncontrolled for two hours late yesterday before it was checked, destroyed a block of buildings, rendered forty families homeless and entailed a loss of $500,000.

The fire broke out in the large building of the Burns livery stables, occupied in part by the Borden's Condensed Milk Co. Sparks communicated with adjoining buildings and aid was asked from Rye, Harrison, East Port Chester and Greenwich fire departments.

The entire block bounded by West Chester avenue, Broad street and Factory place, was burned to the ground, and buildings on both sides of Irving avenue were destroped.

The Baptist Church, half a mile away from the fire, was set ablaze by sparks and was partially burned.

DIAMOND AGENT IS MISSING NOW

Wife Believes That He is Being Held for Ransom.

New York, June 23.—Meyer Newman, a diamond salesman, left his home at No. 1,555 Fulton avenue, the Bronx, last Tuesday morning, with $2,000 worth of diamonds, and he has not returned home since. His wife, who is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, said that she believes her husband is being held for ransom, and that he will be killed if $10,000 is not paid to his captors. Two anonymous letters, in which demands for $10,000 have been made upon the diamond firm of Stern Bros. & Co., 33 Gold street, and 62 Nassau street, have been received by that firm, and were turned over to the police, who are investigating the strange disappearance of Newman.

Horse Terribly Treated.

Galt, June 23.—Under most revolting circumstances two valuable horses were killed Sunday at the Central Hotel stables. The instrument employed was a broomhandle.

Chief of Police Gorman arrested James Bunyan, who lives at Roseville, eight miles from town. He pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by Judge Blake.

About a year ago a series of shocking acts were committed among the horses and cattle of an adjoining township. Bunyan was arrested, but he was given his liberty after being in jail a long time as a lunatic and vagrant. He has only been out a short time.

Justice Slow In Russia.

St. Petersburg, June 23.—Sentences were handed down yesterday in the case of the participators in the Jewish massacre of 1905 at Bialystok, when eleven Christians and eighty-two Jews were wounded.

One of the prisoners was sentenced to three years' penal servitude, and thirteen others were condemned to from six months to a year's imprisonment.

Arrested on Murder Charge.

Glace Bay, C.B., June 23.—The chief of police arrested Donald John McKinnon and Maurice Gouthro on Saturday evening, charging them with the murder of Clifford Murphy of this town, formerly of Halifax, on the night of Feb. 29.

It's a Boy.

Madrid, June 23.—A son was born to Queen Victoria of Spain last night.

PAN-ANGLICAN CONVENTION

Lord Mayor and Judges Attend St. Paul's in State.

London, June 23.—The delegates to the Pan-Anglican Congress in London made a partial holiday of Saturday, although several meetings were held for the discussion of lighter social topics. The Bishop of Pennsylvania addressed a meeting of 13,000 children.

The Bishop of Massachusetts, who greatly impressed the congress, preached Sunday at both St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey. The feature of the services at the cathedral was the annual visit of the judges, the congregation, including the Lord Mayor of London, the sheriffs, and Lord Alverstone, Lord Chief Justice of England, in addition to a number of leading judges and a large number of delegates.

Bishop Wilkinson of Minnesota, known as the "Wall street chaplain," addressed a large open air meeting in Victoria Park in the afternoon.

Governor Hughes In Disfavor.

New York, June 23.—State Senator George B. Agnew, who introduced one of Governor Hughes' anti-gambling bills in the Legislature, and one of the delegates to the Chicago convention, said yesterday that he does not believe Governor Hughes can be nominated this fall. He further said he believed that the governor had lost popularity markedly in the past two months, and added that he did not believe he could be forced upon the Republican party.

Mr. Agnew indicated that there was almost universal resentment felt toward the governor by the delegates and politicians who went to Chicago.

Verdict In Land Fraud Case.

Washington, June 23.—Guilty—F.A. Hyde, Joost H. Schnieder. Not guilty—John A. Benson, Henry P. Dimond.

This was the verdict rendered yesterday by a jury in the Criminal Court here in the case of the trial of these four men, all westerners, one of them, Benson, a millionaire real estate operator, for alleged conspiracy to defraud the Government out of valuable lands in the far west. The jury had been out almost 75 hours.

Benson and Dimond were immediately released from custody.

Cattle Thieves Busy.

Ingersoll, June 23.—In Durham Township, and the southern part of the county, considerable excitement has been created by the bold work of a gang of cattle thieves.

Nine head of cattle were stolen near Zenda and, although every effort has been made to round up the marauders, they are still at large. The cattle were taken from the pasture fields and driven to the south part of the country. The animals were traced to a point about four miles east of Tillsonburg.

After River Pirates.

Ottawa, June 23.—Owing to two big burglaries at Angers and East Templeton, Que., which capped a series of robberies along Ottawa river towns, the Ottawa and Hull police are scouring the river between the capital and Thurso on fast motor boats. The river pirates are supposed to have their headquarters on an island somewhere in the river or on either bank. Sunday the robberies at Angers and East Templeton aggregated nearly $400.

Poisoned by Mosquito Bite.

Stratford, June 23.—Victor Caney, Cambria street, is suffering from a severe case of blood-poisoning in his arm following a mosquito bite, which he received last week.

Only amputation will save his life. The poison, it is feared, may enter his system, in which case the result will be fatal.

INDIAN AFFAIRS DISCUSSED DEPARTMENT IS CARELESS

Schools are Neglected, and Children Die From Lack of Proper Care—Chinese Immigration Bill Passed—Hon. Mr. Oliver on His Defence—Civil Service Bill Irregular Says Hon. Mr. Borden.

Ottawa, June 23.—The administration of the Indian Department was under fire in the House yesterday. It was begun by Joseph Armstrong, who declared that the Department was carelessly and extravagantly administered, and said that Hon. Mr. Oliver didn't know what was going on. He said the Government sold 620,000 acres of Indian lands in the past ten years, some of it at 10 and 15 cents an acre, and islands at $1 apiece. He charged that the Department expenditures had increased, especially as to the salaries. Mr. Armstrong asserted that 50 per cent. of the Indian children died from want of proper care. Two children out of five in every Indian family died through the parents' ignorance. The Indian Department had 202 officials in Manitoba, and these were all partisans.

Mr. Armstrong declared that the Departments had been most neglective and careless in disposing of the Indian lands, as well as in the conduct of the Indian schools.

Mr. Oliver replied that Mr. Armstrong had not shown results for the two years' investigation into the Indian Department. As for the increased expenditure in regard to the non-treaty Indians in the far north, they were proverbially improvident, but the Government could not see them starve and so they had helped from time to time in periods of distress. The increased expenditure upon treaty Indians was brought about by the increased area of treaty obligations. Of a million and a quarter spent annually on Indians, half a million was expended on their education. In the matter of their land, the Indians had been fairly and liberally dealt with, and he welcomed investigation into the working of the Department.

Mr. Wright of Muskoka and Mr. Clements of Kent endorsed the criticism made by Mr. Armstrong in the policy of the Indian Department.

Mr. Miller replied in defence of the Department, and the House then went into committee of supply on miscellaneous public works appropriation. On the item of $50,000 for surveys and inspections, Major Henon asked what action the Government proposed to take towards reconstruction of the breakwater at MacLeod, Alta., the carrying away of which by recent floods had caused great damage to the town.

The Minister of Public Works replied that he was awaiting a report on the subject.

An item of $5,000 for the cement testing laboratory at Ottawa drew from Porter of Hastings and Dr. Sproule the suggestion that provision be made by the Government for testing the deposit of limestone and marl in various parts of the country with a view to determining their suitability for the manufacture of cement.

Mr. Pugsley rather favored the proposal and promised to take it into consideration.

R. L. Borden made the discovery this morning that the introduction of the civil service bill was irregular. When he mentioned to Mr. Fielding the advisability of bringing in a resolution before proceeding with the bill, the latter agreed that this would be the proper course. He thought there was a debatable question as to whether or not the bill was an appropriation bill, but the course suggested by Mr. Borden would be followed.

R. A. Pringle asked if candidates for the civil service would have to pass a physical examination. Mr. Fisher replied that such was the intention, but it would be a matter for regulation. Mr. Borden wanted to know when the rest of the Government legislation would be brought down, and when the supplementary estimates would come down.

As to the legislation, Mr. Fielding would ask the Prime Minister. As to supplementary estimates, there would be some, but Mr. Fielding could not say when they would be brought down.

The Chinese immigration bill was passed, with an amendment, under which students who have studied in China and came to Canada to finish their education pay the head tax, but have it afterwards refunded to them.

Mr. Paterson gives notice of several amendments to the Customs Act.

One of these is to compel the conductors of freight trains on coming into Canada from a foreign country to furnish the customs officer with copies of the way bills of all goods on board.

Another amendment obliges the railway and steamship companies transporting goods in bond to carry customs officers free.

Members of the present brigade who apply to Chief Howard and are taken on to be paid as second year men.

As formerly decided upon, the chief will be paid $1250 per year.

The resolution did not carry unanimously, the vote being as follows;—

Yeas—Ald. Buller, Turner, Neill, Bradburn, Phelan.

Nays—Ald. McIntyre and Johnston.

The meeting was a rather long one, lasting from eight till ten o'clock. The proceedings were quite lively at times, Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Johnston opposing strongly the resolution passed above.

Those in attendance were Ald. Johnston, chairman; Mayor Rush, Ald. McIntyre, Morgan, Phelan, Neill, Bradburn, Turner and Buller. Fire Chief Howard was also present.

Ald. Morgan not being a member of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, or of the special Committee appointed to deal with the fire brigade question, did not have a vote.

Incidentally it may be stated that Chief Howard was firm on the point that he was to have full charge of the hiring of the firemen and that there must not be interference from the aldermen.

COST OF NEW BRIGADE.

The new brigade as endorsed by the joint committee will cost per year as follows;—

Chief	$1250
Assistant Chief	700
6 permanent men	3300
6 call men	900
	$6150
8 uniforms	184
	$6334

The above figures are based on the assumption that the six permanent men will be engaged from the present volunteer staff, in which case they will be rated as second year men at a salary of $550 a year. Each first year man employed would reduce the cost of the brigade by $50 a year.

The above will permit of a brigade of 14 men, all told, against one of 17 men under the volunteer system.

CHIEF'S REPORT.

When the committee got down to business the following report from Chief Howard was read;—

As requested by your Special Committee, I have gone into the matter of salaries for the re-organized fire department, and submit the following for your consideration;—

Chief	$1250 00
Assistant Chief	700 00
Engineer	[illegible]5 00
Nine permanent firemen, $500 00	4500 00
Total	$6,775 00

As suggested by some members of the Council, I would recommend that the salaries of the permanent firemen be graded as follows;—

First year men—$500.00.
Second year men—$550.00.
Third year men—$575.00.

It is my intention to employ some of the present brigade, provided they make application to me, and fulfill the requirements, and I would respectfully request that you permit me to pay any such firemen second year pay to begin with.

Yours obediently,
W. A. HOWARD.

Mr. Howard also advised that he be inspector to see that cellars and other secluded places are kept free from combustible rubbish. He had followed this course in Owen Sound and it had worked out very satisfactorily. He contended that a brigade composed of a chief, assistant chief, engineer and nine firemen would provide ample protection for the city.

The committee then got down to work and considered the chief's report. After half an hour it was revised as outlined in the resolution given above and passed as stated.

Ald. McIntyre contended that the new brigade, composed of fourteen men, would not be as efficient as the volunteer brigade of seventeen men. There were four men in the fire hall all the time at present, whereas there would only be eight under the new system.

Ald. Johnston was also opposed to the resolution. He wanted to know what was going to be done for Mr. Pakenham. He had been a faithful and efficient employee of the city, and Ald. Johnston did not want to see him thrown down.

Chief Howard said that if the city was under any obligation to Mr. Pakenham they should deal with him as gentlemen. As for the hiring of the new brigade, however, he was going to have charge of that, and there must not be any interference on the part of the aldermen.

In the course of the discussion the chief said he had always slept at home on Saturday and Sunday nights, and did not wear the uniform on Sunday.

This did not seem to strike some of the aldermen very favorably, and Ald. Buller said he considered that the chief should sleep in the fire hall practically every night.

Chief Howard said that if the committee ruled that he was to sleep at the fire hall all the time he would be quite willing to abide by their decision.

CHARGE AGAINST CHIEF.

Towards the close of the meeting, Ald. Johnston said there were a few matters that might as well be cleared up in the committee, which was the proper place—not on the street. He had heard several things mentioned on the street that were not to the credit of the new chief.

"What is the charge," asked one of the aldermen.

"That the new chief is given to boozing," said Ald. Johnston.

There was an unpleasant pause for half a minute.

"Has there been any charge made in writing," the chief asked.

"No, but I have heard it verbally," was the answer.

"Do you believe all you hear," the chief asked Ald. Johnston.

"Sometimes I do and sometimes I don't," was the answer.

"Well, I don't think you'll have any complain this time," said the chief.

Ald. Turner said the new chief had the best of recommendations and he did not think he would have them if he was not worthy. As far as he knew Mr. Howard was a thorough gentleman and he hoped he would not be disappointed.

"I hope not," said Mr Howard.

Ald. Johnston explained that he had nothing against Mr. Howard but he had heard these charges and he thought they should be cleared up.

After some further discussion along general lines, adjournment took place.

Ireland In "All-Red" Scheme.

London, June 23.—Replying to an Irish deputation re the all-red route, Winston Churchill said the Government was bound by the letter and spirit by the resolution passed at the Imperial Conference.

There was no truth whatever in the suggestion that any decision had been reached either in Canada or here excluding Ireland. It was quite possible their investigations would not come to any fruitful or practical result, but the action of the deputation ensured that the Irish aspect would bulk largely in the minds of all concerned in the work of attempting to arrive at some practical settlement.

Will Not Let Her Land.

Victoria, June 23.—Sylvia Edwards, a woman who was fined here a few days ago as a vagrant, is engaged traveling between here and Seattle on the Princess Royal, taking in Vancouver on her way.

Mrs. Edwards claimed to have been born in the United States, and accordingly was deported by Dr. Milne of the Dominion Immigration Department. On the other hand she told the United States authorities that Winnipeg was her birthplace, and they will not let her land. The result is that the girl has been traveling continuously for several days, the vessel having no choice but to take her.

WATERY GRAVES ARE MANY TWELVE DROWNINGS REPORTED

Lad's Neck Broken While Diving—Three-Year-Old Boy Falls Into a Cistern—Drowned in Two Feet of Water—Fatality at Rockland.

Rockland, Ont., June 23.—A sad drowning accident occurred yesterday when Amede Blais of this place, aged 14, was playing at the gap at the upper mill and seemingly fell into the water unnoticed. It is supposed he was in the water about fifteen minutes before the accident was noticed. Dr. W. T. Ferguson was immediately summoned, and, although everything possible was done to resuscitate the boy, the efforts were of no avail. The father of the deceased lives at Bouchette, Que., where he is employed by Mr. Andry Golford. His brother, Prudhomme Blais, works in this village. The body will, in all probability, be taken to Bouchette, but nothing definite can be done until instructions come from the father. The coroner has given orders for the burial, and no inquest will be held unless the family request it.

Twelve Deaths by Drowning.

New York, June 23.—Twelve deaths by drowning were recorded in New York and vicinity in the past 24 hours, the intense heat drawing thousands to the beaches to seek relief either in or on the water. Drowns In Cistern.

Chatham, June 23.—The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown was drowned in a cistern yesterday morning. He had been in the well for some time before discovered by playmates.

THE INSPECTOR IS BEING ACCUSED

Alleged to Have Given Bonuses for Smuggling Chinese.

Detroit, June 23.—John A. Clark, United States commissioner of immigration at Montreal, is in the city for the purpose of investigating the charges against Adam Hoffman, one of the local inspectors. The charge is based on the affidavit of two Windsor young men, Deneau and Carlie, who are in jail on a charge of smuggling Chinese into this country from Windsor, and who say that Hoffman gave them $25 and promised immunity from arrest for each Chinese that they delivered here in such a way that Hoffman could nab them and thus make a record for affidavit work as an inspector.

The boys say that on one occasion, when it was so dark the inspector could not see, they delivered to Hoffman a couple of boys who were not Chinese at all, but white boys, and got Hoffman's money for the job.

Hoffman makes emphatic denial of their claims.

Pine, Ont., June 23.—Had the earth opened and swallowed up little Olive Dupray her disappearance of five days ago could not have been more complete. Searching parties have been organized, and systematically searched the bush for miles around. Beacon fires have been lighted. The constant whistling of trains has been kept up to attract the attention of the lost girl, if she be alive. Dogs are busily engaged scenting the ground for miles. EDITORIAL NOTES

The Anglican Synod at its recent meeting re-affirmed its approval of the three-fifths clause.

We don't notice the Examiner making even an attempt to discuss the situation at Ottawa. Least said soonest mended in that case.

We hear that thanks to the energy of Mr R. R. Hall, MP, there is every likelihood of the Wm. Hamilton works opening up in a short time. A new out-of-town syndicate is said to have taken the matter in hand.

The Vienna Academy of Sciences, spent nearly $9600 in working 10 tons of uranium ore for radium. The yield was three grains of pure radium, the largest amount ever secured at once. the value bieng $320,000.—What a chance this would be for the Ottawa grafter.

Mr. Gourdeau, former deputy minister of marine and fisheries, gave it as his opinion before the Cassels enquiry that in three years the department had paid out $200,000 more than it would have done for materials it required because of the "patronage list." This means loss to the country and gain to the men on the list. Men are put on the list because the vote and shout for Laurier and Laurier candidates. The loss is part of the cost of Laurierism.

One English paper refers to Mr. MacKenzie King's report on Asiatic immigration as redundant and exiguous, which means that it is long without being weighty. Another calls it flamboyant which means that it has more wind than substance. It looks as if John Bull would hold his own prejudices on the yellow man issue.—Montreal Gazette.

Among the latest "thrillers" is the triple parachute leap, in which one aeronaut uses three different parachutes before reaching earth. He leaves the balloon in his downward flight with a red parachute but after falling a short distance liberates it and makes a second plunge through space with a white parachute. This feat is repeated again after another drop and he finally lands with a blue parachute.

Another "thriller" is a double parachute leap from the same balloon in which a man and woman race to earth in parachutes which fall 500 or 600 feet before opening out.— Popular Mechanics.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

Production is Being Brought to a Higher Average by Systematic Testing.

In the Pine Grove, Ont., Association for the 30 days ending 17th May, 40 cows had a total production of 28,602 pounds of milk. During the same period 46 cows in the North Oxford Ont., Association, gave a total yield of 40,285 pounds of milk. The difference between the average per cow was not so very striking, being in one case 712 lbs milk, and 878 lbs. milk in the other. But it is the totals that tell the story, and count up when the returns are figured. If the Pine Grove cows had produced as well as the North Oxford cows, they would have given an additional 6618 pounds milk, equivalent to an extra 8 cheese, each weighing 80 pounds.

Similarly at Sheffield, Ont., during the same 30 days, 564 cows gave 35,541 pounds of milk, or an average of only 630 pounds per cow. If they had yielded in the same proportion as the North Oxford cows, they would have given 12,870 pounds more than they did, or an additional sum of one hundred and fifteen dollars to their owners in the 30 days.

What is being done in one district can just as well be done in another. Farmers, make your cows earn more money for you.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Epidemic Influenza, Grippe, Catarrhal Troubles, Pneumonia Increasing

A marked increase in troubles of the breathing organs is noted in many localities. If you will only have Hyomei at hand to use with the first attack of cold in the head, pneumonia, colds, bronchitis, hoarseness, sore throat, croup, in fact any respiratory affection, the trouble will be quickly overcome.

If the attack is neglected and becomes severe, speedy relief will come in most cases and a persistent use of Hyomei will cure.

The directions for using it vary, but the principal is always the same that of destroying all the germs in the air passages with dry medication from the Pine and Eucalyptus forests.

Remember that liquids or moisture is barred from the bronchial tubes and lungs. It's the dry air of Hyomei that reaches the spot. W. Madill, corner of Hunter and George streets, Peterborough, guarantees it complete outfit $1.

THE WEST WILL HAVE GOOD CROPS

Mr. R. Lees is Home and States That the Outlook is Bright.

Mr. Richard Lees, I. PS. has returned home from the west and states that the people there expect a big harvest. Mr. Lees attended the Presbyterian General Assembly in Winnipeg and afterwards went to Saskatchewan where several of his brothers reside. He had a most enjoyable trip

Mr. Lees says that the weather in the west has been somewhat cold and vegetable growth has been hindered thereby. However, the prospects are bright for a big crop and the farmers, and everybody else for that matter, are very optimistic. These conditions prevail both in Manitoba and in the more western provinces.

HIS HARVEST DAYS ARE OVER

The announcement, apparently official, that Terry McGovern has retired from the ring and will go into business in the fall, is pleasing news. For the greater part of fourteen years McGovern was one of the idols of the ring. In his prime he was the greatest of fighting machines. Opponent after opponent was toppled over by his whirlwind attack, but his star set when he met Young Corbett, who had the eye and the nerve to stand his ground and pick the hole through which to slide the knockout blow. The decadence of McGovern from a physical viewpoint is too well known to the public to require details. Sufficient to say that it was almost a case for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals when he was permitted to re-enter the ring after his long stay in a sanitarium. He was not the McGovern of old and those who had enjoyed him in his full strength hated to think of him as a punching bag for second raters.

EAT ORANGES

IF YOU WANT TO KEEP WELL

Careful tests have proved beyond question that orange juice has clearly defined medicinal virtues. Those who suffer with Indigestion—are compelled "to diet"—find that after eating oranges regularly for breakfast there is no distress, no palpitation.

Where there was a tendency towards constipation, the eating of oranges regulated the bowels.

In skin troubles, those who began the morning meal with an orange were noticeably improved.

There is, however, a quicker way to get better results. This is to take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" tablets at bedtime in addition to the juice of an orange before breakfast the next morning. "Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes, in which the medicinal action is many times intensified by the special way of combining them. Valuable tonics are then added.

Take the juice of an orange before breakfast—take "Fruit-a-tives" at night—and you will quickly be rid of Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Constipation and Biliousness. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price by "Fruit-a-tives," Limited, Ottawa.

MR. WHITNEY'S OLYMPIC

Full returns from the Ontario election indicate that Mr. Whitney has made a new Olympic record for Canadian political contests. To carry 87 seats out of one hundred and six, in a province which has been Liberal so long, even if not so preponderately, is a remarkable feat. If Longboat does not win the Marathon Mr. Whitney will remain the hero of the year.

A curious circumstance of the election is shown by comparing the majorities of the nineteen Liberals elected, with those of the eight Toronto members, who are all Conservatives and supporters of Mr. Whitney. The nineteen Liberals had a total majority of 4,500, while the Toronto eight had a majority of over 21,000. In other words the Whitney candidates in Toronto had 16,500 greater majority than all the Liberal candidates elected throughout the whole province. When the majorities of the other 79 Conservatives are added to this surplus of 16,500 in Toronto, it will be seen that Mr. Whitney's plurality is something extraordinary. The ordinary election vocabulary breaks down when one seeks for familiar terms in which to describe such a political triumph.

Let us hope that the man in whom a great province has reposed so large a measure of confidence will be as worthy of it in the future as he has been in the past.

LINDSAY PAPERS SPEAK HIGHLY OF THE S. A. BAND

The Lindsay papers speak very highly of the playing of the Peterborough Salvation Army band, which visited that town on Sunday. The following are some of the references:—

THE POST.

Most successful services were conducted Saturday evening and all day Sunday in connection with the local corps of the Salvation Army. The visit of the silver band of the Peterborough corps was the big feature of the two days' special services. They made a distinctly favorable impression.

The band arrived on the Saturday evening train and after marching up town, got their supper. They were billeted around town. In the early part of the evening an open air service was held on the corner of Kent and William streets, to which was attracted an immense crowd. Traffic was almost blocked for a time so dense was the throng. Later a very meritorious programme was rendered in the Salvation Army barracks, Peel street. Dr. G. A. White was chairman. The programme included selections by the band, a vocal solo by Bandsman French, a euphonium solo by Bandsman Boorman, a vocal solo by Ensign Riley, a trombone solo by Bandsman Moynes, a vocal solo by Mr. Greene, bandmaster, and a cornet solo by Deputy Bandmaster Ford. A number which caught the fancy of the crowd was a drum solo representing a train shunting and leaving a station, also a battlefield with the firing of guns, the troops leaving the field and the bands playing the march past, by Bandsman Meadows.

The smart appearance of the band was the subject of comment and on all sides were heard murmurs of approbation. The band marches well, but above all this, was their playing, the excellence of tonal quality and other things which contributed to make their visit here a musical treat to hundreds.

THE FREE PRESS.

The Peterborough Salvation Army silver band arrived in town Saturday evening on the G.T.R. and left again this morning for Peterborough. The bandsmen were well received by the citizens of the town who greatly admired the splendid selections of music tendered by this efficient organization.

On Saturday evening an open air meeting was held at the corner of Kent and William streets, and a musical festival was given in the barracks. Both meetings were well attended by the music-loving public of the town.

Yesterday another splendid open air meeting was held at 11 o'clock, and a band concert of sacred music was given in the afternoon at Victoria Park. The band played several selections and reflected much credit upon their efficient leader, Mr Greene, winning the applause of the large crowd who were present.

In the evening another musical festival was held in the Academy of Music, which was largely attended. The band played unstintingly, and showed to the large audience the wide scope of their musical powers.

Those who had the pleasure of hearing the staff band when it was here some time ago, found the Peterborough band equally as good. The band is splendidly balanced, but the cornet section is a little weak. The musicians have made a favorable impression upon the Lindsay people, and it is hoped that they will visit the town some time again in the near future.

THE WARDER.

The Salvation Army held glorious and enthusiastic meetings in town Saturday evening and Sunday. Not one minute was wasted in their work. The Peterborough Salvation Army silver band, some thirty strong, was in attendance, while Col. and Mrs. Sharpe, provincial officers, led the services.

The meetings began with a musical festival at the barracks on Saturday night. On Sunday morning a consecration service was held. This was followed by an open air meeting and then came a rousing indoor gathering.

In the afternoon with the band in attendance, a large and appreciative meeting was held at the park. It would be stretching it but little to say that the whole town was there. The band and individual members rendered some exceptionally fine selections.

Making It Plain

Henri was paying his first visit to London and was already wishing himself home in gay Paree, for he knew not a word of English. He had been very unfortunate and had lost all his luggage, a toothbrush. So he determined to buy another. But how was he to make his needs understood?

At last his luck turned, however, and he espied a chemist's shop with a notice outside, "Ici on Parle Francais." In he went and told the assistant in French what he wanted. But that assistant knew no language except English, and another who came to help him was just as far at sea.

But the proprietor was an intelligent man, and he knew at once from the cut of the customer's clothes that he was speaking French.

"Leave him to me," he said, with a superior smile.

Then, forming a megaphone with his hands, he shouted in the Frenchman's ear:

"Our assistant who speaks French is out at lunch. You'll have to wait!"—London Scraps.

Swordsmen of the Sea.

The swordsmen of the sea are the sawfisher, spearfishes, sailfishes, swordfishes and the narwhal, with its spirally twisted straight tusks. The sawfishes inhabit the warmer seas, while the narwhal is a creature of the arctic. The tusk of the narwhal is hollow nearly to the point and is spirally grooved. It uses its tusk as a weapon of defense and to plunge through the ice to breathe, the narwhal being a cetacean. Sometimes when a boat has been caught in the ice great damage has been inflicted by the inquisitiveness or blundering of this great creature, that sometimes reaches a length of fifteen feet, with a tusk of from six to ten feet in length. As a rule, however, the narwhal uses its tusk for the purpose of killing fish for food. In the castle of Rosenberg the kings of Denmark have long possessed a magnificent throne made of tusks of this cetacean. These tusks are harder and whiter than ivory.

Beavers Train Their Young.

Naturalists have placed the beaver a long way down in the list of vertebrates, but it undoubtedly stands next to man in the variety of occupations in which it engages. All cats are hunters, while foxes that are not thieves may be included also among the Nimrods. All canaries are prima donnas, and monkeys make clever comedians, but it is only the beaver parent that educates its children to take up several trades. In a single colony among them you will find civil and marine engineers, woodchoppers, raftsmen, laborers, quarrymen, miners, plasterers, masons, carpenters, hodcarriers and fishermen. All beavers take contracts for building dams, but when the work is undertaken the task is so divided that each member of the colony has its own particular work to look after. In this way they make some wonderful excavations and construct their dams in an incredibly short time.

Marry and Part For a Year.

Among the many peculiar customs prevalent among the people of Central America is that of parting for one year after the marriage ceremony has been solemnized. This custom has prevailed among the Jarnos from time immemorial. There is no courtship allowed to be carried on between the parties prior to the wedding. When a man selects a woman he obtains the consent of the parents on both sides, and if this is given they are at once married. The reason, however, for their not living together as man and wife for one year after marriage is in order to permit of the parties visiting and staying with their respective friends in different parts of the country, which is a customary thing and occupies the time specified. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of these marriages turn out well.

A Chance to Spoon.

A young couple from the suburbs went to Dublin the other day to see the pantomime. Being early, they visited a tea room and had the place all to themselves. The attending waitress had omitted in serving them to supply the necessary implement to effectually assist in the proper and palatable admixture of the tea, cream and sugar.

"Can we have a spoon?" inquired the swain.

"Certainly," replied the observant attendant. "I am just tidying up, and you can have the whole room to yourselves in a minute or two."—Liverpool Mercury.

Holding His Job.

"I think the man who works at that place across the street is the most faithful and conscientious workman I ever saw. He never takes a holiday and always labors away till it's too dark to see any longer."

"Faithful workman! Great Scott! He's the proprietor of the shop!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Fireside Diplomat.

"I don't want to be nagging at you," Mrs. Marryat began, "but it's the little things that bother me most"—

"Ah!" interrupted her husband sweetly. "I suppose you're going to tell me you haven't a decent pair of shoes."—Philadelphia Press.

Homemade.

"We are told to cast our bread upon the waters," said a young wife.

"But don't you do it," replied her husband. "A vessel might run against it and get wrecked."—Simplicissimus.

A Wrong Guess.

Botanical Youth (in park)—Can you tell me if this plant belongs to the arbutus family? Gardener (curtly)—No, young man, it don't. It belongs to the county council.—London Globe.

W. R. Reid has been elected president of the Reid Newfoundland railway and R. D. Reid is vice-president.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 22.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending June 20 were 2264 cattle, 295 sheep and lambs, 1654 hogs and 525 calves. The offerings this morning were 800 cattle, 150 sheep and lambs, 525 hogs and 100 calves. Export steers were quoted at 6¾c to 7c; good at 6¼c to 6½c, good butchers at 6c to 6¼c; fair at 5¼c to 5¾c; cows at 5c to 5½c; common stock at 4½c to 4¾c, inferior at 3½c to 4c, and canners at 2½c to 3c per pound. The weak feeling which developed in the market for sheep and lambs a week ago has continued to be the main feature, and prices have scored a further decline of ¼c to ½c per lb., notwithstanding the fact that supplies have been much smaller of late, and the demand for export account fairly good. Sales of choice sheep were made this morning at 4½c, and culls at 4c, while yearling lambs sold at 4½c to 5c per pound. Spring lambs were also easier, and a fair trade was done in them at prices ranging at from $3 to $5 each. Supplies of calves are decreasing, and the undertone to the market is stronger at an advancing price. Sales of good to choice stock were made at $8 to $10, and the lower grades at $3 to $6 each. Owing to the much stronger cable advices on Canadian bacon last week, which noted an advance in prices of 3s to 4s per cwt., coupled with the fact that supplies of hogs have been smaller, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market this morning, and prices for western stock were 15c to 25c per 100 lbs. higher than a week ago, but values for nearby supplies were unchanged. The demand from packers and dealers was fairly good, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.65 to $6.75 for western, and at $6.50 for eastern, per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Giving a French Touch.

There are various ways of making the pretty Frenchy costume. A little Eton of heavy black novelty lace lay in the wardrobe of a woman who dresses wonderfully well at all times. This spring, wishing to utilize the little black lace Eton, she took it in hand and made it serviceable by applying it to a black princess gown. The Eton was tacked in place, then embroidered upon the goods, so to speak. Then some colored touches were put into the lace, and finally the front was secured with some gold cords and tassels. It dressed up the princess in charming style.

Saying Things.

Better not.

There's less to regret.

There are fewer complications.

Those of strong feelings are also likely to say too much.

The satisfaction of saying things is but a poor thing.

Besides, one always has the pleasure of thinking what the little boy did who got the spanking anyway.

BARN IN WESTWOOD HIT BY LIGHTNING

The electric storm that visited the city last night was the worst as yet this summer. The downpour of rain was the heaviest of the season and the lightning was sharp and violent. Judging from the reflection on the eastern sky there was evidently some place struck and it was reported in the city this morning that a farmer's barns in Westwood were burned.

PRAY AND SING BY SIGNS AT DEAF MUTES ASSOCIATION

Local Man Attending Convention in Toronto This Week—Intense Feeling is Manifested by Some of Those Taking Part.

Mr. J. E. Crough, 201 Hunter St., is at present in Toronto attending the Deaf Mutes' Association in that city which is meeting in Convocation Hall, commencing on Saturday last and continuing until Thursday. The Toronto Star has the following to say of the meetings yesterday:

Convocation Hall has never in its short history been the scene of a gathering so unique as that which is to be found there this week. Commencing Saturday and continuing until Thursday next, the Deaf Mutes' Association is meeting for the eleventh time. It is about 18 years since the convention was here before, the sessions being held biennially.

There are about 200 delegates in attendance. They come from all over the Province and a few from the States. They don't listen to speeches. They watch them. For the speeches are in the sign language.

SINGING BY SIGNS.

Even the singing and praying are done by signs. It is a surprising sight for the uninitiated to see a congregation of people thus singing noiselessly but in good time, and apparently enjoying it as heartily as those in possession of vocal faculties. There are choirs and soloists, too, whose hand-singing is better than the ordinary. The choirs are generally composed of ladies and their singing is watched with the greatest of attention.

The only noise in the deaf mutes' convention is the hand-clapping, and there is but little of that. There is small satisfaction in clapping the hands when neither the clapper nor anyone else can hear it.

The "speakers" are eloquent in the sign language and sometimes their facial expression portrays intense feeling. Occasionally a "speaker" will grunt in an unconscious effort to add force to his signs, but the audience, of course, do not hear these queer noises. A very few are deaf but not dumb. These speak to people who are not deaf in voices by no means whisperlike, but the convention is not disturbed. It does not hear. Occasionally a hand is waved in applause, but for the most part the audience sits very quiet. All eyes must be kept fastened on that one who is giving the mute address else the thread of his remarks will be lost.

THE PRESIDENT RETIRES

Pres. Geo. W. Reeves, who spoke on Saturday night, supplemented his address this morning by a few words of encouragement along the lines of deaf mutes' success in the civil service and other occupations. He has been urged to again take the presidency which he has held for the past two years, but he has decided not to run. He was vice-president for four years.

In an address this morning Mr. R. C. Slater, of Toronto, told of attending the first school for deaf mutes in Toronto 15 years ago.

This afternoon the delegates are being photographed and afterwards entertained by the city. This evening they elect officers.

REV. JAS. CAMPBELL HAS BEEN SUCCESSFUL IN FIGHT

To Oust Dr. Pfohl From the Position of Administrator of His Brother's Estate—Contest Over Will of Late Dr. Campbell, Native of Peterborough County.

The following article from a recent issue of the Buffalo Express, will prove of local interest, as the parties concerned are well known here.

The Court of Appeals has granted the application of the Rev. James Campbell, of California, to be appointed administrator of the estate of his brother, the late Dr. Robert S. Campbell, and to have Dr. Edward N. Pfohl ousted from the position of administrator. Dr. Campbell died at the Park Hotel in May, 1907. During the last few years of his life, Dr. Campbell had lived almost as a hermit, in striking contrast to the gay life he led when he was one of Buffalo's most successful physicians, with a handsome home on North st.

He left no will. His fortune has been placed at $100,000 and upwards. Dr. Pfohl was appointed administrator shortly after Dr. Campbell's death. The Rev. James Campbell hurried from California as soon as he heard of his brother's death and sought to have Dr. Pfohl's appointment set aside. Surrogate Hart refused to grant his application. The matter was then carried to the Appellate Division, where Dr. Campbell won. Dr. Pfohl then took the case to the Court of Appeals, which sustained Mr. Campbell's position. He will take charge of the estate as soon as Dr. Pfohl winds up his accounts.

Kellogg & Baker represented the Rev. Mr. Campbell. George F. Schultz and Judge Kenefick appeared for Dr. Pfohl. The question at issue was whether the Surrogate is required to notify relatives and next of kin to appear in court in administration matters when the relatives live outside the state. The decision of the highest court is that the relatives must be notified.

JAS. PORTER OF CAVAN KILLED YESTERDAY AT BARN RAISING

James Porter, of Cavan, was killed yesterday at a barn raising at the farm of Mr. John Douglas, on the 4th line of Cavan, by a beam falling on him. The late Mr. Porter was 55 years of age and a pioneer resident of Cavan.

He is survived by a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Todd, of Bailieboro, and an unmarried daughter at home. He was a Presbyterian in religion.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon, from the family residence, 4th line Cavan to the Centreville cemetery.

FORMER PASTOR AT ST. PAUL'S ACCEPTS CALL TO HAVERSTON

Rev. W. M. MacKay, of Toronto, a former assistant pastor at St. Paul's church, has accepted a call to the pastorship of the Presbyterian church at Haverston, Ont. He will leave for his new charge in a couple of weeks.

On leaving Peterborough Mr. MacKay went to Toronto where he held the position of Y.M.C.A. secretary for Toronto University. Rev. Mr. MacKay has again decided to take up ministerial work. His many friends will be pleased to learn of his decision and join in wishing him much success.

The Haverston Presbyterian church is a handsome structure and the congregation there will no doubt make rapid progress under Rev. Mr. MacKay's careful guidance.

GRANTS FOR THE RURAL SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY

The general grants to the rural schools of the county has been apportioned and will be paid about the beginning of August to all those schools that have complied with the conditions of the new regulations.

These grants consist of three parts:

1. A fixed grant which amounts to $30 per school in the townships where the assessment is less than an average of $30,000 per school section. That is in Belmont and Methuen, Burleigh and Anstruther, Chandos, Galway and Cavendish, and Harvey.

2. Grant on the salaries of teachers, which, in the case of the townships mentioned above, is 40 per cent. of the salary in excess of $150 and in the other townships 40 per cent of the excess over $300. In both cases this is based as far as possible on the amount of salary actually paid, and where the teacher acts as caretaker $30 is deducted from the amount of salary of which the grant is paid.

3. In the case of second class certificates there is a grant of $30 when the teacher has had an experience of five years, and $20 if less than five.

In addition to these there will be a grant on equipment and accomodation, payable before the first of December. These with the county equivalent will probably amount to an average of $25 or $25 per school. There will also be a small grant for those schools that have purchased library books since 1st July, 1907. All such schools should notify the inspector at once, if they have not already done so.

DOG TAG CASE HAD RE-HEARING

In Police Court Today---Magistrate's Judgment Remained Unchanged.

An Antrim St. resident was in police court this morning for neglecting to pay his dog tax. The accused appeared before and had been fined $4.95, but owing to some dispute, Chief Rexel desired a re-hearing. Mr. G. N. Gordon defended the North End resident and pleaded not guilty. However, after several witnesses had been heard, His Worship let his previous judgment stand unchanged.

Two Antrim St. boys swore to having seen the dog in question around the accused's residence for over a month.

The defence attempted to show that the canine, when P.C. Meharry saw it on the third of June, did not belong to him, as he had sold it two days previous. There was considerable discussion on the matter, but His Worship's judgment remained unaltered.

SPORTING NEWS

THE YOUNGSTOWN PRESS CAN'T SAY TOO MUCH FOR BURRIDGE

Judging from the journalistic boquets that are being tossed in his direction, Harry Burridge is the hero of the Youngstown nine and his clever work is winning him much praise. Listne to th following from the Sunday Vindicator, of Youngstown, in reference to his stellar work against the Newcastle team:

"The real batting hero of the game and the caddy kid, was Harry Burridge, the Champs young Canuck catcher. He registered twice each time just when a swipe was needed. He also caught a bang-up game and but two stolen bases were made off him. He showed Brigger, the Nocks' backstop, how to play the position.

AN UNIQUE WALK LOOKED TO TAKE PLACE HERE ON 13TH

Mr. Geo. Stevens informed the Review to-day that he was going to hold a 10-mile go-as-you-please race for the blind only at the Brock St. ring on July 13th. The race will start at 4 o'clock and, owing to the fact that the contestants will be unable to see the course will be double roped. The event will commence at four o'clock in the afternoon and a night handicap walk will be run by Mr. Stevens in which the pick of the peds who will have taken part in the walk in Lindsay on July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th, will compete.

It is stated that Stacey, of Toronto and Tom Stacey will start at Lindsay. Hoagland is also expected to start there.

LOCAL MEN WALKED FORTY MILES IN A BURNING SUN

In a burning hot sun, Messrs. Edward Blair and Wm. McAuliffe of this city walked in from Harvey township yesterday afternoon, a distance of forty miles. The two men were working in the woods, engaged taking out hemlock logs. They stated this morning that the heat in the woods was something intense and the black flies and mosquitoes were so thick that it was impossible to have a moment's comfort. One could not sleep, eat or do anything, they were such a pest. They left the woods yesterday morning and reached the city last evening. They were a little warm and footsore but today they feel none the worse for their experience.

GREAT INTEREST BEING TAKEN IN SATURDAY'S BALL GAME

Great interest has been aroused among the local sporting fraternity over Saturday's Ball game at Riverside park on Saturday afternoon between the Petes and the Athletics. There are many who think that the league leaders were lucky to pull out a victory last Saturday and who look for a win for the Athletics when they meet again at the week end. There is a probability that the Lynch aggregation will strengthen up in one or two places whilst the Petes will have on their regular team. Quinlan will do the flinging for the Athletics and if given any kind of support will keep the Petes hustling to win. The Athletics are determined to stop the victorious career of the league leaders and Saturday is the day they have decided to do it.

Ladies will be admitted free to the game and a large number of the fair sex will be in attendance. A fine view of the game can be had from the new grandstand and a record attendance is looked for.

CONNIE MURPHY HAD AN ADVENTUROUS TRAIN RIDE

Lightning Smashed Window of the Coach and Train Jumped Track at Manvers—The Local Outfielder on a Busy Jaunt on the Cars.

Mr. Connie Murphy, the pliable left fielder of the Peterborough ball team, was in Toronto yesterday, and in returning last night on the C.P.R. midnight had quite a sensational ride. Near Myrtle, as he was seated in the coach on his homeward trip, and in the midst of the storm, there was suddenly a loud flash, and crackle, followed by the sound of falling glass. One of the windows of the coach was shattered, having apparently been struck by lightning, and the glass from the splintered pane flew in all directions. To say the least Connie was very much disturbed, and held on to the seat for further orders. A Chinaman who was sitting in a seat beside the [illegible] was sitting in a seat beside the broken pane, was accused by the conductor of smashing the glass, and it took him some time with his pigeon English to explain to his accuser that the elements, and not himself were to blame.

At Manvers, to add to the eventful ride the train ran off the track owing to the slippery condition of the rails, but there was not much delay, and no one was hurt. The local ball player was much relieved when the brakeman came through the train calling "Peterborough!"

TENNIS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22.—Ideal weather favored the opening today of the women's national lawn tennis championships tournament on the grounds of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. The entry list is so large that for the first time in many years morning matches were necessary in order to complete the tournament this week. In compliance with the efforts of the National Association the committee in charge of the tournament will enforce strictly the defaulting of players who do not report within reasonable time after their matches are scheduled.

Miss Evelyn Sears, of Boston, who won the single championship last year, will be here to defend the title. Miss Carrie B. Neeley, of Chicago, and Miss Weimer, of Cincinnati, are the women of the doubles championship and the national championship for mixed doubles is held Sayres and Wallace F. Johnson, of this city.

HAS LONGBOAT BEEN REFUSED?

A New York despatch to-day says that James E. Sullivan, president of the American Amateur Athletic Union and secretary of the American Olympic Committee, has been successful in having the entry of Tom Longboat, the Canadian runner, refused in the Marathon race. Longboat will not be permitted to run because of alleged professionalism. The Canadian Associated Press despatch says that Longboat's entry for the games has not yet been considered.

This reported action on the part of the Olympic Committee was this morning called to the attention of several local members of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union. Controller Ward, P. J. Mulqueen and J. G. Merrick assert that if the despatch from New York is correct, they would be in favor of instructing President Stark to withdraw all the Canadian Olympic team from the Olympic games. Controller Ward would go further, and take all Canadians—trap shooters and target shooters—from the competitions for the championships in the Old Country.

WILL PROBABLY MEET IN FALL

Hurtubuise Likely to Take on Karakanoff the Turk—May Wrestle Sinaud.

It is quite probable that Karkanoff the Turk, and Gene Hurtubuise will come together on the mat in the fall of the present year. A match may also be made between the local heavyweight and Sinaud, the young French-Canadian wrestler.

Mr. Chris Graham, when in Montreal discussed the matter with a prominent promoter of wrestling there. The place and dates of the suggested bouts have not been decided upon.

BASEBALL

Jack Toft has received word to report as umpire in the Eastern League.

Jas. Braid has won the open championship of Great Britain for the 4th time in 291, being the lowest score on record. He had lately returned to his putting, which had given great trouble this season, but by adopting the offhand style he succeeded in bringing up that department of his game, evidently to championship pitch.

The T.A.S. ball team had their best workout this season at the practice field, Charlotte street, last night. All the players were out and the boys were put through their coachings by a good coach.

Three balls were going all the time and the practice was a most useful one. The players fielded and threw in great form.

The Strathcona baseball team will go to Hastings on Dominion Day to the local team an exhibition game. A big celebration is being held at Hastings on the first.

Wanted: A Practical Man; He Wins All the Prizes.

By Dr. Madison C. Peters.

THE world is full of theorists who imagine that if their plans and schemes were put into operation the millennium would dawn before its time. Earth would be transformed into a bowery of happiness and delight where care and worry would be unknown. Men and women would bask in an eternal sunshine with never a cloud to overcast the brightness of their bliss. But the trouble is that the beautiful designs of these visionaries and dreamers never can assume real forms. They are impracticable, impossible.

We do not want men to tell us how to do things, but we want them to do the things themselves and thus show us how to do them. A man may describe a beautiful way for getting to the planet Mars, but as long as he never has tried that way himself and so demonstrated its practicability we have little or no faith in his plans.

Availability Wins the Prize.

A man's success depends largely upon his practical capabilities. Not ability, but availability, wins the prize. Availability is the capacity to use to advantage all of one's powers. A college diploma does not secure success. An educated pig remains a pig, an educated fool remains himself.

Education must be sown on good soil to produce a good crop; if the ground is shallow and devoid of the right constituents there will be but a poor return. A silk purse never can be made from a pig's ear, so a gentleman never can be made from a cad, a wise man from a fool, nor a practical man from an idealist.

Men who can accomplish, who can bring about results, are needed in every condition of life today. Of such men there is a dearth everywhere and the consequence is that owing to the limited competition between them they are able to command large salaries and occupy influential positions among their fellows.

Make the Wheels Revolve.

These are the men who make the wheels of the world revolve, who are the guiding hands at the levers of commerce, business, and trade, who speed the train and steer the ship to the destinations of progress and prosperity. Without them the world would degenerate, go back to the primitive, and the greatest institutions of man would crumble and decay. Such men teach us the true education, the education of both head and hand, the hand to do what the head directs. They need no college diploma to recommend them, their certificate of merit is the actions they perform.

Book education without the ability to turn it to practical account is a drug on the market. Gold is of little service to a man starving in a desert for want of bread and water. Book knowledge may be a hindrance to a man, inasmuch as he may by it become too refined for any practical purpose.

Many men are so polished and refined by higher education that they become like a finely tempered steel instrument ground down to the sharpest point, and which flies in pieces the moment it strikes the hard surface of the world. The heavy, blunt instrument, by the power of its own force, is able to bore its way through.

Head Trained Too Much.

Many of our young men are so exquisitely cultivated as to be good for nothing but to be kept in a showcase as specimens of what the most approved systems of education can do. They emerge annually from our colleges utterly unfit to take even the most obscure place, totally unequipped for the battle of life into which they must enter, and this simply because all their time has been given to the dry "isms," "ologies" and "osophies" of the schools—the head altogether trained at the expense of the hand.

However, a change is coming. Hard headed, practical men have begun to see the folly of sending their sons to colleges merely to learn the wisdom of the dead past. The past is gone and what suited it will not do for the present.

What was new twenty years ago is antiquated today. There are no better scholars than formerly, but systems are different and the necessities of the times have changed.

Know One Thing and Do It.

What the times now demand is a sound, practical education along definite lines. The encyclopedic man of the past, who knew a thousand subjects in a general way, but had not knowledge to put one of them into practical use, is obsolete. We want the man who knows one thing and can do it, and do it well. This is the man of the hour, this is the man who is in demand, this is the man who gets to the front when the man whose head is almost bursting with all kinds of book knowledge is left far behind in the race.

The man who knows how to drive a steam engine has the advantage of the man who can teach Greek and Latin; of course if the engineer knows Greek and Latin, all the better, they will not mar his skill in driving the engine, but if he does not know them he will be just as useful a man in the business in which he is engaged.

The man who to book knowledge adds practical ability has the right kind of an education. He who can mend a hole in a pot when the pot is required to cook a dinner for a hungry traveler is of more benefit to that traveler than the most learned savant on earth who could not mend the pot.

Trade Schools Are Increasing.

That the trend of the times is towards practicability in education is evidenced by the number of trade schools and industrial institutions which are springing up all over the country. Yearly they are turning out well equipped men with a sound, practical knowledge of the mechanical callings and crafts upon which rests to a great extent our prestige as a nation.

It is the workers, the artisans, mechanics, and tradesmen who are at the base of our national welfare; they are the props on which rests the structure of our power. Take them away and it will totter and fall.

Burke wisely said: "There is no force in mere intellectual ability standing in all the nakedness and solitude of metaphysical abstraction." What we need is a curriculum dealing with the practical affairs of life. Schiller designated the final education of the human race to consist in action which fits man for the proper performance of the duties of life.

We Live in a Fast Age.

We are living in a fast age; we have no time to do anything properly. Where is the American youth who would spend twelve years with Angelo studying anatomy to be perfect in his work as a sculptor? In one-tenth of that time the young American would undertake to chisel an Apollo Belvedere.

We do everything in a hurry. We rush through school, jump into business, do feverish work, break down in middle life, and die when we should only be beginning in reality to live.

We take short cuts and have abridged methods; the work is all done to please the eye, and as a consequence soundness and solidity have been neglected. But we are now trying to remedy this, and in the future this country promises to be without a rival in every field of human endeavor, for she is making it imperative for her institutions to educate in the right direction and so turn out such practical men and women as will build the ramparts of strength around her and make her impregnable to the rest of the world.

Married Men Best Workers; Often Get the Best Jobs.

By Ben Burbanks.

THE rule announced by a Chicago bank a few years ago that marriage would mean discharge for clerks and messengers getting less than $1,000 a year, caused a good deal of criticism for the bank and some sympathy for the employés. Many people jumped to the conclusion that big business houses gave single men the preference when it came to giving out jobs.

An investigation shows that the shoe really pinches the other foot. In a majority of cases where any discrimination is made, the married man gets the better of his bachelor brother.

"I wouldn't go to such an extreme as discharging a man because he is single," said the manager of a good sized Chicago wholesale house, "but when I put on a new man I must confess I give the preference to one that has a wife. For any position above that of office boy or cub clerk, if two applicants are otherwise equal, the bachelor gets turned down. It isn't altogether that the married man needs the money worst, though perhaps that has a little to do with it, but my experience shows that the Benedicts are a shade steadier and more reliable than the bachelors. They hang on to their jobs more religiously and they have fewer distracting outside interests."

Thief Usually Single Man.

"I figure that nine-tenths of the small peculations and embezzlements that come under my notice during the year, are the work of single men," says a business detective connected with one of the bonding concerns. "I'm not saying that the man with a wife is any more honest than the man without, but he certainly is less exposed to that form of temptation that makes an employé short in his accounts. Now and then some fellow will steal for his wife's sake, but he's ten times more likely to do it for some woman not his wife. The wife knows her husband's circumstances, and notwithstanding occasional stories of feminine extravagance, you can mark it down for a fact that a married woman isn't going to ruin her husband's career and her own happiness by encouraging expenditures that the income won't stand.

"It isn't the married men, as a rule, who lead the gay life," continued the detective. "Sometimes, no doubt, Smith feels a little bit mistreated at seeing what an awful lot of fun Jones has, but Smith, who is married, really has no reason to be sorry for himself. It's a good thing for him that he is obliged to give his salary to the missus and the kids and cut out his share of the good times of Jones. I'm married myself and I know."

Bachelors First to Go.

When business gets slack and men are laid off, there are few firms who do not give the sack to the bachelors. An inquiry among the Chicago firms who reduced their force this winter reveals that almost without exception the men with wives and families were retained. There is that much sentiment in business, at least. Several of the superintendents and managers confessed that they laid off the best men and kept the poorest in a number of instances.

"A man who has only himself to look out for can make some sort of a shift for a living," explained one manager, "but a sudden layoff is a mighty serious thing for a man with a family. I didn't have the heart to let any of my married men go. In a few instances I gave the firm the worst of it by this discrimination, but I guess the stockholders are not going to kick. If they do I can't help it."

There may be a little truth in the view that one bachelor takes of the question, though it is not quite complimentary to some of the employers.

"Married men will stand for more than single ones," said he. "That's one reason why some of the bosses like them. A married man is a helpless, treadmill sort of a creature. He's got his neck in the yoke and the boss knows it. He dare not ask for a raise, for he can't afford to quit in case it is refused.

Benedict Can't Look Around.

"If he belongs to the low salaried class of workers the chances are that he keeps a week or two behind his pay envelope, and he is afraid to take his nose off the grindstone long enough to look for a better job. The boss can make him work overtime without extra money, or he can make him work short time and dock him for the hours he lost, whichever the needs of business may demand. The single man can quit, but the married man is tied hands and heels."

There is one firm in Chicago employing an average of ten men where no single man is eligible to a place on the pay roll. The applicant for a job who confesses that he's a bachelor is turned down at once, though, of course, the real reason for his refusal isn't explained to him. The curious thing about this business house is that the managing owner is a confirmed old bachelor and never speaks two words to a woman if he can help it. What sort of a dream of "what might have been" stirs his heart nobody knows, but it is certain that he won't give a job to the man that is not married.

It is said that one of the employés of this bachelor lost his wife a few years ago, and he knew the rule so well that he was afraid to confess his widowerhood to his boss. He hid his bereavement as best he could and there were only three men in the office who knew that his companion had died, and they were pledged to secrecy. Whether the boss would have fired him for his misfortune if he had found it out nobody knows.

How Plugging Parker Rose; A Story of Going & Co.

By Allan Wilson.

MARKHAM and Parker came into the big office at the same time, and everybody who troubled to size them up agreed that they had an even start. If they had known more of the pair than was to be gained from a mere cursory observation of them after they had got on to the pay roll, everybody would have been certain that never were two men more equally fitted to fight for a position of importance and good salary in the office of Going & Co. than were these two. That they were accounted as being on a par when they entered the office was proof that up to this time both had profited in the same measure by the advantages that their youth had held forth to them.

As similar as such things may well be were the advantages possessed by Markham and Parker in the days which are devoted to the training of the man. Parker came from the family that owned the big house on the northeast corner of the two principal residence streets in the small town where he was born; Markham came from the family that owned and lived in the house on the northwest corner. Markham was born on the seventh of July; Parker saw the light of day on the tenth. At school they began in the same term, graduated on the same day; Parker delivered the class poem, Markham was responsible for the class prophecy.

Then, with their high school days over, they were ready to face the world together, for they both possessed the great advantage of owning parents who were comparatively poor, and Markham got $5 a week to begin with as bookkeeper in the sawmill office, while Parker, not to be outdone, was granted the same remuneration for attending to such clerical work as was needed in the establishment of the one grain buyer of the town.

Started on Road to Fame.

So they were off on an even start on what high school had taught them to call the perilous seas of business life, and their parents patted themselves on the back and thought of the noble positions achieved by their sons at the outsets of their careers, and knew that nothing remained but a few years till the time when their names—the sons'—should be ones to conjure with at the note window of the bank.

But the sons thought differently from their parents, as sons have a way of doing, and the title of prominent citizens in their old home town appealed to them not at all. They were born to a newer age than their parents and their dreams were broader and reached farther away. So far away did they reach that they made their way even unto a big city, and little by little they increased in might, until one bright day they pulled the two boys off their stools in the offices back home and put them aboard the cars, bound for the city and the broader destiny.

It was hard work for them to tear themselves loose; their parents predicted utter ruin in the city; their girls wept; their respective employers opened the bounty of their hearts and offered to raise their salaries to $7 a week. But even this golden temptation would not stay the ambitious ones. To the city, read their resolves, and to the city, and to the office of Going & Co. did they go, as well matched and even a pair as ever squeezed on to the pay roll of the soulless corporation.

Old Man Notices Pair.

Being equally inexperienced they were put to work in the invoice department, where the raw material is taken in and tested to see if it is worth working into something of importance, and their salaries were $10 a week.

As far as the outward signs go, there can be no doubt that Markham and Parker started in to climb the ladder of preference in the big office on an even basis. If the aim of fate had been to put them to a test in the matter, had sought to put two men on the first rung of the ladder, neither having any advantage over the other, it could not have done better than to have picked up this pair just as circumstances had made them. Old Going, who saw all things and noticed a few, noticed the combination.

"Sort of keep an eye on those two new men in the invoice," he said to his private information man. "I want reports on their progress every once in awhile."

Thus they had attracted the same sort of attention at the beginning; fate persisted in keeping them even at the start.

Parker Gets a Little Ahead.

And now witness the beginning of the change, for at the end of the first four months of their employment in the office the private information man came to old Going and said:

"About those two new men in the invoice department; Parker has done so well that he has been given a $2 raise, while Markham is holding his job and no more."

"Good," said Going. "They're going to make an interesting pair. Keep watching them."

They no longer were experiments but accepted and regular clerks. No longer were the errors which they perpetrated or the work which they failed to do excused upon the grounds of lack of experience. They now were judged as experienced men; the standard which they must measure up to was raised proportionately; and the result was that the difference between Parker and Markham became more and more pronounced.

Parker, it was easy to see now, was the man who would make his mark. He was the plugger of the pair, the ambition driven individual who would let no obstacle stop him, who would permit no delinquency on his own part hinder him in achieving the purpose to which he had set his mind. Doggedly and persistingly he was improving in his work, steadily and systematically he was learning the routine business of the department in which he had been placed.

He was no common clerk; he was not content to wear the seat of his trousers out on a stool without getting more to show for it than $12 a week; he would gather experience and business knowledge and in the end he would profit by it. All this was to be seen in the set, nervous expression of Parker and in the slavish manner in which he applied himself to his work.

Markham Talks, Parker Works.

And now it was to be seen that Markham was the dreamer. He was the impractical, [illegible], [illegible] member of the combination. While Parker in a leisure moment was delving into the mysteries of invoice-checking Markham was wandering about the office talking with whomsoever happened to be at leisure and willing to talk to him, or standing around watching the people in other departments at their appointed tasks.

It was plainly apparent that he wasn't the kind of a man who can concentrate himself upon his work and apply his energies [illegible] in the way which brings success. For if he was would he not be more [illegible] in the invoice department? Would he not spend his spare time, as Parker did, in learning all about the work that he had to do?

Of course, [illegible] other things besides the work of [illegible] would have [illegible] the time, [illegible]

Of the three years [illegible] Markham [illegible] little need be said here. Parker, of course, by this time had [illegible] that he was to be the big success; Markham, it is to be [illegible], had shown a capacity which [illegible] mediocrity. Parker was head checker in the invoice department [illegible] Markham was only one of the clerks. The old-school [illegible] itself; the [illegible] was left behind.

Parker Tells Big News.

Parker was [illegible] when the day came for telling Markham the big news. It would bring such a big change in their [illegible]; he would be Markham's boss; and, as Parker [illegible] it, their friendship must then cease. [illegible] approached his friend diffidently.

"Old man, I've got something of a little boost," he said. "[illegible] and made me assistant to the head of the department."

He paused to let the significance of this statement sink in, and to allow Markham to recover from the shock. It was a big boost, this promotion that he would be one of the officers instead of a private, that he would draw $[illegible] a week instead of $12. And Markham would be one of the [illegible] under him.

"When do you go up, Bill?" asked Markham nonchalantly. Parker was shocked. He had expected more surprise on Markham's part than this. Besides, he was beginning to think of himself solely as Mr. Parker, and the other's rude familiarity shocked him.

"I begin as Mr. Foraker's assistant next Monday," he said, stiffly. "I hope there aren't any hard feelings. You know, Markham, you had the same chance to get up there as I did; you could have done what I could—if you'd wanted to."

Markham Also Goes Up.

"So you go up Monday, eh, Bill?" said Markham, paying no attention to the other's last words. "That's funny. It's Monday that I go into the legal department—the same day."

"What?"

"The legal department. You see I didn't see much of a chance for a fellow in this department even if he got to be the head of it. So I kind of looked around and saw what I could see, and I decided that the legal end of a corporation was the one where a man could get in his hooks the deepest. Yep. And so I went to work and studied law nights, and the other day I had a talk with Old Blackstone, the head, and he said to come to work in there Monday."

"How much, how much a week to start with, Markham?" gasped Parker.

"Twenty-five," said Markham, cheerily. "But that's nothing; the start's the thing, the chance to get at something big. Don't you think so, Bill?"

"Yes," said Parker, faintly. He thought of the weary years before him as [illegible] of clerk. "Yes, I think so—now."

Moral: Look around and dream a little before you sit down and begin to plug.

Learn Fine Cooking in Paris; Americans Make Good Chefs

By John Trainer.

GO to Paris and become a French chef, then come home and make money.

Though good chefs are not well paid in France, French chefs are greatly in demand and command high wages in foreign countries. Overcrowding is the explanation for the poor pay at home. This is caused in two ways. Frenchmen are born cooks, so when young men go to work in hotels they believe that the cuisine is the easiest and most remunerative work. Then, every year hundreds of chefs from Germany, Italy, Norway, Sweden, and America go to Paris to become French chefs. They are willing to serve apprenticeships of two or three years, because they can command three times the wages after they have had this experience.

The applicants for these positions so outnumber the vacancies that many a man has to wait several years until he is given a chance. A man before leaving will often ask that his position be handed over to a brother, or a cousin, who is anxious for the same training.

The head chefs in all the large hotels and restaurants are French men, so foreigners can only expect subordinate places, whatever their experience may be. A man seeking this training must promise to stay two years at least, or the head chef will refuse to consider him. In some kitchens a man receives no wages during his entire apprenticeship. In other places they are paid $2 or $3 after the first year. Their training is excellent; only the fewest fail to make good cooks. If they have never done any cooking they are set to work washing dishes, pots, and pans. Where they have already had considerable experience they are made assistant fish cooks, meat or pastry cooks.

Head Chef Hard Master.

A short interview with men who have had this training shows some interesting facts. One man says:

"The head chefs in some of the first hotels are real masters and most exacting ones. They have all gone through a hard school and expect the men who work under them to enjoy similar experiences. A man who cannot curb his temper, stand rebuke without answering back, and follow orders implicitly will not hold a place in these kitchens long. These men are too busy planning dishes and seeing that they turn out well to nurse wounded feelings."

Nowhere are employers more exacting, for head chefs, in contrast to their subordinates, get good salaries. They look upon their work as a fine art, for in no other country is dining made such an art. Most of these men have been in the business fifteen or twenty years. The great restaurateurs, such as Foyer, Voisin, and Joseph, came up from the ranks of chefs. Fayet is a home restaurateur. He takes the same pride in his establishments that an artist does in his paintings. Though he is rich and could retire, he is happiest when pleasing his guests. Frederic is the master of the school; he is an artist at preparing game. He is master of the duck. It takes three ducks for an order; two birds are used for the sauce that is prepared on a chafing dish. If guests compliment this chef on his cuisine he answers modestly that he has learned well. He was chef at Paillard's for many years.

Some Dishes Cost $100.

Some of these chefs have been known to spend $100 on making a single dish, but they can prepare excellent dishes for almost nothing. They all have their specialties and never imitate one another. They have certain dishes that no one outside of the house could make if they tried.

An American chef who had received his training in Paris says: "The French put their ideas into their cooking, and they cook for the palate."

"Though many of the large hotels in New York and throughout the east have French chefs, there are plenty of establishments preferring American cooks who have studied in Paris. Some of these men earn $3,000 to $4,000 a year, where their salaries were only one-third that sum before they had this training. Once a great chef was introduced to a man whom he had known years before. He was introduced as "M. Reau."

"I thought your name was Ryan," the man remarked, "as I remember it."

"It was Ryan when I earned $25 a month, but since it has become Reau I get $5,000 a year."

Crossways Store Gets Trade; Big Profits in Cigar Stores.

By Walter Goldsmith.

WHAT businesses occupy the corners? A man in almost any line of business, with perhaps the exception of a gambling room or a blind tiger, would prefer a corner location, but because of the additional rent of these favored locations he feels that he cannot afford it. But certain lines of business seem to have a special fondness for the corner location.

Saloons take up many corners because their owners like to catch the thirsty wayfarers from all directions. Because of the great number of saloons in Chicago it would seem the saloons occupy the corners more than any other line of business. The cruel father depicted by the temperance reformers and "the che-ild is in London" style of melodrama always is either going to or coming from the corner saloon. But the percentage of corner saloons to the whole number is not so great as in some other lines.

Pay Most for Luxuries.

Cigar stores, that is stores exclusively devoted to My Lady Nicotine, also have a fondness for the corner locations. This is particularly the case within the loop, and one large company seems to make it a matter of business policy to locate its stores on the corners wherever possible.

Little fruit stores also cluster about the corners, even though the higher rent must wring the souls of the thrifty proprietors. From the nature of these businesses, it would seem that only the businesses dealing in goods that are usually called luxuries can afford to pay the higher rent of the corner store. But such is not the case. Grocers also seek to locate on the corners and seem to be able to thrive even with the increased cost of the rentals.

Besides these lines the drug stores also hustle for the corner lots. It is impossible to find the exact percentage in each of these lines, but from the comparative number of saloons, groceries, and drug stores it would seem that a greater percentage of drug stores occupy corners than any other line.

Tobacco Pays High Rents.

Of course, the desire of all these businesses for a corner location causes the rentals to go up just as in any other case of large demand and small supply, and as the public pays no more for its goods at the corner store, the proprietor does not feel the increased rent owing to the increased business and the land owner receives more rent. It appears to be a good thing for all concerned.

As in most of the saloons, grocery stores, drug stores, and even the fruit stands, cigars are handled as a side line, it would appear that the land owner must thank tobacco for being the patron goddess of the crossways.

Always Punctual; No Sunday Sleep.

By R. C. Brown.

A GOOD train conductor admires the accuracy of his watch above most of the things in this life. It is a sort of passion with him and he gives his watch as much care as his wife would give the baby.

One old trainman, who has five gold bands on his coat sleeve, which stands for twenty-five years' service on one railroad, goes even more to the extreme than most of his fellows in this respect. He has an old Swiss watch which belonged to his father. It has never run down since it was wound up for the first time, some fifty years ago, and it has never been more than a half minute out of the way.

Last Saturday the conductor brought his train in for the last time that week, as he laid off on Sunday.

A friend of his met him as he was going to the office to report his train.

"Work over?" he queried.

"Yep," snapped the conductor, as shortly as his ticket punch.

"Well, I suppose you take a good rest every Sunday. Sleep all day, don't you?" questioned the friend.

"No, I get up at 6 every Sunday morning, just the same. I'd like to sleep and I hate to set the alarm at 6 every morning in the week. If it was only an hour later on Sunday I think I might enjoy it more."

"Well, why don't you sleep an hour later, seeing your time's your own and you don't have to go to work?"

"Can't," sighed the conductor.

"Why not?"

"Have to get up to wind my watch."

THE REMARKABLE GROWTH OF THE CIGARETTE HABIT

Ottawa, June 22.—The latest Government returns of the consumption of cigarettes in Canada show a net increase in the past two years in the number of cigarettes used in Canada from 99,562,817 to 384,809,394.

The latest return is for the twelve months ending March 31st, and is made up from returns of the Customs imports and the output of the Canadian cigarette factories together.

The enormous growth of the cigarette habit in Canada is shown by the consumption for the past five years as follows:

1904	211,302,041
1905	250,860,387
1906	269,334,939
1907	355,170,280
1908	384,809,374

There is reason to believe that a very large proportion is due to the prevalence of cigarette smoking among youths, and a law is now before Parliament which aims at the prohibition of the sale of cigarettes to youths under 18 years of age.

JUDGMENT FOR $200 INTEREST AND COSTS FOR BREWING CO.

Case Against Thos. Reid of Marmora Heard Yesterday Before Mr. Justice Anglin at Non-jury Sittings of High Court—Other Case Transferred to Lindsay.

Judgment was found in favor of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company at the Non-Jury Sittings of the High Court before Mr. Justice Anglin, in which the Company sued Thomas Reid, of Marmora, for $200, with interest. On the 3rd of March the defendant agreed to take two shares of stock valued at the above amount from the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Company, and entered into an agreement to do so.

He did not carry out the agreement, however, and hence the issuing of the writ. The plaintiffs also claimed the costs, which were allowed. The sum that will have to be paid by Reid will amount to about $240.00.

Another case in which the Brewing Company were plaintiffs and in which J. H. Burton, Bracebridge, was the defendant, was not gone on with as the defence wanted an adjournment. This was granted and the case was transferred to Lindsay, the hearing to take place on Thursday next.

SCHEDULE A

Report No. 1, of the Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Gentlemen,—Having taken into consideration the resources and expenditures that are apparent for the year 1908, I beg leave to ask the Committee to recommend the levying of the following rates for the different purposes hereinafter mentioned.

Owing to the abnormal cost of repairs to bridges this year, which you as a roads and bridges committee are aware of, I find that 2 4-5 mills on the dollar will be required to meet the general expenditure of the county for the year.

I also respectfully ask you to recommend the rate of 50-100 mills on the dollar in accordance with the request from the Board of Management of the House of Refuge.

It will, with your approval, also be necessary to recommend the rate of 16 1-2-100 mills on the dollar to meet the equivalent to the Government grant to rural schools for 1908 based upon accommodation and equivalent of said schools.

I herewith attach a statement of the resources and expenditures for 1908 trusting they will meet your approval,

A BREAULT
Chairman.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

The Committee on Appointments beg to report as follows;—

That the clerk notify Mr. F. Cullen, of Bridgenorth, that his services as constable have ceased, and that Mr. Peter Nichols be appointed as County Constable, in his place, and that the said F. Cullen be requested to hand over to the County Clerk the handcuffs now in his possession.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

To the Members of the Roads and Bridges Committee.

Gentlemen,—According to the rules of the Council, I visited and inspected the bridges in the township of Asphodel and boundaries.

I found that the Ouse bridge require repairing, and would ask the attention of the Council to this, and hope to have authority to have the necessary repairs made.

The approaches of the new bridge, built last year, between the sixth and seventh concession, will require some attention, caused by the flow or rush of water against the approaches, and the railing on both sides leading to the bridge requires renewing.

Welberk's bridge should be more passable. This can be done by cutting the floor of the bridge in the centre and reversing the ends, which will make it serviceable for a number of years, and will be less expensive than a new flooring.

Steel's bridge and Comstock's bridge are in good condition and they will not require attention this year.

It is desirable and I would recommend the keeping of the bridges properly painted, thereby preserving them.

Respectfully yours.
WM. OAKMAN.

DEALT WITH THE SUBJECT OF SIN

Ten Days' Mission Opened at St. Mark's Otonabee Last Evening.

The ten days' mission at St. Mark's, Otonabee, began Monday evening, and a large number of people were present. The singing was hearty and inspiring. Miss Maud Dixon presided at the organ.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt was in charge and opened the meeting with devotional exercises. In introducing Rev. J. Bennett Anderson, he spoke of the great results he had achieved in his missionary efforts for the conversion of souls. Mr. Anderson has spent 30 years in evangelistic work under the auspices of the Church of England and also in mission work, and is excellently adapted to the holding of missions. His text was Romans III. 20;—"Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in His sight; for by the law is the knowledge of sin." He dealt very forcibly with the subject of sin. During the preaching he exemplified his remarks by a solo "My Ain Country." Mr. Anderson in former years was a singing evangelist.

Services are held every evening at eight o'clock till June 30th. Next Sunday Mr. Anderson will preach and sing at the service to be held at 7.30 p.m. There will be no service in the afternoon.

By joining the merry crowd of Durham Old Boys Wednesday, July 8th, you get one day at Niagara Falls and one day in Toronto, or two days in either place. See large advt. in this issue.

BIG BRIDGE WAS WRECKED CANAL TRAFFIC BLOCKED

Bank Gave Way and Caused Washout—Pier Collapsed and Whole Structure Tumbled Into the Water—Will Impede all Navigation for Months.

Cornwall, June 24.—By the collapse of the 200-foot Ontario & New York Railway Bridge, Cornwall Canal will be closed for several weeks and a loss has been entailed which may ultimately reach $50,000. The bridge is a mass of twisted iron, lying on top of its demolished pier, the bank of the canal has a gap in it 150 or 175 feet wide and 25 feet deep.

International traffic on the railway will be interrupted for a long period. Besides this several local industries that were using water-power are closed down.

All this was caused by a break in the bank of the canal yesterday morning. When first noticed by the lockman of Lock 18 the leak was about two or three feet in diameter, some 50 feet west of the railway bridge. The canal bank is over 160 feet thick at the bottom at this point, about 40 feet at the top and faced with heavy stone riprapping on both sides.

Once the water got a start, the hole grew rapidly, and in half an hour the canal was pouring down into the river, which is 25 or 30 feet lower. This powerful current, which swept huge blocks of stone out into the river like so many chips, soon undermined the pier on which the railway bridge swung, and at 6 a.m. it slipped out at the bottom and came down in a pile.

The shock seemed to break the back of the bridge, which fell in a tangled mass on top of the remnants of the pier.

J. L. Weller, superintendent of the Welland Canal, is coming down to superintend the repairs to the canal.

The Toronto Paper Co.'s mills are closed and the cotton mills are temporarily closed.

The accident will cause an immense loss to the shipping interests of the port of Montreal owing to the extra expense which will be incurred in transmitting cargoes. The immense grain cargoes which are coming down the St. Lawrence, to say nothing of other freights, will have to be taken from Prescott to Montreal by rail if they are to be brought down at all. There will be considerable inconvenience. The Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co.'s steamers will also be greatly inconvenienced in getting about, and cargoes and passengers will also have to be transhipped.

KILLED UNDER HIS ENGINE STORM CAUSES MUCH DAMAGE

Cloudburst Wrecked Train—Engineer Stuck to His Post and Lost His Life—Lightning Kills Man—Passengers in Express Get Severe Shock.

Walkerton, June 24.—Engineer W. Allward of Southampton perished, and Fireman O'Keeley and Baggageman Boundy were badly injured in a washout between Mildway and Walkerton on Monday night.

The express from Toronto to Southampton encountered terrific rainstorms about eight o'clock Monday night. For more than an hour the train ran on through the deluge until it struck a cloudburst. The water swept down a plowed field and across the track, completely obliterating the rails. The train, unable to stop, plunged into the 25-foot chasm and rolled over. Engineer Allward stuck to his engine and lost his life. Allward was a married man and leaves a family.

John Patterson of Yarmouth Centre was killed, and four Pottersburg residents severely injured by the storm. Patterson was sitting on his steps reading when the bolt struck him.

Robert McEwen, a well-known Stratford traveler who escaped from the Tillsonburg hotel fire, had another thrilling experience. He was driving with a fellow traveler, J. H. Richardson of Toronto, between Durham and Hanover. During the terrific storm they were crossing a bridge when the structure collapsed, throwing horses, carriage and travelers, together with their trunks, into the water eight feet [illegible] horse was drowned, but the other gained the shore.

The wrecked carriage with the two terror-stricken travelers drifted down the stream about one hundred yards when it stuck fast against a wire fence crossing the river. By cutting a hole through the waterproof covering of the carriage, the travelers crawled out and got to the banks by way of the top of the fence.

Lightning struck the C. P. R. midnight express from Toronto at Manvers, a few miles west of Peterboro. A window in one of the coaches was shattered, and the passengers were given a severe shock but otherwise no damage was done.

The Grand Trunk depot at Berlin was badly damaged by fire as a consequence of its being struck by lightning. The second storey and telegraph office were gutted. The loss is $15,000.

During a violent thunder storm that passed over Brampton yesterday afternoon the flag staff on the top of the postoffice was struck by lightning and thrown into the roadway.

During the funeral of Mrs. Beamish in Etobicoke Township yesterday, a bolt of lightning shattered a telegraph post almost beside the hearse. The driver said there was a sudden glare of light that blinded him for a moment, while a tremendous whirring noise in the wires followed.

Several members of the royal family arrived half an hour after the birth, and they hastened to congratulate the King on the advent of a prince, who doubly secures the succession of the throne.

King Alfonso on learning that a condemned criminal was to be executed in the morning, immediately signed a pardon in commemoration of the birth of the prince and telegraphed to the warden of the prison ordering him to stop the execution.

SWEPT OVER THE HORSESHOE FALLS

Young Man Did Not Heed Warnings and Went Out in Boat.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 24.—Henry McBain, aged 20 years, son of Alex. McBain, an engineer on the Michigan Central Railway, this city, ventured out into the Niagara river from the Welland river at Chippewa, yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock, during a small gale, in an 18-foot skiff with large sail thrown to the breeze. Several persons on the electric launches coming in from the main river warned the young man not to go out. When about 300 feet off Hog Island, at the mouth of the Welland river, a gust of wind seemed to catch the frail craft as it was turning and upset it. The young man clung to the boat and got on top. In another moment a large wave submerged the boat and washed him off as he was floating down the river about three miles above the falls, and was not seen again, the boat passed over the horseshoe falls as undoubtedly did the unfortunate boy's body.

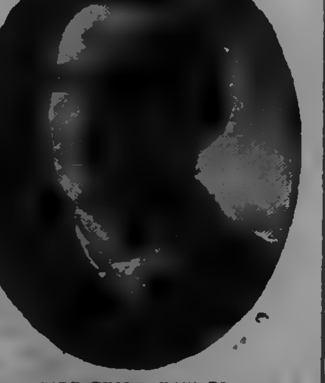
COUNCIL MAKES CHANGE IN COMPOSITION OF FIRE BRIGADE

Decides to Have Eight Permanent Firemen and no Call Men—Engineer Will be Paid $600 per Year—Special Meeting Held Last Night.

At a special meeting of the city council last night it was decided to make a change in the composition of the fire brigade. According to a resolution passed, it will consist of a chief, assistant chief, an engineer (who will also act as fireman) at $600 per year, and eight permanent firemen. There will be no call men. The resolution passed on Monday evening provided for a chief, assistant chief, six permanent firemen and six call men.

Those present at last night's meeting were Mayor Rush, Ald. Morrow, Turner, Neil, McIntyre, Gillespie, Morgan, Tovey, Johnston and Butler.



FIRE CHIEF HOWARD

Several applications for appointments to the new fire brigade staff were received.

Ald. Johnston submitted the report of the proceedings of the Fire, Water and Light Committee transacted Monday night. This dealt with the matter of firemen's salaries.

Ald. Johnston and Morgan urged that Mr. Pakenham be assistant chief ended to provide for the brigade being composed of a chief, assistant chief, an engineer (this man to act also as a fireman) at $600 a year, eight permanent firemen and no call men.

This was carried.

Ald. Johnston and Ald. Morgan urged that he be made assistant chief as he could qualify as an engineer and was in every way qualified for the position.

Ald. Butler said he would like to see Mr. Pakenham made assistant chief but he did not want to interfere with Mr. Howard in the selection of his men.

THE NEW BRIGADE.

In accordance with the above amended report, the brigade will consist of eleven permanent men and no call men. The salaries will be as follows:

Chief	$1250
Assistant chief	700
Engineer	600
Eight permanent men at $550 each	4400
	$6950

The above will be the maximum cost of the brigade in salaries should each of the firemen be graded as second year men which is not likely to be the case. Any of the present firemen engaged are to receive second grade pay, $550, therefore the above estimate is based on the highest figure. First year men are to receive $500 a year, second year men $550 and third year men $575 as recommended by the committee at Monday night's meeting.

Ald. Morrow, in moving his amendment to the report was actuated by a desire to give Chief Howard a fair chance with a good workable brigade of permanent men alone, and to establish the measure on a firm and definite footing at once. Then it should be borne in mind that increasing the number of permanent men from six to eight, with no call men will only mean an increase of $300 above the recommendation of Monday night's committee, even should all the eight permanent men receive second grade pay, which is not likely. In fact it is pretty safe to say that at least two of these eight will be graded as first year men at $500 a year, which would mean that Ald. Morrow's carried amendment entails but an increase of $100 and any further reduction in the number of second year men to first year grade which is possible, would effect an additional saving of $50 a year each man so graded.

The cost of the brigade according to the resolution passed on Monday night would be $6,334.

APPEARANCE OF STEAMER DROVE THE CANOEISTS BACK

Two young men who were out for a paddle on Little Lake Monday evening had a rather exciting experience. They had gone down to the locks and had tied their canoe up in order to secure a drink at the pump at the lockmaster's house. They would fain have remained longer at this beautiful spot, but a storm was coming up and they wanted to get home before it came. Accordingly they got into the canoe and had just got nicely started out of the channel leading into the locks when the steamer Rainbow with a scow attached, swung around the bend at the bridge about a hundred feet above. The canoeists did not want to take any chances on meeting the boat in the narrow channel and so hastily paddled back to the starting point, disembarking just as the boat came up. The swell caused by the steamer almost upset the canoe but fortunately no damage was done. As a result of the delay the canoeists got a slight ducking before they reached home.

John Dernan was drowned in Arran Lake.

Olive Duprow, lost at Pine, has not been found and the CPR has 75 men searching the woods.

The erection of St. Anne's Separate school, Hamilton, will be begun immediately at a cost of $18,000.

The steamer Transit left Vancouver 22 days ago for Nome, with 400 on board and is fast in the ice floes.

BALFOUR SPEAKS AT THE CONGRESS

British ex-Premier Applauds Science in His Address.

London, June 24.—The delegates to the Pan-Anglican Congress filled Albert hall Monday night to hear ex-Premier Balfour, in a discussion on "Christian Truth and Other Intellectual Forces."

Mr. Balfour stated that he could not conceive of human society being permanently deprived of the religious element, but he looked to science more than to anything else as the great ameliator of the human lot in the future. If he had to believe that the two great powers, religion and science, were in antagonism it would be impossible for him to avoid that hopeless despair which deprives labor of all its fruits and makes efforts for the betterment of mankind impossible.

REBELLION IN SUMATRA

Women and Children Are Fleeing for Their Lives.

The Hague, June 24.—A rebellion broke out at Padang on the west coast of Sumatra, which has reached alarming proportions. According to telegrams from Batavia, Java, almost the whole native population is reported to have risen under the leadership of fanatical priests.

Thirty European settlements, which are spread over a wide area, and there are only 2,400 Dutch soldiers available to defend them. Three battles have been fought, resulting in considerable loss on both sides.

Preparations are being made to embark all the Dutch women and children from the west coast of Sumatra to places of safety. The dissatisfaction arose over the tax regulations.

The newspapers here attributed the revolt to the cruelties practiced by the troops while collecting the "hut" tax. It is their custom frequently to levy heavy sums, and if payment is refused to flog the natives, burn the villages and sometimes capture the wives and children of rich chiefs and hold them for ransom. A chief of the Coulage Tribe started the revolt by seizing a sergeant and seven Portuguese troopers, decapitating them, and displaying the heads on poles.

Big Diamond Theft.

The firm have a contract for drilling with the Centre Star Mining Co., and on Saturday night at 11.30 the men went off shift and left $18,000 worth of black carbon diamonds in a hole in the wall in the office.

Testing Auto Act.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 24.—On June 22 automobile owners took a spin around the city and suburbs announcing their intention beforehand of so doing, in contravention of the recent anti-auto provincial legislation. Information was laid, and Magistrate McDonald fined them $500 and costs. An appeal will now be taken.

Indians Claim Government Grant.

Albany, June 24.—A delegation of Cayuga Indians, who for many years have been living in the Province of Ontario, Canada, called at the executive chamber yesterday for the purpose of establishing their claim to $2,300 annually appropriated by the New York State Legislature for the descendants of Chief Fish Carrier.

It appears that in 1788 the head of the tribe deeded to the state, lands in Northern New York, the consideration being $2,300 to be paid annually to the chief or his descendants. The state for years has been paying this money to descendants of Chief Fish Carrier, residing in New York State.

SIX LIVES WERE LOST IN THE THREE RIVERS FIRE

Was Caused by Child Playing With Matches—Carter Crushed by Falling Chimney—Loss Now Totals Nearly $2,000,000—Children Missing.

Three Rivers, Que., June 24.—As a result of Monday's fire the entire business section and a large part of the residential district of Three Rivers lies in ruins, 600 persons are homeless and six lives have been lost. It is estimated that the property loss will total $1,690,000. The fire was caused by the little daughter of a carter named Duval, playing with a package of matches in the loft of her father's stable.

Three little children are reported as having lost their lives in the flames, but hope is still entertained that they may have been taken in by some of the farmers round about, and will be found when the confusion subsides. Six deaths have been reported to headquarters and inquiries are being made for missing members of various families.

A carter named Metivier employed by the C.P.R. was killed yesterday while walking among the ruins. He was crushed under a falling chimney. The other deaths were among aged persons and invalids who had to be moved too quickly. An old lady, Madame Page, was alone at the time of the fire, and when the flames approached to within a block of her home, ran into the street and collapsed. She died on the way to the hospital.

Another, an old man, bedridden for years, died of too violent treatment while being moved.

Very few places of business are left in the city from St. Roch street on the east to St. Charles street on the west, and from the river back to Royale street only one building still stands. This district is about half a square mile in area.

Of the important buildings only the cathedral, the bishop's palace, the court house, the Jesuit Brothers' school, the sanitarium, the police station, the city hall, the large sawmill, and the upper part of the residential district were saved.

Already the citizens are arousing from the stupefaction into which the disaster has thrown them. They are turning to the plans for rebuilding and promise that from the ashes a new Three Rivers will arise strictly modern and up-to-date.

The Federal Government will be approached for aid as soon as the extent of the loss is accurately known. It was rumored yesterday that assistance to the amount of $500,000 will be voted, but Hon. Mr. Bruneau, who was in the city, refused to confirm or deny the report.

The town is not in distress from want of bread, vegetables, milk and farm produce, but there is a shortage of meat. Supplies will, however, be brought from Montreal. The church buildings and religious schools will be placed at the disposal of the homeless.

The greater part of the loss will fall upon the citizens. Only one-third of the damage was covered by insurance. Of the total estimated loss of two millions, about one million and a quarter will have to be borne by the merchants and householders.

LAND BILL IS TO HELP THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

Mr. Oliver Makes Statement in the House—Criticism From Leader of the Opposition.

Ottawa, June 24.—The Oliver land bill was taken up in the House yesterday. Mr. Oliver told the House that the pre-emption clause of the bill introduced and withdrawn last year was designed to bring sufficient revenue into the coffers of the country to enable the Government to undertake or assist the building of the Hudson Bay Railway. The clause was to replace a provision of the old land bill, providing a subsidy of six and a half million acres to a railway north of the Saskatchewan to Hudson Bay.

The provision of last year was attacked because of its sweeping character, and its possible effect on monetary conditions. The whole of the Northwest was affected. Under the present bill the pre-emption area is restricted to add numbered sections in the great central prairie districts. Mr. Oliver believed that with this limitation there would still be enough revenue for the Hudson Bay Railway undertaking.

Mr. Oliver estimated that the Hudson Bay Railway would be about 500 miles long and would cost $30,000 a mile. The sale of 5,000,000 acres of land at $3 per acre would provide the total cost upon this estimate. If half of the 25,000,000 acres were preempted at $3 per acre it would furnish $42,000,000, while, as stated, the total cost of the railway would be only $15,000,000.

The money received from the sale of pre-emptions, however, would in the meantime go to the credit of the receiver-general as ordinary revenue. He was carrying out the policy of reserving the land for the actual settler and at the same time was an improvement on the principle of making [illegible] grants direct to railways.

Mr. Borden observed that Mr. Oliver had certainly shown wonderful versatility in the matter of this proposed legislation. Last year he had stoutly defended the bill then introduced, and now he had made an equally forcible defence of the measure, which was altogether different. Mr. Oliver had seemed to confuse Mr. Foster with Mr. Greenway, for it was the latter who last session had savagely attacked the proposed bill and had expressed the hope that it would not pass.

Mr. Borden expressed his satisfaction at Mr. Oliver's subsequent explanation of the Hudson Bay Railway scheme. At the outset of the speech the Minister had indicated that the railway was to be built out of a fund to be created by sales of land in the district set apart by the bill. In his latter remarks, however, the Minister stated plainly that the railway was to be built even if not a dollar's worth of the land was sold.

To this Mr. Oliver nodded assent, whereupon Mr. Borden remarked that there did not seem to be much practical use, therefore, in associating two projects so closely related to each other. Mr. Borden promised that the Opposition would give the measure fair consideration and trust their suggestions would be received by the Government in the same spirit.

Col. Sam Hughes feared that the Government was preparing to dispose of all the land in the northwest without making any provision for South African veterans. He suggested that a map be put up in every land office showing all the quarter sections taken up, together with the name of the homestead.

Mr. Crothers a Governor.

Toronto, June 24.—T. W. Crothers, K. C., St. Thomas, who was chairman of the School Book Commission, and made an honorable record by declining a $3,000 honorarium offered in recognition of his services, has been appointed to the board of governors of Toronto University. He takes the place of J. L. Englehart, who finds that his several occupations prevent him performing the duties of a governor.

Anti-Racing Bill Passed.

Baton Rouge, La., June 24.—After a campaign lasting several months, the close of which was marked by a bitter fight, the so-called Locke anti-racing bill, was yesterday afternoon passed by the Louisiana State Senate. The bill passed the House several weeks ago and now only requires the signature of the governor to become law. There appears no doubt that the governor will sign the bill immediately.

Rebaters Are Punished.

Toledo, June 24.—In the United States Court yesterday the Toledo Ice & Coal Co. pleaded guilty to three counts charging it with receiving rebates from the Ann Arbor Railroad Co. Judge Taylor assessed a fine of $1,200 on each count. The remaining 152 counts in the indictment were dismissed. The indictments were brought under the Hepburn law.

Boy Shoots Playmate.

Rochester, N.Y., June 24.—Willie Gordon, 14 years of age, died in a hospital yesterday morning with a 22-calibre bullet in his brain, fired by Cary Kohl, 13 years of age, a playmate. Kohl is held on a charge of assault, first degree, although the shooting was accidental.

Health of the Province.

Toronto, June 24.—The returns for May from 734 division registrars show a decrease in smallpox (30 cases reported). The number of cases of smallpox reported has reached the lowest point in 16 months, except the month of August, when only 24 were reported. The decrease in measles (168 cases) and whooping cough (28) is more apparent than real, as hundreds of cases are not reported except an epidemic occurs, and then only the estimated number is given. Typhoid fever (100 cases) caused seven more deaths and generally becomes more prevalent during the summer and early autumn months.

The total deaths from all causes is 2,256, representing a population of 2,001,200, making a death rate of 13.5 in 1,000.

Offers Farm In New Brunswick.

London, June 24.—A Canadian lady, Alicia Simpson, who heard Summerbell, M.P., make an impassioned speech at the Pan-Anglican Conference on the submerged poor, has offered him 460 acres of land in New Brunswick for the purpose of helping them. Mr. Summerbell is considering the proposal.

Mr. Bryce to Investigate.

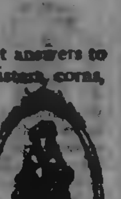
Ottawa, June 24.—In the House yesterday Edmund Bristol, M.P., drew attention to the ill-treatment of a party of Hebrew excursionists from Toronto by United States immigration officials at Niagara Falls, N.Y., where they were herded together in a small room and "treated with the utmost contempt."

Premier Laurier said the Government would ask the British ambassador in Washington to call the attention of the American authorities to the matter.

SOFT LEATHER

"One of the 14"

A horrible thing is coarse, brittle, hard leather, and most of it answers to that description. It rubs the tender feet of the gentler sex into blisters, corns, etc. It will almost blister a horse's hoof.



The Dolly Varden Shoe is made from a soft silken leather. Arduous and costly experiments resulted in "Velvette" Kid, a leather as soft as velvet but as tough and unwear-outable as cowhide. It is not frail and papery, but firm and silky.

The counters and uppers of all Dolly Varden Shoes are made exclusively of this cloth-like leather, which can be found in no other feminine shoe in the world, as we control all rights, while the soles are of oak-tanned cowhide, the pliant and wearing qualities of which are widely known.

The Dolly Varden store will gladly show you this soft shoe, which is as comfortable at the first fitting as at the last wearing. Purchasers or investigators equally welcome. $4.00 to $5.00 in Canada and the States. Every pair Goodyear welted.

THE FIRE BRIGADE.

It can hardly be doubted that the city council has done wisely and well in coming to the conclusion that a fully paid brigade at a slight advance in cost is better than a half and half one. Peterborough is now or shortly will be in a position to fight fire as it should be fought. Such an experience as that at Three Rivers would, we trust, be impossible here. The council is to be congratulated.

TAINTED.

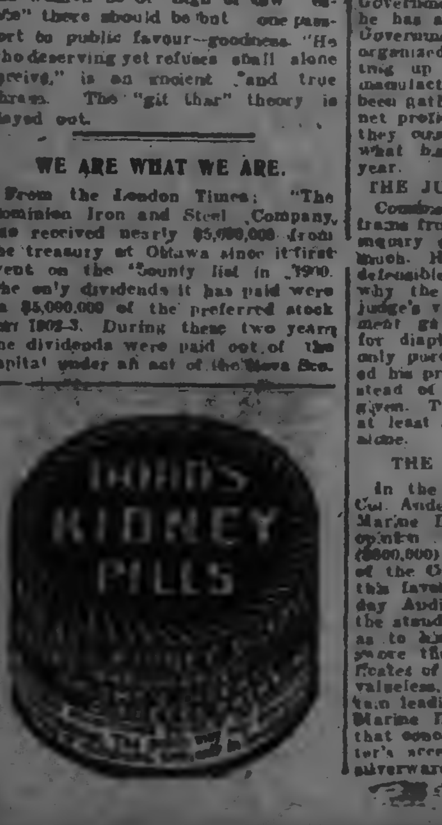
The inevitable re-action is setting in. The stiff and starched prejudice of old-timers in favour of the decent thing gave way to a "git thar" mania. If a man could a few years ago get into the ranks of the noted or notorious, no matter how, he was happy. And his wife, if he had one, was thrice happy, and his children, too, poor things, didn't know any better than to be happy, too. But the influence of the U.S. as it betrayed us, will also rescue us. Shallow-minded mortals have substituted show for substance. We have suffered ourselves to be imposed upon. We knew it and allowed it. Why? Because we were weak. But the American arose from a similar condition and threw aside the fantastic craving for pearls, counts, etc. The "best people" phrase, so common in the mouths of Americans at one time, has dropped out. The craze for mere wealth—the estimate of a man at so much per hour, is disappearing, too. The word that describes all "rot" of every sort is naturally enough "tainted," and it is being used pretty freely. We are on the way back to some of the simplicity of former times. Simplicity is not inconsistent with beauty, or with the most distinguished politeness. Quite the reverse. Anything, however, is better than the "tainted" dishes so showily served up for public consumption. Whether men and women be of "high or low estate" there should be but one passport to public favour—goodness. "He who deserving yet refuses shall alone receive," is an ancient and true phrase. The "git thar" theory is played out.

WE ARE WHAT WE ARE.

From the London Times: "The Dominion Iron and Steel Company, has received nearly $5,000,000 from the treasury at Ottawa since it first went on the bounty list in 1900. The only dividends it has paid were on $5,000,000 of the preferred stock for 1902-3. During these two years the dividends were paid out of the capital under an act of the Nova Scotia Legislature. There is a duty of $7 a ton on steel rails. Bounties are paid on all products of the plant, pig iron, steel ingots and wire rods. The total of the payments to the company in 1907 was equal to 3 1-2 per cent. of its capitalization of $35,000,000. The company pays no municipal or county taxation. It is given a rebate of 7 1-2 cents a ton on the Provincial Government's coal royalty; and its only contribution to the Dominion Treasury are the duties paid on imported machinery. With all these advantages accruing to it from the Dominion, the Provincial and the municipal governments, the company has so far made money only for its promoters—chiefly capitalists from New York and Boston—and for its bond holders."

By long odds farmers are the chief single buyers of iron and steel at retail, yet every man they help to Ottawa raises the cost of the goods by getting in with grafters from all over and in the way the Times tells the world, giving them an easy run for our money. For the sake of self-respect, let us hear no more about Canadian politicians being a job lot. They must be cute, exceedingly cute, to work us as they do, or elsewhere ..... (it is left to our readers to complete the sentence). — Farmer's Sun!

It seems impossible for the Laurier Government to be fair and square in its handling of the affairs of government. Everywhere the grabber and the grafter gets the "preference." The finest system of government ever dreamt of would be worse than useless in the hands of men whose idea of protection is the furnishing of a bounty to favorites in a company from which it may pay its dividend. The last lines of the above extract filled in with dots or asterisks exactly expresses the hopeless nature of the case at present.



900 PER CENT PROFIT

Judge Cassels, who had dealt last week with Mr. Willson, and his astounding contracts, took up this week the Canadian Fog Signal Company, to which the Government has paid over half a million dollars. This concern has a Canadian patent for a Diaphone fog signal. The secretary of the company testified that instruments sold to the Government for $4,500 and $8,000 costs the producer $400 to $450. Mr. Northey, the head of the company, admitted that he was selling diaphones at ten times their cost. The Government is his only customer, and he has a monopoly by reason of a Government patent. The contractor organized a company without putting up any capital, has his goods manufactured by contract, and has been gathering in over $100,000 a year net profits for the concern. Mr. Northey could not say within $25,000 what his personal gains were last year.

THE JUDGE DRAWS THE LINE

Commissioner Cassels usually refrains from expressing opinions as the inquiry goes on, but this was too much. He pronounced the price indefensible, and could not understand why the department paid it. The judge's view was that if the Government gave the contractor a patent for diaphones of which it was the only purchaser, it should have limited his profits at least to $25,000, instead of $150,000, on certain orders given. The Government should have at least saved $125,000 on the deal alone.

THE AUDITOR'S SUSPICIONS.

In the early part of the inquiry, Col. Anderson, Chief Engineer of the Marine Department, testified to his opinion that Contractor Willson ($800,000) influenced the appointment of the Commissioner of Lights, and this favorite contractor. On Wednesday Auditor-General Fraser was on the stand and was closely questioned as to his observations. Mr. Fraser swore that he considered the certificates of "price fair and just" to be valueless, when they came from certain leading spending officials in the Marine Department. He was led to that conclusion by the Deputy Minister's acceptance of [illegible] bill for silverware for the ice-breaker Montcalm, on which a refund of over $1,000 was afterwards made, by certificates of Commander Spain's travelling expenses, of which some $800 had to be refunded in one year, and by the remarkable transactions with the two Fog Signal Companies.

HOW CERTIFICATES ARE MADE.

Mr. Noble, who has been assistant Commissioner of Lights at Prescott, gave evidence showing that the auditor might well be suspicious of certificates. He swore that he had himself been required to certify prices to be "fair and just," when he knew nothing about them. His chief at Ottawa arranged with Merwin and other contractors, the prices for supplies delivered at Prescott, and requested Noble to certify them. The witness had strong reasons for not doing so, and on the advice of the Auditor-General certified that the goods were received, "prices arranged by the Department at Ottawa." This brought down on him the wrath of the Deputy Minister and Chief Commissioner, who told him that if he continued to "antagonize" the Department he had better send in his resignation. Noble says he defied them and continued his course, but suffered heavily in consequence, and finally found a young man promoted over his head. He had made many protests against extravagance at Prescott, but found no sympathy, and concluded that he was "butting up against a stone wall" to go farther.

Deputy Minister Gourdeau gave some testimony concerning the patronage system. He computed that in the last two or three years the Department had paid $200,000 too much for supplies bought at retail prices from dealers on the patronage list instead of buying at wholesale competitive prices.

IT WOULD BE WRONG.

Commissioner Fraser denies having received any financial consideration from contractors or obtaining promotion through their influence. He excuses the payments of fifty to two hundred per cent profits to Merwin by stating that the bills were paid under orders of the former Minister. As to this course respecting Noble's certificates, he swore that he would take the same stand if it should be done again.

"Then you would take a wrong stand," observed Judge Cassels.

ALARMING EXPENDITURES
CANADA AND THE G. T. PACIFIC

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme to Parliament he announced that the total cost to the country would be $13,000,000. That sum, and not a cent more, we would have to pay for the wonderful project his Government had devised. A few days ago an official estimate of the cost of the Government section of the railway—that lying between Winnipeg and Moncton—was presented to the House of Commons. The report states that the line will be 1,808 miles long, and that the cost of the road will be $63,437 per mile, which means that the division of the railway we are condemned to build will call for $114,396,911.

This sum does not include the amount we will have to pay for the fallen Quebec bridge, and for the new bridge that will have to be provided. It does not allow for the loss we must experience through the construction of a line which will take business from the Intercolonial, and it does not take into account the interest upon borrowed money during the period of construction. It does not deal with the line west of Winnipeg, for which section we have to guarantee the capital and interest on the bonds to three-fourths of the total expenditure. The official estimate is, therefore, but a fraction of our outlay. It simply provides for the line between Winnipeg and Moncton. The sum required for this roadbed is placed at $114,396,911. Now we are under contract to lease this line to the Grand Trunk Pacific when it is completed. We begin by giving the road to the company for seven years for nothing. Then we lease it for another three years for nothing, but add the rental for that period to the cost and charge interest upon it afterwards. After that we get for forty years three per cent. upon the amount we have invested in the scheme. In the first place, then, we expend $114,396,911, which sum we are borrowing at 3 1-2 per cent. Then we pay the 3 1-2 per cent. for seven years out of the public revenue. This calls for $4,003,896 per annum, or $28,027,272 for the seven-year period. For three years more, instead of collecting rent, we add the interest—$4,003,896 a year—to the cost of the road. This increases the capital account by $12,011,688, and brings it up from $114,396,911 to $126,408,599. We are borrowing that money at 3 1-2 per cent. and will pay for it $4,424,297 per annum. But we will get from the company but 3 per cent. on the investment, or $3,792,255 per annum. Thus, there will be, for forty years, a loss of $632,042 yearly, or, for the forty years, of $25,281,680.

Briefly stated, the outlays by the country on the roadbed between Winnipeg and Moncton will be as follows:

For construction	$114,396,911
Interest for 7 years	28,027,272
Interest for 3 years added to cost	12,011,688
Loss of 1-2 per cent for 40 years	25,281,680
Total	$179,717,551

And this is the scheme that was to cost us $13,000,000, and not a cent more. The men who carried us into this thing ought surely to be driven from their positions of trust. — The Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We have got round to the old swindle again. Hindus coming into British Columbia have to have two hundred dollars on landing. This used to be provided by the importer for the occasion. The Laurier Government is bound to organize the accident.

The Pan-Anglican has condemned the Standard Oil Trust. It is likely that the trust will survive.

London, June 22.—At the Pan-Anglican conference one of the most enthusiastic meetings was held to-day and discussed Socialism. At one time the chairman had to ask the audience to desist cheering in order to save time.

The Mail says the meaning of the meeting, if any, must be to show that the church has far more sympathy with the most advanced social ideas than many of her nearest friends had hitherto supposed.

In view of this the Pan may expect a visit from the suffragettes.

The profanity of Mr. Fysch, one of the civil service commissioners, is said to have shocked some of the marine department's officials. And truth to tell, they needed shocking, though not in that particular way.

The Commons is likely to lose some of its most desirable members. They cannot stand the waste of time, which has followed, or attended, the interminable talk of the opposition.

These two contradictory paragraphs were clipped from one issue of the Kingston Whig.

Our friends the Liberals are nothing if not campaigners. Some of them seem to believe that the Dominion election is near at hand, for they are zealously and almost religiously putting out pamphlet letters from Ottawa and elsewhere telling of the awful misdeeds for which the Conservative party is responsible. —Kingston Standard.

It will take some explaining to clear up the Ottawa scandals.

The Brockville Times seems to be very much troubled because Mr. R. L. Borden was at one time an adherent of the Liberal party. We can understand the concern of the Times only on the ground that it realizes that the Liberal party has lost one of the strongest men it ever had and that the Conservatives have gained a leader who will at the forthcoming election place them in power for a dozen or more years.—Kingston Standard. Annual Excursion to Stony Lake Yesterday---Many Attended.

The annual excursion of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild was held yesterday to Stony Lake. It proved a very great success, a large number being in attendance. The steamer Stony Lake carried the excursionists and a most delightful sail was spent on the lakes. A stop was made a Burleigh Falls where dinner was served, after which a most pleasant sail around the lakes was enjoyed. The steamer took the party right to the head of the lake, and calls were made at several points on the lake.

BOWMANVILLE'S BENEFACTOR

Late Jas. H. McGill of Washington, D. C., Bequeathes to His Native Town

Mr. James H. McGill died at his residence in Washington D.C., on Friday, May 22nd, 1908, after an illness of nearly three weeks. He had suffered from liver trouble for some time, but was thought to be progressing favorably towards recovery. Complications unexpectedly arose, and eventually pneumonia developed and proved too much for his impaired strength, and he passed peacefully to his eternal rest. It was reported here that death followed a surgical operation, but there was no such operation.

His brother, Mr. John McGill, Toronto, was at his bedside and remained for the funeral.

James H. McGill, was a son of the late William McGill, Bowmanville, and was educated at the Union school, which stood where the Central Public school now stands. He went to Lockport and then to Rochester when yet a young man, where he studied for an architect and became very proficient in his profession. His employer, Mr. Searle, later removed to Washington, D.C., and Mr. McGill accompanied him and subsequently had an interest in the firm. The Le Droit Park Co., the leading members of which were Messrs. Albright and Barber, learning of his superior skill, employed him as chief architect, and he afterwards designed and superintended the erection of several of the Co.'s public buildings.

He visited his parents here while they were alive annually, but of late years his visits have been less frequent.

In the year 1903 when the Council decided to sell the site of the old Town Hall and the new Municipal Building was proposed, the then Mayor, Mr. M. A. James, who was personally acquainted with Mr. Mr. McGill, and knowing of his professional skill as an architect of public buildings, wrote a letter to him asking for suggestions about the erection of the proposed public buildings, thinking that, being a Bowmanville boy, he would have an interest in the progress of his native town. He replied, thanking Mayor James for consulting him and said; "I retired from practice as an architect nearly twenty years ago, so cannot send you any designs of my own, but I will try to write you within a week or so and send you some gratuitous suggestions after I have thought the matter over."

A few days later he wrote;—"It costs but little more to erect a building having architectural merit than one without any. The education, artistic taste and enterprise of the people of Bowmanville may be manifested in their public buildings. I offer to contribute $250 to the said building committee in securing the most suitable design."

By this time Mr. J. W. Siddall, of Toronto, had been engaged as architect and Mr. McGill was informed of the fact.

May 21, 1903, he again wrote Mayor James;—"I have your favor of the 12th inst. My friendly interest in Bowmanville has never ceased and I desire to do something to assist you in your laudable effort to erect a creditable hall for the town. Permit me to help the cause along by donating $500.00 to be expended on the buildings or the furnishings in any way you and the Council may see fit with the understanding that my name will in no way be connected with any object for which it is used."

June 5, 1903, he wrote the Mayor; "I acknowledge the receipt of your personal letter, and also of your official letter endorsing a copy of a resolution passed by the Council. Be kind enough to thank the Council for accepting the little contribution I sent and expending it for the benefit of the town, for in doing so it is aiding me in partly paying a debt I owe to the town, for educational facilities furnished me in my boyhood days. I wish you great success in your building enterprise."

August 10th, 1903, he wrote, thanking the Mayor for the invitation to attend the corner stone laying, regretting inability to come, adding;—"I shall probably visit my native town before the completion of the new town building and will then see what you have done and may give you another little lift."

August 22, 1903, in reply to another more pressing invitation to come and take part in the ceremony, he wrote;—"During the past forty years I have visited Bowmanville almost yearly and each time I saw the old town hall I considered it the most discreditable thing in the town of my birth. In my judgment it gave visitors an unfavorable opinion of the town and did an injury that residents cannot appreciate."

Dec. 28, 1903, the editor of The Statesman wrote asking for his photograph for use in the paper. After expressing his pleasure over the progress being made with the new municipal building he wrote; "Instead of sending you any photograph I send you herewith a bank draft for one hundred dollars for some purchase in connection with the new building as is in your judgment may be desirable."

The money was used for desks and chairs for the councillors in the Council room.

February 19, 1904, he wrote regretting that he and Mrs McGill could not conveniently attend the opening of the new town building and said; "I the new town building and said, "I sure you will have it. It occurs to me that the entertainments provided will be largely for the grown-up people, hence the youngsters may be somewhat overlooked. Allow me to do something for them so that they will be interested in the enthusiasm of your opening celebration. I send you herewith a bank draft for $100 to be used in paying for implements for games or amusements to be used at the school grounds for the boys and girls attending the public schools of the town—$50 worth for the boys and $50 worth for the girls"

In a letter dated January 24, 1906, when forwarding his subscription to the Statesman he wrote; "While we cannot tell what the next ten years may do for us, let us hope that we shall both live that long. I have read the Statesman ever since I was old enough to read a newspaper and each week still read all the local articles in it with undiminished interest. I desire to keep posted on what is going on in my native town and will be unable to do without the Statesman as long as I live. It is a better paper now than ever before. I enclose $10. Credit my subscription to January 1st, 1908, and use the remainder to provide assistance to some poor old sick person in Bowmanville."

The following Christmas Mr McGill sent the editor of the Statesman $25 to help make the Christmastide happier for some worthy old people.

The foregoing goes to show that Mr. McGill has much more than a sentimental regard and interest in his native town and its people and peradventure, these financial donations, all sent to the editor of this journal, formed or strengthened the link of affection to Bowmanville that on the 17th day of October, 1906, prompted this clause in the last will and testament of deceased, which reads as follows;

"In the Name of the Beloved Father of All, Amen.

I, James H. McGill, of the City of Washington, District of Columbia and United States of America, being about fifty-nine years of age, and being of sound and disposing mind and memory Do Make, Publish and Declare, this My Last Will and Testament, hereby making null and void all other Last Wills and Testaments by me made heretofore.

First.—My will is, that all my just debts and funeral expenses shall be paid out of my Estate as soon after decease as shall be found convenient.

Second.—I Give, Demise and Bequeath to my wife, Jane L. McGill, the use of all my real estate to be used and enjoyed by her during the term of her natural life, and

I Give and Bequeath all my real estate to the Corporation of Bowmanville, Ontario, Canada, but this bequest to the Corporation of Bowmanville is not to be effective until after the decease of my wife, Jane L. McGill.

I do not intend that my wife is to pay off any mortgage or loan secured by deed of trust on my real estate, but is to have authority to renew said loan or make a new loan of the same amount on the most favorable terms available.

My wife during her life is to pay all interest, taxes and insurance and make all necessary repairs on my real estate and the improvements thereon and is to have the remainder of the income for her sole use."

Robert Preston Shealey and Samuel A. Drury of Washington, DC. are the executors named in the will.

About the year 1864 or 1865 the late James H. McGill was working as a carpenter's apprentice at 60 cents a day with his father on the building almost directly opposite the Statesman Block, and known as Horsey's Block. Mr. W. M. Horsey, our Police Magistrate, who was erecting the building discovered that the youth had more than ordinary ability with the pencil in drafting as well as being an intelligent mechanic. This gave him a special interest in young McGill and he had an interview with him and tried in Toronto and Kingston to get him into architects' offices but failing, he advised him to cross the line to seek an opening and gave him a letter of introduction 'to whom it might concern.' This explains how he came to go to Lockport."—Canadian Statesman.

WEDDING BELLS

GILMAN—FLOOD

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. Father Galvin, when Miss Katharine Flood, daughter of Mr. F. Flood, Waterford St., was united in marriage to Mr. Robt. J. Gilman, of Ashburnham. The bride, who was gowned in a dress of gray costume, was assisted by her sister, who was similarly attired. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Harry Gilman.

After the ceremony and when the bride and groom had received the congratulations of their friends, the party drove to the bride's home, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. The bride received many beautiful and costly presents, among them being a chair from the packers' department of the Quaker Oats Co., and a centre table from the Maple Leaf Club.

A reception is being held at the bride's home to-night.

Mr. and Mrs Gilman will reside in Ashburnham.

FATHER & DAUGHTER BENEFIT
RINGWORM AND ECZEMA
CURED BY ZAM-BUK

Miss Wilhelmina McCharles of Powassan, Ont., writes: "I have proved Zam-Buk a healing balm for eczema. My father had it very bad on his hands and they were swollen very much. One night he decided to try Zam-Buk. I had previously used it for Ringworm which I could not remove until I tried Zam-Buk. This removed the Ringworm in a very short time. In the morning father's hands were very much improved. He therefore continued using Zam-Buk, and the eczema is now all gone. I hold Zam-Buk in high esteem as a healing balm."

ZAM-BUK is Healing, Soothing, Antiseptic. Of all druggists and stores, 50c. or postpaid from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Fish, Chicken and Veal.

Raw pullet, raw veal and raw fish make the graveyard fat. This is hundreds of years old. A New York caterer (perhaps the most efficient in the city) said to me: "There are three important articles of food that must under no circumstances be served underdone. They are fish, chicken and veal. By chicken I mean all poultry of a domestic nature. All game birds should be rare. You want to be a little careful about lamb too. Give it plenty of cooking."—New York Press.

Not a Sure Mixer.

Poultry manure is very rich in all the fertilizing elements, but especially so in nitrogen, owing to the fact that the urinary secretions, which contain large amounts of nitrogen as well as potash in readily available form, are voided with the solid excrement. It quickly loses nitrogen, however, by fermentation if not properly mixed with absorbents or preservatives. In no case should alkaline substances like lime, wood ashes, etc., be mixed with poultry manure.

TERRIFIC ELECTRIC STORM PLAYS HAVOC IN THE CITY

Last Night's Outburst of the Elements was the Worst in Years--Lightning Strikes at Many Points

DAMAGE ALSO DONE IN THE COUNTRY

House Struck on Stewart Street—Chimney Knocked Over at Nicholl's Hospital—James McCliggot's Barn in Douro Destroyed with All Contents and Implements—House Also Struck in Same Township—Bottom Knocked Out of Stove in South Monaghan Residence—Loss and Inconvenience to Power and Telephone Companies—Other Damage.

For the second night in succession a fierce electrical storm swept the city last night and left destruction in its wake. It was the most disastrous storm in these parts for some time and the lightning blazed incessantly. Flash followed flash in the most rapid succession and the peals of thunder were deafening. To almost every citizen it seemed as though the storm in all its fury was directly above his residence and that his dwelling house had been singled out by the storm king as the centre of attack. There were two or three particularly sharp flashes of lightning with throbbing crashes of thunder coming with them almost simultaneously. The storm was dangerously local and by the quick succession of thunder and lightning it was apparent that it was shockingly close.

Aside from the destructive element of the storm, it was most welcome. The torrential rain that fell was sorely needed and the farmers are rejoicing over the good it did their root and other crops. In all parts of the community great thankfulness is expressed by the agriculturists for the timely rain. And, besides, the air was perceptibly cooled and freshened.

DOURO SUFFERED.

It is impossible to state the entire amount of damage done in the vicinity of Peterborough, as it could not be learned to-day if any buildings were struck in some of the more remote portions of the county. As far as can be learned Douro Township was more ill-fated than any in the county, the barns of Mr. James McCleggott, being totally destroyed, together with the contents and implements. It is not known whether the loss includes any live stock. In the same township the residence of Mr. Dan Sheehan, about a mile north of Guerin P.O., was struck by lightning but little damage was done.

IN THE CITY.

The only residence in Peterborough as far as known that was struck by lightning last night was that of Mr. Wm. O'Donnell, a driver for the Queen City Oil Co., on Stewart St. Fortunately the damage done was not as serious as might have been had the shingles been dry.

The chimney was knocked over and a cornice of the house was burned.

Some trees within the city limits were struck; A big pine on the Barnardo Home grounds was badly scarred and a tree in Victoria Park suffered from the effects of the electrical current.

The lightning struck a big tree near St. John's church vestry. One side of the tree was completely stripped of its bark. A large hole in the ground at the foot of the tree showed where the lightning had torn up the earth.

A chimney was toppled over on the west wing of the Nicholls hospital, being hit by a bolt from the clouds and the shock caused much alarm to the patients and nurses of the hospital. In spite of their weakened condition none of the patients were in any way seriously affected.

Speaking to Mr. J. H. Larmouth, manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Company this morning, the Review was informed that there was very little damage done to their plant last night. There were about 25 fuses burned out, but no transformers. The company this year has taken extra precaution to ward off any danger of their plant being damaged.

Lightning arrestors have been placed above the electric wires. These consist of an iron wire placed above the other wire and on is also placed and the lightning runs along the wire and down the side of the pole to the ground.

The Otonabee Power Company stated that with the exception of some fuses being burned out in the transformers along the lines no serious damage was done.

The Review was told by the CPR and GTR that no damage had been done to any of their property and the train men had not heard of any in this vicinity.

The Bell Telephone Company was caused a great deal of trouble by the storm. Some of the company's wires were blown down and about 50 phones in the city were temporarily put out of commission by their batteries being burned. Quite a number of lightning arrestors were also smashed.

The Machine Telephone Company report a few phones out of order but other than this no damage was done by the storm.

KNOCKED BOTTOM OUT OF STOVE.

The lightning repeated another of its old time tricks last night when it demolished the chimney on the residence of Mr. Feeley on his farm at South Monaghan and ran down the pipe, knocking the bottom out of the stove. It then went through the floor into the cellar. The Review communicated by phone with a neighbour of Mr. Feeley's this afternoon, but the line was apparently out of order and no further particulars than those already stated could be got. It is said, however, that some trees in the orchard were killed by lightning.

Mr. Stewart Hall, of Cavan, says he heard of no damage being done in that township or vicinity. He drove to the city this morning, coming through Fraserville by way of the river road. He did not hear of nor, notice any destruction having been wrought by the wind or lightning. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, was communicated with by 'phone and said that nothing in the way of disaster, small or big through the storm had been heard of by him as having happened around Springville.

Searching inquiry has been made to-day and many sources of intelligence have been communicated with, and it is believed that the principal disaster wrought by the storm is covered in this article.

KNOCKED DOWN PICTURES

At a late hour this afternoon it was learned that the lightning also last night struck the house of Mr. John McHarry, policeman, Victoria avenue. It came in via the telephone punched a large hole in the wall and knocked several pictures about the room.

CANOE UPSET IN EXCITEMENT OF PULLING IN BIG BASS

and Two Americans Have an Exciting Experience at Stony Lake—Fish Was Still on Line When it Was Recovered—Another Upset.

Special to the Review

Stony Lake, June 23.—Two members of a party of Americans, who are staying at the Lakeview House, at Young's Point, had an exciting experience on Friday evening last. Incidentally there is a fish story connected with the episode that will not be surpassed for some time. Mrs. Fred Sanford and Mr. L. E. Sands, of Albion, N.Y., were fishing in a canoe in Bryson's Bay and when a short distance from the shore Mrs. Sanford hooked a bass. It was a good sized one and the lady was having difficulty in landing it, so Mr. Sands went to her assistance. In the excitement the canoe upset and the two occupants were thrown into the water. Neither was able to swim. They scrambled up on to the boat, only to have it turn over again and put the two people back into the water a second time. Mr. Sands remained perfectly cool in the dilemma, however, and grasping Mrs. Sanford, succeeded in remaining above the water till help came. Other members of the party who were in the vicinity heard the cries for assistance and came with all possible speed to rescue the two who were struggling in the water.

In the excitement the steel fishing rod, which Mrs. Sanford had been using, sank to the bottom and was not recovered for half an hour. When it was located and pulled out about half an hour later the bass was still on the hook and was, of course, captured. The fish was a large one and to a slight extent compensated the canoeists, who had been "ducked" for the inconvenience they had experienced.

A party which included Mr. S. A. Shaw, who were out in a sailing boat also had an upset recently, but a thorough wetting was all the damage done. They climbed up on to the craft and were rescued by the crew of the steamer "Empress," which was passing at the time.

The fishing is good at Stony Lake and is being taken advantage of to the fullest extent. Mr. B. F. Ackerman pulled in a 13 1-2 pound 'lunge one day this week, and several others almost as large have been caught.

The following Americans are registered at the Lakeview House, Young's Point:—Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Sands, Mr and Mrs. B. R. Sands. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Vicks and Rev. C. G. Stevens, of Albion, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. J. Dubusque, Syracuse, N.Y.; and Mr. W. V. Newcomb, Kendall, N.Y. This is Mr. Newcomb's first visit to the Kawartha Lakes and he is enthusiastic over the scenery, the fishing and everything in general.

ECLIPSE OF SUN NEXT MONDAY

About Half of the Surface of the Solar Body Will be Darkened

There will be a partial eclipse of the sun on Monday of next week. About half the surface of the solar body will be darkened. The eclipse will commence about 9.43 o'clock, Peterborough time, and will remain on until after noonday.

The large spots which were on the solar disc the first of the month are again coming into view. The reason why they have been invisible for the past two or three weeks is because the surface of the sun upon which they are located has been turned away from the earth.

The presence of the sun spots will make the eclipse of more than ordinary interest from a scientific standpoint.

Th recount in St. James gives Mr Bourassa 42 majority.

Sir, — Some steps ought to be taken by our city council to compel the owners of live wires to put them under ground. Several accidents have occurred and there have been many very narrow escapes. Every time there is a storm the people of the city are in terror. Let the council get to work on this job at once.

The tree fell over at about ten minutes to three and the wreckage alighted in front of it not more than eight feet from the horse's head.

COURT STANLEY HAS NEW MEMBERS

Interesting Meeting Was Held Last Evening--Several Speeches.

There was a large turnout of members at the quarterly meeting of Court Stanley, A.O.F., held last night in the S.O.E. Hall. The Chief Ranger, Bro. T. Hendry, was in the chair. Three candidates were duly initiated and four propositions were received for membership. The good work is still going on among the members, as shown by adding new members at every meeting. The members were pleased to welcome Bro. Robt. Northcott, from Court Sherwood Forest, Reading, Berkshire, England, who has been a member of the Order for several years. He thanked the members for their kind welcome, and said he would attend the meetings of the court when possible. Bro. Record also spoke, and was pleased to see so many new members coming in. There never was a time, he said, when it looked more bright for the Order and to all who want to belong to the society on good sound basis join the Ancient Order of Foresters.

TWO BICYCLES WERE STOLEN

Messrs. Heathcote & Snyder Lost Wheels on Monday.

There were two bicycles stolen on Monday evening both thefts having been committed about the same time but from different places.

Mr. W. C. P. Heathcote had left his wheel standing on Hunter street just outside the Peterborough Club. He remained at the club until the rainstorm was over. When he came down to get his bicycle it was gone. It was a "Planet" and the number was 36650. This is the third time Mr Heathcote has lost his wheel.

Mr. C. Snider has also lost his fine new bicycle. He left it standing on George street, outside Shortly's harness shop on Monday night when it was stolen. It was a "Rambler."

WEDDING BELLS

HUGHES—WILLIAMSON.

A pretty June wedding took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the home of Mr. T. H. Williamson, 187 Aylmer street, when his daughter, Miss Edna Maud, was united in marriage to Mr. F. J. Hughes, of Morley, Alberta. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. M. Manning of the Charlotte street church in the presence of about twenty-five intimate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by Miss Bessie Robinson, of Lindsay and the groomsman was Mr. L. G. Williamson, brother of the bride. The bride was attired in a costume of white d'esprit over white lace, trimmed with satin and lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore a pretty dress of pink chiffon over pink silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride's going away dress was of champagne silk with hat to match. The ceremony was performed in the parlor which was prettily decorated with palms, carnations and daisies.

After the ceremony, refreshments were served, and the bride and groom left on the 4.38 CPR. train on a honeymoon trip to Buffalo, Niagar Falls, Hamilton and other points west. They will return to the city about July 4th and spend a few days here before leaving for Morley, where they will reside.

The bride received many beautiful presents including a handsome piano from the groom.

Mr. Hughes holds the position of CPR. telegraph operator at Morley and the bride is an exceedingly popular young lady. They will have the best wishes of a host of friends.

The out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs L. McGregor, Lindsay; Mr and Miss Hughes, father and sister of the groom, Toronto; Mrs. John McPhee and Mr W E Williamson, of Algoma, Mich.

PRETTY WEDDING AT ST. CATHARINES

Dr. Robert Roland Bradin Fitzgerald Married to Miss Edith Leta Dudley.

Special to the Review.

St Catharines, Ont., June 24.—Welland avenue Methodist church was the scene of a very fashionable and pretty wedding this afternoon, when Rev. D. A. Moir, the pastor married Miss Edith Leta, only daughter of Thomas E. Dudley, manager of the local office of the G.N.W. Telegraph Company, and Dr. Robert Roland Bradin Fitzgerald, of Lockport, N.Y., an old Peterborough boy. For the occasion the church was delightfully decorated with palms, daisies and roses, the work of twenty of the girl friends of the bride. Two picturesque arches of cedar had also been erected and these presented a very pretty sight.

The bride was attired in a dress of ivory satin trimmed with Duchess lace; she wore a veil and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley and ferns tied with chiffon. She wore a pendant of pearls and amethysts, the gift of the groom. She was attended by the Misses Grace Woods, her cousin, of Toronto, Laura Newman, Helen Lloyd and Molli Jackson, of this city. The former two wore blue silk mulle; the other two pink silk mulle; all wore wreaths instead of hats. Those in blue carried pink roses; those in pink carried white roses. Little Alica Dudley, of Erie, Pa., a niece of the bride, dressed in white, made a very pretty flower girl.

The best man was Dr. Robert Mann, of Toronto, a cousin of the groom.

The ushers were, Harvey D. Dudley, of Winnipeg; Dr. George Seldon, of Ingersoll, and Dr. Chapman, of this city.

The wedding march was played by Emil Koeppel and while the church register was being signed Miss Anna Lloyd sang, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy."

Following the ceremony the hundred invited guests returned to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was held, the house decorations being of green and white.

Dr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald left in the evening for New York, Atlantic City, Boston, Washington and other points. On their return they will take up their residence in Lockport.

LADIES CAN SEE THE BALL GAME ON SATURDAY FREE

Ladies will be admitted free to the big ball game on Saturday afternoon at Riverside park between the Peterboroughs and Athletics. They will also be entitled to the free use of the grandstand and a big delegation of the fair sex is expected. The match promises to be a hummer as both teams are confident of victory. If the Petes win they will have five straight wins in the league, but the Athletics say they are going to stop the victorious career of the Johnstonites. Much interest centres in the match and the biggest crowd of the season is looked for. Quinlan and Rattray will be the battery for the Athletics and as far as is known at present the Petes will have on the same team that pulled out the 11-6 victory last Saturday.

WARKWORTH WILL BRING GOOD TEAM FOR GAME TO-MORROW

The Warkworth Cricket Team will arrive here at 8.10 to-morrow for an all day game, starting at 10.30 a.m. sharp with the Peterborough Cricket Club, at the Nicholls Oval. The Warkworth Club has a fine team, including Humphries, the crack 'Varsity bowler, who will be on the firing line to-morrow and, along with an equally balanced team, promise to give the home boys a fine argument. The Peterborough team consists of two international men in Hill and Black and along with the rest of the players, should give a good account of themselves.

The following are requested to be at the Oval at 10.30 sharp;

H. C. Hill, Harry Clark, E. Reaston, S. Elliott, Marshall, W. Edwards, S. Pousette, M. Black, E. H. Lovekin, Mr. Holmes, Coleman.

All old-time cricketers should see this game.

TOM LONGBOAT WILL START

Story to Contrary Without Foundation—Lord Desborough Will Not Prevent Him.

Special to the Review

London, June 23—Lord Desborough, in speaking to the CAP today, said that he had heard nothing regarding the alleged refusal of Tom Longboat's entry. He believed that there had been some trouble across the water, but he had no wish to create any trouble here. In fact, he had received no objections to Longboat's entry in the great Marathon.

P. L. Fisher, Hon. Sec. Amateur Athletic Association informs the Canadian Associated Press that the British Association had recieved no objections to Tom Longboat's entry and that before the Amateur Athletic Association could notice objections such must be in the shape of a specific charge. Mr. Fisher knows nothing regarding the rumors emanating from New York sources. Rumors that Longboat's entry had been refused by the Amateur Athletic Association as a great surprise to him.

T.A.S. AND WEST ENDS TONIGHT

Play on Nicholls Oval—Should be One of the Best Games in City League.

The game that has probably created more interest than any other in the city league this year will be played tonight at Nicholls oval at 6.45 o'clock when the TAS and West Ends come together. It's a pretty hard proposition to try to select a winner as both teams are playing excellent ball. Jerry Edmunds of the Petes will handle the indicator.

The TAS line-up will be;

Doherty cf.
Durocher 2b
F Giroux lf.
J Corbury 3b
J Doris 1b.
W Cahill ss.
L Giroux c.
G McFadden rf.

THE BOYS' MEET IS OPEN TO ALL

Competition is not Confined to Members of the Y.M.C.A.—Many Entries.

Many entries are coming in for the great boys' championship meet for July 1st. The committee in charge wishes it known that the meet is open to all the boys of Peterborough, whether members of the YMCA or not. A beautiful silver cup has been donated by Mr. V. Eastwood and the winner of the six cup events will hold this trophy for one year. In addition to this a number of special events will be run off and valuable prizes and medals will be given to the winners. This should prove a big event for the boys of Peterborough. All who come within the requirements should see the Physical Director of the YMCA. at once and get their names on the entry list.

FOR 600-YARD HANDICAP

London, June 24—The Canadian athletes, Parkes, Buddo and Tait, are entered in the 600 yard handicap at the London Athletic Club games at Stamford Bridge on Saturday. Kerr and Buddo are entered in the 100-yard handicap; Kerr and Sebert in the 300 yard relay race. In the relay team race, Kerr, Sebert, Buddo and Lukeman are entered. McCarthy has entered the quarter mile the mile and the five mile handicap at the National Cycle Union meet.

ARE THE CURLERS TO HAVE A RINK?

This is a Question That is Much to the Fore at the Present Time.

It begins to look as if the Peterborough curlers would have to play on the sidewalk again this winter or trust to the generosity of their rivals. The scheme evolved of having a rink, shops, ball room, theatre, etc., all under one roof was knocked in the head by a heady member of the Curling Co., who threatened the Directors with an injunction if they spent the insurance money in any such way. What will the harvest be? not likely an ice harvest. Can't some financier devise a plan of restoring our rink?

LACROSSE

The YMCA lacrosse men will practice tonight at the Riverside park at seven o'clock. All the players are requested to be out.

T.V.L ACROSSE MEETING

A meeting will be held to-night at the T.A.S. rooms of representatives from the following lacrosse teams in No. 1 District of the Trent Valley Lacrosse League; Millbrook, Y. M. C. A., T. A. S. and Lindsay. The schedule for No. 2 district will be drawn up.

CLOSING EXERCISES AT THE "GROVE" SCHOOL LAKEFIELD

Lakefield, June 24.—The closing exercises of Lakefield Preparatory school were held last night and were attended by a large number of friends of the school. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, M.A., the head master, was in the chair. In welcoming the friends of the school he gave a short resume of its progress. Referring to the Old Boys 'Association he mentioned their annual dinner in Toronto and their re-union at "The Grove" every Labor Day. He also urged the boys to be sure and join the association after they have left school. One of the old boys, John Barron, son of Judge Barron, of Stratford, had entered the Canadian navy. He was the first naval cadet stationed on H.M.S. "Canada" at Halifax. Mr. Mackenzie intends to make preparation for the Naval Academy and Royal Military College, a special feature of the school. In reviewing the work of the boys he was pleased to say that they had all shown remarkable progress and that their examinations were very satisfactory. The prizes were distributed by Mrs. Hilliard and were awarded to the following boys:

General proficience prizes—
I. Form, Ramsay.
II. Form, Lefroy II.
III. Form, Cooke.
IV. Russell.
Mathematics—Norman Nelles.
Classics—Cooke.
French—Davis.
Botanical collection—Atwood.

Bat for the highest average during cricketing season, presented by Mr. A. A. Colledge, won by Perram.

Bat for highest score in T. C. S. matches presented by Mr. Martin, won by Allan.

Ball for best bowler, Nelles.

Medal for swimming race, presented by Mr. Harry Strickland, won by Nelles.

Mr. Mackenzie called upon Rev. Dr. Langfeldt to present his medal for general proficiency. The winner of this distinction was Gerald Hyde Wilkes, of Brantford. The winner must be the best boy all round and is chosen by the head master and masters. Dr. Langfeldt complimented the school on its fine showing and expressed his high regard for Mr. Mackenzie. It said it was a privilege to any boy to be under the influence of Mr. Mackenzie, whose sterling qualities of heart and mind had won him a great reputation, and parents were only too anxious to have their boys under his training.

Mr. J. H. Burnham was also present and expressed his high opinion of the headmaster and school. Mr. R. M. Hamilton, of Fenelon Falls, who has a son at the school, expressed his great interest in athletics by donating an annual prize to the best athlete. Mr. A. Montizambert, of Peterborough, was not to be outdone by the others and in a very pleasing speech donated an annual prize for the best student in literature. Mrs. R. Hamilton also gave an annual prize to the boy foremost in politeness and good manners. Mr. E. R. Tate became reminiscent and related some of his experiences of former years. He was a student at the Grove 28 years ago. Col. H. C. Rogers and Mr. Dela Fosse gave short addresses. After the meeting refreshments were served.

The Message on His Watch.

In "Memories of Eight Parliaments" Mr. Lucy, the author, tells a story about Mr. Pyne, member for West Waterford, who, when under the crimes act a warrant was issued for his arrest in 1887, shut himself up in his Irish home, Lisfarney castle, had the trenches filled with water, the drawbridge up, took in supplies by a window in the battlements and thus lived for months, while he poked fun at the policemen who were wandering about below with the warrant in their pockets.

"The originality of Mr. Pyne's mind," continues Mr. Lucy, "was further indicated upon his watch. On its dial he had roughly engraved 'Pay no rent.' Whenever in troubled times any of his neighbors came to him for advice as to what they should do in the presence of a demand for rent, Mr. Pyne solemnly shook his head. 'I cannot,' he said, 'express my views on the subject, for Mr. Balfour says they are illegal. But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll show you what time of day it is,' and, holding out his watch, the perturbed tenant read upon it the admonitory legend, 'Pay no rent.'"

Laws Against Beggars.

Begging was a capital offense in England in the days of Henry VIII., when the laws were very severe against beggars, and under a statute passed in that reign any one caught begging for the first time, being neither aged nor infirm, was whipped at the cart's tail. If caught a second time his ear was slit or bored through with a hot iron. If caught a third time he suffered death as a felon unless some honest person having £10 in goods or 40 shillings in land or some householder approved by the justices would take the offender into his service for two years, entering into a bond of £10. So the law of England remained for sixty years. First enacted by Henry VIII., it continued unrepealed through the reigns of Edward and Mary. Reconsidered under Elizabeth, the same law was again formally passed, the two legislative houses thereby expressing their conviction that it was better for a man not to live at all than to live the life of a beggar.

POLLUTION OF NORTHERN LAKES

Mr. D. W. Dumble makes Reply to a Circular Sent Out.

Mr. D. W. Dumble has sent the following letter to City Clerk Armstrong:

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
Sec.-Treas. Water Commissioners,
City.

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your circular letter of the 19th inst. respecting pollution of the Stony Lake waters. I heartily concur in the action of the commissioners and have always endeavored to secure the end you aim at, and when President of the Cottagers Association brought the matter to the attention of the Cottagers.

In the concluding part of your circular you intimate that I have not myself observed the requirements, permit me to say that I have scrupulously complied with my own good judgment. I have earth closets at my Stony Lake cottages and I clean them every year, digging the contents into flower beds, and I never permit any pollution of the waters around my islands.

Permit me to draw the attention of the Board of Health to the fact that the town authorities have an opening from the main, George street sewer into the Little Lake, from whence we get our ice. I have seen faecal matter, pure, floating in eddies at the mouth of this outlet—this is wholesale pollution and should receive the immediate attention of the Board. When I see ice on the butter plate the picture of the sewer outlet does not add zest to my appetite.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
D. W. DUMBLE.

The circular letter of the City Water Commissioners referred to by Mr. Dumble:

Sir,—The Water Commissioners having in view the desirability of obtaining a pure water supply for the city have caused to be removed whatever was likely to pollute the water, as far as and including Lakefield, and they confidently believe their action has had very beneficial results.

Last year they sent the Inspector of the Board of Health to enquire into the conditions existing in Stony Lake. His report showed that at most of the cottages the privies were over the water and that in the case of hotels and boarding houses, the sewerage from the privies was emptied into it. This is contrary to and prohibited by law. It is a menace to health and therefore must cease.

The report shows that you have not observed the requirements of the law and you are respectfully required to take steps at once to remove the cause of complaint.

Yours truly,
S. R. ARMSTRONG
Sec.-Treas.

THE ROUGH PLACES

It is because there is something of the savage left in us that we at times at least, prefer the wild odor of rough woods, and the pungent aromatic smell of deep, wet swamps to the high-bred, cultured aroma of the area where modern agriculture has done most.

A well cultivated country is too artificial. It is all straight lines. The fields are all right angled. The lane is composed of two lines which may be continued indefinitely without meeting. The barns and houses are all straight lines and right angles. You can't see a kink on any furrow, and the drills of corn are as straight as lines on wall paper, and they tire the eye. Everything is in straight rows and the people themselves look straight, always highly respectable and aloof. It is a real pleasure to drift out of such a latitude into a broken region not so blessed with fertile meadows, and there are such districts in Peterborough county, — indeed there are such localities more or less large in every county in Ontario.

Except to the strictly commercial eye, they are much more interesting than the more highly favored areas. Here men come nearer to nature, to a simple and comfortable barbarism. Here the mother of invention is at work. Here men have to use their hands, and withal, their brains, and one sees home-made houses and sheds, and one sees no fancy or patent fences. Each little rocky or swampy, or gravelly farm exhibits its owners inventive genius. Everything looks as if it had been whittled out by a knife on a large scale, or hewed by an axe. The fields are all shapes — wherever there was a bit of fertile soil worth fencing in, and everywhere they are surrounded by patches of wild land that never knew the plow and never will. There are no straight lines, even the roads run cat-a-corner and you often find yourself in a cul de sac.

Here in a deep pool among the steep gravel knolls, float a thousand water lilies. That pond is vastly more interesting than the so-called beautiful artificial pond in front of the main building at the Model Farm. It has no fancy fence around it, to be sure, and no ornamented fountain spraying a mist of water over its surface; but the wild pool among the silent hills is the more beautiful of the two. The kingfisher visits it, and the blackbirds and the stork-like crane. The dragon flies hover over it by day, and the nighthawks, shuttle-like weave strange patterns over it when all is dark.

It is full of voices and wonderful living things, and whether it is sunrise or sunset, high noon or moonlight it is a gem. When people plant out a bit of forest they plant the trees in straight lines. The Lord never did anything like that. And they cut out all the dead branches and the burn up all the brush heaps and grass, and it is a very tame place indeed. In such a spot one sees no lichens, no mosses, no ferns, no fungi, one misses the quaint little bugs and beasts and reptiles that love the wild wood. There ought to be a bit of primeval forest jealously preserved in every neighbourhood. And our park superintendents should be given to understand that there is a vast difference between an orchard and a woodland, between arboriculture and forestry.

The average park looks too much like a prim lawn on a large scale, and it frequently shocks high heaven in much the same way. We do too many things by rule, by note, by the book.

The people who live in these secluded out-of-the-way places are not rich, but they are not poor, either. Their homes are snug; they grow plenty of vegetables, the unbroken lands are covered with rank sweet grass and they have plenty of milk and butter. Their cows are beautiful, their pigs are sleek, and their sheep sleep in the dust in the middle of the sideline and they wont get up when you come along — you have to drive around them.

Cool streams with a hint of trout meander through the hills and cross the sidelines and concessions now and then, and you avoid the bridges and drive down through the transparent water and let your horses drink. Once in every while you come across an abandoned homestead — a pathetic sight. But it is not so much the round log barn or the poor old empty house that touches one as the remains of the orchard and the old-time garden. There is a bunch of the old man striving with the insolent burdocks. Here is a cinnamon rose defying fate; yonder is a belt of lovely lilacs. Who planted them? for once they were the joy of somebody's heart. Somewhere in a far-off province people will talk to-night of the quaint old home in Puslinch. The deep, cool swamps, the trout stream, the rolling hills, the coonful beech woods, the big maples before the door—these will be in their thoughts. And it will be long ere their western abiding place will be half so beautiful or so snug as that old forsaken home "down in Ontario."

THE KHAN.

THE REINDEER OF LABRADOR ARE SUCCESS IN THAT COUNTRY

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, of Labrador, missionary fame, writes entertaingly to the Standard of Empire, regarding the reindeer herd imported from Norway for domestic use in Labrador:

There is little doubt left in any of our minds that the reindeer spells success both here in North Newfoundland and in Labrador. In spite of the extraordinary amount of glitter and ice this year, they have not only held their own after their long rough winter voyage from Lapland, but the does are looking very good condition for the fawning. The stags have not made much flesh for hauling, but we are using teams steadily every day, hauling logs, while the large herd round the Lapp camps serve as recruiting ground for substitutes for any animals that show signs of running down. The does are small and some are almost perfectly white. One, a pet of the Lapp herder's wife, is like the snow. It follows its mistress like a dog. In harnessing up, the younger stags are at times very restive and stand up and fight with their front hoofs almost too cleverly. My largest Eskimo dog sneaked off the other day and proceeded to tackle one of three stags on tether. Fortunately a man saw the danger, but was in time to avert it. But his account of how the stag at the full end of its line laid the big dog out twice, shows what they can do. On the other hand last Sunday, while our apprentice herders were all in for prayers, a stranger drove his girl right into the herd to see the deer. The dogs broke loose and disappeared after the herd, which stampeded all over the country. On the next round-up a doe had a broken thigh and another many lacerations and a large piece gone from her flank. The Lapps told us she would die, and wanted to kill her; but she is now in the "hospital" here girded with a large dressing.

The speed we have made, as yet does not, however, promise the abolition of the dogs. Once we made six miles in forty-five minutes, over hill and dale, but it so happened the deer were anxious to go that day. Our experience has been that it is very difficult to persuade them to do more than jog along. I tried the whip but the very thick hair makes them almost indifferent to it, and when they do feel it they get rattled, jump out of the path, and as likely as no, turn around and look at you and go off again the way you came. Once the stag gave a leap and was gone the disconsolate komatik only remaining. On the other hand for logging teams they are most excellent. One good deer is as good as half a dozen dogs and a boy can lead each team and do a man's work. The regular habits of the animals are amusing, and quite in keeping with their matronly appearance. Having chosen a spot to feed in the morning, all set to and have a good feed, after which, as if by a signal, all lie down. Sometimes it seems to call for considerable discrimination as to where they shall begin to eat, as if the leader remarked. "There are 299 besides myself to look after this morning, it would be advisable to go a mile or two further on." They are above considering that it will probably mean an extra ten miles for the herders to walk or for themselves to come back ahead of their torments the "Lapp dogs." After a good time chewing and tasting again the joys of the morning, and then a midday snooze it suddenly enters into the souls of every deer at once they must all go north-east or south-west. The process is that one, a stag, gets up, stretches, and walks around among the others as if to stir them up. They mostly resent it at first, and butt their heads at him, forgetting that they have been dehorned but at last each rises, and in five minutes you have a long crocodile, like schoolgirls walking out, which extends in one snake-line to the summit of the first hill. Sometimes they will break into four or five companies. Watching them on a calm, sunny day winding up a dazzling snow bank, one felt the fascination of the graceful skirt dance.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

Pulls so Hard on the Stomach it Must Have Help

The stress and strain of the strenuous life in both city and country makes stomach troubles. Five people suffer to-day where one did ten years ago, with sick headache, dizziness, flatulence, distress after eating, specks before the eyes, bloating, nervousness, sleeplessness, and the many other symptoms of indigestion.

All who are suffering with stomach troubles, and that means at least two out of every three in Peterborough and other towns, should use Mi-o-na stomach tablets. Nothing else is as safe, yet as effective; nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles from indigestion as Mi-o-na.

So reliable is Mi-o-na that M. Madill, druggist, corner George and Hunter Sts., Peterborough, with every 50 cent box he sells, gives a guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy cures.

HOW THE SOO GOT RID OF ITS HOBOS

Set Them All to Work and They Soon Left the Limits---Might be Tried Here.

The Sault Ste. Marie Star gives the following account of how the northern town got rid of its hobos:

The Sault's hobo problem has been solved for the present. Last Friday the town had 45 non-paying guests, and today it has only one, and he is in jail.

For some time the vags have been congregating with us, some of them congregating here some of them having staved all winter with us. But when they kept coming in dozens the municipal authorities decided that it would be well to either build an addition to the coop, or else tell the hobos to hike.

Police Magistrate Elliott and Mayor Thompson laid their heads together and worked out ideas. The result was that Chief Dowd rushed the whole of our 45 guests into police court Friday morning where Mr. Elliott gave them a talk. He said he didn't wish to be harsh, but it was evident that the whole bunch was afraid of work. The weary ones averred that they could not get work; they would be willing to work for their board if some kind frend would only find the work.

"Very good," said His Honor, "We will see that you get a chance to work at something easy."

He then found the whole crew guilty of vagrancy as charged in the indictment but said he would let them off on suspended sentence if they would go to work cleaning up the debris at the Municipal Buildings so they could be rebuilt. It was to be understood, said His Honor, that any of the bovs who were found hanging around town again as they had done all winter, they would be committed to jail forthwith.

Mr. John Wray was engaged as foreman, and the entire 45 was set to work that same day, which it will be remembered was Friday, an unlucky day to begin work. One of the visitors was appointed cook and the other 44 began delving in the ruins.

Well, sir, it was curious the way the visitors faded away as soon as a little work had to be faced. By Saturday morning only half the gang were left and Manager Wray's customs were much lighter by that much. The cook was still on deck. Work went forward all day Saturday the boys standing gallantly by the cook.

However, when Monday's sun shone in sight the cook was the only man on deck, all the rest having succumbed to that old stringing trouble of humanity, a desire for a change — the same that spread wings with Icarus, and that drove Columbus across the pitiless Atlantic. Neither Icarus nor Columbus were seen on Monday, and when Mr. Wray asked where they were the cook said Mr. Wray could search him.

Out of the 45 then, said Police Magistrate Elliott, 38 were immigrants, mostly English and Scotch, many of them soldiers. They ranged from 20 to 55 years of age.

The worst feature about the lot was that most of them evidently belonged to the pauper class — useless anywhere.

PROMPT PAYMENT

Peterborough, Ont., June 12th, 1908

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Globe Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,878 Liverpool and London, and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 3 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and presented us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,

CRUSHED BETWEEN WAGON AND FENCE AND ALMOST KILLED

Special to the Review.

Norwood, June 24th. — What might have proved a fatality but was averted as if by miracle, was the experience of Mr. Patterson of South Dummer of Wednesday evening of this week. Mr. Patterson, son of Mr. Richard Patterson, was engaged in unloading some heavy tools belonging to Mr. Harvey Fife, of Norwood, at his latter's home, when the spirited horses took fright, and Mr. Patterson, who was between the wagon and the fence and thus unable to control his horses, received such injuries in his head and body as to render him unconscious for several hours. After being extricated from his perilous position, he was removed to the home of Mr. Thos. Robson where medical aid was procured, and under the skilful treatment of Drs. Ford and Wilson, he was brought back to consciousness, and he is now considered out of danger.

LONGDO CHILDREN HAD WALKED TO INDIAN RIVER

Escaped from the Shelter on Sunday Last—Have Run Away Five Times—Difficult Time in Bringing Them Back—Constable Whibbs Brought Them Here Last Night.

For the fifth time, the Longdo children, wards of the Children's Aid Society have run away from the shelter, and have on each occasion been captured.

Their escape on Sunday night was probably the most remarkable of any of their adventures The elder girl of the two is only about twelve years of age while the other one is seven or eight years. They were found at Indian River and last night they were brought back to the city by the village constable, Whibbs.

Leaving the shelter on Sunday night they went to their grandmother's in the south end of the city where they remained until seven o'clock next morning when they left, taking the CPR track and walking to Indian River.

Indian River is twelve miles from Peterborough, and quite a long distance for two small girls to undertake to walk. They arrived at the village late on Monday afternoon and were taken in at the home of Miss Duff. She fed them and kept them over night, intending to send them back to Peterborough on the morning train yesterday. One of them told Miss Duff that they were from the shelter and word was 'phoned to the agent, Mr. Geo. Cochrane, that they were there.

Miss Duff had the two ready to send back yesterday morning but when the train arrived they ran out a back door, and before they could be caught the train had gone. They were then placed in charge of Constable Whibbs, who brought them here last evening. They were met at the station by Mr. Henry and while going up George street the elder one got away again but was soon captured.

A vigilant eye will have to be kept on them in the future.

PETERBOROUGH MAN HAS PROSPERED IN THE WEST

Mr. George A. Morrison is Home on a Visit and Tells of Conditions at the Coast.

Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, of Tacoma, Wash, is in the city looking up old friends. He left here 19 years ago for the west and has prospered in the real estate, bonds and investment business. He is now on a business trip east to widen and extend financial connections and to arrange about some properties in the eastern cities and expects to reach home the middle of July. While in this city he will be the guest of Mr. Adam Hall.

He reports business quiet in the States, being a presidential year, and as the aftermath of the panic, conditions in the Middle West, and Far West are better than in the East.

Mr. Morrison was born in Dummer township near Norwood, and has met with great success since going to the West. He is now one of the leading citizens of Tacoma.

Tacoma is a city of about 115,000 population and it is growing rapidly. It has the largest flour mills in the west, and many important industries. Wheat is grown extensively in the eastern part of the state, and towards the coast hay and oats are largely grown. The production of wheat last year amounted to about 42,000,000 bushels.

Tacoma is located on Puget Sound and has one of the finest harbors in the world. Four transcontinental railways are being built into the city at the present time and they will give a great impetus to trade. Tacoma is the terminal point of the Northern Pacific, so that there will be five transcontinental railroads into the city when the four new ones are completed.

Mr. Morrison did not care to venture an opinion as to who would be the next president of the United States. He was inclined to think that Taft would defeat Bryan.

This is Mr. Morrison's second visit to the East in 19 years and ofcourse he sees many changes.

ONE OF THE CITY'S PIONEER RESIDENTS DIES AT LINDSAY

The death occurred yesterday at Toronto, of Mrs. John Flavelle, sr., who will be remembered by our older citizens, as for many years she was a resident of the city in its very early days, in fact while it was yet a village and before the dignity of a town had been taken on. The family lived here, as stated, for many years, and afterwards removed to Lindsay, following the death of Mr. Flavelle.

The deceased lady was 85 years of age, having been born in 1823. Up to the last she retained her faculties. A woman of very extensive acquaintance and accomplishments, she was very highly esteemed for her great personal worth and many fine attributes. She came here with her husband from the village of Drum, County Cavan, Ireland, where she was born, in 1846. Of the family were three sons and two daughters. The former, Messrs. J. D. Flavelle and Wm. Flavelle, of Lindsay, and Jos. Flavelle, of Toronto. The daughters were Miss Maggie, (Mrs. Milner, of Toronto), and Miss Minnie, who died some years ago. Mrs. Flavelle was a school mistress for 27 years. For fourteen years she taught her private school, housed in a big roomy building that stood on the ground now covered by the residence of Dr. King, on Charlotte st., At this school many of the children of the early residents gained their first tuition and were well grounded. For thirteen years Mrs. Flavelle was one of the most valued teachers in the Public schools of the town and is remembered for her zealous devotion to the duties and for the marked progress attained by pupils under her care.

In 1882 Mrs. Flavelle removed to Lindsay and for many years resided in her own home with her daughters, and since the marriage of her youngest daughter has made her home with sons, and at Toronto with Mrs. Milner.

Deceased was a sister of Mrs. L. Maguire, and also Mr. J. B. Dundas, and Mr. W. Dundas, sr., both of Lindsay. Mr. Macquire carried on a harness and boot and shoe business in Peterborough, removing to Lindsay, the business here being acquired by Mr. Thos. Donnelly and afterwards by Mr. B. Shortly. Mr. Dundas established at Lindsay the well-known dry goods business, afterwards participated in and acquired by Messrs. Flavelle Bros.

The funeral takes place on Thursday afternoon to Riverside cemetery, at Lindsay, and will be at two o'clock p.m.

$20 OR THIRTY DAYS FOR STEALING RIDE ON C.P.R

Gordon Judge and Wm. Stevens, Toronto young men, who were arrested a week ago while attempting to steal a ride on the C.P.R. train —noon express—were to-day sentenced by His Worship Magistrate Dumble, at the police court. The pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy and to fraudulently riding on a railway train. On the first charge they were given thirty days and on the second they were fined $20 and costs or thirty days.

The prisoners had little to say, excepting that they came here looking for work. Their homes are in the Queen City and they said they were never in jail before. They got drunk last Tuesday and that accounted for all their trouble.

EX-Governor of Wyoming Endorses Pe-ru-na.

Responsible People.

PEOPLE occupying positions of high responsibility and trust are always very busy people.

They have little or no time to devote to side issues.

It is therefore very rare that such people are willing to write testimonials for anything.

Then again there is a natural diffidence in giving public endorsement to any commercial enterprise on the part of people who are much before the public.

Rare Endorsements.

It is thus that it is very rare that public officials, like governors, congressmen, consuls, senators, etc., give public endorsement to a proprietary medicine.

It is therefore a great triumph that Peruna has the unqualified endorsement of so many men in official position.

Scores of public officials of national reputation have enthusiastically declared in favor of Peruna in public print over and over again.

A Startling Fact.

There is no way to account for such a startling fact as this except that Peruna has extraordinary unusual merit.

After all, people high and low, are constituted very much alike.

Natural Enthusiasm.

When a person has been really helped in getting rid of some chronic malady, after other things have failed, it is quite natural for enthusiasm to lead people to make a statement of the fact.

For great services, gratitude is natural.

This is the only way that it can possibly be explained why it is that so many persons prominent in public, diplomatic and social life give testimony for Peruna.

Actual Benefit.

Peruna promptly relieves.

This is the explanation.

Catarrh is a disease difficult to relieve.

A great many of the doctors fail to relieve it.

Gratitude Results.

A few bottles of Peruna cure a chronic malady of many years standing and it is almost impossible to repress the natural feelings of gratitude which spring up.

Catarrh of Head and Throat.

Mr. Joseph Reiss, 3424 N. 14th street, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat, but through the use of five bottles of Peruna and two bottles of Manalin I was cured.

"I think that Peruna is the best tonic that I have ever used and I would advise all catarrhal sufferers to use Peruna."

Catarrhal Fever.

Mrs. W. K. Good, Broadway, Va., writes:

"When I was fifteen years old I had catarrhal fever and for nine years I have had catarrh of the head.

"Through neglect it went to my throat and nose. After consulting you I used Peruna for four months as directed, and I am entirely well and have my natural health.

"I cannot praise Peruna too highly. It will do all that it is recommended to do."

Pe-ru-na Relieves Catarrh.

Mr. L. Clifford Figg, Jr., 2929 E. Marshall St., Richmond Va., writes:

"As soon as I get a cold I send for a bottle of Peruna, and it soon drives it out of my system.

Despaired of Being Cured.

"For several years I was not entirely well, and despaired of ever being cured, as I had used numerous remedies that my friends advised. I doctored for two years without any improvement.

A Last Resort.

"As a last resort I tried Peruna, and am pleased to say that in a short time I was completely cured.

"I have not been troubled for over a year. I am pleased to endorse Peruna as it saved me a world of suffering."

NORWOOD

Special to the Review.

Norwood, June 20.—A shocking fatality occurred about eight miles north of here on Thursday evening as the result of which Mr. Arb Coleby, 9th Line Dummer, lost his life. Mr. Coleby had been engaged in drawing lumber from Mr. Frank Parker's mill in Belmont to Hastings, and had made his usual trip to Hastings and was seen by many on his return while in Norwood. Little did those who saw him on that occasion think that ere the sun went down he would be the victim of the terrible accident which resulted—his untimely death.

Mr. Coleby had gone into the mill and loaded his waggon and was returning over [illegible] hill opposite Mr. J. [illegible] house, when the neck-yoke broke and the consequences can be more easily imagined than described. The loaded waggon plunged wildly down the hill, the pole caught in the rough ground, and the waggon and load of lumber was overturned, and Mr. Coleby, unable to save himself, was pinioned beneath the load, when his life was crushed out before aid could arrive.

Deceased was a life-long resident of Norwood and locality. For several years he was employed in the factory of Messrs. J. Finlay & Son here. For the past seven or eight years he has been on a farm in Dummer. His farm going rough, a good portion of his time was employed in hauling wood and lumber to Norwood and Hastings.

Mr. Coleby leaves a widow, who is a sister to Mrs. Isaac Puffer, of Norwood. A large family of children also survive him. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mrs. Coleby in her sad bereavement.

Miss M. E. Archer, who has been engaged on the High School staff here for the past two years, and who resigned her position recently, was the recipient of a very handsome present by the High School pupils on Friday of this week at the school. The gift, which consisted of a very handsome set of cut glass, was highly appreciated by Miss Archer, which appreciation she expressed to her pupils after the presentation and address.

Miss Bell, who is also leaving, was presented with a very pretty bedroom clock, which mark of esteem she prizes highly, particularly as she has only been on the High School staff since January, 1908.

During a severe thunder storm that passed over here on Friday night, considerable damage was done in the surrounding country. Several trees were blown over by the high wind, and it is reported that one barn in Otonabee and one in Asphodel, near Hastings, were struck by lightning. But at the present we are unable to verify the report. The barn in Asphodel is said to be one of Mr. Thomas McKee's, about two miles west of Hastings.

The strawberry harvest is in full swing at present. On account of the dry weather the crop is not going to be as plentiful as expected, but at present they are selling at one dollar a dozen boxes.

Two garden parties were advertised for Friday evening last, but the much welcomed shower of rain put a damper on the outdoor amusements. However, those who attended had an enjoyable time, although for the most part confined indoors. During the evening the band discoursed music at the one held at Mrs. George Grover's residence. The other gathering was at Wildman's school.

The Presbyterian Sunday school are to hold their annual picnic at Peterborough next Saturday, June 27. The Methodists will go to Bobcaygeon on July 1st.

Mrs. Norman Pickard (nee Edna Waters) and children, of Port Arthur, are visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Darcy, who has been visiting friends in town, has returned to her home in Picton.

Miss Lees, of Peterborough, is visiting Miss Edith Waters, Queen street.

Mrs. C. J. Sharight is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Jesty Thomson, of Campbellford.

Mrs. D. King left on Tuesday morning for the west.

G.T.R. ENGINEER RETURNS TO WORK

Mr. Lockie McIntosh Has Recovered from Serious Illness.

Mr. Lockie McIntosh, engineer on the Grand Trunk, who has been seriously ill for some weeks has sufficiently recovered as to be able to take his place on the Toronto flyer. He was in the city this morning and was warmly welcomed by his numerous friends here. He only takes one trip each day as he is not strong enough yet.

ARE FIGHTING AT TEHERAN SHAH ASKED TO INTERCEDE

British and Russian Ambassadors Serve Notice—Details of Conflict—Corpses Cover Main Square—Casualties Heavy—Palace Pillaged by Soldiers.

Berlin, June 25.—The Tageblatt publishes a despatch from Teheran, under yesterday's date, saying that the firing of small arms and artillery was still going on.

The buildings of Parliament were quite demolished by the bombardment of Tuesday, which lasted from six in the morning until two in the afternoon. Corpses of men and bodies of horses cover the main square of Teheran in large numbers. It is still impossible to give the exact number of casualties, but the Cossacks alone lost 70 men killed.

The palace of Prince Zill-Es-Sultan, an uncle of the Shah, and the buildings adjacent to it, have been pillaged by the soldiers.

According to the news from the provinces Zill-Es-Sultan, who is friendly to Great Britain, has taken up the leadership of the movement in the south.

The night passed quietly, but the outbreak of firing yesterday morning leads to the belief that there may be further collisions. The Government has declared a state of siege. The bazaars throughout the country have been closed.

Sayyid Abdullah, the President of Parliament, Sayyid Muhammed and many popular leaders and members of the Anjumans, as well as several newspaper editors, were arrested, and thirty of them placed in chains Tuesday night. Takizadeh, leader of the Opposition and editor of Habdul Matin, together with nine other editors, took refuge in the British Legation.

The British and Russian representatives at Teheran have requested the Shah to take immediate steps to restore order, stating that their Governments would hold him responsible for any unfortunate incident that might occur. The Shah has given full assurances that everything possible will be done to prevent further disturbances.

Paris, June 25.—Special despatches received here from Teheran say that the fighting began about 8 a.m. and was provoked by a bomb thrown from the roof of one of the buildings among the Cossacks. The fighting continued until late in the afternoon, many being killed on both sides.

When all was over, it was found that the casualties on both sides were very large. Apparently blank shells were fired at the beginning, as the damage to the buildings was very slight for a considerable time. A man who fought on the roof of the Parliament buildings says that he and the others fired steadily into the troops until the ammunition failed and the rifles were too hot to hold.

Eventually a shell crashed through the door of the Parliament buildings, and the Cossacks charged the occupants of the building, fleeing to the ground behind the House. The soldiers had no sooner entered the place than they began to loot it, next turning their attention to the neighboring shops and the palace of Prince Zill-Es-Sultan. Hundreds of people it was stated, who a few days ago assembled before the Parliament and demonstrated against the Shah now proceeded to the work of demolishing the building with cries of "Long live the Shah," "We don't want a constitution."

SHARP DEBATE IN FRENCH SENATE

Cabinet Likely to Resign if Government Measure Fails.

Paris, June 25.—The final debate in the Senate on the bill to take over and nationalize the Western Railroad has begun and already has brought out considerable bitterness. The bill had previously passed the chamber. M. Rouvier opposed it in the Senate in a powerful speech.

The Clemenceau Government apparently is staking its existence upon the passage of the measure. If it is beaten it probably will resign. The Western Railroad System covers about thirty-one hundred miles. The Orleans Railroad has submitted a proposal to the Government involving the surrender of 621 miles of its road, with its extensive Paris terminals.

This proposal, which has not yet been accepted, involves the renunciation of the company's reserve dividend, amounting to $1,000,000.

Panic on a Steamer.

Paris, June 25.—A special despatch received here from Corunna, Spain, says that the Spanish steamer Larache went on the rocks in a fog near Muros, where the cruiser Cardinal Cisneros was wrecked in 1905. The Larache sunk rapidly, and a panic followed. There were 97 passengers and 54 of a crew, including stewards, waiters, etc., aboard. These took to the boats, but up to the filing of the last despatch only 47 had landed. Defective communications made it impossible to obtain complete details, but latest reports state that 17 women were drowned. It is known that 17 survivors were landed at Muros, but that two of them have since died. Fifteen others were landed at Lon.

ENGINEER SAW DEAD MAN'S HEAD

Engineer on Cobalt Express Had Startling Experience.

Cobalt, June 25.—Engineer Morgan on the Cobalt express was startled yesterday morning while looking out of his cab window at a point on the line midway between Temagami and Latchford, by observing the glassy eyes of a dead face looking up at him from the side of the tracks.

On backing down, the terribly mangled body of a young man about 30 years of age, of splendid physique, was found lying in the ditch. The head had been carried about 50 yards from the body, having been cut off as with an axe, showing hardly a bruise, and with its shock of curly black hair presenting a peculiarly gruesome appearance.

No one on the train could identify the face, and it is surmised that the man had been attached to Cole's circus, which had crossed the special about half an hour previous. Coroner Field of Haileybury was notified by wire, as were the circus authorities at North Bay.

Struck by Lightning.

Islington, June 25.—During the storm on Tuesday the barns of Joseph Paterson, on the 5th line two miles north of here, were struck by a bolt and destroyed by fire. A large quantity of hay, oats and farm implements were destroyed.

The hired man and an implement agent were in the barn setting up a new mower and had a narrow escape.

Fair Building Destroyed.

Brantford, June 25.—Lightning struck the main building at the Indian Reservation fair grounds at Ohsweken Tuesday. A fire resulted and despite the efforts of the Indians the structure was destroyed.

TWO ARE KILLED AT HAMILTON

Live Wires Responsible for Two Deaths.

Hamilton, June 25.—Albert E. Scotney, 115 Florence street, and George Bambrick, 167 Canada street, carpenters, were electrocuted at the works of the B. Greening Wire Co. on Queen street yesterday.

The circumstances surrounding the accident are horrible. The bodies of both men were terribly burned. The men were employed by the firm to build a shed in rear of the Queen street mill. A guy wire was in their way and they cut it down. While both had hold of the wire it came in contact with the wire that carried the current of electricity that operates the plant and the full current of two thousand volts shot through their bodies. They were hurled into a pool of water, but were not released from the wire, and flames in long streamers played around the bodies until both were horribly burned. By means of a plank the guy was separated from the live wire, but both were long past help.

TO PROTECT FISH TALK IN SENATE

Upper Chamber Discusses International Closed Season.

Ottawa, June 25.—In the Upper Chamber, Senator Casgrain suggested a Parliamentary committee to obtain information regarding the inland fisheries. Hon. R. W. Scott stated that the international committee was preparing a report for the conservation of fish in international waters. The Minister of Marine was considering the appointment of a commission to report upon inland fisheries. Senator G. W. Ross thought the difficulty with the inland fisheries was the fact that for a long time the jurisdiction was a divided one.

When Ontario made a closed season fishermen on the other side of the river were allowed to catch fish in spawning season.

Ontario had to negotiate with individual states and had not been able to get New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, to agree upon a close season. The British ambassador at Washington seemed to have had more success, for the terms of a fishery treaty he understood would make a closed season for both American and Canadian sides. The division of authority between the provincial and Dominion Governments was another cause of trouble. When the waters were navigable the provinces owned the fish, but the Dominion fixed the closed season. He was of the opinion that the complete jurisdiction should be given to the provinces of the Dominion. More attention should be given to the restocking of lakes which were fished out.

Public Ownership in Senate.

Ottawa, June 25.—On the second reading in the Senate of a bill to aid the construction of drydocks Sir Mackenzie Bowell expressed the view that the Government construction of drydocks would be better policy than a bonus system.

Passenger Shoots Himself.

Kenora, June 25.—Passengers on C.P.R. train No. 96 when approaching Ostersund were startled by a man suddenly leaping up excitedly and proceeding to the lavatory. Soon afterwards firearms reports were heard and bursting the door open they found that he had shot himself in the head and was breathing his last. His name is John McConnell, and he was the first class passenger to Hampshire.

P. C. NEWHALL TELLS OF ROUNDING UP ALLEGED PICKPOCKETS

Police Officer Gives Graphic and Detailed Account of the Movements of the Accused Quartette on Circus Day

NEARLY $600.00 FOUND ON THEM

Pleaded not Guilty to Two Charges of Picking Pockets—Evidence Was Interesting—Were Remanded Till Saturday Afternoon at Two O'clock.

The alleged pickpockets J. Adams, James Graney, George Williams and Henry Hamilton were arraigned before His Worship Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, charged with stealing two dollars from James Groves and twenty dollars from E McTaggart.

Mr G N. Gordon appeared for the four, pleaded not guilty and did not elect how they should be tried.

Crown Attorney R E. Wood prosecuted.

The preliminary hearing was proceeded with. Mr. Gordon asked that all witnesses, including P C Newhall, be excluded.

Mr. Wood objected to this saying that he could not get along without the constable. After considerable discussion on this point, P C Newhall was called first, but his examination was left over until Saturday at 2 o'clock when the preliminary hearing will be concluded. Mr. E McTaggart of Brockville was the only other witness heard this morning.

P C NEWHALL

P. C. Newhall was the first witness He said that he was on duty the 17th day of June. He told his story as follows;

"About 11 o'clock that morning I noticed the prisoner Williams, in the vicinity of the CPR station. I watched him for a couple of minutes. I met the 11.16 train in the CPR. I then came to the police station, talked to the chief and then went to the GTR. station. I again noticed Williams. When the train came in from Lindsay there was a large crowd, there being two wedding parties. I noticed the other three prisoners on the platform of the rear of the second coach. A large number were trying to board the train. Adams the prisoner came down the steps first. Mr. E McTaggart was trying to board the second coach. Adams got behind him on his left hand side, Hamilton got in front of Mr. McTaggart and Graney stood on the gentleman's right. Adams' right hand went into Mr McTaggart's left hand pants' pocket, pulled out what appeared to be a pocketbook. Hamilton and Graney pushed him, knocking him down. The three quickly got out of the crowd, all going in different directions till they reached Charlotte street. Williams remained on the platform. When the three reached the freight sheds, Graney remained on the sidewalk and Hamilton and Adams got right close up to the freight shed. Adams passed several bank bills to Hamilton. Hamilton put them in his trouser's pocket. Williams and Graney approached Hamilton and Adams said something, and they appeared to take great stock of me from that moment. I had previously drawn the attention of Alex and James Reid to the prisoners. When I saw they noticed me I returned to Mr Alex Reid, He had a trunk and a valise taking them to his express wagon, Adams and Graney were close behind me. I said "Where does that train go to," He said 'Port Hope." I said "Take that trunk and valise up to Smith street for me." He took them and I paid him a quarter. Adams and Graney seemed satisfied and went away. Then the four came back. They were pushing and jostling about the passengers. Finally they all left pretty quickly, walking a few yards apart from each other. They went east, along Charlotte street to the Snowden House, went in there for a few moments, came out and went to the Greek restaurant, travelling about ten yards apart. Williams wasn't with the other three There was a crowd on the corner of Charlotte and George streets. Hamilton got behind a man fumbling at his hip pockets. Graney and Adams were jostling against the same man. They crossed the street to another crowd, tried the same business there. They then went to the White House and remained. As I was coming away from the White House I noticed Williams on the opposite side of the street. I came to the police station found the chief had gone to dinner. I went to the Crown hotel and found him there. I told him what happened and asked for another man.

ON THE STREET CARS

I then went home. I boarded a car at Hunter street and at Charlotte St. Adams, Hamilton and Graney got on it. The car was crowded and they were pretty quiet until they reached the CPR station when they commenced jostling and pushing the people. Hamilton appeared to be trying one man's hip pocket, and Graney and Adams were shoving. The conductor came along. They stood outside one on the west and two on the east side of the vestibule. When they arrived at the grounds, Williams was standing there. The other three jumped off before the car stopped. All four went along Lansdowne street and into the grounds. I watched them for a few minutes, then went home.

AT THE CIRCUS

In fifteen minutes, dressed in old clothes, I returned and met P. C. Meharry. We watched the cars for a while, then went into the grounds. Opposite the big tent there were some booths, a small crowd being in front of each one. Graney was walking up and down, Williams was at big tent, and Adams was in the crowd. I didn't see Hamilton. I watched them and Detective Robinson of the GTR was close by Graney. I heard Robinson call a man to keep watch on Graney. From that moment they cleared right away. I lost sight of them all. Robinson came up and spoke to Meharry. On the west side of the big tent I saw Williams, Adams and Graney come from under the big tent. They laid down on the grass. Adams took off his coat. I kept watch on them for a few minutes.

THREE ARRESTED

Meharry came along and we arrested the three and said that we were arresting them for picking pockets. Adams and Williams tried to get away. Finally we got them hand cuffed and brought them to the police station.

On the way upon the car I said to Adams, "Which way did you come to town."

He replied on "the CPR."

"What time did you get here," I asked.

'About noon," was the reply.

Graney said that he had also come here on the CPR and Williams said that he beat his way here on the circus train. At the police station, they denied knowing each other until a few minutes before their arrest.

PRISONERS SEARCHED

When we searched Adams I found $83.86, six ten dollar bills on the United Empire Bank, two on the Montreal Bank. In his right hand coat pocket one two dollar bill and one, one dollar bill and 86 cents. There were several Montreal street railway tickets and a light tweed cap.

"Have you any more money," I asked.

"Not a cent, you have got it all" he answered.

Shortly after midnight I brought him out again and searched him. In a seam in his pocket I found two one hundred dollar bills.

'I guess you have got my plant," he said.

"Is that all," I asked.

He answered "yes."

But in another seam I found another one hundred dollar bill.

"Now you have got the lot he said.

On Williams was found $1.12, several Montreal street car tickets and a GTR ticket from Toronto to Montreal.

On Graney there was $6.45, a five dollar bill, on the Traders' bank, one dollar bill and 45 cents in silver. Also a GTR ticket, and a memo book showing the name of H Goldfarb, one of the pickpockets that we had here last summer. He said that was all the money he had. Later on, we searched him. Underneath the lining in his pants was a hundred dollar bill, and down in the seam of his left hand pocket I found a diamond.

On Hamilton there was $20.20, one ten, on the Dominion Bank, one five on the Bank of Commerce, one two and twenty cents in silver, five new silk handkerchiefs, At midnight I brought him out again. He said "I haven't any more." In the seam of one of his pockets I found a fifty dollar bill.

HAMILTON ARRESTED

After arresting the three I returned to the circus grounds and after being there a little while, I noticed Hamilton standing in the crowd, opposite one of the booths. He had his hand under the tails of a man's coat Meharry came along and Hamilton wheeled round, walking right towards us.

He said you have made a terrible mistake. I am a telegraph operator on the Erie railroad. I am troubled with consumption and came to Rochester by way of Port Hope. At the car he got in a terrible passion.

"This is terrible to arrest me. I never picked a pocket in my life," he said.

When in the police station I asked him "Where did you sleep last night."

"At Burketon Jct" he said.

IN THE CELLS

Hamilton and Williams were in the middle cell while Graney was in the south one and Adams was in the north one.

Adams yelled, "Are you there Arthur.

A voice from the middle cell said "yes."

This is what Adams said, "It came out just as Old Bill told us. We would have best kept away. He found my plant. Somebody has put us away."

MR. McTAGGART

Mr. E McTaggart, of Brockville, was in the city on the 17th. He purchased a ticket here for Port Hope. When the train arrived, he proceeded to get on it, going to the rear end of the second last car. He said that he was carrying a heavy suit case. He was shoved by some man. He had his money in a purse in his left hand trouser's pocket. He said that he thought that he saw Hamilton at the station. He first missed his pocketbook when he went to pay his bill at the hotel. In his purse were two Bank of Hamilton ten dollar bills. Two ten dollar Montreal bills were produced. He said that his were folded small so as to get them in the purse and the ones in court had evidently been folded pretty small.

THE CAREER OF GROVER CLEVELAND, EX-PRESIDENT

Was Last of United States Ex-Presidents—End Came After Long Period of Illness—Man Who Sent Bellicose Message to Britain.

Princeton, N.J., June 25.—Grover Cleveland, former President of the United States, died suddenly at his home at Westland here at 8.40 o'clock yesterday.

The death was not immediately announced, but was delayed until an official statement had been prepared by the physicians who had been attending him in the various periods of his illness.

While Mr. Cleveland had been seriously ill from time to time, the announcement of his death came like a thunderbolt to those who had been watching his illness.

Tuesday night there was a slight flurry among the friends of the Clevelands that something was seriously wrong, occasioned by a visit of Dr. Bryant of New York, Mr. Cleveland's physician for many years. Mrs. Cleveland later in the evening, discussing Dr. Bryant's visit, said that there was no occasion for alarm, and that Mr. Cleveland was getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland celebrated their 22nd anniversary of their wedding on June 2.

The funeral, on Friday, will be private.

Cleveland started life as a clerk preparing a hard book, during which he studied law. He worked hard and successfully and in 1870 was elected sheriff of Erie County. In 1871 Buffalo elected him mayor on the Democratic ticket after a crusade against corruption. He did so well that he was returned in 1882 as governor for New York State. Two years later he was nominated for the Presidency, and a campaign of disgraceful personalities on both sides resulted in the defeat of his rival, J. G. Blaine. In 1888 he was defeated for re-election, but four years later he was again returned.

His famous message to Britain on the Venezuelan question was considered very bumptious and nearly provoked war, but arbitration followed. For some years after his retirement he delivered lectures at Princeton, and in 1904 he was suggested as Democratic candidate for the Presidency, but emphatically declined.

Mr. Cleveland was 71 years old on March 18 last. During the past winter Mr. Cleveland kept close to his home in Princeton until the approach of his birthday, when he went to Lakewood with his family. He was a trustee of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of this city and up to the time of his going to Lakewood had attended to correspondence in connection with his duties for that society.

FOWLER AND PUGSLEY HAVE A TIFF IN THE COMMONS

Happened During Discussion as to New Brunswick's Quota of Wharves—Discrimination is Charged—Aylesworth Election Bill.

Ottawa, June 25.—In supply yesterday, all rates for public works in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were passed before the House adjourned at 6 p.m.

On the question of wharves on the St. John river, Mr. Fowler made a lively attack on the Minister of Public Works, which was the only feature of a dull afternoon.

An item for $4,000 for dredging a channel into Porter's Lake, a harbor of refuge in Nova Scotia, gave Sam Hughes the opportunity to tell the Minister that money was being thrown away.

Mr. Clements (Kent) declared that many wharves on the Thames river had to be constantly patched, the workmanship being of an inferior character.

Mr. Fowler averred that the Government discriminated against New Brunswick in the matter of wharves building. In some places the Government built wharves on inland streams, but for wharves on the St. John river the province was compelled to pay half the cost. This was harsh treatment, and for years he had protested against it without effect. Now that there was a Minister of Public Works from New Brunswick Mr. Fowler hoped he would treat the province fairly.

Dr. Black (Hants) said that the St. John river could not be navigated from the ocean.

"The Minister knows," said Mr. Fowler, "that if I should characterize the statement in fitting language I would be called to order."

"Absolutely without foundation," asserted Mr. Pugsley.

Later on Mr. Pugsley declared that he favored the construction of wharves on the St. John river, and its tributaries. Some years ago he was one of a deputation that waited on Mr. Foster, who took the ground that it was no part of the duty of the Government to construct these wharves. Mr. Foster had consented to pay one-half the cost in a few instances. Mr. Blair continued that policy, and during the past two years the Federal Government had constructed two or three wharves on the St. John river at its own expense. He hoped to be able to place in the supplementary estimates an amount to give much needed accommodations on that river.

Mr. Fowler hoped that, since the Minister had admitted that the St. John river was entitled to wharves, he would recognize that there was only one thing to do, namely, to repay to New Brunswick the money taken from that province unjustly.

Mr. Pugsley would not say as to that, as it was a difficult matter to draw the line between Federal and provincial matters. The Federal Government, even if it did its full duty, could not hope to construct all the wharves required. He would consider any claim for a refund, but the provincial authorities had not yet put one in.

It is expected that the Aylesworth election bill will be again taken up on Monday next.

An agreement has been reached with regard to Manitoba and British Columbia and the unorganized portion of Quebec, but the northern Ontario feature will be contested in committee as well as clause seventeen, regarding the secrecy of the ballot.

AN INJUNCTION AGAINST I.O.F.

Rochester Member Appeals to Courts to Prevent Rate Increase.

Toronto, June 25.—Dr. Thomas McKinnon, supreme physician of the I.O.F., was temporarily appointed supreme treasurer yesterday. A full meeting of the executive council is necessary to ratify or other wise deal with this action, and the council will meet for this purpose next month.

A notice of motion to combine the office of secretary and treasurer will come before the next meeting of the supreme court, and in view of the possible adoption of this plan the executive may confirm the present temporary appointment.

A despatch from Rochester, N.Y., states that a temporary injunction was granted there yesterday by Justice G. A. Benton restraining the supreme court, I.O.F., from increasing its present insurance rates pending the action brought on that point by Henry J. Simmelink.

The orders of United States courts, it may surprise Justice Benton to hear, do not run in Canada, and the injunction is quite ultra vires.

FIELDING SAYS NO BANK AUDIT

The Bounties on Lead and Other Matters at Ottawa.

Ottawa, June 25.—The Minister of Finance said yesterday that the question of Government audit was important and deserving of consideration in connection with the regular revision of the Bank Act, but there would be nothing this session.

Explaining the lead bounty resolution, he said that five years ago the Government had decided to give $500,000 a year for five years in lead bounties, a total of $2,500,000. This had been a help, but not as great as was expected. By June 30, the end of the five year period, the total paid out would be about $750,000. It was now proposed to extend the period for another five years, without going beyond the original $2,500,000.

In committee the measure was amended so as to limit the bounty payments in any one year to $500,000.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that after yesterday there be no six o'clock adjournments on Wednesdays, and George Taylor proposed that the House adjourn every day by midnight.

"Where reasonable progress has been made during the day," replied Sir Wilfrid, pointedly. "That would not be objectionable."

The bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors went through with R. Blain absent.

Crops Are Benefited.

Chatham, June 25.—The heavy rains which have been experienced in this locality during the past few weeks have proven a great benefit to the crops. Haying has commenced and it is a fine crop. The strawberry crop has been very light on account of the early dry weather. The oat and barley crops are at present much in need of rain.

Former Premier Dead.

St. John's, Nfld., June 25.—Sir William Whiteway, former Premier of Newfoundland, died here yesterday. He was 81 years of age.

Sir William Whiteway was born April 1, 1828 in Devon, was called to Newfoundland bar in 1852, Speaker of House of Assembly 1865-69; Premier in 1878-85 and 1889 to 1897.

HE ATTACKED HIS COMRADE

Alberta Man Tries to Murder and Rob His Companion.

Edmonton, June 25.—Tuesday a man named Hermenegile Joli was brought to the General Hospital in charge of Dr. Carlie Bois of Brosseau, suffering from gun shot wounds in the back of the neck and shoulder. Joli comes from St. Paul de Metis, 25 miles north of Vegreville. It appears he went shooting Thursday with a man named Berthal, just out from France. As he was going towards Little Lake his companion fired upon him. The shot took effect in the neck. He first thought it was an accident, but when he called to his companion he came up to him, fired a second shot, took all his money, amounting to $50.75, and left him to die.

It was not till evening that he was able to return to his homestead. Two days later he was found there by a neighbor. Constable Hayler of the R.N.W.M.P. at Saddle Lake is in search of the man who is accused of the shooting.

Zeppelin is Satisfied.

Friedrichshafen, June 25.—A second ascent was made Monday evening by Count Zeppelin in his new airship with a view to testing an improved side steering gear, which now has been altered and the change has given excellent results. The test Tuesday night lasted a little over two hours. The great airship first circled around the town seven times. It then departed at full speed towards Langenargen, where it crossed to the Swiss side of Lake Constance against a light breeze. Proceeding back across the lake to Lindau, the count undertook at an height of from 300 to 600 feet above the surface of the water a series of manoeuvres, including sinking and rising, turning and stopping.

FIRE LOSS IS UNDERESTIMATED

Three Rivers Fire Will be Expensive to Companies.

Three Rivers, Que., June 25.—The insurance companies stand to lose far more by the Three Rivers' fire than was at first estimated. Indeed some of the smaller concerns may have some difficulty in meeting their obligations. The actual insured loss amounts to $1,066,750.

The mayor declares that, aside from a Government loan of one and a half millions, now being arranged for, they want no outside aid, and that within two years' time they will have built for themselves a new city, with broader streets, and far more handsome in every respect than the old one.

Heavy showers made yesterday very much complicated the difficulties of the sufferers, and those under canvas were severely inconvenienced by the wet weather.

Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Grey visited Three Rivers yesterday afternoon, and were met by huge crowds at the waterfront. Premier Gouin is also in town, and says the province will help as much as it can. The R. & O. Navigation Co.'s steamer Three Rivers is moored at the wharf, and is feeding the people at $3 per day.

A Heavy Sentence.

PURE WATER.

The state of affairs disclosed by Mr Dumble, K.C., in his letter to the Review of yesterday and in his verbal account of the condition of the sewer in lower town is not conducive to good health or good anything else. According to Mr. Dumble when the lower main sewer proved too small at flood time, it was tapped into the creek, which now receives sewage when there is an overflow. This involves the direct pollution of Little Lake. It is high time that the health conditions of the city were overhauled if this is the way the sewer system of this city has been fitted to its requirements. It is true the health of the city seems to be good at present. If it is due to the present condition of the sewer it might be well to keep it so. It certainly does not appear, however, to be a very businesslike way of carrying out so serious an undertaking and one that means so much for good or ill to the citizens. Some day we shall have to have a different plan for furnishing the city with water. The present supply may comply with the conditions of the act, but it is not pleasant to the taste or refreshing. Compared with Lake Ontario water it looks and tastes like soup, yet soup is healthful. We shall await Mr. Dumble's further correspondence with interest.

THE HODGINS CHARGES.

Major Hodgins has not withdrawn his charges of over-classification and over-payment on the Transcontinental. He has simply declined to go further with the investigation before the committee. The Government majority on the committee has tired him out. He found himself likely to be kept all summer without having a chance to bring a witness from the works, while so far as he knew, he was paying his own lawyer and losing his own time.

But more important than the Hodgins charges are the Woods charges.

The following are among the statements made by Asst. Chief Engineer Woods of the Grand Trunk Pacific to Chief Engineer Lumsden of Transcontinental. They were written in October of last year about the time Major Hodgins was dismissed. He refers here to section "B" in Quebec, which he had personally examined for some thirty years:

"In nearly every case where the cuttings were not entirely all ledge the estimate given for solid rock is double or more than double what it should be."

One cutting estimated 71 per cent solid rock and 29 per cent. loose rock, should have a large percentage of earth.

One station classified 94 per cent. solid and 6 per cent. loose rock; solid rock over-classified at least 100 per cent.

One cut classified 78 per cent. solid rock and 22 per cent loose rock, contains hundreds of yards of earth without a stone.

One cut classified 40 per cent. solid and 10 per cent loose rock; of the 95,000 yards moved at least 80,000 was pure sand.

Cut estimated 60 per cent. solid and loose rock. It is purely a sand cut and not more than 10 per cent should be classified as rock.

There are great numbers of similar statements, relating to this and other sections, and protests were made down to the time the Hodgins committee was sitting. These statements are not from politicians or "disappointed engineers," but from the responsible chief of the Grand Trunk Pacific engineering staff. They remain unanswered and un-investigated. Yet the majority of the committee decides that there is nothing to investigate.

The Lindsay Free Press is collecting data on the race-suicide question.

Tommy (aged 10)—Dad, what is the bone of contention?

Mr. Henpeck—The jawbone.—Illustrated Bits.

The wishbone is the bone of contention when it comes to a sealskin sacque.

The deputy minister of Marine complains that Commissioner Fyshe used bad language when he was investigating the department. The people of Canada will feel like doing the same thing when they read the reports of the investigation. — Ottawa Citizen.

First aid to the apparently drowned is best given in a very simple way. Place the patient on his face, head and body inclining slightly downwards. Then press the small of the back as you would squeeze a bulb for from 12 to 13 times per minute. This expels the water, induces breathing and is easy to remember.

In "Britain "tariff reform" means protection, and Britain is the only nation in the world that has had the courage to follow her philosophy. —The Weekly Globe.

Not long ago the Liberal press said that tariff reform was not protection.

"Are you married yet?"

"No, but I have options on several."

The last statement of the Canadian chartered banks shows an increase of over $6,000,000 in the total deposits of the Canadian public. Such an increase is usual at this time of the year and it should not be over-estimated as indicating business recession. Commercial loans in Canada decreased $5,700,000 during the month, which may be taken as due to general business conditions—Trade Journal.

The Chicago convention has vindicated our ante-convention assertions in a manner that is to say the least, flattering. Henceforth, from this morning on, this col. is unequivocally and irrevocably for William Howard Taft of Cincinnati and Yale, first, last and all the time. With the following platform—

1. A square meal for everybody.
2. No Canadian nickles.
3. No flat wheels on main street.
4. Shortcake on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays.
5. Two cherries in every cocktail.
6. An increased navy and a diminished ash gang.
7. No alarm clocks.

This reads like the 1893 Liberal platform—as it is now.

THE GLOBE PROTESTS AGAINST THE BRITISH CATTLE EMBARGO

No Longer Shuts Its Eyes to Facts—the Protective Spirit in Britain—Strategy not Supply and Demand Rules the Business World.

A news despatch from London brings the surprising information that there is no strong desire in Canada for the removal of the British embargo on Canadian cattle. This should not be published without an emphatic contradiction, for it might be used against those who are working hard in Britain to remove this element of protection. Canadian cattle-raisers have done everything in their power to secure the free entry of stockers in Britain. The present law requires slaughter within a few days after landing, and that lessens the returns of Canadian cattle-raisers while increasing the cost of beef to British consumers. At considerable expense the Canadian authorities have proven the entire absence of pleuro-pneumonia from the Canadian herds. Every suspected case has been thoroughly investigated to the end that no ground should remain for suspecting the existence of this disease. It was on the ground of such suspicion that the British cattle-raisers secured the exclusion of Canadian cattle for fattening in Britain. To them it is a measure of protection and increases their prices and profits. The protective nature of the measure has been freely admitted by the former Government, and on that account Canadians have concluded that it would not improve their prospects to exclude American cattle.

To show the absence of disease in our herds and the impossibility of its introduction from abroad would not move a protected interest to let go its advantages. But there is hope in the greater liberalism of the present Government. There is now more active consideration of the interests of consumers. There is a desire for conditions of abundance, not of scarcity. The liberty of all classes and the rights of all engaged in useful enterprises have greater consideration. The men who desire to import and fatten Canadian cattle are also more active, inspired by the hopeful situation. While no one here would expect the British people to assume the slightest risk of the introduction of a contagious disease in their herds, there is a feeling that in view of the advances and overtures made in the preferential tariff one of our leading lines of export should not be subjected to an unwarranted discrimination.—The Weekly Globe.

IN A BREATH THERE'S REST

Breathe Hyomei and be Cured of Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma

Nature has a remedy for catarrh, epidemic colds and bronchitis that is far better than dosing the stomach with medicine and drugs.

It is the healing oils and balsams of Hyomei which medicate the air you breathe, reaching the most remote air cells in the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs and restoring health to the mucous membrane.

Hyomei acts like a curative internal air bath and has the same healing and antiseptic effect as the air where pine and Eucalyptic forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams.

Breathe healing Hyomei and see how quickly you will get relief from catarrh and head colds. If it does not help you there will not be a penny's expense, as W. Madill, druggist, corner Hunter and George Sts., agrees to refund the money. The complete Hyomei outfit costs only $1.00.

Big "Soo" Industry Resumes After Two Months' Idleness.

Sault Ste. Marie, June 24—The depression which has been all too apparent in the Canadian "Soo" is drawing to a close as it was announced yesterday officially that the Bessemer open hearth blooming and rail mills of the Lake Superior Corporation would re-open on Monday next, with a full staff of men.

Since the shut down months ago of the mill business has been slack many travelling men not calling at the "Soo" on their regular trips through the north.

Since the shut down the mill has undergone a thorough cleaning up and is in the best possible shape for the resumption of work.

Drooping—Tired—Weary

You Feel Depressed, Dragged Out, and Sort of "All Gone"—Shake Off That Tired Feeling, Get Well and Strong, Fortify Your Nerves, Nourish Your Blood.

FERROZONE

You are getting pale and thin. You're dragged down with a "don't care" feeling that makes life most unhappy. Your strength is fleeting away, and weakness is creeping in. Every day your chances for cure becomes smaller.

Trouble is you don't assimilate your food, consequently the body is poorly nourished. The blood is thin, lacks those red corpuscles that denote health.

You can only prevent a total collapse by building up all the powers of the body with Ferrozone, which will surely make you well. Ferrozone creates tremendous appetite, increases the power of digestion, and insures perfect assimilation. Everything you eat is at once converted into nourishment.

FERROZONE makes rich, pure blood, a surplus of energy, new life for the nerves and all over-strained organs. Robust health will glow on the cheeks, jovial spirits, increased weight, and a clear, active brain will evidence a few of the benefits that follow Ferrozone.

GAINED 15 POUNDS.

Mr. H. A. Thurston, of 223 Vermont St. E., Indianapolis, Restored by Ferrozone.

"A year ago I took the grippe. I was as weak as a child. I was no longer able to eat. My blood was thin. My cheeks were white and hollow. Doctors gave me all kinds of medicine, but none of them brought me strength. My friends said I was wasting away with some slow disease, and I bade them good-bye. Then I heard of the wonderful Ferrozone. After three days it gave me an appetite. I gained strength and became cheerful. Under Ferrozone I improved steadily. I am well to-day. I weigh fifteen pounds heavier than ever before, and feel like a new man.

(Signed) "H. A. THURSTON."

The effect of Ferrozone is instant, yet permanent. For upbuilding and invigorating the listless and depressed it has no equal. It's the concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone that makes it so beneficial. We guarantee it contains no opiates, no alcohol, nothing but the most strengthening qualities known in medicine. Won't you use Ferrozone; it will surely make you well.

BUILD UP WITH FERROZONE!

Ferrozone Makes the Weak Strong—the Sick Well.

CAUTION! Be on your guard against the substitutor who urges something "just as good." Get FERROZONE when you ask for it. Other tonics are not so good as FERROZONE, which is guaranteed to cure. Price 50c per box of 50 chocolate coated tablets. Sold by all reliable dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ontario.

WARSHIP WITHOUT GUNS.

What the Future of Battleships Will Be—Tests Awaited.

Naval designers who are looking into the future are having visions of a battleship which shall be larger than anything of the class afloat; of greater speed than existing vessels, and capable of waging battle at a distance of four miles; and this without the turreted, breech-loading rifles with their complicated mechanism of training and loading. This is as yet only a dream; but it is based on that development in the facilities of attack and the mechanism of destruction which, with the means of defence and protection, have furnished a species of warfare in themselves.

Hitherto the rivalry has been largely between the gun and the armor. On one side has been the aim to increase the power of the monster rifle so that it will hurl its huge missile of steel through the wedge of armor plate into the vitals of the ship of the enemy. On the other side there has been an almost frantic effort to thicken the shield on the hull of the ship or so compose it of elements that will lessen its weight while repelling the shell.

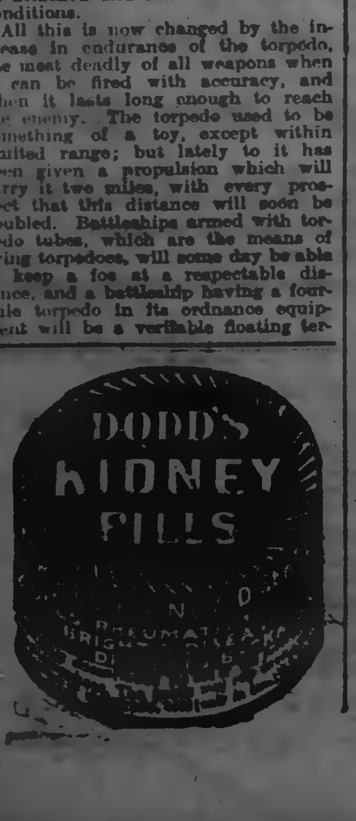
No one knows just how the case stands at present, and will not know until there can be some test of the gun in its attack on armor under those conditions which resemble in some degree the situation of actual warfare. The tests are now carried on at either the army or navy proving grounds, with guns at no great distance from the armor, and the armor presenting a fixed and certain target which may be attacked under the most favorable conditions.

All this is now changed by the increase in endurance of the torpedo, the most deadly of all weapons when it can be fired with accuracy, and when it lasts long enough to reach the enemy. The torpedo used to be something of a toy, except within limited range; but lately to it has been given a propulsion which will carry it two miles, with every prospect that this distance will soon be doubled. Battleships armed with torpedo tubes, which are the means of firing torpedoes, will some day be able to keep a foe at a respectable distance, and a battleship having a four-mile torpedo in its ordnance equipment will be a veritable floating terror of the sea.

The battleship which is to be designed along the lines dictated by the triumph of the torpedo will be a vessel which may easily scorn the ten and twelve-inch guns which are now carried in heavy turrets, and which shall offer no discouragement to a vessel which may fire a torpedo four miles and blow up the opposing vessel, no matter how it is freighted with turreted armament or laden with "invulnerable" armor.

The saving which may be effected by taking off the heavy guns and abandoning the turrets may be used in giving greater weight to the machinery, and so drive the ship through the water at a faster rate than is possible with battleships to-day. Some of this saving in weight may also be used to give thicker armor plates along the water line and below—wherever the torpedo is likely to strike.

Such a departure from the existing conditions furnishes many problems with which the naval designer must cope. They include such details as the storage of the torpedoes, and their rapid handling by special mechanical devices from the magazines below deck to the breech or mouth of the tubes above. Those questions will not be settled without the controversies which seem to be inseparable from naval design, construction and equipment; but for the present it will be sufficient merely to mention this interesting possibility of a gunless war vessel.



$5,000,000 as Thank-Offering.

London, June 25—The Pan-Anglican Congress closed with a mass meeting for women in Albert Hall, which was presided over by the Bishop of London. The day was spent in several large devotional meetings.

A thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Cathedral was held at noon yesterday, at which 250 bishops from all parts of the world walked in solemn procession and laid the offerings of their dioceses on the high altar.

It is reported that the fund thus provided amounts to $5,000,000.

Depositors Take It Cooly.

Montreal, June 25.—St. Hyacinthe bank depositors are taking the closing of the institution easier than their excitement on Tuesday night indicated.

There was a small crowd around the bank doors yesterday morning and the matter was, of course, the talk of the town, but the depositors appear to have implicit faith in the officials of the bank and the consensus of opinion seems to be that their money is safe.

Thistle Kills Him.

Chatham, June 25—Blood poisoning, caused by the picking of a thistle in the finger of his left hand a few weeks ago, resulted Tuesday night in the death of Donald Johnson, one of the most respected residents of Harwich Township. A few weeks ago he was weeding in his garden when he accidentally ran a thistle in his finger. A day or so later he was pulling mustard and it is thought that the poison from the latter weed got into the thistle wound.

Walkem Gets New Trial.

Victoria, B.C., June 25.—The Court of Appeal yesterday awarded a new trial in the case of Walkem, the man convicted on a charge of counselling a criminal operation on Blanche Bond. The point involved was the jurisdiction of the court, as the operation occurred in Seattle. Justice Morrison dissented. Blanche Bond is now in San Bernardino, Cal., whence she recently sent a confession that certain of her essential statements against Walkem were false.

Tired of the Struggle.

Niagara Falls, June 25.—Officer Greenwood Tuesday prevented a young man named R. Monteith from throwing himself over the Horseshoe Falls. Divesting himself of coat and vest, Monteith was about to plunge over the precipice, when the officer, who had been observing his actions, prevented him. Monteith said he had been out of work for a long time, was depressed and could stand the strain no longer. Work was found for him yesterday.

Boy Killed by Lightning.

Barrie, June 25. During the storm which passed over this locality Tuesday morning the house of Michael Hayes, concession 3, Township of Oro, was struck by lightning. Three of Hayes' children were shocked and one, aged 9, died in great agony in the evening. A girl, aged 6, was painfully injured.

Child Swallows a Cent.

London, Ont., June 25.—As a result of swallowing a Canadian cent, little Beatrice McKay, a three-year-old girl of this city, is in a serious condition at the Victoria Hospital. An operation will probably be necessary.

Serious Assault Is Charged.

Chatham, June 25.—Officer Dezeliay Tuesday arrested George Hearst on a charge of attempting to assault a six-year-old English girl. Two eyewitnesses are prepared to testify to the crime.

An Indian Defined.

Ottawa, June 25.—The magistrate, in a Police Court case against a local hotel man for selling liquor to an Indian, ruled that an Indian, in the eyes of the law, was any one of Indian blood, either partially or wholly, or who had accepted the Government treaty or reserve regulations. He fined the defendant $53.

'Phones For Despatchers.

Montreal, June 25.—That the telephone will supersede the telegraph for the work of despatches on railroads is the prediction of the superintendents in convention here. In six months 6,000 miles of wires have been installed in America and officials are enthusiastic over the results.

Premier Whitney's Suggestion.

London, Eng., June 25.—Premier Whitney has written an English correspondent suggesting that the time has come when the general interests of the Empire demand a full and free discussion of the preferential problem in the Imperial Conference.

FROM KEENE.

Special to the Review.

Keene, June 23—Dr. [illegible] McWilliams returned home on Tuesday after a few days spent in Toronto.

Miss Welsh, Hastings, is the guest of Miss Mabel McCann.

A number of Keene people went up to Peterborough on Wednesday to see the circus.

Misses Molly Eason and Laura McFarlane caught the best fish on Wednesday that has been brought into the village since fishing commenced. Their fish weighed nearly sixteen pounds and these two young ladies landed and killed their fish unaided.

Fishing this week is excellent and a number of good catches are reported.

Mr. Harry Smith is receiving the congratulations of his friends on his successfully passing the examinations for entrance to the Royal Military College. Of the thirty-eight successful students Mr Smith took the highest marks. Mr Smith prepared for his examinations at St. Alban's Boys' School, Brockville.

Mr and Mrs. James Foley, Douro, visited friends in Keene last week.

Mr. Eber Foley of Bowmanville, visited friends in the village last week.

Mr Wallace Wood returned to Peterborough on Monday after a week's holiday in the village.

Mr. Sidney Smithson is in Buckhorn this week acting as presiding examiner at the Entrance Examinations held there.

The Village Improvement Society are running an excursion to Healey's Falls on Wednesday. The limited number of tickets have already been sold and a number of people were disappointed at not being able to buy tickets. The committee in charge wisely decided not to sell more than a hundred tickets as a larger number would cause too much crowding for so long a sail.

The annual Dominion Day celebration will be held at Hiawatha on July 1st.

Mr J C Read returned on Saturday from a visit to Toronto.

Miss Susie Campbell, of Peterborough, visited friends in Keene on Monday.

A private party consisting of about thirty persons spent Saturday afternoon up the lake in Mr. James Wedlock's yacht.

Miss Woodbridge, Birmingham, Eng who has been travelling in Canada and has spent the last fortnight in Otonabee, the guest of Mrs. Gilbert Howson, left last night for the old country.

Miss Edna Wedlock, who has been attending high school in Norwood, returned home Saturday.

Children's Day was held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday June 21st. The Sunday school pupils attended church in a body. Rev. D. D. McDonald preached a special sermon to the children, taking as his text "Patriotism."

Quite a number of farmers in the vicinity have commenced cutting hay. Owing to the recent dry weather the crop is hardly as good as was expected earlier in the season.

Beginning Monday, July 2, the mails leave and arrive about fifteen minutes earlier than formerly. The morning mail will leave at 7 a.m., and the afternoon mail at 1.30 p.m. The mails arrive at 8 am. and 2.30 p. m.

The train for Peterborough leaves now at 7.37 a.m., and the afternoon train for the east leaves at 2.07 p.m. The night train to Peterborough has also been changed and is now fifteen minutes later, leaving Keene at 8.25. The stage leaves for the evening train now at 8 p.m.

We had a very heavy rainstorm on Tuesday afternoon and evening and it was just what the farmers needed. The crops were suffering severely for want of rain as in this vicinity there has been rather less rain than in most places. Several storms have gone around us either to the north or the south and we have not had a good rain in this vicinity for a long time.

There was a wound on the forehead and one ear was injured. The clothing on the deceased was good, and $8 was found in his pockets. Neighbors say he had told them of his intention of taking poison.

PLAGUE OF JUNE FLIES

During the last two or three days and especially those on which the big storms were here the June flies have been with us in an annoying profusion On Monday night they were especially numerous and veritable clouds of them were in evidence having been driven from the water previous to the storm by the high wind that was blowing.

On the two mornings after the storms, yesterday and the day before, the dead June flies were found in veritable banks behind the signboards of the local stores.

At a special meeting of the Board of Education last evening, Mr. W. H. Hill presented the report of the Committee on Appointments. Board room, June 24th, 1908.

HILLIARD CARNEGIE MAY SUCCEED HON. MR. MONTEITH

Toronto, June 24.—It is understood that Hon. Nelson Monteith will probably retire from the Government as a result of the recent election in South Perth, when the Minister suffered defeat in a close contest.

Mr. Monteith, it is said, is desirous of taking this course under the circumstances. He has large farming interests of his own, and his personal business has suffered as a result of his attention to public duties.

It is understood also that it is not the policy of the Government to create vacancies by appointment of members, and that it has been decided not to make an exception to the rule.

It is not probable, however, that Mr. Monteith's retirement will be immediate. There are several important matters before the Department of Agriculture, including some reforms and extentions which the Minister inaugurated, which he will be urged to carry to completion.

In Mr. Monteith's retirement the Province will lose the services of a zealous Minister, who has devoted himself to the development of the agricultural interests. His colleagues in the Cabinet will sincerely regret his departure.

No name has yet secured any official endorsement as Mr. Monteiths' probable successor. It is rumored however, that Mr. J. H. Carnegie, of East Victoria, or Mr. Finley G. Macdiarmid, of West Elgin, may be selected by Hon. Mr. Whitney when time for making the appointment arrives.

The Prime Minister has not indicated whether it is his intention to fill the Cabinet vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Dr. Willoughby. This is a post without portfolio, and its filling is solely in the discretion of the Prime Minister.

WEDDING BELLS

BIRCHARD—FOWLER

A pretty June wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, June 17 when Miss Ada Fowler and Mr. Reuben M. Birchard, were maried at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowler, Linden Valley. The drawing room was decorated with roses and orange blossoms. In one window of the room a beautiful bower of ferns and marguerites attracted the eye, forming a background for the bride and groom during the ceremony.

The dining room was decorated with white peonies. At 2 p.m. the groom advanced to the wedding bower. Shortly after, the bride came in with her father. She wore her travelling suit and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Her niece, little Mamie Fowler, acted as flower girl. The wedding service was impressively read by the Rev. A. C. Collier, curate of St. Paul's church, Lindsay.

After congratulations, the supper, which was beautifully arranged in the dining room was partaken of.

The gifts were beautiful and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride is held. The gift of the groom to the bride was fifty dollars in gold, and to the flower girl a purse with money.

REVISION OF FEES OF THE COLLEGIATE

Matter Brought Up at Board of Education Meeting Last Evening.

Mr W. H. ~~Hill~~ brought up the matter of the revision of the fees and the admitting of county pupils to the Collegiate Institute at the special meeting of the Board of Education last evening. Mr Hill first drew attention to the fact that the board had promised, when asking for the money, to build the new Collegiate, that they would allow first year pupils for the first year in the new building, their tuition free of charge.

In the opinion of Mr. Hill, the fees should be graded. He thought that pupils in the higher forms should pay more than the pupils in the lower ones. He had made inquiry at several High Schools and learned the amount of their fees. Mr. Hill also spoke of county pupils fees but upon motion, the matter of the revision of the fees and the admitting of the county pupils was referred to the supervision committee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

THE FIRE BRIGADE.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Your editorial of last evening, under the caption "The Fire Brigade," seems to me to be very unfair and misleading. You say, "Peterborough is now or shortly will be, in a position to fight fire as it should be fought," as though in the past, fires had been allowed to sweep through the streets of our city unchecked. Do you not think you are rather premature in your congratulations to the incoming order of things and exceedingly unfair to the old brigade? How many fires have been checked in the very heart of the business streets of the city, that might have swept whole blocks, but for the skill displayed by the old brigade! Many times we have read cards of appreciation in your columns from grateful property owners whose premises were saved in the face of almost insurmountable difficulty; while at the same time Toronto and Montreal have had fires sweeping whole streets, notwithstanding their costly fire brigades. Many old residents of the city have been watching the farce being played by the amateurs in the Council and on the Board of Trade. What do the new officers, whose loud swelling words of wisdom, we have been listening to during the past weeks, know of the past records of the old brigade? I would like to ask you, Mr. Editor, if, as you say, "Peterborough will shortly be in a position to fight fire" how in the world did it ever attain to Class B in fire insurance along with the paid brigade cities of Toronto, Brantford, etc., etc. It would seem that the underwriters must be very ignorant or that some skill has been displayed in the past. In the face of these facts your effusion of last evening seems to be rather ridiculous, but it is truly in accord with the spirit of the times—kick out the old and tried without a "thank you," their work, however well performed, does not count—ring in the new and untried, with the beating of drums and clashing of cymbals.

CARELESSNESS CAUSES FIRES

Campers and Tourists Should Exercise Great Care in the Woods.

"Campers and tourists," is an answer that comes readily to the lips of many lumbermen and timber limit owners when asked as to how forest fires originate. Unfortunately the answer is often only too true.

The camper would certainly be decidedly averse to burning over the woodland which affords him recreation, rest and pleasure. But he fails to realise what a small cause may give rise to a serious fire in the forest and hence does not exercise the necessary caution with regard to his camp fires, and even his matches and cigar ends, for these latter, small as they are, may be just as much to blame for starting a serious conflagration as a fire of far larger proportions. Constant care, eternal vigilance must be exercised in the forest by everyone who has cause to use fires—and who has not— lest the fire should escape from him and get into the forest soil and even into the tree tops.

Campers themselves may greatly assist in this matter by observing a few general cautions. Camp fires should not be any larger than necessary and no one should leave a fire, even for a short time, without making sure that it is thoroughly put out. A lighted match, or cigar-end or other burning matter should never be thrown down in the woods; it should be thoroughly extinguished before being thrown away. Fires should not be built among leaves, rotten wood or in places where they are likely to spread on account of the inflammable nature of the surroundings; build the fire on a rock, if possible, or, if there is no rock convenient at least clear away the leaves, humus, etc, down to the mineral soil, if at all possible. Nor should fires be built against large or hollow logs, as in such places it is hard to be sure when they are entirely extinguished. If the weather is windy, it is well to confine the fire in a hole dug right down into the mineral soil.

Only a few days ago newspaper despatches told of very serious fires in the Lake St John region in Quebec, destroying one village; these are supposed to have been started by careless fishermen who neglected to extinguish their camp fires.

The Junior Auxiliary of All Saints' are having a Box Social and Concert to-morrow evening. The tickets are only ten cents and a very enjoyable evening is assured. The programme begins at eight.

WEST ENDS WON EXCITING GAME FROM THE T.A.S. NINE

Probably one of the best exhibitions of ball in the City League this year was played last night at the Nicholls Oval when the West Ends defeated the TAS by a score of 6-4. This is the first time these teams have met and as both are right in it for first place a good game was expected. The score throughout was kept low and although each side did some heavy hitting they were generally held on bases until the side was retired. The infielding was above the standard, only one or two wild throws being made, while everything in the line of flies to the outfield, was quickly intercepted generally by a neat running catch.

Butcher, the south paw, twirler for the West Ends was hard to find at first, but the TAS. got to him in the 5th innings and batted the ball far and wide for a while. It was in this innings also that the losers had a good chance of winning out. The score stood 6-4 with three men on bases and one out when McFadden drove a hard one to left field, where it disappeared in Dunnette's mitt. Corbery who was on third, thought the ball was dropped and in that case as the run would be forced he made for home, but the ball was returned to third and the side retired. Hayes did good work on the slab for the TAS and if his support had been a little better he would have probably won his game.

Halpin for the West Ends was first up to bat and rapped the ball out for three bags. He came in on the next hit and the side was put out with the score 1-0. TAS. did not score and in the following innings, the West Ends added another to their list.

It stood 2-0 until the fourth innings when owing to a bad error in the TAS infield with the bases full, two more runs were let in for the winners and the score stood 6-0. In their half the TAS. got busy at the bat and secured five hits off Butcher, scoring four runs. The West Ends got down to hard work and kept their lead for the rest of the game.

Line-up was as follows;

TAS—
Cahill ss.
Corbery 3b.
Hayes p.
Doris 1b.
Devlin cf.
McFadden rf.
L Giroux c.
C. Giroux lf.

WEST ENDS—
Halpin 2b.

Umpire, Jerry Edmonds.

Struck out by Butcher 5, Hayes 4; bases on balls, off Butcher 3, off Hayes 2; 3 base hits, Halpin; 2 base hits, Vinnetta, Cahill, Giroux.

RECORD CROWD WILL SEE SATURDAY'S BASEBALL GAME

Saturday's ball game at Riverside is the main topic of conversation among the local sporting fraternity. The Peterboroughs and Athletics will be the opposing teams, and opinion is divided as to what the outcome will be. The Lynch aggregation is strengthening for the game, but their line-up will not be known definitely until to-morrow. The Petes. will have the same team that won last Saturday and expect another victory.

Ladies will be admitted to the game free and the biggest attendance of the season is looked for. Jack Rosevear, of Port Hope, will handle the indicator and the game will start at three o'clock.

Clements and Edmonds and Quinlan and Rattray will be the batteries.

WILL TRY TO MAKE LINDSAY IN 7 HOURS ON SIDE BET OF $25

On Saturday at one o'clock Charlie Stevens will leave Peterborough in an attempt to walk to Lindsay in seven hours. The distance is thirty miles and he has to make the distance by eight o'clock at night.

A side bet of twenty-five dollars has been put up that he won't negotiate the distance within the set time. On a track it would be an easy matter for him to walk the thirty miles in seven hours, but over the road from here to Lindsay the proposition is a much more difficult one as there are several big hills to climb.

Stevens informed the Review today that he was in good shape and confident of coming out all right in his undertaking.

LAWN BOWLING

A great game of bowls was played last evening on the Brookside Lawn between Skips W. T. Talbot and Dr. Halloway, the score being a tie with the last end to play, Dr. Holloway winning out by two shots.

The following is the scores;—

CANADA'S TEAM WORKING OUT

London, June 24—The Canadian Olympic candidates did light work this morning in the stadium, the Marathoners doing three miles. Archibald pole vaulted 11 feet.

The Marathoners will be taken on Friday by motor over the course from Windsor to London.

Excepting a couple who have slight colds, all are feeling fit and all express themselves as unaffected by the changed climate.

The Canadian Associated Press has heard the opinion expressed that Pres James E Sullivan, of the American Union at the last moment may spring some objection to Longboat.

A monument to Laval, the first bishop of Quebec, was unveiled on Saturday.

Nathan J Marshall, caretaker of St. Alban's school, Brockville, died suddenly.

QUAKERS WON FROM BETHEL

Defeated Them at Garden Party at Ida Last Night.

The Quaker football team added another victory to their list last night, when they defeated the Bethel eleven by two goals to nil. The game was played in connection with a garden party at Ida, and the Bethel boys gave the city players a hard run. The field where the game was played was very rough and the Quakers found the going hard. They drove out from the city in a 'bus and had an enjoyable time. The garden party was a very successful event. A number of young people from Peterborough were in attendance.

GO AS YOU PLEASE RACE FOR 13TH

Those Desirous of Entering Should Send Their Entries to Mr. Geo. Stevens.

The indications are that there will not be enough blind men to enter into the go-as-you-please event that was scheduled to take place at the Brock street rink on July 13th, at four o'clock in the afternoon, and any who wish to take part in an open go-as-you-please race are requested to send in their entries to Mr. George Stevens, who will be manager of the event.

At night a handicap will be held between the best of the walkers who will have taken part in the walk at Lindsay on July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

SPENCLEY BOYS WILL START

Wilbert Spencely, who did so well in St. Catharines will walk in Lindsay in the four days' race commencing on July 1st.

His brother Joseph Spencely, a new man at the game, will also start. The latter is said to be a good one and is looked upon to be well up at the finish.

SPORTING COMMENT

Did it ever occur to anybody that there might be method in Boss Sullivan's methods. He's a publicist by profession and knows the gentle art of advertising off by heart. When Longboat became the most prominent figure in the athletic world, and Mr. Sullivan's hired men failed to coax him to New York the boss of all the amateur Yankees may have seen an opportunity getting away. Did he rise to the occasion and make his opposition to the Indian his means of getting a share of the spot light. Perhaps, yes, truly perhaps. For sadly we submit that if it had not been for his roars against Thomas Longboat large chunks of the present generation would have passed on to the graveyard in blissful ignorance of the fact that James E. Sullivan ever lived.—Toronto Telegram.

"Jerry" Edmonds made his debut as a city league umpire last night, and made good. He had a hard game to handle but gave satisfaction to both teams.

It is reported that John Hogan, of the Lindsay Free Press, will be one of the competitors in the big walk at Lindsay. Mr. Hogan has got the heel and toe game down pat and it is understood could have won the Press walk at Peterborough, but he did not care to make a mark.

If the Trent Valley Lacrosse League does not get going soon the Rugby season will be here.

Saturday's game at Riverside Park will be a hummer. Many pick the Athletics to win.

If the Peterboroughs win Saturday's game they will have the Midland League championship practically cinched. Too bad for Port Hope.

LACROSSE

"GENE" AT PRACTICE.

"Gene" Hurtubise, the heavy weight wrestler, is versatile in athletics. In addition to being a mat artist, he plays rugby, boxes some, and is familiar with many branches of sport. There is a probability that Gene may become a lacrosse player and shine as an expert with the gutted stick. He was over at Riverside park last night and took part in the lacrosse practice there. "Gene" should make a good defence man. He says he is going to turn out regularly.

WALKING

Mr. George Stevens today received a letter from Stacey, the Toronto walker, in which the latter stated he would be a starter in the walk to be held at Lindsay under Mr. Stevens' management on July 1, 2, 3 and 4th.

The big walking match is the topic of a good deal of conversation around town. There are indications to show that all being well a very successful race will be pulled off. Quite a number have said they might probably enter. — Lindsay Post.

The go as you please race and walk that will be held in the Brock street rink on the afternoon and evening of July 13th should be well patronized. There should be a big field of entries for both events.

ANNUAL EXCURSION

On 9th July the Canadian Order of Foresters, Court Little John, will hold their annual excursion to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

BASEBALL

"Yes, we got our first bump Saturday," remarked President W. M. Weller of the Park Nine team to the Star. "We don't lose the game, though, for the Saints played a man who was ineligible, and according to the rules of our league the game is forfeited to the Park Nine. I would much rather we had won on the play, though, for that would have been more satisfactory to everyone concerned. It's certainly tough luck for the Saints to win on the play, then lose for a breach of the rules. Still, rules are rules, and when you make them you have to abide by them.

"It's these small town baseball pirates who are responsible for a lot of trouble to the league," quoth the genial president in a sorrowful manner. "They are everlastingly swooping down and carrying off our players like a lot of hawks after chickens. Take the Park Nine team for instance. We started the season with a fine bunch of players and where are they now? Here, there, and everywhere. Of course, I like to see our players better themselves, and the City Amateur League makes a fine nursery for young players, so I mustn't grumble. It left quite a hole in the team when all the players jumped, but still we have some good men to fill up with. Seth Rowlin, Frank Scott, Rosser and N. Ross have rounded out the team in fine style."—Toronto Star.

The Y.M.C.A. and Wellingtons will not play to-night, but will play to-morrow night at seven o'clock.

Death of Dublin's Champion Joker.

Stephen Cunningham, for many years the proprietor of the famous Ship Hotel at Dublin, was recently found hanging from the banisters of the stairs at his residence. He had suffered from insomnia, and had declared himself haunted by the dread of ending his days in an asylum. In the stormy days of the Land League Stephen, as he was popularly known, took great delight in playing tricks on English journalists who went over to study the "wild Irish." When the intended victim was introduced the conversation turned on murder plots and all kinds of unspeakable atrocities. Suddenly it was discovered that he was an interloper, and he was not allowed to make his escape till, with blood-curdling ceremonial, he was sworn to dead secrecy, and enrolled as a member of a secret society. Once a Scotch reporter escaped from Stephen's clutches, hastened home to Glasgow, and wrote for his paper a vivid account, four solid columns in length, of his experiences amongst desperadoes of Dublin.

London's Water Supply.

In the array of staggering figures given in the annual report of the Metropolitan Water Board the most impressive are those which express London's yearly consumption of water. In the twelve months this amounted to the stupendous total of 83,125,249,347 gallons, representing a daily average supply per head of little under 30 gallons (nearly three hundredweights of water), or considerably over 50 gallons a year for every man, woman, and child living on the entire earth to-day. It is impossible for the unaided mind to realize what the year's supply of 83,125 million gallons really means. It helps us a little to say that this quantity of water would fill a reservoir a mile square to a depth so great that, if St. Paul's Cathedral were dropped into it, the top of the cross would be more than 100 feet below the surface of the reservoir. The area of this metropolitan lake would be little less than that of the City of London itself.

Love In One Octave.

Sunday, Madge, you seemed so fair
Love, the rascal, came to bind me.
Monday morn I feared your stare.
Tuesday you thought fit to mind me.
Wednesday—well, perhaps you'd care.
Thursday saw you lips resigned me.
Friday came the solitaire,
Saturday the vows that bind me!

Buttermilk.

"Which is the cow that gives the buttermilk?" innocently asked the young lady from the city, who was inspecting the herd with a critical eye.

"Don't make yourself ridiculous," said the young lady who had been in the country before and knew a thing or two. "Goats give buttermilk."—Springfield Journal.

Few and Far Between.

"If men really would 'vote as they pray,'" remarked Goodley, "this would truly be a happy world."

"Yes," replied Wise, "but in that case you wouldn't get some men to the polls once in ten years."—Washington Star.

WARNED BY DESERTS

What These Sandy Wastes Mean to Mother Earth.

A DEATH GRIP ON THE WORLD

They Indicate the Beginning of the End of Our Beautiful Planet, Which Is Doomed to Roll Through Space a Parched and Lifeless Orb.

Deserts already exist on the earth, and the nameless horror that attaches to the word in the thoughts of all who have had experience of them or are gifted with imagination to conceive is in truth greater than we commonly suppose, for the cosmic circumstance about them which is most terrible is not that deserts are, but that deserts have begun to be. Not as local evitable evils are they only to be pictured, but as the general inescapable death grip on our world, for it is the beginning of the end. What depauperates the forests to grass lands and thence to wastes must in turn attack the sea bottoms when they shall have parted with their seas.

Last of the fertile spots upon the planet because of the salts the streams have for ages washed down and of the remnant of moisture that would still drain into them, eventually they must share the fortune of their predecessors and the planet roll a parched orb through space. The picture is forbidding, but the fact seems one to which we are constructively pledged and into which we are in some sort already adventured.

Girdling the earth with what it takes but little personification to liken to the life extinguishing serpent's coils run two desert belts of country. The one follows, roughly speaking, the tropic of Cancer, extending northward from it; the other, the tropic of Capricorn. Arizona is in the northern band, as are the Sahara, Arabia and the deserts of central Asia.

Now, these desert belts are growing. In the great desert of northern Arizona the traveler, threading his way across a sagebrush and cacti plain shut in by abrupt sided shelves of land rising here and there some hundreds of feet higher, suddenly comes upon a petrified forest.

Trunks of trees in all stages of fracture strew the ground over a space some miles in extent. So perfect are their forms he is almost minded to think the usual wasteful woodchopper has been by and left the scattered products of his art in littered confusion upon the scene of his exploit. Only their beautiful color conveys a sense of strangeness to the eye, and, leaning down and touching them, he finds that they are—stone; chalcedony, not carbon! Form has outlived substance and kept the resemblance, while the particles of the original matter have all been spirited away. Yet so perfect is the presentment one can hardly believe the fact, and where one fallen giant spans a little canyon one almost thinks to hear the sound of water rushing down the creek.

But it is some millions of years and more since this catastrophe befell, and the torrent, uprooting it, left it prone, with limbs outstretched in futile grasp upon the other side. A conifer it was, cousin only to such as grow today, and flourished probably in the cretaceous era, for the land has not been under water here since the advent of tertiary times.

Nowhere near it, except for the rare cottonwoods along the bank of the Little Colorado, grows anything today. The land which once supported these forests is incompetent to do so now. Yet nothing has changed there since except the decreasing water supply. During tertiary and quaternary time the rainfall has been growing less and less. Proof of this is offered by the great pine oasis that caps the plateau of which these petrified forests form a part and is kerneled by the San Francisco peaks. The height above sea level of the spot where the chalcedony trunks are strewn is about 4,500 feet. The lower present limit of the pine in its full development is 6,500 feet. Two thousand feet upward the verdure line has retreated since the former forests were. And this is no local alteration, for upon the other side of the plateau petrified remains of trees are similarly found.

The line of perpetual green has risen because in desert regions the moisture is found most plentiful nearest to the clouds from which it falls upon a parching earth. Streams, instead of gathering volume as they go, are largest near their source and grow less and less with each fresh mile of flow. The brooks descending from the Anti-Lebanon, in Syria, water the gardens of Damascus and, thence issuing upon the plain, lose themselves just beyond the threshold of its gates. So in the Arizona desert, though in a less degree, and those who live there know it but too well.—From Percival Lowell's "Mars and the Future of the Earth" in Century.

Breaking Wire.

Anybody who has tried to break a piece of wire without the aid of a pair of pinchers will probably agree that the operation is both a difficult and painful one. There is a method, however, by which it may be easily accomplished. By bending the wire into a loop and pulling both ends as tight as possible an injury will be caused to the wire, which on being straightened will immediately break. By this means wire up to No. 12 gauge may be successfully dealt with.

Fire and sword are but slow engines of destruction in comparison with the babbler.—Steele.

The corner stone of Sherman Ave. Presbyterian church, Hamilton, was laid yesterday by Rev Dr Lyle.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures sick women.

Miss M. R. Morin, 335 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month.

"A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and began taking, and before it was finished, I felt so much better that I continued its use and gave it a thorough test, with the result I am to-day well and a much healthier girl than I was three years ago. I have no more painful periods, dizziness or nervous troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

HALL HANGING LAMPS

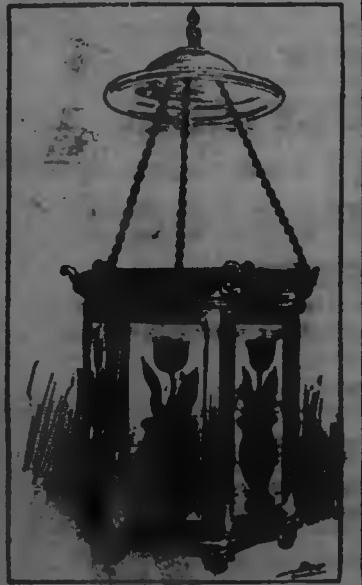
Many Genuine Colonial Lanterns Brightening Twentieth Century.

FITTED WITH ELECTRICITY.

Treasures in Lamps Stowed Away in the Dusky Corners of Country Garrets—Our Modern Light Must Combine Utility With Beauty.

In the twentieth century hallway of today is hanging, so says Good Housekeeping, many an old time lantern which formerly performed the same service in the hall of a colonial ancestor. Probably, alas, many treasures in this line are stowed away in the dusky corners of country garrets by those who have not yet come to a full appreciation of the antique. To be sure, those in use today do not, as in the olden days, contain an oil lamp, a tallow dip or a wax candle. On the contrary, they are fitted out with electricity and shine forth all the more bravely with a borrowed light. Certainly they look far from out of place in the midst of the old fashioned furniture that plays its part in so many of the homes at the present day.

Two hundred years ago lanterns were an indispensable part of the household furniture. They were manufactured then for one purpose, utility—and they were accordingly simple in design and crude in appearance, being made of straight bars of iron, with plain glass slides. Having no especial beauty of contour or material to recommend them, such specimens are not in great demand as ornaments today and are found only in collections. They are excellent examples of serviceable ugliness and as such are relegated to the background even of the curio department. Our modern light must combine utility with beauty, notwithstanding the fact that the uglier lantern can justly claim a greater age than any of the others.



DUTCH LANTERN.

Our ancestors sought for beauty, even as we do, and soon evolved better hall lanterns out of the same principle by the use of ornamental frameworks of iron or brass, with slides of ground glass stained, painted or etched. A Dutch design shown in the picture has retained the favorite hexagonal shape, while painted upon each of these six ground glass faces is a tulip in an oddly shaped vase. The result is quaint and pleasing, for the tulip and vase stand out boldly on the light ground glass surface. The framework of this lantern is but a slight modification of that of the old utility lantern, for it is decorated very simply.

An Orange Mold.

Jelly can be attractively molded in oranges with little trouble.

Cut off a circular piece from the stem and and scoop out the contents.

Wash the rinds in cold water and put them on the stove in boiling water and a little sugar. Boil for five minutes and stand on the ice to cool.

Make a jelly of some kind, either one of oranges colored to a deep tint or a port wine jelly whose rich tones is effective with the rind.

Pour the jelly in liquid state into the oranges and let it stiffen.

When ready to serve, it may either be sent to the table in the whole orange or the rind containing the jelly can be cut into quarters, which is perhaps prettier and newer.

Love.

"A species of cerebral commotion and a stirring of some hitherto dormant association centers by an appropriate affinitive impression" is the diagnosis of love—to be exact, first love—as recently given by a famous English physician and man of science. Yet the disease does not always seem so serious as that.

The First Clocks.

Originally clocks had only the hour hand, but the minute hand was added later, as it became fashionable to make the dials as decorative as possible.

Gold.

Gold in its pure state is only a trifle harder than lead and very much softer than copper, silver, platinum, zinc or iron. As a consequence of this it is alloyed with copper or silver, and both these metals are often used. Without the alloy gold would be practically useless for the purposes to which it is generally applied.

Feline Fishers.

The ancient Egyptians used to fish with cats on the Nile. The animals were trained to enter the water and seize the fish, which were then taken away by the fishermen.

Banana Skin Soap.

Banana skins are utilized in soapmaking on the west coast of Africa. The skins are rich in alkali, so they are burned to an ash, and this mixed with water and palm oil goes to make a cleanser which is in demand among the whites as well as the natives.

The Mirror and Death.

Covering the mirror when there is death in the family originated in the superstition that goblins, sprites, elves or other uncanny creatures would crowd to the glass to look on.

The Lion's Face.

"No one can look into the face of the king of beasts," says an animal trainer, "without receiving a more or less conscious uplift. His face is the absolute embodiment of strength, determination, power and fearlessness. He is the only king on earth that looks the part. There are lines of majesty and of power in repose in his countenance not found elsewhere except in the sphinx and in the somewhat idealized portraits of Washington."

The Low Right Shoulder.

According to authorities, from 85 to 95 per cent of the men in civilized lands are right handed and have developed the low right shoulder. This, however, is no new phenomenon, for even the ancient Greek sculptors had noticed it and posed their subjects so as to make them appear more symmetrical.

ANOTHER GOLD DISCOVERY.

Wonderful Richness of the Mackenzie River Region.

An old Seattle prospector named T. O. Oliver, who recently returned from four years of prospecting on the Mackenzie, Peace and Le Lard rivers, during which time he crossed the Barren Lands to the first cache of the Franklin expedition brings news of gold discoveries which he says surpass the early finds in the Klondike. He will head a party that will leave Seattle to return to these discoveries.

When seen by reporters Mr. Oliver said: "The greatest gold diggings in the world are in the Mackenzie river country. The strike at Herschel island is one of the biggest discoveries of recent years, but the richest fields will be found in the Barren Lands near Great Slave Lake. I have prospected for gold since I was fifteen years old and I have been in all of the best known mining camps during that time, including two years spent in the Klondike, but the Mackenzie river country surpasses all of the places that have ever been discovered.

"The wonders of this wild region will astound the world when it becomes known. This year there will be a big rush into this country, but it will be larger next year and the year following.

"The country is extremely difficult to prospect, and this is all that has prevented the great gold discoveries before. I went into this country in 1907, by way of Peace river, striking that stream at Peace river crossing. We went down the Peace river in boats about 700 miles to Vermilion falls, and from there on to Fort Smith, an old Hudson Bay trading post. The only difficult part of the river to navigate was sixteen miles before reaching Fort Smith, which we were forced to portage on account of the rapids. From this point it is 200 miles to Great Slave lake. On Great Slave lake, thirty miles from Peace river, is Salt river. We prospected up this stream thirty miles and found salt beds where we were able to dig out sufficient salt to cure a winter's supply of fish.

"We went up the Great Slave lake in a 24-foot birch bark canoe, a three weeks' journey to a stream the Indians call Copper river and then struck across the Barren Lands, which the Indians call Little Sticks, because there is no timber. We went across this country until we reached what we believed to be the first cache of the Fanklin expedition, about 1,000 miles from the nearest Hudson Bay trading post. This trip we made with dog teams. In crossing to the old cache we were forced to carry what fuel we needed for cooking purposes, only using enough to boil a pot of tea and to cook a little meat. Sometimes we would find a little wood and replenish the stock, but there is very little that can be used for fuel after leaving the Copper river until the Franklin cache is reached."

The Future of Canada.

In his address at the annual dinner of the Canada Club at New York, Chief Justice Longley of Nova Scotia expressed the view that Canada was not destined to remain a portion of the British Empire. He also flung defiance at the United States. His closing sentences, which did not get in the press reports, were as follows:

"Aggression from our big neighbor, I dismiss as unworthy of consideration, but if, by any such mischance, power became vested in the United States in any body of men so as to attempt to infringe Canada's rights and liberties, I can only say that there is some good stuff on the other side of the line, and when Canada has 15,000,000 people she will not be averse to challenging the issue with all the spirit of a proud and independent race."

Right Hon. James Bryce, British ambassador at Washington, who followed, without alluding to Judge Longley by name, administered a rebuke to the opinion expressed by Judge Longley.

No Love For the Colonies.

Mr. Thomas Price, the South Australian Premier, visited his native city of Liverpool recently, and, speaking at the Produce Market, remarked:

"There isn't much love for your colonies about you after all. If you can get butter a shilling a keg cheaper from the prisons of Siberia, you will do so and leave Australia to take care of itself."

He dwelt on the prospects of his country, which was seven and a half times as large as the British Isles, yet populated by only 400,000 people—considerably less than the population of Liverpool.

Some people, he remarked with a smile, would regard it as a little "infra dig. for a Premier to come here with a pound of butter in one pocket, a bushel of wheat nearby, and a bottle of wine sticking out of the back, but he didn't mind, for he was advertising South Australia.

Want Canada's Weather Reports.

W. A. McKinnon, Canadian trade commissioner at Bristol, has forwarded to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa a suggestion from the Provision Trade Association of England that the Canadian Government be induced to supply business men of Great Britain with regular weather reports during the spring, summer and autumn seasons.

It is pointed out that periodic reports from various Canadian provinces would aid British business men to form their own opinions as to the effect of the weather on the crops, fruit and dairy and hog produce of the Dominion.

The Politician Tells the Man From Mars a Few Things.

"How do you manage your railroads in this country?" inquired the man from Mars. "In those countries of the old world which I have visited they are owned and managed by the government."

"Inasmuch as I have never been abroad," replied the politician, "I must of course conclude that their methods are purely theoretical. We in this country pride ourselves on being practical."

"May I ask you to explain?" said the man from Mars.

"Certainly," replied the politician. "Our practice proceeds on the theory that the government is too poor and too inefficient to own and manage our railways. Accordingly the work is turned over to private individuals."

"And are the individuals trustworthy?"

"By no means," said the politician. "We have to appoint railroad commissions to watch them."

"The commissions, then, are to be depended upon?"

"Not at all. They are watched by the legislatures."

"And the legislatures?"

"They in turn are watched by the magazines."

"Oh, I see; the magazines are the final arbiters. That is very interesting."

"No; you are mistaken. The magazines are watched by the people."

"Of course. It finally gets back to the people. They act upon the information provided by the magazines. Surely the people do not need watching."

"Wrong again. That's where we come in," said the politician, proudly sticking his thumbs in the armholes of his waistcoat. "We have to watch the people to keep them from watching us."

"And how does it all work?" inquired the man from Mars.

"We are living very easy, thank you," answered the politician.—Success Magazine.

THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Eli, Manitoba.

I wish to state, for the sake of others who may be sufferers like I was, that I suffered from severe indigestion and constipation for years and that there was also womb trouble with unpleasant pains in my back which made me miserable, constantly. I tried physicians and took many remedies but I got no relief. I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I can truly say this was the first medicine that ever did me any good. "Fruit-a-tives" quickly relieved the constipation and indigestion and completely cured me of all symptoms of womb trouble. I cannot express too strongly my great gratitude to this medicine as I am as well now in every way as ever I was, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives", it is easy to take and the effect is always mild like fruit.

CORN CROPS.

Influence of Climate and Soil on Size of Yield.

The leading varieties of corn grown in the west have been developed on rich land. What the effect of attempting to grow them on poor land would be is a matter of general interest, and to study this point three samples of Leaming corn were grown on three plats of sod land and three plats where cowpeas had been plowed under in 1905 at the Virginia experiment station. The purpose of this test was to see what the effect of turning under a large amount of vegetable matter would have on the yield of corn.

Cowpeas Add Nitrogen.

Cowpeas, being a leguminous crop, add much nitrogen to the soil, and, decaying readily, the plant food contained becomes quickly available. The samples of corn compared were from Illinois, Virginia and from ear No. 37, one of the best yielding ears from the breeding plat. On rich land notice that the Illinois sample had a clear lead, yielding 76.34 bushels; ear No. 37 followed with 67.84 bushels, while the Virginia strain made a yield of 59.81 bushels.

On Sod Land.

On sod land the results were quite different. In the first place, the yield was much lower with the Illinois sample than with ear No. 37, while all the varieties made practically the same yield of about sixty bushels per acre, indicating that the Leaming sample developed on rich land responds quickly to good soil treatment. When placed on land of fair quality it will not yield any better than the native sorts which are accustomed to growing in such an environment. Corn brought from the west, therefore, should be put only on rich land, while the native corn if placed under the most favorable conditions must be bred up to the point where it will give corresponding yields. We believe this explanation accounts for the complaint made by some farmers that plowing under cowpeas and other leguminous crops has failed to give them an increased yield of corn. This is a very important matter and shows how much the corn plant is a product of environment and special selection and breeding.

W. H. HILL, Esq., City Representative Liverpool and London, and Globe Fire Insurance Co'y.

DEAR SIR,—

We beg to acknowledge the receipt of cheque for $2,500 in settlement of fire loss, policy No. 8,645,872 Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

We note in connection with this settlement a most unusual feature. They are legally entitled to 2 per cent. of stated sum for payment prior to due date. No business man would for one moment question their right to this amount. But they do not take it. Instead they have purposely waived their privileges and presented us with this additional amount.

We are gratified to note this remarkable action. To adjust and settle a loss within twelve days is noteworthy, but to add to this magnanimity in refusing to take advantage of their discount privileges, places this company in a most favorable position.

We congratulate you upon representing a company of such superior standing.

Yours very truly,

REPORT OF COMMITTEE WHO MET MINISTER OF EDUCATION

Presented at Board of Education Meeting Last Evening—Matter of Introducing Domestic Science, Manual Training, Art and Music in Local Schools Discussed With the Head of the Department.

The members of the Board of Education who were appointed to meet the minister and superintendent of education presented the following report at a special meeting last evening:

The members of the Board of Education, Peterborough, Ont.

Gentlemen,—Your committee, appointed to meet the Minister and Superintendent of Education to confer with them upon matters pertaining to the Normal school, waited upon them as requested.

The superintendent outlined a plan whereby this Board is asked to cooperate with the Education Department in the engaging and employment of certain teachers. These teachers are—

1. A teacher of manual training.
2. A teacher of domestic science.
3. A teacher of art.
4. A teacher of music.

The superintendent explained that the services of these teachers would be required in the Normal school for spaces amounting altogether to about two days per week, and their services would be available to this Board for the remaining spaces i.e., for spaces aggregating three days per week. He intimated that the Department would be prepared to pay $400 of the salary of the teacher of Domestic Science and $600 of the salaries of each of the other three teachers, and this Board would be expected to contribute the balance.

The superintendent was unable to inform your committee the amount grant which the Education Department would give towards the equipment of the manual training and domestic science rooms; nor could he tell the amount of the annual grants given to these departments. He suggested that the matter be laid over until he could send the inspector of manual training and domestic science to Peterborough, when he could be able to explain to this Board the exact amount of financial assistance which the Education Department will be willing to give.

Your committee urged upon them the necessity of having the annual grant of $1,500 given to our training school increased to $2,500, the amount received by the London Board of Education.

The above matters were discussed, but no definite action was proposed, or considered advisable until fuller information should be received from the department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Signed on behalf of committee.
W. H. HILL.

A WARNING TO THE PUBLIC RE PRINCE RUPERT

A notice with the above heading has appeared in the "Vancouver World," signed by the Prince Rupert Townsite Company, 43 Fairfield Building, Vancouver. A statement is therein made that their property is the original and only legal Prince Rupert and the Railway Company own 4000 to 5,000 acres of arable land immediately surrounding the same.

The above statement is misleading and incorrect as the only town sites registered are; South Prince Rupert, owned, it is understood, by the Company who signed the above warning, and the Townsite of Prince Rupert at the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, situated at the North-West portion of Kaien Island. The distance between these two townsites is over seven miles, and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company is not in any way interested in South Prince Rupert, nor is it the intention to have a station at that place.

East Prince Rupert, so-called in various reports, which have appeared in the press, is not registered; the sub-division referred to is situated over 16 miles from the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and is on the line of that railway.

The Prince Rupert at the terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is now being surveyed, and it is expected the lots will be placed in the market in September or October next, due notice of which will appear in the public press.

Any further information the public may require can be obtained by addressing the Land Commissioner of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway at Winnipeg.

WEDDING BELLS

STANLEY—SHURTLEFF.

The marriage took place at half-past eleven this morning, at the Methodist Church, Coaticook, of Miss Nellie Elizabeth Shurtleff, only daughter of Mr. Otis Shurtleff, to Mr. Walter Edward Stanley, of Montreal, son of Mr. Wm. John Stanley, of London, England. The church was effectively decorated for the occasion with marguerites, pink and white peonies and ferns. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. G. Peaver. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory crepe de chine over chiffon taffeta trimmed with Bebe Irish lace. Her tulle veil was arranged over a cornet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Mrs W. W. McLeod, (Wesley Hills, Mass.); Mrs. Fred McClure Jones (Montreal) and one bridesmaid, Miss Francis Hurd (Lowell, Mass.), who wore a gown of pale Blue Marquisette over taffeta, a pale blue picture hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of pink and white sweet peas. Mr. Harry Shurtleff, brother of the bride was best man; Mr. William Ewing (Richmond), and Mr. Fred L. Nunns, were the ushers. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's father, and later Mr. and Mrs. Stanley left for a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Boston, the bride travelling in a tailor-made costume of navy blue chiffon broadcloth, and a hat to match. On their return they will reside in Montreal. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond and peridot ring; to the bride's attendants pearl pendants, and to the best man and ushers he gave pearl pins.—Montreal Star.

The bride is well known in Peterborough, having visited here several times.

A CHANCE FOR THE FARMERS

Immigration Officer at Water and Brock Streets Has Several Men Who Want Work on Farms.

Mr. Howson, the local immigration agent, with offices at Brock and Water streets, has applications from fifteen or twenty men who want positions as farm hands. Most of the men are inexperienced in the agricultural line, but are accustomed to hard work and being without employment are anxious to secure positions.

Mr. Howson requests farmers desirous of securing their services to call at his office at their earliest convenience or else communicate with him by mail at once. He has a list some days old of thirty or forty farmers who wished to obtain hired help but unless they advise him to that effect is unable to tell whether or not they have been successful in engaging men to assist them on their farms.

WHAT THE LIGHTNING DID AT MILLARD'S BICYCLE SHOP

Still another freak of the lightning is reported. During the storm the night before last its costly playfulness was made evident at the premises of Mr. H. T. Millard, who conducts the bicycle repair and sales business at 225 Hunter street, in the premises formerly occupied by W. J. Metheral.

At about 11.30 o'clock the lightning ran down an electric wire to the interior of the shop and melted a section of a gas pipe over which the wire crossed. The piece melted was about six or eight inches in length and the drops of molten matter that fell from it alighted on the top of the silent salesman in the store leaving innumerable blotches on the glass.

Although the gas was turned off at the meter there was some left in the pipe and when the lightning melted the pipe combustion resulted and some of the woodwork was burned. A man who was passing at the the time received such a shock that he was thrown off the pavement into the road. Thinking the place was on fire he went into the hotel next door for help, but no sign of any blaze could be seen when he had summoned assistance.

Only the night previous lightning burned out the motor in Mr. Millard's shop and he had to have the motor removed.

AUTOMOBILE ORGANIZATION MAY BE FORMED IN CITY

It is stated that there is an agitation on foot to have an Automobile Club formed in the city. There are now over a dozen of the gasoline waggons in the city and a club would be of mutual benefit to all. Automobile clubs are becoming almost as popular in the province as bicycle clubs were in the olden days. A strong automobile organisation could be formed in Peterborough and it would be of benefit and pleasure to all those who own cars.

It is understood that a meeting will be called at an early date to talk the matter over and organizing if it is found advisable.

THREE MORE AUTOMOBILES PURCHASED IN PETERBORO'

The auto population of Peterborough is being steadily increased. Three new automobiles arrived in the city to-day and will be in commission in a day or two. The purchasers are Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Mr. Ed. Cnoroy and Dr. McClelland. They are all Ford cars and were purchased through the local agent for these popular autos, F. R. J. MacPherson & Company. The cars are handsome ones and are said to be speedy as well.

There are over a dozen autos in the city at the present time.

ECLIPSE OF SUN NEXT MONDAY

About Half of the Surface of the Solar Body Will be Darkened

There will be a partial eclipse of the sun on Monday of next week. About half the surface of the solar body will be darkened. The eclipse will commence about 9.43 o'clock, Peterborough time, and will remain on until after noonday.

The large spots which were on the solar disc the first of the month are again coming into view. The reason why they have been invisible for the past two or three weeks is because the surface of the sun upon which they are located has been turned away from the earth.

The presence of the sun spots will make the eclipse of more than ordinary interest from a scientific standpoint.
